All persons desiring to participate in the Baptist Cavalcade and parade must have their cars at Second Baptist church ready for parade formation at ten o'clock Saturday morning. The general public is invited to attend all sessions during the three days.

Men's Day at First AME Sunday

Sunday, April 21, will be Men's Day at First A. M. E. Church, Vernon and Kensington, and promises to be an outstanding event in that it will be featured somewhat afer a General Conference.

There are ten major teams and one juvenile team in the field, each being named after one of the outstanding Bishops of the A. M. E. Connecion.

Rev. Jonathan A. Dames, our new Pastor will preach the morning sermon and will also represent Bishop Richard Allen; the theme of the day will be "Golden Momories" and the sermon will harmonize with this theme.

The day will be climaxed with a drama at night featuring the Biblical play, "Joseph's Brother". A capacity audience is expected as this play is being produced by our new Pastor. Come early for good seats. Mr. J. B. Frierson, the general chairman of the Men's Day services, also states that good seats for the evening program will be available to 7:30 P. M.

Pasadena N. A. A. C. P. Will Meet Sunday

Every meeting of the Pasadena Branch NAACP during 1940 has been a planned meeting. In January, a joint celebration of Emancipation in February, a notable Douglass-Lincoln dinner; in March, a patriotic meeting was held. At this meeting, Mrs. B. E. Hansen of the Daughters of Union Veterans, Lucretia Garfield Tent No. 19, presented the honored guests, surviving Union Veterans. In befitting remarks, she gave a United States flag to the Branch. Dr. Griffin, in her gracious way, received it and a representation from Crown City Post, American Legion, formally unfurled the banner. Dr. Elbert Moore, a charter member of the NAACP, gave a masterly speech, giving a brief history of the Association.

Other participants on this program were the Scott Community Orchestra, Rev. Karl Downs, pastor of Scott Methodist church; Rev. E. V. Banks of Calvary CME church and Mrs. Sharnette Floyd, choir director of Metropolitan Baptist church.

NEXT MEETING APRIL 21

The April public meeting will be held at Calvary CME church, Glorietta and Kirkwood avenue, two blocks west from Fair Oaks avenue, Sunday, April 21, at 3 p. m. All Pasadena citizens and friends are urged to be present.

GEORGE GARNER MAKES PROGRESS IN FIELD OF MUSIC IN PASADENA

Article on Garner Starts Series Concerning Advancement in Southern California

By NETTA PAULLYN

The visit of the city directory censors remind one of the passing of five years. Lest we become unmindful of the progress made during that interim, a series of articles will appear as a reminder of the social, cultural and economic advance of our people in Los Angeles and its environs. The progress in Pasadena has been steady, slow and sure and for that reason liable to be unobserved by the uninformed. My first article will be of the progress in the music field by George Garner of Pasadena, California.

PROF. and MRS. GEORGE R. GARNER, shown in a recent pose with Miss Marian Anderson, noted Negro contralto. The Garners have done much toward the advancement of music in Pasadena and Los Angeles. He is the chorister of the First A.M.E. Church, 8th and Towne avenue, Los Angeles.

The appointment of George Garner to the post of public school music teacher from our ranks was a step forward. Mr. George R. Garner, the first Negro teacher to be appointed by the Pasadena Board of Education is a substitute of the day system and as such is eligible for membership of the Adult Education Department.

George Garner, through training and experience is able to produce artistic results of such caliber that his work has received special recognition. As a conductor and builder of choral groups through the Pasadena School System he was appointed director of Negro music for the State of California for the San Diego Exposition. A medal of recognition and appreciation from the governing body was awarded for that accomplishment.

National Music Week throughout these United States is a period set aside for the acknowledgement of promising talent and accepted musical scores. It is indeed an appointment of honor for Mr. Garner to have been appointed a member of the Executive State Board of this august body of active musicians and substantial sponsors—as such as he has served two years. Music teachers throughout America have found the approach to music must meet the changing attitudes and standards of the present situation and for that reason national conferences are called at stated intervals that representatives from every state in these United States may give informative data on the work covered and the best approach for a richer future musically. As an appointee to the California Teachers Association, Mr. Garner is recognized as an authority on choral conducting and mass voice placement.

The Lutheran Church (white) of the Pacific Coast has long been aware of the importance of choral music in their religious life and with that objective, select their choir directors to meet in conference for 14 days of each year to the Pacific Palisades to absorb a complete outline of music for the following year. The post of head of this group has been filled by George Garner for three years. His assistants are (white) members of this church body from other Pacific Coast states.

Negro folk lore and music has long attracted both Mr. and Mrs. Garner and due to their interest they have given this particular field of music very serious study. Their work has been recognized by many music groups and has been an inexhaustible series of lectures in this particular field. They have acquired a frame building which has been remodeled to meet the need of space to house a choral group with space for a library. Because of recognition and interest by observing laymen, this property is referred to as the George Garner Music Center. The work in this center is a leisure work of devotion, but with a keenness and alertness to all possible material that may lead to the unearthing of the possible origin and formation of our Negro music.

Mrs. Netta P. Garner is also a teacher with the Pasadena Board of Education and as such has assisted Mr. Garner in his particular field. Together with a wide background of musical training in both America and Europe, both Mr. and Mrs. Garner are serious students of Education and Anthropology and are master students at the University of California.

COMMERCIAL FIELD

The Sears Roebuck mercantile company, branches located in every sizable city of America, has recognized Mr. Garner's ability to get results with large groups and has appointed him as choral director to supervise their special music. The Easter and Christmas season are the periods which this large concern emphasizes. Mr. Garner supervises music to compliment these seasons. The Christmas carols sung throughout the establishments were under his direction.

The Pessimist

Nothing to do but work,
Nothing to eat but food.
Nohing to wear but clothes
To keep one from going nude.

Nothing to breathe but air,
Quick as a flash 'tis gone;
Nowhere to fall but off,
Nowhere to stand but on.

Nothing to comb but hair,
Nowhere to sleep but in bed
Nothing to weep but tears,
Nothing to bury but dead.

Nothing to sing but songs,
Ah, well, alas! alack!
Nowhere to go but out
Nowhere to come but back.

Adult Education Classes Available to Pasadenans

Adult Education classes in various fields and interests are available to Pasadenans, Miss Christine Lofstedt, supervisor of the WPA education program, announced to the Pasadena Supplement of the California Eagle.

Since the classes cover a wide range of interest and are free to the public, they should attract a large enrollment. The increasing demands on the part of employers for a wider range of knowledge and skill on the part of the employed or job seeker means that the working man and woman should constantly make cultural and technical improvement.

Increased leisure time makes it possible for those who have not had opportunity to attend school as they have desired to pursue a definite course of study through the means of the classes which are being held from night to night.

Typewriting is a subject that will improve the efficiency and worth of any employed person and certainly would be of value in obtaining employment in many lines of work. Classes in dressmaking, eltmentary English, French, Arts and Crafts, Dramatic Art, Speech Correction, Portrait and Life, Spanish and the like are available without money and without price.

The class in Arts and Crafts is held at the Pasadena Settlement, 864 S. Raymond, Mon., Tues., Thurs., and Fri., from 12:30-4:00 p. m. The elementary English class is held at the Garner Center, 470 Blake St., Mon., Tues., Wed., and Fri., 6:30-9:30 p. m. Classes in Portrait and Life are available at 26 W. Union St., on Mondays and Tuesdays, 7:30-10:30 p. m. and on Tuesdays and Wednesdays, 9:00-12:00 a. m.

At the Pasadena Junior college's West Campus the class in Typewriting is held on Mon., Tues., Wed. and Thurs., from 6:15 to 9:15 p. m.. A class in Spanish is also held on the West Campus Mon., Wed., and Thurs., from 6:30-9:00 p. m.

Early afternoon classes in French and Spanish are held at Longfellow School, 1065 E. Washington, Tuesday and Thursdays, 1:00 to 3:30 p. m. Dressmaking is held at this same school on Mondays and Wednesdays, 1:00-4:00 p. m. and also on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 9:00-12:00 a. m.

Enrollment in any of these classes is possible at the present time.

Article of Faith

Against brutality and wrong
Build us a fortress pledged to song!
Against the tyrant and the knave,
The vicious lord, the venal slave,
Against the darkness and the grave
Against the horrors of the hour,
Beast passion and the lust for power—
Build us, oh, build the singing tower.

Now that the world is drenched with blood
And truth is trampled in the mud;
Now that the quest for beauty dulls,
And buzzards blacken over the skulls,
And man is once more crucified,
And the sky splits from side to side,
And the Four Feverish Horsemen ride,
Build us a temple where the treasure
Of heart and mind in noble measure
May stand, though every house be shaken
Endure, though every tower taken;
And from the dead ashes reawaken
Once more in man's impatient breast
Hungers no death can put to rest
The dream, the courage and the Quest.

OAKES ENTERTAIN FOR LUNCEFORD AND BAND

The beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Oakes was the scene of a lovely party honoring Jimmie Lunceford and his orchestra boys and the Deery sisters and Miller brothers. The guests enjoyed a lovely time and were loud in praise of their hosts and Mrs. Lizzie Thurman, sister of Mrs. Oakes, of the popular Oakland Cafe.

STYLE LEADER

Again Mr. J. D. Richardson set a precedent when he modeled a new style hat sensation during the early winter months. Easter Sunday saw this extremely wide brimmed creation adorning the heads of many a well dressed fashionable gentleman. Anxiously the members of the younger set seem to watch Mr. Richardson for the latest models in wearing apparel and most generously and often does he satisfy.

SOMETHING DIFFERENT

Looking in on one of the most orderly cabarets in Denver, the establishment of Mr. B. Hooper, last Sunday night filmed his entertainers and patrons in action. This feature was only one of the many that he is forever offering his guests, and to a man who respects everybody, and requires each person entering his premises to respect one another; may he attain the goal for which he is seeking.

constituted one-tenth of the population ,but they formed 13 per cent of the manpower of the armed forces of the United States. Two hundred thousand Negro troops were sent overseas.

The war was fought and won, and all parts of the world were made safe for democracy. The Negro returned full of hope and expecting at least social justice. But traditional taboos remained in this country. Negro veterans were refused even entrance into the brotherhood of labor.

Several things completely unfitted the Negro from falling into the traditional "outcast" role on his return to this country. He found that he could fight as good as any other race. The 370th Regiment (8th Illinois), officered throughout by Negroes, received more citations and Croix de Guerre than any other American regiment in France. Then the Alpht Army Tests showed them that their intelligence was on a par with their white comrades.

When war comes, what will the Negro do this time?

Musical Artists to Appear Sun. at S. D. A. Church

The famous Bilbrew Male Quartet, James Miller, Pasadena's noted tenor and Mrs. A. C. Bilbrew, outstanding reader and accompanist, are the galaxy of artist who will appear in a concert at the Sunset Avenue S. D. A. church, corner of Sunset Ave. and Pepper St., Sunday evening, 7:45 p. m.

Ensemble and solo numbers, together with readings by Mrs. Bilbrew, promise to make this program by these radio artists, one of the outstanding programs of the current season.

Having appeared before the leading church, civic and fraternal groups in California, these musicians will bring to their Pasadena audience the cream of their extensive repertoire of appeal represented in this program certain to attract a large audience of music lovers.

In order to assure a substantial offering for this stellar program twelve group leaders are obtaining patrons to subscribe one dollar or fifty cents to this program. Patrons will have their names listed on the printed program and will be given preferential seats.

PASADENA JAYSEE NEWS

BY ESTHER OWENS

ATHLETICS

Ulysses Allen came in third in the 440 at Glendale Saturday.

Some of the boys who have been out for track this season are: William Irving, who came in second in the 220 and third in the hundred yard dash. Bill now has enough points for his letter.

Rufus Blake was second in the Fullerton meet. Due to an injured ankle, he has been unable to enter any other track meets.

WEST CAMPUS

Willie Anderson of West Campus has really showed the coaches how he can step forward: Willie came in second at the Glendale track meet.

Homer Houston is really stepping forward. Homer ran the 100 yd. dash in 10.2; that is very good for a freshman. Other West Campus students out for track are Walter Knott and James Armstrong.

ATHLETICS . . . GIRLS EAST CAMPUS

Alice Presley, Monrovia's gift to PJC is taking the eye of the Physical Education teachers on the east campus. Last Friday, I had the pleasure of watching her play tennis against a girl from LACC. She is a member of the Women's Athletic Association Tennis Team, and plays tennis with accuracy and ease. Alice has a good stroke and her serve is very powerful. She is a senior at Pasadena and her leaving will be a great loss to Jaysee.

Symanthia Hester, born Mar. 17, 1923, is one of the Negro girls who is very active in athletics on the West campus. Symanthia is 5 ft. 5, weight 107 lb., has blue eyes and a pleasing personality. She is very well liked by the students and is very outstanding in any sport. She makes 8 out of 10 shots in basketball generally. In Junior High school she played with Barbara George, making an unbeatable combination; she received a letter, numeral and the GAA emblem for the highest record in attendance and merit. Here's wishing her success in her every endeavor.

SOCIAL NEWS

The Sepian Pullae is really an outstanding club in the social circles of Pasadena. Doris Prince is president; Nora Mae Worril, vice president; Caroline Callier, secretary, and Imogene Thompson, treasurer.

The Ebony Earles have accepted Joseph (Duke) Smith as a member of their club.

Nella DeSuze has been admitted to the Crown City tennis team.

John Anderson, Jack Gordon, James Ruffin and Mack Robinson are expected back from the Relays sometime this week.

The Alpho Foo Alpha, a new club, has been organized by some of the students of Pasadena Jaysee.

The Sepia Pullae are giving a beach trip Aprli 27. Tickets are on sale for forty cents. They are serving hot dogs and potato salad.

CAMPUSES ATTITUDE TOWARD EACH OTHER

The feeling between the two campuses doesn't seem to be a feeling of unity.

A student of East campus states: "The students of West campus seem to be out only for a good time, and the social contacts that they can make, whereas the students of the East campus are striving to equip themselves with the proper material to enter college, or their life's work."

A student of the West campus states, "The students of the West campus are friendlier one towards the other than the students of the East campus. I have attended both campuses, and I was satisfied on the East campus until I attended the West campus. Then I began to see the difference in the attitude of the students. I feel more at home at the West campus because of the friendlier attitude of associates. We do study on the West campus but we study at home, and try to become better acquainted with our fellow students while at school."

Health Twins — Bread and Milk

By BETTY BARCLAY

That good old-fashioned supper dish, a bowl of bread-and-milk, is coming into favor again!

It's simple to prepare — a grand team for flavor — and practically a complete food for buoyant good health. Today leading nutritionists have taken up its praise where our grandparents left off. For they've discovered that a bowl of bread-and-milk supplies nearly everything the human body needs.

Vitamin-rich

Pure milk, they explain, is a "protective" food. It's rich in vitamins and minerals that "protect" by helping you to build up resistance. Milk might be called a "beauty food," too, because its food factors are necessary for lustrous hair and a healthy complexion. Grown-ups, as well as youngsters, need the vitamins and minerals in a bowl of bread-and-milk.

Bread for Energy

The modern white bread you get from the grocer or the baker, is made with milk, too. It contains some vitamins and minerals, as well as valuable proteins for muscle and tissue repair. But bread is chiefly important as our best and cheapest energy-food.

Since 85% of all the food we eat is used by the body for creating energy, it's easy to see why bread's been our "staff of life" for centuries.

Not Fattening

A supper-time bowl of bread-and-milk makes a satisfying and a nourishing meal — but it's not a "fattening" food.

One pint of pasteurized or certified milk provides 340 calories. Three slices of bread (the usual ready-sliced type) each add approximately 70 calories more. A generous bowl of bread-and-milk, therefore, supplies approximately 550 calories.

You could actually live on five such bowls of bread-and-milk a day without getting one bit fatter, for the average adult needs from 2,500 to 3,000 calories daily.

Ways to Serve Bread-and-Milk

According to Dr. James A. Tobey, prominent health authority, bread and milk combines to make an ideal "little meal" for children. So — when you're in a hurry — make it bread-and-milk . . . for breakfast, lunch, a fourth meal at four, or for supper. And there are dozens of ways you can "dress it up."

Some like it hot: for a warming dish, simply heat up the milk (but don't boil it). For a cereal-dish, stir bread in hot milk till it's soft, then add salt and butter. Or parch the bread in your oven, and pour browned butter and hot milk over the crisp gold slices.

Some like it cold: try rich slices of baker's bread cut into squares and covered with ice cold milk, served in a deep dish and sprinkled with sugar.

Flavor the milk anyway you like — with sugar and vanilla, raspberry jam, nutmeg and sugar, cinnamon and sugar, chocolate sauce, beaten raw egg and a little sugar.

Or spread the bread with molasses or corn syrup, with butter and brown sugar, with honey, jelly or jam. Let the youngsters discover new bread-and-milk treats for themselves. They'll love the fun of experimenting — and enjoy these "twin foods" for sturdy health all the more!

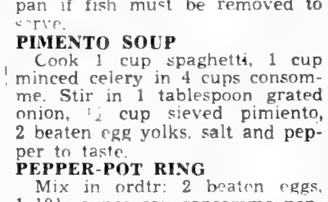
Mr. and Mrs. Willis Gentry are honored with his sister, Mrs. F. Fields. She is visiting here from New Mexico.

LOVE IS THE WAY
Song For The New Year

The guns of chaos roar away the night
And crack the coral silences of dusk
While Spain is gasping through heroic fight
And China shrivels like a withered husk.



The world is shaking yet from Hitler's shout.
And ghettos stretch where beaten people crawl.
The fires of hope now flicker—then go out,
The world is one gigantic Wailing Wall.

This is the old year's world. What of the new?
The task is ours to hush the hellish din.
Love is the way—and constant faith to view.
The world we yet shall dare to usher in.

ST. BARNABAS CHAPEL NOTES

Confirmation class is now being formed to be presented in June. All persons interested are asked to see the Vicar after the 11 a. m. Sunday service. He is also available Thursday evenings at 7:30 p. m. in the parish house. Sundays, Mass at 7:30 and 11 a. m., except the first Sunday, when morning prayer is said at 11. Thanks are expressed to the models and friends who made possible the success of the Georgia Weatherton Group Fashion Tea, held Sunday at the residence of the leader, Mrs. Robert E. Keys. Everyone is welcome to worship at St. Barnabas, 1062 N. Fair Oaks avenue.

CALVARY CME CHURCH
Cor. Glorietta & Kirkwood Aves.
Rev. E. V. Banks, Pastor

Last Sunday marked the third consecutive high day with Calvary. The Presiding Elder, in the person of Rev. G. L. Hays of Los Angeles, delivered the message, "Ever the Same."

Three o'clock marked the climax of the day. Rev. L. R. Dyas of Harris Memorial CME church of L. A. was the speaker for the Union meeting.

Again we were honored with the presence of our beloved senior bishop, Rt. Rev. C. H. Phillips, and his queenly wife.

Their stay here has been most enjoyable and their presence has brought sunshine to our social and spiritual life.

The Epworth League, under the leadership of Mr. Preston Hickambottom, is doing a fine piece of work.

Community Baptist Church
Rev. J. W. Coleman, D. D., Pastor

Woman's Day program on last Sunday went far beyond all expectations. Beginning with the church school, the morning, afternoon, and evening services were all well attended.

Among the women who delivered special addresses were. Mrs E. W. Moore, Mrs. C. M. Long of Friendship Baptist; Miss Bernice Burch and E. Callender, Mrs. C. Hall.

Mrs. Elizabeth Holmes was chairman, Mrs. J. W. Coleman, mistress of ceremonies. Rev. J. T. Brown preached morning and evening. The program was a real success.

The Revival meeting, conducted by Dr. J. T. Brown, has had great success. Mrs. D. W. Phelps, Catherine Jones and Rev. Lewis Callender, served as the special committee.

The building has recently been painted and decorated both in and out.

Many of the community groups are meeting in the church center.

The Sunday School has increased and the total membership is now an appreciative one. With the many fine contacts being made by Dr. Coleman and the manly way that he has approached his new tasks, the indications are that this will be among Pasadena's most outstanding church organizations.

The pastor will preach morning and evening on next Sunday.

NICKERSON'S MISSION

The Young People's Meeting at Eld. and Sr. Nickerson's Mission was well attended last Sunday by Los Angeles' visitors. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell Pride and son and Mr.

IT PAYS TO CACKLE!

Scientifically, chicken eggs are no better than duck eggs. But the average person won't buy them at any price. If chicken eggs were selling for a dollar a dozen, the average housewife wouldn't buy duck eggs at 10 cents per dozen

Why?

The difference is due to advertising.

The duck, when she lays an egg, waddles off in silence and with her head hanging low.

The hen, with head lifted high, comes off the nest cackling. And the old rooster sticks out his chest and crows about it!

It pays to advertise. (See J. W. Porter, our Pasadena representative of The California Eagle, or telephone SYcamore 3-1665.)

Drop Charges Against Actor

Actor - Agent Ben Carter Goes Free

Three Boys Told Juvenile Officers of Sex Orgies

Charges involving endangering of the morals of a trio of juvenile boys were dismissed Tuesday afternoon by Superior court Judge J. Turney Fox assigned to the juvenile division of that court, to hear charges against Ben Carter, actor-agent.

Attorneys Lloyd C. Griffith and Thomas L. Griffith defended the case against the screen actor. Carter was arrested last April 8, on a warrant after three boys told juvenile officers a tale of asserted sex orgies, engaged in by themselves and the actor in his West Temple district home.

When brought into court, however, the youths, Ledger Kapo lani, 15; Lloyd Pickens, 14, and Joe Glascoe, 15, all residents in the neighborhood of North Bonnie Brae street, told the court that they had lied to the arresting officers. After listening to the boys recount their own addiction to perverted habits, Judge Fox, on motion of the defense attorneys, dismissed the charges against Carter, and ordered his $1500 bond, posted Mar. 4, returned.

The three youths were ordered detained at Juvenile Hall, pending their trial on making false statements to a police officer.

Free Woman in Slaying of Car-washer

Waitress Says Man Sought to Force His Attentions on Her

Lemon Sidney, 33-year old car-washer, was shot to death early last Thursday morning, and Newton street officers arrested Dorothy Davis, 31-year old waitress of 1122 E. 43rd street, in whose home the shooting took place, holding her on suspicion of murder.

A coroner's jury, at the inquest this week, absolved the waitress of blame in the slaying, returning a verdict of justifiable homicide on grounds of self-defense.

According to police, the slaying culminated a struggle between the man and woman when he sought to force his attentions upon her. Officers investigating the gun-play found a small radio and vase had been smashed and a door on the floor.

The woman said Sidney had cut her with a pocket knife and after he threatened to kill her, she got a .22 calibre revolver and shot over his head.

Sidney left, but came back a second time, and assertedly said, "Now, I know I am going to kill you." He received a bullet in the chest, staggered out of the house and fell on the front lawn where he was pronounced dead by ambulance attendants.

Acquitted in Ice - Pick Slaying

Defense Argues Act Committed in Self Defense

Accused of murder in the ice-pick slaying last Feb. 13 of Andrew Dixon, Katherine Irving, comely common-law wife of the man, walked out of Department 45 of the Superior Court Monday a free woman.

Judge Clarence L. Kincaid acquitted her of the charge after hearing testimony offered by defense counsel Walter L. Gordon, Jr. Through her attorney, Miss Irving admitted the fatal stabbing but argued it was in self-defense.

Testimony was introduced by the defense that on the night of the slaying, Dixon, in a fit of drunken rage, attempted to slash Miss Irving with a knife, threatening to "carve my initials" on her after first engaging other boarders in the house.

It was disclosed during questioning of the witness that Dixon, a railroad employe, had a "bad reputation" and on another occasion did threathen and shoot at his common-law wife.

Charging that the man met his death because of malicious and designing motives, the prosecution presented a vigorous argument in an attempt to convict the woman.

William Duse and Arthur Houston testified in behalf of the defense.

Others testified to the need of remedial measures to alleviate deplorable living conditions existing in some sections of the state.

'Sweeps Winner Albertine Pickens Shares Estate

CHICAGO, Apr. 18—Royal E. Spurlark, $75.000 1938 Irish Sweepstakes winner, left an estate of $40,000, to be divided among his widow, Albertine Pickens, well known former actress, his son, Royal E. Spurlark, Jr., and two nieces and a nephew.

Half of the estate will go to the son and approximately half to Miss Pickens, who had been married to the deceased man but three months before his death. The son's share includes an annuity insurance for $10,000, payable at $50.00 per month; government bonds amounting to $7000, a Pullman company insurance policy, and two smaller policies.

Business League, U. S. C. of C. Heads Confer

WASHINGTON, April 18. (ANP)—Officers of the National Negro Business League and officials of the United States Chamber of Commerce held a conference here last Friday at the chamber's national headquarters, which many believe will be epochal in the history of Negro business. The meeting which lasted all afternoon, was designed to acquaint the U. S. Chamber leaders with some of the problems facing Negro business and to pave the way for Negro business men and women to receive some of the benefits of the vast array of information and service which the chamber has available.

Delos L. James, agricultural expert of the chamber and Dr. J. E. Walker of Memphis, president of the National Negro Business league, took turns in presiding. Dr. Walker, after a preliminary statement by Secretary A. L. Holsey, presented C. C. Spaulding who described the banking business as conducted by the 12 Negro banks now existent in the country; M. S. Stuart of Universal Life who gave a portrayal of the insurance business as conducted by Negroes; F. D. Patterson of Tuskegee, who developed the unemployment problem and its relation to living and purchasing power; Claude A. Barnett who described the function of the Negro newspaper and pointed out the serviceableness of these mediums in effecting greater distribution through advertising and J. A. Jackson of the Standard Oil company who presented an address on the integration of Negroes into white business organizations.

Following the discussion of these points, members of the chamber asked questions indicating a keen interest in the problems faced by Negroes in business and in the fields of employment.

One of the promises of the chamber was that a member of that body qualified to represent the body would be on hand at the next convention of the Negro Business league in Detroit next August. This marks the first time that such recognition has been obtained and bodes well for the closer cooperation of the two bodies which have much in common.

Suggests DAR Drop Race Ban

WASHINGTON, April 18—A telegram was sent Mrs. Henry M. Roberts, Jr., president-general of the Daughters of the American Revolution, by Charles H. Houston, chairman of the Marian Anderson Citizens' committee, as the DAR opened its convention this week here.

Houston suggested that the DAR "can make a fine contribution toward cementing the bond between black and white citizens by removing the ban on Negro artists appearing in Constitution Hall." The DAR will particularly consider "problems of National Defense and protection of the home front."

Roosevelt Asks Transfer of H. U., Freedmen's

WASHINGTON, April 18. (ANP)—Freedmen's hospital and Howard university come in for a bit of publicity in the latest message of the President to Congress on his plans for reorganization.

Roosevelt in his message suggested in what is known as Reorganization Plan No. IV, that in order to reduce expenditures, to increase efficiency, to consolidate agencies according to major purposes and reduce the number of agencies by consolidating those having similar functions and by abolishing such as may not be necessary and to eliminate overlapping and duplication of effort "that Freedmen's hospital in the department of interior and its functions be transferred to the FSA and be administered under the direction and supervision of the federal security administrator."

Second, "that Howard university be similarly transferred. The annual report required to be furnished to the secretary of the interior by the president and directors of the university, shall be furnished to the federal security administration. The office of education shall continue to make its inspections of and reports on the affairs of Howard university in accordance with the provisions of existing law."

Rev. H. Mansfield Collins Leaves for Detroit Confab

The Rev. H. Mansfield Collins, pastor of "Eighth and Towne" AME church and the endorsed candidate of California for the bishopric of the AME Church, is holding his last service before the General Conference, which meets in Detroit next Sunday. At the eleven o'clock hour, he will deliver his closing message, at which time the choirs, under the direction of Prof. George Garner and Mrs. Jessie Grayson, will render special music for the occasion. At this service, the members who have joined during the pastorate of the divine, will be the honored guests and special space will be given them. More than 800 members have been added to the church since his coming more than three years ago and it is expected that a capacity congregation will be present at that hour.

DR. H. MANSFIELD COLLINS

At 7:30 o'clock, Rev. E. W. Rakestraw and the members of Wesley Methodist church will worship with "Eighth and Towne" in a mammoth closing service. Special music will be rendered by the Wesley choir under the direction of Prof. Norton E. Dennis. The sermon will be delivered by Rev. Rakestraw. "All roads lead to Eighth and Towne." Rev. J. W. Price of Ward Chapel will preach Thursday night and Bishop Washington of Bethel Church of Christ on Friday night. This will close a week of interesting services before Rev. Collins takes his departure for the Detroit conference. Rev. A. W. Ross of Pleasant Hill Baptist church rendered splendid services on Wednesday night.

Rev. Collins has been endorsed by the annual conference, and ranks as one of the leading candidates for the bishopric. Some time ago, the California Eagle wrote under the caption, "California Wants A Bishop," thus arousing the interest of the Far West in the candidacy of this prelate. At least four bishops will be elected and it now appears that the Reverend will be one of that number.

BOMB HOME, IN WHITE AREA, OF WASHINGTON SCHOOL TEACHER

Committee Sought to Buy Home on Ground Negroes Not Wanted in Neighborhood

WASHINGTON, April 18. (ANP)—Bombing with dynamite, unknown anarchists created havoc in Harvard street Saturday night, when windows of adjacent apartments were blown out and the roar of the heavy charge of explosive was heard four miles from the scene of the bombing.

A citizen's convenant committee (which by mutual agreement refuses to sell property in certain neighborhoods to Negroes) had sought to buy the house on the ground that whites did not want Negroes in the neighborhood. Mrs. Holland had agreed to sell and all but six of the 51 property owners in the neighborhood had agreed or signed the new covenant, contributing, it is reported, to the amount necessary to buy back the house. Nine thousand dollars had been raised for this purpose and some $2,000 more was necessary to complete the deal.

Glenbie D. Young, chairman of the committee said: "There was no feeling involved. It was purely an economic matter. White owners stood to lose an estimated $118.000. Many of them were elderly and pulling up stakes now would be difficult.

"Mrs. Holland and her daugh-

Living next door to the Hollands was Herman Fleck, an attache of the German embassy. Neighbors were quick to discount any international machinations, however, speaking highly of Fleck and his family.

At the time of the explosion, Mrs. Holland's mother, Mrs. Mary Miles, another woman and two children as well as Mrs. Holland's daughter were in the building. All lights were on, and the house was quiet.

Mrs. Holland herself had been to church and was returning home. Just as she started up the steps, the terrific charge went off. She became hysterical and had to have medical attention. Considerable damage was done to the house itself as well as to neighboring homes.

Hearings Held on Ramspeck Measure By Senate Committee

WASHINGTON, April 18. (ANP)—Hearing before the civil service committee of the Senate on behalf of the Ramspeck bill, which has already been passed by the House of Representatives, are beginning to light some of the same injustices presented the supreme court group hearing when an investigation of the civil service commission practises were under way.

Chief among the things asked for in the matter of protecting Negroes who would qualify under the provisions of the bill are the establishment of an appeal board in each department, one member of which would be colored, the elimination of the picture business, established in 1914 by the commission itself and the opening of the non-competitive examination to all now employed in various departments of the government not now included in the civil service.

This does not take into consideration the workers on the WPA, but includes some 150,000 persons engaged in work in various alphabetical set-ups of the government.

Such a bill if passed would bring the civil service workers in the United States to the hitherto undreamed of otal of nearly a million and a half workers.

Latest reports are that Senators Meade of New York and Hatch of New Mexico are in favor of eliminating the photo rule now in force.

"AMERICA'S VOTELESS MILLIONS"--WHAT'S TO BE DONE? SCOTT ASKS

Southern Democracy Backbone of New Dealism, But 9,000,000 Mistreated

By EMMETT J. SCOTT

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 18.—This observer recently called attention to the fact that the Democratic South, the backbone of New Dealism, persists in its traditional mistreatment of the nearly 9,000,000 Colored men, women and children of the South, withholding from them the most elementary rights of democracy, and visiting upon them indignities comparable only to the brutalitarian tactics of Europe's totalitarian dictators.

Enumerated among these fundamental rights as American citizens were disfranchisement, jimcrowism, denial of civil liberties, and those numberless techniques employed to keep them intimidated while cherished liberties are trampled underfoot and their spiritual morale crushed.

Now comes the April issue of Equality Magazine, with an article by Helen Burlin, "America's Voteless Millions," discussing this same subject. So important is the article that it was reprinted in the Congressional Record of April 8th.

Miss Burlin calls attention to the fact that in our country, despite the Constitution and the Bill of Rights, millions of citizens are robbed of their right to vote. These millions live in Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Mississippi, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, and Virginia. Many of them are Negroes but the majority are white.

PAY TO VOTE

In these states, during the Presidential election of 1936, she states, only 2,679,473 out of an adult population of 11,606,046 cast their ballots. A bare quarter of the population voted to elect the Chief Executive of the nation.

"Each citizen in the Southern section has to buy a privilege which elsewhere is taken for granted—that of exercising his constitutional right to vote. The State sells the right by levying a Poll Tax. Those who regiser and pay may vote. Those who can't, don't."

Miss Burlin tells the whole story of disfranchisement and the resultant manifestations of outrage and oppression. The Poll Tax, she says, is reminiscent of the head tax of medieval England. It was resurrected, not during the turbulent reconstruction era, as many think, but by white supremacy conventions in the 1890's and 1900's. Ostensibly to disfranchise the Negro, their real purpose, she says was to break the back of the Populists. In the Populist movement, poor farmers, White and Negro, had found their voice and were threatening the political hold of the Democratic machine in various Southern States.

An illustration of how the scheme works is told in the case of an average farm family in Mississippi of three persons of voting age with an annual income below $100. "The right to vote", she writes, "would cost that family three times $2.00 or $6.00—six percent of its income. How many households even in fortunate circumstances could afford an investment of these proportion for the sake of exercising the privilege of citizenship? In Alabama and Georgia, for example, the Poll Tax is cumulative. If a citizen hasn't registered for several years, or has lost his certificates, the cost of voting mounts into a tidy sum.

A member inquired: "What Member of this House would pay the same percentage of his income for the privilege of voting as is expected of the Mississippi farmer? Since Senators and Congressmen receive annual salaries of $10,000 each this would mean $600.

Miss Burlin continues: " It cost Arthur Grover Means of Birmingham, a Negro, $36 to vote ($1.50 for every year of his age past his twenty-first birthday), and his determination to pay the price was so unusual that he got his picture in the papers.

"Sometimes counties levy an additional Poll Tax. Mississippi requires two years' cumulative Poll Tax, 'satisfactory evidence of payment of (other) taxes'.

"In Arkansas, without a Poll Tax receipt, one is not only barred from voting but from receiving any license, permit, or wages from public funds.

"The Poll Tax becomes a racket in certain localities, notably in Texas, with political machines buying up quantities of blank Poll Tax receipts and passing them out to complaisant or venal voters (see Survey Graphic, January, 1940)."

South Ranks High in Public Housing, Report

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 18.—Public housing is a field of social progress in which the South ranks high, Dr. Robert C. Weaver, Special Assistant to the Administrator, United States Housing Authority, declared in a recent address at the groundbreaking exercises for the Chavis Heights project in Raleigh, North Carolina.

The project which will rehouse 200 low income Negro families, is one of the two low-rent housing projects which the Raleigh Housing Authority is developing with the financial assistance of the United States Housing Authority at an approximate cost of $1,000,000 each.

"There are 67 communities in the Southern and Bordee states which have initiated programs to to rehouse low income Negro families," Dr. Weaver asserted.

"These communities include small towns as well as large cities. This is a program of social welfare which the South has accepted no less eagerly than other sections of the country. Nor has there been any general disposition to overlook the urgent housing needs of colored families."

Illinois Buys 1000 Booker T. Stamps

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE (Ala.) April 18—Claude A. Barnett, Associated Negro Press head, a trustee of Tuskegee Institute and a member of the Exposition Authority responsible for the coming American Negro Exposition in Chicago, arrived here Friday from Chicago bearing a warrant of the State of Illinois for the purchase of 1000 Booker T. Washington stamps to be used at Exposition headquarters in the Illinois metropolis.

INVITED TO YOUTH MEET IN WHITE HOUSE

NEW ORLEANS, April 18—Edward E. Strong, executive secretary of the Southern Negro Youth congress, has been invited by Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt to attend a youth conference at the White House April 29.

Wounded WPA Worker May Live

ATLANTA, April 18—A 57-year old WPA worker, Alex Stafford, is given an even chance for life at a local hospital after he was wounded and gassed in a gun battle with police officers. Apparently going beserk because he faced eviction from his home, Stafford barricaded himself in his home and held off 15 policemen for several hours. An innocent bystander, Mrs. Mattie Matthews, was shot between the eyes by one of the flying bullets as she stood half a block away.

Negro Votes Aid Dewey's Primary Wins

Nebraska, Illinois, Wisconsin Voters Back GOP Nominee

NEW YORK, Apr. 18.—Sweeping primary victories by Thomas E. Dewey, Republican candidate for Presidential nomination, in Nebraska, Illinois and Wisconsin were aided substantially by the Negro voters of those areas. An analysis of the vote in Illinois and Nebraska last week and of that in Wisconsin two weeks ago leads to this conclusion.

Wisconsin has a small Negro population, about 6,500, but a large number of the voters joined the Dewey landslide in that state and aided in the defeat of Senator Arthur Vandenberg in the primary three weeks ago.

In Nebraska the Dewey forces were aided by C. C. Galloway, editor of the Omaha Guide, State Senator John Adams and many others. Their excellent showing was the outgrowth of pre-primary work in that area planned during the recent visit of Dewey and also Mrs. Eunice Hunton Carter, one of his aides in the New York District Attorney's office.

BIG NAMES FOR HIM

In Illinois a distinguished list of Negro leaders helped swell the tide of votes for Dewey in last week's primaries. Dewey had the united support of Negro organizations of Chicago's great Southside area. All the regular ward leaders including former Congressman Oscar DePries of the third ward and former State Senator William E. King of the first ward were for Dewey. Contests for the state committee in the second and third wards made no difference in Dewey support as both sides were for him.

Jake Tippen, a Negro delegate from Illinois to the National Republican Convention in Philadelphia, is a Dewey man.

In Chicago proper, when Mr. Dewey appeared at tht station, he was greeted by thousands and, it was noted, many hundreds of Negroes were included in the throng.

GWTW Opens to Hostile Harlem

NEW YORK, April 11—Despite the fact that Hollywood broke all precedent in giving the Academy Award for the most outstanding supporting actress of the year to buxom Hattie McDaniels, when "Gone With the Wind," featuring Miss McDaniel opened in Harlem, a picket line from the Motion Picture Projectionist Association, an affiliate of the Harlem Labor Union, was formed in front of the theater.

Harlem elite, however, passed the lines, which asked for Colored Movie Operators at $80 to $120 per week. Most of these jobs, according to Mavis Costello, chairman of the Picketing Committee, are now held by white men.

A boycott-storm appears to be gathering about the long controversial New Orleans Municipal Auditorium (above) upon the occasion of the planned appearance there May 6 of Miss Marion Anderson, world famous singer.

Bitterly resenting the fact that they have been summarily relegated to the balcony by the charge de affairs, Gar Moore of the local Orpheum (Mort H,. Singer) theatre management, to hear a singer of their own race, Negroes have urged through organizations marshalled under the leadership of the NAACP that they be given the privilege of ground floor accomodations if they are expected to attend. Voicing its stand on the matter the NAACP states,

"This action must in no way be interpreted as an attack on Miss Anderson. To the contrary, we feel Miss Anderson is being given an enviable opportunity to follow in the laudable path of precedent established by Roland Hayes some years ago in this auditorium, when he refused to appear under similar discriminatory conditions; and by Henry Armstrong, who insisted upon the color bar being set aside in the American Legion Auditorium in Los Angeles before he himself would appear as a privileged personage."

FORM AGRICULTURAL WORKERS ASS'N

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala., April 18. (ANP)—Friday night, 42 agricultural workers, representing eight states, met at Tuskegee institute and laid the foundation for organizing the National Association of Negro Agricultural Workers.

N. Y. NEWSPAPER EMPLOYES MARRY

NEW YORK, April 18—The marriage of Mrs. Lillian Sharpe Hunter, director of public relations for the Amsterdam News, to Reginald Spencer, in charge of distribution for the same paper, was announced here last week.

The bride is the widow of the late Charles Hunter, railroad man.

108-YEAR OLD SAN ANTONIO WOMAN DIES

SAN ANTONIO, April 18—Funeral services were held here last week for Mrs. Patsy Fields, 108-years old, reputedly the oldest colored person in this section

Local Council of NNC Plans Fight Against Klan Menace

Combining action on local issues with its campaign to send delegates from Los Angeles to the Third National Negro Congress meeting in Washington, D. C., April 26-28, the Los Angeles Council of the Congress at last week's meeting, pledged an uncompromising fight against the Ku Klux Klan menace in this city and vicinity.

Citing the parade of Klansmen in full regalia through downtown Los Angeles streets, Mar. 29, as an act of intimidation especially inimical to Negro citizens, the local Congress group approved the appointment of a six-man committee to press for action from police and city officials to prevent any recurrence of such actions. Assigned to investigate all factors of the incident were Council delegates: Augustus F. Hawkins, Rev. T. F. Jones, Rev. Hamilton Boswell, Mrs. Leona McGinty and Wm. F. Johnson, Robt. Robinson, executive secretary of the NNC, is chairman of the committee.

Also approved at the NNC last week, was a recommendation to the Public Works Commission endorsing the proposed pay-raise for the city's refuse collectors.

Stimulated by national office of wide-scale activities of Congress Councils in several eastern, southern and middle-western cities, aimed at sending large delegations to the Third National Negro Congress, the Los Angeles Council is increasing its efforts to send a comparable delegation from the West's largest Negro population center—Los Angeles.

Chief attention this week is centered on the Cocktail Dance the Council is sponsoring this Saturday, April 13, from 8 to 12 p. m., at Camille's Den, 848 E. Adams blvd. Dancing, a professional floor-show, door-prizes, and other interesting entertainment features planned, indicate that attendants at the affair not only will help in sending delegates to the Washington meeting but can have a grand time as well.

Council meetings will be held again Fridays, April 12 and 19 at 8 p. m., 1029 E. Vernon avenue. Representatives from community organizations, as well as individual citizens, are invited to attend. Reports on the progress of all activities and committees will be heard at these meetings.

Predicts South to Make Great Economic Gains

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 18.—A new outlook on the population trend is supplied by General Robert E. Wood, chairman of the board of Sears, Soebuck & Co., in the recently published volume, "The Outlook In Business". The General says: "if the South continues to attract industry, to hold its young people from migrating northward, to diversify its agriculture, it will make the greatest gains of any section in seconomic or political power. The census of 1940 will probably show that the rate of growth for Southern cities is now far more rapid than for most Northern and Mid-western cities."

"Today 14 Southern and border states, with approximately 30 per cent of the total population of the counetry are contributing abou 50 percent of the national population growth. Contrary to popular impressions, the Southern white is increasing at a much more rapid rate than the Southern Negro."

Dewey Aide Hits New Deal

Says Negro Suffers from Government-Fostered Jim Crow

BALTIMORE, Md., April 18.—Francis E. Rivers, aide to New York District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey, candidate for the Republican nomination for President, spoke at the Armonry here Thursday night before 7,000 gathered to hear a program given by the "Wings Over Jordan" choir.

In a brief but pointed speech Rivers charged that the Democratic New Deal was "creating a caste status for the Negro by making him a ward of the government."

During an interview after the program Rivers asserted that the Negro was being forced out of American industrial life by the New Deal. He said they wtre placed on relief because there were no jobs and then kept on relief and unabsorbed into private industry because unions, with National Labor Relations Board protection, refused Negroes as members.

MORE SEGREGATION

"Today", Rivers added, "Negro suffers more from segregation because of his race t at any time since emancipa In fact he suffers today fro new form of segregation—ernment-fostered segregation. he is doing less about it tha any time in his history. He c do anything about it, either cause of the New Deal. As as the New Deal remains in p er, he will be unable to do thing about it.

"The New Deal has create public opinion of such a nat that it is no longer news if Negro is segregated or cru ed down."

New Home Is Show Place of Tract

Home Built By All-Negro Crew Under John H. Session

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Thornton, 857 E. 116th Street, are the proud owners of the Blodgett Tract's finest new establishment, which was opened officially last week.

The beautiful residence, low and modern, is the work of an all-Negro crew under well known contractor John H. Session. The structure passed four sets of private and governmental inspections with flying colors--a rarity in the construction world.

More than this, reports owner Thornton, at no point during the building was there any complaint made by visiting Bank, City and FHA observers. At every inspection, the home was given an unqualified "100%" by inspectors.

Mr. Thornton, veteran railroad man and active in local labor organiations for many years was gleeful this week in pointing out the perfection of his new home--and the fact that it is the result of ALL NEGRO LABOR. Even the efficient lawn sprinkling system was installed by a colored operator.

Chief figure in the construction, of course, was General Contractor and Builder John Session. Under him worked V. M. Morrow as electrician; plumber, E. A. Loupe; plasterer, E. W. Eggleston; hardwood floors, W. Gross; and painter Arthur Provost--all "local talent".

Morrow, son-in-law of Rev. T. L. Griffith of Second Baptist church, supervised in detail the installation of the many last-minute electrical appliances in the home. Equally complicated--and fraught with innovations--was the work of plumber Loupe. Workers in the field have expressed high admiration for the plastering job performed by Eggleston, who was greaty aided by the expert brush of painter Provost, an expert craftsman. Gross' hardwood floors are the "piece de resistence."

A graduate of Tuskegee Institute, Session, the contractor taught in the Industrial Arts department of that institution for six years. He later transferred to Baldwin, La., to instruct in the Industrial branch of the University of New Orleans.

During the War, he was an outstanding figure in the planning of Army training camps, holding a responsible position in this connection for three years.

Some of the finest buildings in the South are the work of John Session. The magnificent five story Supreme Circle building in Abany, Ga., is one of his prime creations, and the Kress building at Dacross, Ga., is another of Session masterpieces. In building these famed structures, Session used all colored craftsmen.

Coming to Los Angeles in 1922, he became foreman in the De Luxe Builders Company, then nationally known as "the bungalow Kings of California."

GOES INTO BUSINESS

In 1928, Session decided to launch into the business world for himself. In the face of depression years, his firm has grown annually, and constructed most of the notable local landmarks. He helped to build Second Baptist Church, 28th Street branch YMCA, Blodgett Building, Dunbar Hotel St. Philips church, and many others.

Among outstanding recent efforts are the palatial Pasadena homes of Mrs. Mozelle Moore and Mrs. A. McNeal. In 1938, Session built Mt. Zion Baptist church at 50th and Hooper avenue.

It is doubtful, however, that any Session patron in all the years is more pleased with his work than Mr. Fred Thornton of 857 E. 116th street.

A former trustee, Session is a member of Second Baptist church.

Fashion Tea Given in Santa Monica

SANTA MONICA, (By W. L. Gilmore)—The Spring Fashion tea, given Sunday at the home of Mrs. Etta V. Moxley by the Oscar DePriest unit of the WPSC, was a tremendous success. The gala affair was largely attended. The home was beautifully decorated with yellow daisies, pink roses and white calla lillies. Pink roses and white calla center piece for the dining table with pink candles in matching holders. A large crystal punch bowl and cups on a silver tray adorned one end of the table which was laden with tea delicacies.

Many beautiful spring costumes were fashioned by the young set of the Bay City.

In addition to the elaborate show, Mrs. Clara Smith Trotter, fashionable dressmaker, who has recently opened a dress shop at 1901 20th street, in the Modernette Beauty Salon, had several models in the review.

A large group of "debs" from the "Popular Pals" and Les Uniques clubs were present and many of them participated in the review.

A very interesting program was arranged by the committee, composed of Mmes. Eunice Ward, Lela Brown and LeVert Terrell. Miss E. C. White, well known club.

The regular monthly meeting of this unit of the MPSC will meet next Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. Blanche M. Carter, 20th and Delaware streets, to hear a very interesting speaker.

The spacious home of Mrs. Daisy Clay, 1439 E. 18th street, was the cozy setting last Thursday afternoon for one of the Spring season's most pleasant dual affairs. Mrs. Clay, the genial hostess, celebrated her birthday along with the regular meeting of the "Trustee Helpers," an auxiliary of the First AME church of Santa Monica.

The living and dining rooms were artistically decorated with spring flowers. The business session was quickly followed by the social phase, which embraced the serving of delicious refreshments. Those present included: Mmes. Beatrice McCarroll, Rose Perkins, Allye Cook, Carrie Dames, and Marie Johnson. Members of the club, Mmes. Vera White and Willie Gilmore Kennedy, were guests of the hostess, also little Miss Johnson.

The Trustee Helpers of First AME church, will present the Young Women's Guild of Wesley Chapel in the play, "He Had a Past" at Miles Playhouse tonight.

CITIES NAME GROUPS TO AID EXPOSITION

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 18.—Mayors of Pittsburgh and McKessport, Pa.; Norwalk, Conn., and Rockford, Ill., are naming special commissions to cooperate with the coming American Negro Exposition at the Chicago Coliseum from July 4 thru Sept. 2, according to letters received from them by Governor Henry Horner of Illinois last week.

Santa Barbara Miss Feted on Her 15th Birthday

SANTA BARBARA, (By Phyllis A. Hoxie)—Little Miss Gloria Ford was honored with a surprise party Saturday evening in celebration of her 15th birthday. The big surprise, supervised by her mother, Mrs. Helen Ford, and sister, Helen Jane Ford, proved a grand success. Dancing was the main feature of the evening and was thoroughly enjoyed by all present.

Numerous congratulations in the way of telegrams and gifts were received by the radiantly charming Gloria.

The guests included Misses Eugenia Forney, Shon Edmundson, Geraldine O'Gara, Esther Lee Munson, Frances and Ramona Wilson, Vernice Majors, Earline and Marjorie Hopkins, Lucinda Smith, Paulette and Jeane Coleman, Frances Lany and Altheda Marshall; Messrs. George Moore, James Lily, William Hill, Clyde Smith, Robert Webb, Richard Sneed, Carl McGowan, Charles Marshall, Roy Forney, Larry Pickens and DeMelvyn Dennis.

From Los Anpeles came Mr. and Mrs. Mantan Moreland. Mrs. Moreland is the former Hazel Henry of Chicago, prominent in social circles there. Accompanying the Morelands were Miss Jeni LeGon, dancer and actress, and Kenny Washington, football star, who is making his first picture. The party was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. T. Moore.

Houseguest of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Workcuff is Mrs. Fannie Casmon, sister to Mr. Workcuff. Mrs. Casmon is here to spend a few weeks, getting much needed rest as she is prominent socially and in church circles in Los Angeles.

Red Caps Win 1st Round in Suit for 3 Million Dollars

CHICAGO, April 18.—The United Transport Service Employees of America won the first legal round in the $3,000,000 wage recovery suit last week from Federal Judge Philip Sullivan of the U. S. District Coort denied a motion to dismiss the case made by attorneys for the railroads. Judge Sullivan gave the railroads 30 days to prepare defense.

The suit filed in November, 1939, by the United Transport Service Employees union against the New York Central; Pennsylvania Railroad; Illinois Central; Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific; Western Indiana; Chicago and North Western and the Southern Railroad, charges the companies with violation of the Fair Labor Act and failure to pay the 25 to 30 cent an hour minimum prescribed by the act. Filed in behalf of 1800 red cap employees, the suit seeks back wages since October 24, 1938 and double indemnity for damages.

Lincoln Business Manager Dies

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. April 18.—Irving Clifford Tull, Business Manager of Lincoln university, died this morning in St. Mary's hospital, Jefferson City. The Lincoln official, who had been in the service of the institution for 22 years, contracted double pneumonia very suddenly following a two-week automobile business trip that carried him to more than a dozen Negro college campuses during last March and early April. He became ill Tuesday night and was carried Wednesday to the hospital where he died after only three days of confinement.

MONROVIA CHURCH CLOSES 33RD ANNIVERSARY FETE

MONROVIA, April 18.—With fresh determination to make extensive improvements on the church property, the Second Baptist church, Maple and Shamrock, closed its 33rd anniversary celebration here Sunday evening with a reception.

For a full week, the church had been celebrating its birthday. The following ministers and choirs participated in last week's mightly services: Reverends A. T. Hines, W. M. Thomas, G. A. Miller, A. A. Shaw, S. M. Malone.

At Sunday night's reception, the church regretted the absence of the only living charter member, Mrs. Watkins. Remarks were heard from members of 20 years or more standing, among them: Mmes Roena Thompson, Elmira Enge, Hael Taylor, M. W. Davis; Messrs. A. H. Jackson, E. J. Layne, J. R. Jackson, J. F. Bagba, Rev. B. T. Mansfield and Dr. and Mrs. S. M. Malone

A history of the church was read by Mrs. Ollie Barmore.

DUARTE-MONROVIA ART, LITERARY CLUB ELECTS HEAD

MONROVIA, April 18.—Mrs. Delia F. Jackson, was installed as president of the Duarte-Monrovia Art and Literary club in its regular meeting last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Jackson. With Mrs. O. M. Cobb, past president officiating, a very impressive installation ceremony was held.

Other officers inducted into office included: Mmes. Lee Anna Epperson, vice president; Laura P. Richardson, secretary; Ollie M. Barmore, assistant secretary; Lucy Yaniv, treasurer; Elmira Enge, chaplain.

Mrs. Ida G. Miller and F. O. Richardson brought two brief addresses on "Apreciation of Negroes and Their Works.". In the course of her remarks, Mrs. Miller said, "We never seem to see the good or worth in our own great Negro men and women until the other group takes note of them."

Richardson said, "We should watch the other fellow carefully, but emulate only the good qualities in them."

Visitors were: Miss Mabel Lockett of Berkeley, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Adams, Mrs. Charlotte Owens and Mrs. J. C. Battise. Refreshments were served at the close of the installation ceremony.

450 Pianists in Riverside Ensemble

RIVERSIDE, April 18.—Last Saturday night the Riverside Musicians' association assisted by the Riverside and San Bernardino branches of the Music Teachers' assn. presented 450 players in its second annual Piano Ensemble at the Municipal auditorium.

The performers, who ranged in age and stage of advancement from beginners to professionals, were presented in 9 groups. The 42 pianos, which were attractively placed on the auditorium stage were secured from the W. W. Kimball co.

Charles Stevens, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stevens, appeared with group one, playing "Village Bells" and "Mister and Mistress Robin", (Bilbo).

Debora and Lorraine Allen, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Allen, appeared in group four, a group of 84 players with two players at each piano. The 8-hand compositions played by them were "Rondo-a-Cariccio", Beethoven-MacGregor; "At the Ball", Zilcher; and "Marche Militaire", Schubert-Sartorio.

Miss Agnes Jordan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Will Jordan, appeared with group six, presenting "Majesty of the Deep", Hamer; and "County Gardens", Grainger.

The Delightful Side...

by Bill Smallwood

I learned a lot by lapping up
The dregs that lingered in my cup.
But would I fall, dear, if I could Again for love? You bet I would!

Bill and Fannie Robinson get in town, trunks and all, tomorrow (Friday) morn . . . Hooray! . . . Ruth Ellington is here, with her matchless brother. Gosh-darned good seeing them again, you bet. Ruth looks ten million, but won't commit herself when we query as to persistent rumors of her lending an attentive ear to Dr. Ira McCown's will-you-marry-me look about the eyes. As is to be expected, she and Gladys Hampton are inseparable and their gabbing and shopping and sherry-sipping goes on and on .Also with the Ellington entourage is lovely Rose Tizol, who is doing the town with Hazel Washington, her old crony and pal. 'Twas Rose's Cuban hubby, Juan, who penned the "Caravan" tune, you know. They'll all be here a few weeks. Bea Ellis, of Chi, is here too. Few women as lissome and striking as Bea, come to reflect. And there's nobody in the wide, world who can wear a tailored suit, fox furs and diamonds as can Bea! Also here is delightful Billy Strayhorn. Billy's as rare as emerald-cut ice, and his piano-playing will captivate many villagers, you can bet . . . Welcome, kids, and, gosh, am I glad to see ya!!!

Ed Jones, Jr. will come on from Chi after school and join Horace Clark, Jr. for a long trek into Mexico. Beverly Goodloe, who was here last summer from DeeCee visiting the Clarks, will return in time for the trip. Sounds all very swish, eh? . . . Catherine Dickinson will be here from Chi for the vacation. Earl's wife, you know . . . Judge and Mrs. Armond Scott reported planning a return trip. Perry Howard definitely due here. He'll stop with the Clarks . . . Hear tell Hobson Reynolds, another Republican bigwig, may come out. Recent gay word from his matchless wife, Evelyn, and tidings of a recent verse salon of hers, at Ruth Deane's Germantown church. No one quite like Evelyn, anywhere, anytime. She's like a fresh zephyr. Eve stands out in Philly circles like Liberty's torch . . . Also doing another book of verse, she writes. The summer WOULD be perfect, now, if she and Hobson would grab a choo-choo this way. And if with her could be such gay folk as the Wilbur Stricklands, Ed Huthinson, Jim and Frances Myrick, George and "Lits" Young, Bernice Dutrieulle, and other souls . . . gee, we like Philly . . .

Vera Clark is planning but quietly, a distinctive soiree for the Hamptons. Later on, etc. . . The Herman Moores, we hear, are en route back to Chi from his bench in the Islands. They may come out here in July . . . Sudden thought: Fannie Robinson will be here for the Chicago Club dance next month. Last Friday in May. And, no dance in the land can compare with the elegance of the annual Alcidians dinner dance in NY . . . NY tidings of surprise: Lillian Sharpe Hunter is now Mrs. Reginald Spencer. All N'Yorkers present take notice . . . Fannie Jasmon is vacationing in Santa Barbara. Exie Bouttee wishes by in her new car, very grand. Well, all right now! The better to make all her bridge parties, no doubt . . Vi Aldridge (Vi lent definite radiance to the AKA salon) will soon be housekeeping alone Her mother is planning an extensive trip into Dixie . .

Undeniable, the color anent Sunday's affairs: The AKA's really rang the welkin with their affair. Lovely turn-out. The girls looked delovely, what's more. Flowers were profuse. Smart-looking: Betty Collins, Dot Brown, Thelma Price, Bobbee Black, Ann Lawrie, Mildred Blount, Frances Johnson, et al. . . . Ed and Mabel Hurd, perky in new finery, lamenting the fact they had to come all the way back later the same nite for the SRA show, in which Mable sang . . . Onto the Theatre Group gathering within the spacious Bratton manse. More sparkling folk idling around, sipping tea, looking capitalistic and visibly enjoying themselves (an art). Gracious trio, the Brownings! At ease, and fluent conversationalists. (He's doing more concerts, you know.) Assisting were: Chappie Blodgett, Faustina Johnson, Dorothy Johnson, Frances Henderson, Meredith Hatcher, Angelique Bratton (who we haven't seen in an age, she's been ill), Vivian Johnson, Bessie Burke, Corona Bowman and Emily Portwig. There, and looking smart, Ruby Terry, Lolita Edwards, the MacPhersons, Jim Price, who we seldom see these nights, somehow. And, of course, all the other folk, but whose names we cannot list in one page . . . would that I could . . .

The Rufus Portwigs had a reception at their place, Tuesday eve at 7, honoring Josephine Harreld, the pianist, who is in town for a few days Much gabbing with her innent folk from other slimes, and much mental note- taking that Harreld is a rare and charming person. Radiant charm. You don't soon forget her, do you? . . . Velma Orendorff and hubby dined the Hamptons and friends, Sunday last . . . Carmelita Black Lomax is visiting her mother-in-law in Chi. And ultra, too. Infectious smile: Lillian (Whirl) Johnson . . . Wish somebody would give a costume ball . . . Thelma Long will accompany Betty Hill to Philly for the convention, did you know? The former breakfasted a number of folk as a sort've prelude to their departure, ere long . . .

They do say: the recent organ recital at St. John's Hall by the Rt. Rev. Bishop Gooden was something you would've remembered for days to come. Spell-binding, no less. Bishop Gooden is a great benefactor for St. Phillips . . . I wish: Marjorie McPherson would repeat her excerpt from "Elizabeth the Queen" . . . Victoria Rice, the violinist, has a scholarship to Eastman, in Rochester. She'll do a scholarship benefit May 4, then appear in Denver in June, in Kansas City, Dayton, Ohio. Her fiance, Curtis Mayo, will play host for her during his Oberlin graduation, and then onto his home for the summer, whence she'll give a September concert. Her prospective mother-in-law, Mrs. Minnie Mayo, will choo-choo out've here with her, and onto DeeCee. Best of luck, Vicki! . . . and our fond hello to Pearl (Flipper) Taylor and hubby, now in St. Louis . . . Pearl is sister to Mrs. Mayo, we've just discovered . . . 'Tis secretive, meanwhile, as to when Vicki becomes Mrs. Mayo . . . she's marrying into a very talented family, by the bye, as the Mayos are truly, honest-to-goodness geniuses . . .

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., April 18.—MISS ETHYL WISE, coloratura soprano, this week left the Lincoln University campus, where she is instructor in voice, for a two-week concert tour that includes appearances at five major colleges and one public school in Alabama, Tennessee, Arkansas, Louisiana, and Mississippi.

Fred G. Thorntons Move into New Home

Mr. and Mrs. Fred G. Thornton have moved to their beautiful new home at 857 E. 116th street in the Blodgett Tract. Mrs. Thornton, formerly Minnie Thompson, the daughter of the late Rev. and Mrs. Scipio Thompson, had lived at 768 Wall street, for over 40 years, her parents having purchased the property in 1896.

Mrs. Juanita Hall Fetes Idle Hour Club

Mrs. Juanita Hall entertained the Idle Hour club, in honor of Mrs. W. H. Riley of Chicago at her beautiful and spacious home on W. 30th street. A delightful luncheon was served. Mrs. Nella Blodgett is president. Mrs. Edna Carter, secretary, and Mrs. Etta Green, treasurer.

Honoring his son, Victor, on his 22nd birthday, Vernon Bostic entertained his son's friends at a dinner party Monday evening of last week.

Those present were: Misses Nellie Cleves, Jerry Saloman, Virginia Dade, Gloria Bostic, Bernice Townsend, Burlia Taylor, Betty Griffen; Messrs. Victor Bostic, Clarence Mack, Robert Roberts, Virgil Benson, Almo Scott, Lloyd Gladden and Mrs. Robert Simmons.

MRS. BETTYE HILL IS HONORED GUEST AT BRIDGE BREAKFAST

Mrs. Bettye Hill, first colored delegate West of the Rockies to the National Republican convention, was the honored guest at a well appointed bridge breakfast Tuesday given by Mrs. Thelma Long at her spacious west 28th street home.

The small tables for 40 guests were artistically arranged with variated sweet peas. Mrs. Hill received a beautiful compact with her name engraved on the lid. Prizes were won by Mmes. Exie Boutee, Louaida Hunigan, Virginia Cameron, Emma Maloney, and Annie Mae Woods. Going as Mrs. Hill's secretary to the convention June 19, is Mrs. Thelma Long. Several social affairs are being planned for the two.

Four Medics Co-Host MDP Association

Drs. J. Fowler, A. Foster, R. Gilmore and Clifford Gordon were co-hosts to the Medical, Dental and Pharmaceutical association last Wednesday evening at the Gilmore's residence in E. 114th street. Dr. R. Brown of Pittsburgh, gave a very interesting talk on medical conditions in general. Other short talks were by Dr. E. I. Robinson, W. Bailey, W. Hardiman, H. McPherson and R. Bledsoe. At 11 p. m., wives of the co-hosts served refreshments to the 33 members present.

Mrs. Fannie Casmon, 1431 W. 37th place, left Los Angeles Saturday night for a two week's rest-vacation in Santa Barbara. She will be the houseguest of her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Workcuff.

Birthday Party Honors Mrs. Grace Richie

An elaborate birthday party was given in honor of Mrs. Grace Richie by Mrs. G. E. Roscoe at 1657 E. 22nd street on Mar. 30.

The affair, a surprise to Mrs. Richie, was attended by 20 guests.

Recipient of many gifts, Mrs. Richie expressed her appreciation and her guests wished her many happy returns of the day.

The Ernest Weavers hastily pen their pals, here, that NY may be okay in July but it's definitely wintry, just now. Brr! Robins in Central Park are wearing topcoats . . . Advance word has it that a horde of eager Easterners are marking time 'til they get off the train, here, for the summer. Half of 'em, no doubt, will ask, first, for the streets where oranges roll off the trees . . . let's walk to the beach . . . where's Gable . . . when is the next quake —and so far into the night . . .

'Til they do . . . Happy huntin'!

ASHFORD RAMBLES AGAIN

Bonjour, mes amis! Qu' est ce-que le bonne mot pour aujourd'hi? Le bonne mot sur l'avenue Central est— AVEZ-VOUS D'ARGENT! In other words, have you any cash?

Avenue drug stores, by the way, reported a heavy sale of Mum, Deo, Odorno, etc., during last week's hot spell, which also brought about a mad scramble for jars of "Kit-Out" hair grease.

USC CLUB SCORES

To the further astonishment of local critics of S. C., that institution's Negro club had quite a mellow meeting last week at Helen Thomas' mansion, the feature being the presence of the USC STUDENT BODY PRESIDENT, Charles Johnson and his company.

As a result of their solid backing of Johnson in the recent S.B. elections, the group, led by clever and astute Cato Robinson (another Kappa), has been promised support in future projects. The move is hailed by former "campus strategists" as truly significant.

HAMPTON "BREAKS UP" LACC ASSEMBLY

A program of jam and jive, featured by the guest appearance of the one and only Lionel Hampton, had the ancient L. A. City College Auditorium in an uproar last Thursday . . . wild rounds of applause greeted the numbers of the Bilbrew Twins, George Brown's ork and vocalists, Janice Quon and John Collier. However, it remained for "Popsie" Hampton, "sitting in" with the King Cole Trio, Nat Cole, Wesley Prince and Oscar Moore, to break up the show . . . His "jamming the vibres" on Flying Home and Moonglow; piano solo and drumming had the campus agog for the rest of the day . . . As Master of Ceremonies, Eddie Lynn gave a masterful delineation of Uncle Tom . . it was the majority of opinion that the polished nite club setting of the show was no place for one to set up a "Cabin."

PHRATERES TEA

If you're in the market for something out of the ordinary, this coming Sunday, we recommend the Alpha Phrateres Oriental Tea at the Sojourner Truth Home, where lovely beauties, headed by beauteous Edith Bruce will pour tea and effervesce the usual amount of charm necessary to enlarge one's eyes to the size of billiard balls.

GREAT LOVER'S INC.

Jimmie Quon had his cut ⅛ of an inch too short and fiancee Luvenia Twynee almost threatened to call of their impending marriage for a moment . . . methinks he could shave it off and it wouldn't make any difference . . . "Heavy-lover-from-way-back," John Wynne has entered the U. S. District Attorney's office; needless to say, the ceremony with swell Georgetta Thomas as the other half is well on its way.

Mild-mannered and unassuming Mathew Jones will carry the Pasadena beautician Patsy Jones aisleward sometime next month . . . "Dapper Dan" Ferniel, handsome, debonair post office employee, with one of the best wardrobes in town; free, brown-skin and 21—sic 'em girls.

SPEND WEEK-END IN EL CENTRO

Roland "Cool Pappa" Bell and Manila Smith rounded up a caravan composed of Cora Beth Tucker, Lucille Smith, Dr. A. L. Leonard, Ed Burch and former Whittier College spring flash. Randolph Carter, and proceeded to El Centro for a stay with Danetta Smith, sister of Manila, who is attempting to erase the cloud of ignorance from a portion of the populace via the city school system . . . Balls and a jaunt to Mexicali by the males was the gist of conversation upon return home.

AKA RECITAL HIT

A packed house witnessed the AKA sorority's recital last Sunday afternoon at the Beaux Arts aud . . . Program surprisingly good . . . Highlight was the excerpts from "Elizabeth and Essex" by Mrs. Marjorie Bright McPherson, dramatics teacher at Lafayette Jr. High . . . Under the surprise column were the vocale by Vi Aldridge . . . Quite an ovation also given Helen Dundee for marvelous piano solos and her "swing and sway" entrance and exit. . . . Credit schoolmarm Myrtle Comfort Robinson for the success, as she whipped it into shape.

SPORTS WOOF

Tom Bradley ambled a 48.6 quarter at Stanford . . Tale of the week answer the question of why Bill Lacefield's cognomen wasn't in the summary of the Stanford-Bruin meet last Sat . . . He got the train time mixed and arrived at the station 2 hours late . . . in the same meet, Hal Sinclair turned in a 21.6 furlong after losing the 100 to the almighty Jeffrey in 9.6 . . . last Friday nite prominent in Compton's upset of L. A. City College was "Joe "Woof" Hawkins who took an unexpected first in the high sticks in 15.4 . . . L. A.'s Sam Lankford turned in a consistent performance of 10 flat and 21.9 for the dashes.

Reggie Williams, better known as "Yogi." and as president of the Chapman College sepia clique, is also an athlete of no mean ability . . . Copped a first in the quarter up at Taft last Friday p. m.: ran 51.5 after getting out of a box on the backstretch . . . Geo. Weinberg hit 49.3 at the Coliseum last Sat. against S. C.

Golden West Bridge Ass'n Notes

BY ELLIS L. VEIL

The Paramount Bridge club of San Diego came and conquered the mighty Golden West. Their task was made easy when we loaned them such good players as J. D. Dunn, Gene Robinson, Curtis G. Holmes and Clyde Maddox. We regret that all of their members were not present to enjoy the wonderful day planned for them by the Activities Committee of the GWBA. The perfect meal, planned and prepared by Mrs. Louise Roan, assisted by Mmes. Holmes, Marshall and Veil, would have done credit to the most highly trained culinary artist. We are grateful to all these ladies, but particularly to Mrs. Roan for the use of her home, and many other favors. The San Diego team was composed of Wooden and Holloman, Robinson and Dunn, Holmes, Maddox and Shelton, Johnson and White. While Dr. Wallace and A. C. Morgan, John Crane and Mmes. B. Reeves, W. Sloan, C. Manual, Louis, Field, L. Roan, E. Gordan, represented the GWBA. After 25 boards were played, the Paramount club had a plus of 4100 points.

Prize winners of the Contract Bridge club's first charity tournament were Mmes. Agnes Beal and Mae Denton, first prize; Mr. and Mrs. John Hilbourne, second prize; Mrs. Willie Mae Beatty and Joe Henry, third prize. Winners in the Auction section were Mr. McDowell, first prize, Mr. Tibbs, second.

The big news of the bridge world is the elimination of the favored "four aces" from the Vanderbilt Cup Bridge tournament in the second qualifying round. These players have won their tournament, oldest of its kind in contract bridge, four times. They are Oswald Jacoby, Howard Schenken, Sam Fry, Jr., and Theodore A. Lightner.

Cosmopolitan Social Club

The annual sermon of the Cosmopolitan Social club was held at the Pilgrim Baptist church, Sunday, April 14. Sermon by the pastor, Rev. B. W. Wade. He used as a text, "Good Citizenship." Our hearts burned as he talked with us. An unusual program was rendered preceding the sermon. We were glad to have with us Rev. F. L. Taylor and wife, who spoke some very encouraging remarks.

The club wishes to thank Rev. Wade for the burning message that he brought. W. M. Moore is president, Mrs. Cora Rector, secretary; O. R. Scott, reporter.

Beauticians and Barbers to Be Entertained

Honoring the Barbers and Beauticians of Los Angeles, an all-night ball, floor show, and Spring hair style parade will be given by the Texans' club Saturday, April 27.

Cash prizes will be awarded for various competitions. To the beautician creating the best hair do will go $10.00 as first prize. Runnner-ups will win $5.00 and $2.50, second and third prize.

A prize of $10.00 is offered the beautician selling the highest number of tickets over 30 and the same amount will go to the beauty shop, club or party with the best decorated table. There will be 30 tables in the contest.

The first floor show is slated for 12:30 a. m.; the hair style parade at two a. m.; the second floor show at three a. m., and the jam session from four to five a. m. Advance tickets are 4 cents and are on sale at beauty and florist shops.

Mu-So-Lit Club

The Mu-So-Lit lub met at the residence of Mrs. Gladys Allen, 2621 Stanford avenue. It was a business meeting and it was decided that the play, "Pioneer Negro Women and Negro Club Women of Today," would be presented on June 6. Watch papers for the place. Our charming hostess served a very delicious repast.

Happiness, Charity and Sewing Club

The Happiness, Charity and Sewing club met at the home of the president, Mrs. Alma Randall, 1028 E. 28th street. A beautiful luncheon carried out the club colors of pink and blue was served at 1:30 p. m. Guest of the club was Mrs. Josie Ladd.

The Social Whirl...

by Lillian Johnson

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Saunders of Baltimore, Md., announced the engagement of their daughter, Althea Fenella, to Prof. Howard Cornish, at a birthday dinner given Sunday, April 7.

Prof. Cornish is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Washington Winfield Cornish of Salisbury, Maryland.

Miss Saunders is the grand-daughter of Arthur L. Macbeth, a former Baltimore resident, now living in Los Angeles, and the niece of Hugh E. Macbeth of Los Angeles. She is a teacher in the Baltimore public schools.

Prof. Cornish is head of the mathematics department of Morgan College, Baltimore.

Those present at the dinner were Misses Catherine Crenshaw, Juliet Burns, Audrey Minor, Grace Woolridge, Mildred Williams, Marguerite A. Saunders, Irene C. Saunders, Mrs. Lois MacBeth Carr and Howard Cornish.

The Satellites Social and Charity club met at the home of Mrs. Elinor Aldans of 9629 Antelope. Election of officers was held and results were: Ruth Pierce, president; Donna Adams, secretary; Gladys Milan, assistant secretary; Myrtle May, reporter and club historian, and Elizabeth Williams, sergeant-at-arms.

The Gay Modernettes were guests of their president, Laurine Gosey, last Tuesday evening. The newest addition to the club, Miss Helen Blodgett, was highly entertained by Arthur Atlas Peters, conductor of the Phillips Temple CME church's Gospel choir.

To avoid the Los Angeles heat, Mr. and Mrs. William Nickerson, John Marshall Robinson and fiancee, Miss Katherine Wilson, motored to Manhattan Beach over the weekend.

The Independent Boys' Home, located on E. 50th street, was the setting Sunday afternoon for a chic fashion review, sponsored by the Eastside Mothers' Home in their drive for memberships. Under the capable direction of Miss Gwendolyn Valentine, the fashion show was one of the highlights of the season. Floral decorations were pale pink roses and ferns. The table was laid with a white lace table cloth and the centerpiece was of pink roses. Receptionists were members of the Classic Literary Social club, who donated their services to make this affair a huge success. Tea was poured by Mrs. Hattie Baldwin and Mrs. Swan.

Models included the Delsworth children and mother: Mrs. Francis Driver, Miss Lois Wade, Elizabeth Thomas, Miss Evelyn Carroll, Mrs. Ann Watson, Mrs. Wooley, Mrs. Nelson, Mrs. Pauline Cook, Lena Torrence, Teresa Lindsay, Mrs. Margaret Good, Helen Atkins, Jardis Foster, Mrs. Doris McDaniels, Mrs. Sarah Wallace, Mrs. Sammie Moore, Mrs. Edna Goins, Arnita Thompson, Charletta and Jataun Valentine, Mrs. Hortense Leverette, Denice Wesson and others.

The program presented by Gilbert Lindsay and Teresa Hayes and included the Delsworth children, who sang a trio; Jardis Foster, who gave a reading; Ronald Smyer, pianist of the evening. Remarks were given by Mrs. Hattie Baldwin and Mrs. Betty Johnson, who is the chairman of the membership drive.

Kappa Alpha Psi climaxed Guide Right program at the Independent Church Sunday morning. Main speaker was Attorney Willis O. Tyler. Brief meditation was given by John Merrill. Chairman of the program was William Sharp, master of ceremonies was John Brewer

Marital vows will soon be taken by Lorena Reed and Mart Spears; Jessie Armstrong and Willie Moore. Watch this column for further details.

The California Race Relations Society will hold an "All Nations' Spring Tea" at the home of Countess de Zaruba, 3115 W. Adams, Sunday. This promises to be one of the most unique, colorful and enjoyable affairs of its kind ever held.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hill honored the Nicholas Joiners with a dinner and cocktail party at the Club Memo Sunday evening.

Mrs. Gwendolyn Gordon entertained the 1233 Club with a bridge luncheon at the home of her mother on S. Kingsley Drive Saturday afternoon. Out-of-town guest was Mrs. Theresa Black. Other guests included Mesdames Ellen Garrott, Mary Henderson, Marian McCard, Portia Griffith and Della McDonald.

Mrs. Mary McAfee and Mrs. White honored Mrs. Sarah Wright-West of Pasadena with a bridal shower Sunday afternoon at 1044 Sunset avenue. At the shower Mrs. West's marriage to Joe West of Pasadena and Seattle, Washington, was revealed.

A STYLISH STOUT

Unusually shaped object being shown by pretty Patsy Sheldon is expected soon to replace the estimated 500,000,000 old type milk bottles now used in the U. S. The bottle, according to glass engineers, is constructed of a particularly tough glass, weighs 17 ounces as compared with the 22 ounces of the present 1-quart glass container. Designed to effect greater saving to the housewife, it will soon be introduced in the Western States.

600 Hear Alpha Kappa Alpha Artists

Alpha Gamma Omega chapter of Alpha Kappa Alpha sorority presented 7 artists to 600 guests who gathered at the Beaux Arts theatre last Sunday afternoon in one of the most smoothly executed artist recitals on record.

Mrs. Carol Gilmore Jihnson, wearing a pale pink gown, opened the program with three piano numbers, keenly and forcefully done, and most favorably received.

"Queen Bess" lived again in Mrs. Marjorie Bright McPherson's dramatic presentation of excerpts from Maxwell Anderson's "Elizabeth the Queen," and in turn each listener lived the farewell of Elizabeth and Essex, as Mrs. McPherson recreated it. She wore white slipper satin with a coronet of gardenias.

OPERATIC AIRS

Mrs. Cora Morrow, accompanied by her daughter, Jeanne Morrow, sang two numbers, one a selected aria from the opera "Carmen," and "What's in the Air Today?" She wore black chiffon gown with a white lame bolero.

Two selected piano numbers were rendered by Mrs. Naida McCullough Banks in diaphanian blue chiffon. Her fluid technique was particularly impressive.

Dett's "Juba Dance," as interpreted by Mrs. Cerissa Starr McGruder in African costume was exquisitely unique. She also presented a lovely ballet dance which portrayed all the etheral beauty of graceful body.

With poise and warm humaness, Miss Violet Aldridge sang the sprightly "Maids of Cadiz," and a love song. Miss Aldridge wore a stunning diagonal stripped gown of red and white. She was accompanied by Miss Juanita Terry.

The concluding numbers, typical in variety and interest, were beautifully done with grace and deftness by Miss Helen Dundee. Miss Dundee's petitness was enhanced by a blue satin gown.

DAHLIA GIRLS GIVE SPRING FORMAL TONIGHT AT ELKS

The Dahlia Girls presented their Spring Formal the evening of April 6 at the Elks Hall. The stage setting was a background of sky blue. Spring was emphasized in the romantic atmosphere.

As the curtain was drawn, the girls were standing on the stairs, dressed in pastel shade gowns carrying bouquets of Spring flowers.

Mrs. Olivia Joiner wore orchid chiffon; Mrs. Marie Hopson, cerise taffeta with silver accessories; Mrs. Mary Bryant, dusty blue net; Mrs. Clara Graham Stokes, white organdy with gold accessories; Mrs. May Denton, pale pink celanese; Mrs. Estola Holland, white taffeta; Mrs. Mildred Cartwright, peach chiffon in 3 shades; Mrs. Thelma Coleman, light and dark dusty rose chiffon.

The president, Mrs. Isabelle Fairchild, wore yellow marquisette with accessories. The club entertained 100 guests at breakfast in the Elks' Cocktail Lounge after the dance.

Mrs. Wyndon Is Honored With Stork Shower

Miss Louise Lancaster and Mrs. James Minto entertained last Sunday, April 14, honoring Mrs. Joseph W. Wyndon with a stork shower. The lovely affair was held at the home of Mrs. Minto, 834 E. 32nd street, with a bevy of feminine beauty in attendance.

The expected Wyndon heir is already assured of the latest infant attire, being presented a huge array of lovely gifts by the following: Mrs. Laura Alexander, Miss Ella Hardie (aunt of Mrs. Wyndon), Mrs. Willa Hudgins (popular school teacher), Mrs. Clara Webb,, Miss Lavonia Scott, Mrs. Robert Wilson, Miss Lorraine Young, Mrs. Max Porter, Mrs. Josie Dixon and daughter, Nellie, Mrs. Curtis Holmes, Mrs. Thurman Gosey, Mrs. Dewey Davidson, Mrs. Charles Brown, Mrs. O. A. Simpson, Miss Virgie M. White, Mrs. C. J. Martinez, Mrs. Catherine Mitchems, Mrs. C. J. Breedlove, Mrs. M. Tucker, Mrs. Ella Traylor, Mrs. Estella Porter, Mrs. Arthur Durham, Miss Florence R. White, Mrs. LeRoy Wagner, Mrs. Jessie Strider, Mrs. Joe Hill, Mrs. Cora Cruickshank, Mrs. S. S. Davis, Mrs. Bettie Bayless, Miss Blanche Brooks, and Mrs. L. A. Ross.

Miss Lancaster and Mrs. Minto, sister and sister-in-law respectively of the lovely, expectant young mother, were ideal hostesses. Delicious refreshments were served, and everyone present had a "very good time."

Nine Stars

The Nine Stars held their regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Lorena Wilson.

When all the necessary had been transacted, the meeting was turned over to the hostess and the Stars helped Mrs. Wilson enjoy her birthday.

Mrs. Wilson was presented with a lovely gift from the club and received many gifts from friends.

Among those present Mr. and Mrs. Wells, Mrs. Mickens, Mrs. Scott, iMss Leona Cooper and Mr. Frank Holloway, Mr. George Wilson and the club members.

The evening was enjoyed playing cards.

Prizes won by Henrietta Miles, Mary Smith, and Alma Ward.

Guest prize won by Mr. Wells.

Mrs. Elsadia Jones Entertains at Dinner

Mrs. Elsadia Jones entertained at dinner Sunday at her home, 3517 S. Central avenue, for her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Woods, on their 48th anniversary.

Among the many who came to wish the couple many more happy anniversaries, were: Mmes. Minefee, Gussie Willis, Pearl Dover, Mary Walker, Thelma Avery, Grace Foman; Messrs. William Cultane, Randolph Harris, Edward Wallace and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Holland.

Santa Monican Is Stork Shower Hostess

Honoring Mrs. Albert E. Chism, Jr., Mrs. Odie Spears of Santa Monica entertained Thursday at a stork dinner. Quiz games were played with prizes won by Mrs. Sanders, Miss Helen Brantley, Mrs. Lee, in the order named.

Four o'clock tea was served. Centerpiece of the lace table cloth was a bouquet of roses, from the petals of which were hung tiny diaper-clad babies. At five o'clock, a large basket with pink satin ribbon streamers containing gifts, was placed before the honoree.

Among the gifts received was a beautiful hand-made coverlet, presented to Albert E. Chism, Jr., 24 years ago at his baptism. Present were:

Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Chism have moved to their new home at 3776 S. Grammercy place.

Zeta Pledge Club

The Archonians, Zeta Phi Beta Pledge club, met Sunday, April 7, at the home of President Clara Fentress. The new pledges, Aline Glenn, Doris Howard, Ernestine Gilbert and Ethel Boykin, were given pledge pins by Miss Helen Chappell, president of the sorority.

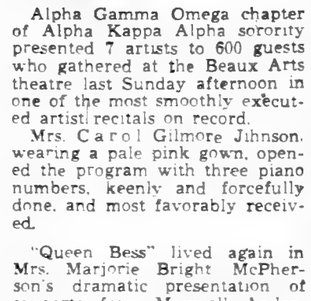
Reveal Betrothal of Esther Turner to Curtis Watts

Last Saturday afternoon at approximately four o'clock, 14 little blue birds came in Mrs. Russell Johnson's dining room, announcing to the assembled guests the coming wedding of Mrs. Johnson's grand-daughter, Miss Esther Louise Turner, to Curtis Watts, son of Mrs. George Watts.

The delightful luncheon, honoring Miss Turner, was attended by the Misses Helen Bayliff, Marjorie Bayliff, Pauline Boutee, Edith Bruce, Kathryn Collins, Iotha Johnson, Gladys Ann Moore, Marguerite Palmer, Alma Peake, Annella Rice, Geraldine Stewart, Rosie Mae Sweeney, Georgetta Thomas, Blanch Geneva Wiley and Bessie Mae Williams.

The wedding will take place in July. Miss Turner will be attended by the Misses Helen Bayliff, Lillian Toppins and Bessie Mae Williams.



Laura Bowman, Pauline Wilkerson and Earnest Whitman, are the artists appearing May 1, at 8:30 p. m. at the Birch Street Christian church auditorium. Mary Louise Moore and Francis Johnson at the piano. Margo Payne, Frances Driver, Mary Pritchee, Violet Aldridge, Maudie Wekon, Helen Dundee, Arline Hall, Ruth Kirkpatrick, Eliza Lee and Ruth Givins are a few of the models. Also, Gladys Peoples will show her latest turban creation.

The stage will be decorated by Bill Lawrie. More interesting facts will be in next week's EAGLE. All material for programs must be in by April 21.

Miss Chappell spoke to the girls on style, telling them what they should wear according to their silhouette. She also outlined their faces, and gave suggestions as to the type of hat each girl should wear. The girls are planning a Tea for their mothers', to be held Mothers' Day.

Bishop Phillips Preaches at Phillips Temple Sunday

Bishop C. H. Phillips, presiding Bishop of the California Conference of Colored Methodism and Senior Bishop of the CME connection will preach the morning sermon of the District Conference Sunday at Phillips Temple CME church, E. 43rd street and Wadsworth. Bishop Phillips is nationally known as one of the outstanding churchmen in America, being a member of the Federal Council of Churches in America. During the recent Lenten period, he preached in his home city one of the sermons by invitation of the white and colored ministers of Cleveland, Ohio. For 32 years, the distinguished prelate has yearly visited this city on church business, supervising the work of colored Methodism, thus inspiring the people who come to this portion of the country. His friends are legion and his services in constant demand.

Dr. G. L. Hays, the new Presiding Elder of the Los Angeles District, will close the District Conference Sunday night with the Rev. W. M. Buck, new pastor at Santa Monica, preaching at night.

Monday night the pastor, officers and members of Phillips Temple CME church are having a reception for the Bishop and his wife. All the ministers and delegates of the District will meet at the Wesley Communiy Center, Tuesday evening, Bishop and Mrs. Phillips will leave the city for Cleveland, Ohio, where they will rest until the General Board of the Connection meets in Jackson, Tenn. May 1, 1940. Until his departure for the East, Bishop Phillips and his wife will be the houseguests of Rev. and Mrs. Lane C. Cleaves at the parsonage of the church, 912 E. 43rd street.

DR. L. K. WILLIAMS, president of the National Baptsit convention Inc., who will arrive in the city this week to conduct a Baptist convocation, as a part of the Goodwill Tours of the Convention, and as guests of the Western Baptist State convention.

A mass meeting at which the eminent divine will speak, has been arranged for Sunday afternoon at 2:30 p. m. at Mt. Zion Baptist church, 50th and Hooper avenue. The convocation will last from Apr. 20-22.

A musical tour of Czechoslovakia will be taken by the Carnation Contented crew, under Josef A. Pasternack, Monday, April 22, from 7:00 to 7:30 p. m., over KFI.

The orchestra will play the Dance of the Comedians, from Smetana's "The Bartered Bride," and Dvorak's "Slavonic Dance." Fibich's "Poem" will be presented by voices and strings.

The Continentals Quartet, Lullaby Lady Opal Craven, and chorus will offer other native numbers.

Governor Herbert H. Lehman, participating in a half-hour broadcast commemorating the 285th annual Jewish Passover in America, will be heard Wednesday, April 23, between 7:00 and 7:30 p. m., over KECA.

"Lilliom," by Ferenc Molnar, leading Hungarian playwright, now having one of its many successful Broadway revivals, will be the Great Play presented over KECA, Sunday, April 21, 11:00 a. m., under the direction of Joseph S. Bell.

Lukens' Pottery on Display at Avalon Tonight

Exhibition of pieces of pottery made especially for display at the New York World's Fair by Glen Lukens, internationally famed authority on ceramics will be a feature of the Avalon Community center's "Studio Evening" tonight (Thursday) at 8 p. m., at Avalon Christian church, E. 43rd and Avalon blvd.

Lukens will lecture on "Art Forms in Clay," and demonstrate how pottery is made, by making a complete piece during the course of his lecture.

Furnishing a background of music, Paullyn Garner, concert pianist; the Singing Strings, a violin choir trained by Victoria Rice, well known violinist, and Jane Loupe, talented young pianist, will play selections from the works of Bach.

The program is open to the public without charge.

Service for Aged at Independent Next Sunday

The Third Annual Service for the Aged, will be the feature of the regular Sunday evening service at People's Independent Church of Christ, 18th and Paloma, next Sunday. Special music, led by the N. P. Griggs Gospel Choir, directed by William Gillespie, and the singing of favorite old hymns, will be one of the attractions of the program.

The general public is invited to bring their aged parents, relatives, and friends to enjoy this service. Special honors will be bestowed upon the oldest person present and the oldest married couple. Rev. Clayton D. Russell, minister will deliver an inspiring message suitable to the occasion.

Reports on Youth Legislature to Be Made at Church

As a public gesture of encouragement to the young people of the church who are interested in constructive programs, Rev. Clayton D. Russell announced this week that a portion of the morning service next Sunday will be given over to brief reports from delegates to the California Youth Legislature, which closed a three-day session at Los Angeles City College last Sunday afternoon.

Delegates from People's Independent Church of Christ to the youth conference were: Wendell Franklin, Richard Harvey, James Reese, Gwendolyn Valentine, Vivian Wright, Edgar Miller, Joseph Fortier. Franklin and Harvey were elected to the State Council of the organization.

Rev. Russell was a speaker on one of the 12 panels held last Saturday afternoon, the theme of which was "Applying Religion's Ideal in the World Today." Some of Los Angeles' most noted churchmen were included on this panel.

Boys', Girls' Days Postponed

Because of other scheduled services, including the annual Benjamin J. Bowie Post, American Legion Memorial service on the fourth Sunday in May, the announced dates for the annual celebration of Boys' and Girls' Day at People's Independent Church of Christ have been changed from the third and fourth Sundays in May to the second and third Sundays in June.

The boys, led by Celestus H. King, III, will have the second Sunday, and the girls, piloted by Lena Torrence, will follow the next Sunday.

Church Sponsors Evening of Play

Avalon Christian church will present an evening of healthful recreation and socializing next Wednesday, it was announced today. There will be fun for both youths and adults as facilities of the church recreation department will be turned over to public accomodation.

Games, such as ping-pong, badminton, checkers and volleyball will be played. Skating will be a popular form of relaxation.

The playtime will begin at 8:00 p. m.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

The subject of the Lesson-Sermon is "Doctrine of Atonement" on Sunday in all Churches of Christ Scientist. The Golden Text is from Matthew: "The Son of man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister and to give his life a ransom for many."

A Bible citation includes these verses from Psalms: "O Lord, open thou my lips; and my mouth shall shew forth thy praise. For thou desirest not sacrifice; else would I give it: thou delightest not in burnt offering." These verses about Jesus from Mark are also presented: "And there came a leper to him, beseeching him, and kneeling down to him and saying unto him, If thou wilt thou canst make me clean. And Jesus, moved with compassion, put forth his hand, and touched him and saith unto him, I will; be thou clean. And as soon as he had spoken, immediately the leprosy departed from him, and he was cleansed."

One of the selections from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, states: "Jesus taught the way of Life by demonstration, that we may understand how this divine Principle heals the sick, casts out error and triumphs over death. Jesus presented the ideal of God better than could any man whose origin was less spiritual. By his obedience to God, he demonstrated more spiritually than all others the Principle of being."

Browning to Sing at Grant Chapel

Ivan Harold Browning, internationally known tenor, before leaving for Oakland, where he will give one of his big concerts for the NAACP on April 23, will appear in recital at the popular and well known Grant Chapel AME church in Watts on Friday evening, April 19, sponsored by the well known Lafeiata Ladies club, Usher Board and Trustee Helpers.

Since his very successful Los Angeles Concert at the Independent Church of Christ in February, Mr. Browning has been compelled to turn down a number of offers for another engagement right in Los Angeles, but having been booked for quite sometime for his recital in Watts, he will have to rush North for a Sunday night engagement in Bakersfield before reaching Oakland Monday.

The ladies of the Lafeiata club state that the tickets are going very fast and it looks like Grant Chapel AME church in Watts of which the Rev. J. S. Wilson is pastor, will be filled to hear this popular American and European tenor and entertainer.

Mr. Browning will be assisted by Mrs. E. W. Willis, well known reader and Miss Melba Hannah is the pianist and accompanist.

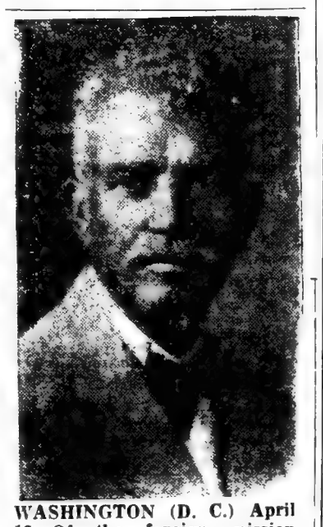
Baptist Ministers' Union Meets

The Baptist Ministers' Union met in regular session Tuesday at Second Baptist church. Devotions were conducted by Rev. J. A. Bell. Six members made excellent reports with 25 additions.

Announcement of the acceptance of Dr. A. W. T. Chism, formerly of Redlands, of a post at Omaha, was announced. The current news was read by Dr. W. H. M. Dickerson; the Sunday School Exposition by Dr. A. C. Capers.

Supervisor to Speak at Church

Gordon L. McDonough, Supervisor of the Second District, will be the speaker at the "Civic Hour" at the People's United Church of Christ, Wilmington, 105th street, Sunday at 5 p. m.



The program will consist of musical numbers by the senior choir, under the direction of Miss Freita Shaw. There will also be other musical talent, represented on the program.

Rev. T. F. Jones is pastor.

BISHOP L. W. KYLES, who will be honored April 22 by New York civic leaders at a reception in his honor, to be held at the Mother Zion AME church, pastored by Rev. B. C. Robeson, brother of famed figure, Paul Robeson.

A senior bishop of the AME Zion church and presiding bishop of the First Episcopal district, Bishop Kyles is closing his first quadrennium as presiding bishop of the New York conference.

WASHINGTON (D. C.) April 18—Of the foreign mission work of the AME Zion church, under the leadership of Dr. Hampton T. Medford for the past 12 years (above), delegates who will attend the forthcoming General Conference, will hear a most gratifying report. Dr. Medford has worked unceasingly to bring Zion to the forefront in foreign fields.

Popular Clubs at Zion Temple

This Sunday afternoon, April 21, at 3:30, the Jolly Workers club of Bishop Sara Butler's beautiful temple at 1315 E. Vernon avenue, will entertain the elite clubs of the city.

Mrs. Izetta Allen and Mrs. Geraldine Johnson, president and organizer respectively, will present the club, and selected quartettes in a classy musical. The visiting club having the best representation will be awarded an exquisite hand-painted statute of Christ, an exact replica of the beautiful benign figure which graces the outer portals of Zion Temple.

A cash prize will be awarded the most outstanding quartette. All bonafide clubs and quartettes are welcome to attend and participate. Phone RIchmond 4905, or CEntury 23436 for further information.

Youth Week to Be Held at Avalon

At Avalon Christian church Youth Week will be held from April 27 to May 5, offering opportunity to youth to give expressions and impressions of itself and problems.

Boys' Day will be held Sunday, April 28, and will be climaxed in the evening with an Essay contest and the making of awards. The public is invited to enjoy the program.

WASHINGTON, April 18—In order that the members of the AME Zion Church and delegates to the forthcoming General Conference, which will be held here, May 1-20, might have some knowledge of the work of the Home Mission department, DR. T. W. WALLACE (above), head of the Home Mission and Ministerial Brotherhood, announced this week that the department has enjoyed a very successful quadrennium. There has been a decided increase in the collection of funds. This has enabled the department to save quite a few churches for the connection that in all probability would have gone under the auctioneer's hammer.

Churches in Little Rock, Arkansas, Gainesville, Florida, and New Bedford, Mass., have been saved. Missions were established throughout the country, the most promising at Danville, Virginia. The department has gone to the rescue of churches at Yonkers, New York, Saybrook, Long Island, up and down the Pacific Coast, Texas, Oklahoma, Louisiana, Alabama, Georgia and Florida.

D. WARD NICHOLS BOOMED FOR BISHOP

NEW YORK, April 8. (ANP)—For the first time in the annals of the First Episcopal District, a candidate for the bishopric this week received unanimous endorsement from district representatives. The candidate, the Rev. D. Ward Nichols, pastor of Emanuel church here, is declared by church officials and laymen alike to be the most logical candidate for the position, and his popular appeal was supported by his unanimous endorsement.

Baptist Head to Address Youth

Dr. L. K. Williams, president of the National Baptist convention, Inc., will speak to Los Angeles youth at Pleasant Hill Baptist church, 261 N. Bonnie Brae street, at 8 p. m. Sunday; it was announced today by Dr. A. Wendell Ross, pastor of the church.

All youth organizations are invited to attend in a body or send representatives to the meeting. Seats will be reserved for them. Choirs of Progressive First AME and St. Paul will furnish the music.

Dr. E. W. D. Perry of Oklahoma City, will preach at the morning service of Pleasant Hill.

Gospel Prayer Band Services

We enjoyed wonderful services in the old fashioned prayer meeting this week. The manifestation of the power of God, in beautiful testimonies and demonstration of healing of afflicted bodies and souls, the spiritual inspiration of the reality of walking in the light and living in the spirit, has caused joy in trials and peace that passeth all understanding, that peace that Christ giveth.

Lessons for the week were taken from Acts 2: 1-18; Eph. 6: 10-24; 1 Cor. 13; Psalms 1:6; Psalms 37:1; John 5; St. Luke 12. Offering for the sick, $2.10; meeting held in two shut-in homes. Total attendance, 98, one candidate for baptism.

Rev. J. W. Beard, Evangelist, 1151 E. 41st street, phone AD-7421; J. M. Rhone, reporter.

(Adv.)

Response to Elder Walter Bryant's sermon Sunday morning at Birch Street Christian church, was appreciative. The choir sang by request, Joseph Crawford's "Amen." This coming Sunday morning, Mr. Johnson, soloist, will sing "Holy City" by request. Services begin promptly at 11 a. m. and are closed at 12:50. Elder C. B. Torrance will preach.

Sunday will mark the re-establishment of the old Azusa Mission at the Azusa Temple, 27th and Paloma streets. Services will be held at 11 a. m., 2:30 and 7:30 p. m. During the week days, services will be held at 10 a. m., 2:30 and 7:30 p. m. Rev. P. Mosner Cotton is the pastor.

Another stirring picture sermon is announced for Sunday night service at the Adventist Church, 40th place and Wadsworth avenue, when the pastor, Elder P. G. Rogers, presents the topic "The Strange Act of God." A full choir will render the music and a great service is promised. Sabbath (Saturday) the pastor speaks at the 11 a. m. service and will take for his subject, "The Mind of Christ in Man." Sabbath school at 9:25 a. m. and the Young People's service at 3:30 p. m.

At Lincoln Memorial Congregational church, Vernon and Hooper avenues, the pastor, Rev. E. E. Lightner will preach at the 11 A. M. services Sunday from the theme "Our Meat." The choir, directed by Mrs. C. D. Frederick, will sing. In the evening, at 7:30 p. m., a program of music will be presented.

Rev. Waimbas D Condola, native of Africa, was the speaker at the evening service last Sunday night.

At Parks Memorial church, 1021 E. 41st place, the pastor, Rev. Jno. B. Isaacs, will speak Sunday morning on the subject, "Christ in a Despairing World." Soloist will be Mrs. Viola Ross. In the evening, Mrs. Isaacs will conduct a Bible quiz, following a spirited Gospel Song service. "Broken Homes and How to Mend Them" will be discussed Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock, in connection with the class in Family Problems.

Rev. A. W. T. Chism who left the city this week for Omaha, Neb., started the Spring Rally at Faithful Central Baptist church, 40th place and Paloma street, last Sunday before his departure. Both services were conducted by Rev. Chism. The evening service was followed by a reception for the Chisms. Rev. A. C. Capers is pastor of Faithful Central.

Morning worship at Wesley Methodist church last Sunday, was a service of inspiration. The pastor, Rev. E. W. Rakestraw, uplifted a large audience with a message from the subject "A Universal Invitation." The afternoon service was the Fifth Annual Celebration of the Usher Board. The Ushers' Union of Southern California were the special guests. Evening service was a union service with First AME church. Dr. H. Mansfield Collins was the speaker and the choir of First AME furnished the music.

Sunday morning, Dr. Rakestraw will speak from the subject, "Friends of God." Evening worship will again be a union service with the First AME church, at First AME, and will be conducted by Wesley Church. Dr. Rakestraw will be the speaker and the choir of Wesley will sing.

FORMER CALIFORNIA PASTOR, WIFE SPLIT

CHICAGO, April 18—Rev. L. [illegible], formerly an AME [illegible] from the [illegible] "Meat." The choir, directed by Mrs. C. D. Frederick, will sing. In the evening, at 7:30 p. m., a program of music will be presented.

Rev. Crouch to Return to City Late This Month

Rev. S. M. Crouch, pastor of the Church of God in Christ, 33rd St. and Compton avenue, will return to the city the last week in this month following an extended trip through the South on usines sfor the church. He will come directly from Birmingham, Alabama where he begins a ten day series of evangelistic meetings th last of this week.

With the return of Rev. Crouch, the regular Saturday evening broadcasts of the service of the church, sponsored by People's Funeral Home, will be resumed the first week in May. The program comes over KGER, and the exact time will be announced later.

The hundreds of listeners who have called both the church and the People's Funeral Home will welcome the return to the air of the popular pastor with his inspiring service.

REV. F. L. TAYLOR

German Student Refuses to Join Society Because of Bias

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Apr. 18. (ANP)—Because of racial restrictions which bar Negroes from membership, Alpha Zeta, national honorary fraternity, lost a potentionally outstanding member when Martin L. Cohnstaedt, German refugee student in the College of agriculture at Rutgers and son of the late Dr. Wilhelm Cohnstaedt, one of the editors of the Frankfurter Zeitung before Nazi rule in Germany, refused an invitation to affiliate under those conditions.

Cohnstaedt's stand, which was asserted in a letter of declination to Cook chapter on the campus here, was taken last fall, according to reports but was not generally known until this week. The letter read in part:

"In view of the discrimination of Alpha Zeta against our colored fellow-countrymen, I, after many days of deep searching and most careful examination, feel unable to accept membership."

Alpha Zeta has 43 chapter in American universities, and the national constitution restricts membership to white students, according to Dr. Willard Thompson, chairman of the faculty advisory committee of Cook chapter here.

LINCOLN U. LAW SCHOOL APPROVED

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., April 18.—The Missouri State Board of Law Examiners has approved the Lincoln University School of Law. 'Green Hornet' Gets Sentence

Arthur Simms, who used the pseoudonymn, the 'Green Hornet', in his dealings with the lottery racket, was sentenced to San Quentin prison last week for from one to 10 years. Superior Judge Charles W. Fricke pronounced sentence upon him. He also denied Simms probation on three felony charges of extortion and attempted extortion.

Simms admitted his attempts to shakedown lottery operators in the Central avenue district. His petty racketeering dated back to the 1937 grand jury when he accused one of its members of improper activity.

Birmingham Library Won't Place 'Native Son' on Shelves

BIRMINGHAM, April. 18. (ANP)—Letters of all descriptions are flowing into the Birmingham Post and the Birmingham Age-Herald offices, white dailies, regarding the situation prevalent in the Birmingham public libraries in respect to Richard Wright's novel "Native Son."

The letters, addressed to the editors tell their own story.

One, from Miss Clara Hall, states: "When I asked for the book I was informed by the librarian in the fiction room that it contained questionable material. As proof she showed me a folder issued by a Massachusetts publishing house which said that "Native Son" was unsuitable for conservative libraries."

"The library board has not yet banned 'Native Son'. As the situation stands, now, the librarian in charge of fiction has decided not to recommend the book to the board. If enough people take a stand on this question, we may save our library from an unintelligent, unthinking action. We can do that, or reconcile ourselves to having the best book of the year banned regularly."

From a letter signed "Eddie Burke" and appearing in the Birmingham Post, issue of April 2, comes the following excerpts: "Since I had seen on statement of the library's policy on this matter, I visited Miss Chapman, the head librarian. This is the information she gave me:

"Native Son" has not been banned, but owing to lack of funds, only 12 novels can be purchased by the library each month. A library committee chooses the novels to be bought on the basis of popularity, and "Native Son" was not chosen. She further stated that she would accept donations of "Native Son." Miss Chapman added that "Grapes of Wrath" also was not banned, but to this date the library has not purchased a single copy. The only copies of this best seller on the shelves are donations from private individuals.

"If the 12 books of the month are chosen on the basis of popularity, then 'Native Son', the current best seller, should be on the top of the list. Not only has this Book of the Month club selecion been acclaimed in the leading newspapers and periodicals of the country and already passed thru several editions, but it is in constant demand in all the commercial lending libraries of Birmingham. What is the peculiar touchstone of popularity which our library committee uses?"

BARTHE, FRAZIER GUGGENHEIM VICTORS

NEW YORK, April 18—Two Negroes, Richmond Barthe and E. Franklin Frazier were among the 73 Guggenheim winners, who will receive fellowships for research and creative work. Barthe, 39-year old sculptor, will execute a memorial to James Weldon Johnson. Frazier, Howard university professor, will make a comparative study of the Negro family in the West Indies and Brazil.

Gold Store on Washington Stirs Curiosity

There is considerable speculation among residents of the community, as to the purpose of the streamlined building which is nearing completion on Washington boulevard, near Central avenue, adjoining the big Gold Furniture Company store. And so as to clear up the "mystery of Washington boulevard", Morris Gold, for whom the new building is being constructed, has issued the following explanation:

"Although our furniture business has enjoyed constant growth, due to the confidence and patronage of folk who live in this community, the new addition, adjoining our Washington Boulevard building, will not be devoted to home furnishings, but rather to a complete showing of the smartest clothing and accessories for men, women and children. It is our answer to the hundreds of requests by customers who enjoy trading with us in the selection of things to add beauty and comfort to their homes.

"We ewill institute a novel policy with the opening of the new Clothing building. Only the best known nationally advertised brands will e featured and offered at the lowest prices t obe found anywhere in America on three purchasing plans. Customers may pay cash for their purchases, or they maay use the modern new 90-day Budget plan recently adoptedd by our leading department stores and specialty shoups, or they may use our new Long-term charge account plan. However, no matter which plan is used the same low cash prices will prevail. . . . there will be No extra charge for the convenience f deferred payments. ience of deferred payments."

Springtide of Spiritual Joy

IN AN exquisite passage in the Song of Solomon, the "beloved" sings (2:10-12): "Rise up, my love, my fair one, and come away. For, lo, the winter is past, the rain is over and gone; the flowers appear on the earth; the time of the singing of birds is come." However variously this passage may have been interpreted, we may perhaps be permitted to see in it, for us, a hint of the call of divine Love to love in the human heart to awake from the dream of life in matter, to see the ever-appearing freshness and beauty of true being. Among the seasons, each of them bringing its wealth of beauty and variety, spring is thought of by many, especially by those who are acquainted with the rigors of winter, as the season eloquently illustrative of the awakening of new hopes, aspiration, courage, and inspiration.

Mary Baker Eddy, who was a lover of nature in its various forms, in a beautiful article, "Voices of Spring," in "Miscellaneous Writings" has written (p. 329), "Spring is my sweetheart," using a metaphor which points to the ever-awakening of love, of gentleness, tenderness, sympathy; and she adds that its "voices are sad or glad, even as the heart may be: restoring in memory the sweet rhythm of unforgotten harmonies, or touching tenderly its tearful tones." Thus does love mingle with love in all the sympathetic interests of the human experience. How the ever-recurring expression of love, in families and among friends, sweetens human lives, brightening the heart's harmonious meditations! Are they not easily likened to the return of springtime, after the long chill of winter? And even in those climes where summer abides through most of the year, the loveliness of the verdure only more continuously reminds one that "flowers appear on the earth; and the time of the singing of birds is come."

So, in our daily experiences, even though at times there may seem to be the chilling clouds of depression, the voice of Love is ever calling to spiritual sense, "Rise up, my love, my fair one, and come away;" and in obeying the call we shall "come away" from the dream of life and intelligence in matter, away from the beliefs of mortal discords, and see, through enlightened spiritual vision that "flowers appear on the earth," that in every experience we may rejoice in the beauty and the harmony of the real and eternal. There is no dearth of beauty, freshness, and goodness in the reality of spiritual being, no lack or loss, no chilling discords, no absence of Love and its loveliness.

If, however, in the dream of material experience, there seems to be some reason for sadness, then indeed "the time of the singing of birds" is come; then should we lift our hearts in songs of gratitude for the ever-present harmony of real being, of life in infinite divine Love. . . .

How swiftly "the long winter of our discontent" melts into the springtide of joy and gladness, when we obediently respond to the call of Love. "Rise up, my love, my fair one," for love, reflecting Love, God, is indeed fair and beautiful, peace-bringing and satisfying! Now, what is one to do about the difficulties, the wrongs, the sorrows, which seem ever to haunt the footsteps of the human family? In the article mentioned above, Mrs. Eddy refers to these things and to the lessons in spiritual overcoming to be gleaned from them, and she asks (Miscellaneous Writings, p. 331): "When downtrodden like the grass, did it make them humble, loving, obedient, full of good odor, and cause them to wait patiently on God for man's rich heritage,—'dominion over all the earth'? Thus abiding in Truth," she assures us, "the warmth and sunlight of prayer and praise and understanding will ripen the fruits of Spirit, and goodness will have its springtide of freedom and greatness."

PRESSING NEED.

We tuned in on a broadcast the other night and heard a discussion of Negro business and employment opportunities. Taking part were a group of young people.

Concensus seemed to be that Negro business afforded them little opportunity for gainful employment. As a result they were looking to civil service jobs or those with various State agencies, alphabet and otherwise.

We sensed in this a need of an awakening on the part of parents of these and many, many other young people like them — young people whose basic desire in life is to have an opportunity to LIVE a FULL life.

It appeared to us that the parents hold the key to the situation. If they set up businesses and patronized those businesses (plus those already established) it would not be long before young people like these, qualified for the work, would be absorbed.

Too, it seemed that these young people would be a larger credit to their community because of their work in private industry. This, after all, would appear to be the larger purpose of civilization.

Why SHOULDN'T there be stores and businesses, conducted by Negroes, in this city supplying the sundry needs of the people?

We realized that the answer to that would be the answer to the ills of these young people who, because of a lack of business opportunities, are turning to government jobs.

HAS RIGHT IDEA

Harvey Brooks is among several song writers feeling mighty good this week.

All because of one Eddie Anderson, Jack Benny's "Rochester".

The scream of the Benny program has just recorded four songs for the Columbia Record company. In doing so he gave Negro song writers a break, three of the numbers recorded being written by Negroes.

Titles of the songs: "If Money Grew on Trees" by Leon Rene; "Waitin' for Jane" by Jo Trent; and "Let's Scuffle" by Brooks.

From Benny's new picture, "Buck Benny Rides Again", the song "My! My!", by the lone white writer, was recorded. Anderson teams with Theresa Harris on the vocals in the film.

Negro song-writers rightfully ask: "Wouldn't it be great if we had more artists who would give them a break as has "Rochester"?

Brooks' number has already been published by Paramount's Famous Music Co.

The above may be the reason Anderson is the hit of the Benny program. It certainly shows he has the right idea.

GABBY BITS:

Avenue Talk: The white auditor, driving a truck, doing a curbstone business for business concerns. Ain't that sumpin? . . . "Brother PAT and a Baby" on an avenue theatre marquee . . . A prominent theatre has . . . A prominent avenue theatre put on a new coat of paint . . . And a furniture store in the '40's is certainly adding to the good appearance of that locality.

Saw what they call a sneak preview the other night of Miller and Mantan's newest vehicle, "Mr. Washington Goes to Town". The picture, a Dixie National Pictures product, showed the comedy team to advantage. "Popeye" Mantan is a real comer . . . Local Sigmas heraldod "Better Negro Business Week" with banners in strategic spots on the avenue . . .

Cops, Looking for Convict, Find Still

PHILADELPHIA, April 18—A convict, who escaped from guards while attending the funeral of his mother, unwittingly led police to a still where illegal whiskey was found. Officers got the owner of the still when they stumbled on his house, in search of the convict, Hally P. Johns. But Johns still remains at large.

Serving one to five years for larceny, Johnson was at liberty to attend the funeral of his mother.

Community Service Makes Angelus Policy Popular

Continued increase in the number of requests for the service of the Angelus Funeral Home from families in all walks of life is attributed to a number of significant factors in the policy of the Angelus, Manager John L. Hill pointed out in an interview this week.

"From the very beginning of the Angelus, we have aimed to be the servants of the community," said Hill, "not only in the matter of providing the best, and at the same time the most economical in memorials, but also in any other way we can. Our new building was erected to enlarge that service, and to have an institution to which all of us could point with pride."

Distinctive, complete, "but not expensive" is the keynote of the unsurpassed facilities of the Angelus Funeral Home. A trained staff of experts in their respective fields, with the most modern equipment that equals and surpasses in many instances any similar establishment on the Pacific Coast, places the Angelus in a class by itself.

Besides, any movement for civic and educational improvement in the community receives the endorsement and support of the Angelus; this includes contributions to scholarships for deserving young people, and various welfare organizations. A weekly broadcast every Sunday morning over KFOX has been sponsored continuously for over three years by the Angelus to bring cheer and encouragement to the sick and shut-in.

Edward Boyd Songs Sooth Music Lovers

Tuesday evening of last week at the Assistance League Playhouse, Edward Boyd, bass-baritone, sang a splendid program to a vastly appreciative audience.

Mr. Boyds' selection of numbers was well arranged and exhibited his versatility of interpretation as well as the range of his fine voice. His German and Italian numbers were impressive, whether grave or dramatic, and delivered with much feeling. The lighter numbers were delightful in their variety and "Mother Hubbard," a beguiling novelty.

Most of the spirituals were the works of Hall Johnson, and upon completion of those programmed, the audience demanded encore after encore.

As always, the young singers' appearance was an optical delight, and his calm unruffled. Mr. Ingolf Dahl, pianist and former conductor of the Municipal Opera House in Switzerland was the sympathetic and thoroughly capable accompanist of the evening. His rendition of Bach's Toccata in D Major called for an encore of a Chopin Mazurka.

Music lovers never fail to enjoy the vocal offerings of Edward Boyd.

L. A. Railway Combats Traffic Delays

A freight train rolling slowly along Alameda Street may disrupt a street car schedule in the Wilshire district and a fire near Exposition Park may cause a delay in service in Boyle Heights.

Surprising, perhaps, but nonetheless true Los Angeles Railway Operating Department officials say. Schedules are established after careful study of traffic conditions and passenger needs and are so closely coordinated for maximum efficiency that unusual blocking of key streets might cause delay.

To combat this possibility, the Operating Department maintains a staff of traffic men, supervisors and car loaders to "take up the slack." These men, chosen for their ability to unsnarl tie-ups are on constant duty. Due to them, according to officials, late schedules are very infrequent.

Certain traffic difficulties can be foreseen. These include special bargain sales in business districts, sports events and other gatherings of a great number of people. The Operating Department keeps track of these affairs and augments its schedules to conform with the anticipated need both in timing and equipment.

CONTRACTOR SUES 'SWEEPS WINNERS

PHILADELPHIA, April 18.—Henry H. Jefferson Negro contractor, is suing Mr and Mrs. Benjamin Mason, Irish Sweepstakes winner, for failure to award him the contract for building the low-cost housing project, in which the Masons are putting the Sweeps money. Jeffersons said the Masons had promised him the contract, then gave it to another.

NBC Praises Allen's Singers

On April 4, Gilbert Allen and his choir, the Gilbert Allen Singers were invited by Janning Pience, educational director for NBC Studios, Hollywood, to broadcast a half-hour program, a Coast to Coast, Blue network show, sponsored by the National Musical Educators Conference. In the opening announcement, the announcer said that the National Broadcasting Company and the National Music Educators of America regarded the Gilbert Allen Singers as one of the finest choirs in America.

On April 1, the Singers gave a concert at the Biltmore hotel for the National Music Educators Conference meeting.

Continue Coca Cola Boycott in S. C. Town

ROCK HILL, S. C., Apr. 18. (ANP)—Two months have passed and the estimated 55 Negro business establishments in this city are still boycotting the local Coca Cola bottling company. Their boycott began because the Coca Cola company here displaced colored labor with white.

It is understood that the plant here has been using colored help on their trucks and in the plant for a number of years but just recently it was found that white customers objected to Negro workmen delivering drinks in their business places, so the Coca Cola company gave as its reason for the displacement, the use of men who can be used both as drivers and salesmen.

Divine Broke Up Home; Takes Life

NEW YORK, April 18—The influence of Father Divine on his wife and daughter, was given as the reason for the suicide of Floyd Scheafner 43-year old WPA laborer. Scheafner's body was found five days after he had run a gas hose from the house jet to his mouth in his Harlem flat. Beside his body were two notes, one from his wife in which she said she had given up her domestic life and was "content and happy" to live in Father Divine's kingdom. The other note was from Scheafner.

Lynch Bill Broadcast Planned

Washington, D. C., April 18—A nationwide broadcast urging passage of the federal anti-lynching bill will be made Monday, April 29, by Senators Robert F. Wagner of New York, Mathew M. Neely of Virginia, and Arthur Capper of Kansas.

The broadcast has been arranged through the National Broadcasting Company over its Blue network from 10:30 to 11 p. m., eastern daylight saving time.

The three senators, who are staunch supporters of the bill, will insist that it be taken up before Congress adjourns and that it be given a chance to be voted on its merits. They will denounce in advance any attempt at a filibuster. It is their contention that the filibuster is undemocratic because it permits a very small minority of the Senate to block the will of the majority, not only of the Senate, but of the American pubic. It is expected that they will advocate the imposition of cloture (limitation of debate) in the event a filibuster should develop.

In connection with the radio broadcast Walter White, NAACP secretary issued a statement urging that listeners write or telegraph to Senator Alben W. Barkley, majority leader, Senate Office Building, Washington, D. C., asking him to set a definite date for the taking up of the anti-lynching bill.

FORM 'HABIT OF HAPPINESS', ELKS' DAUGHTER RULER URGES AT MEET

Address Features 23rd Anniversary Day Program Held at Hamilton Methodist

Highlighted by the inspirational address of Mrs. Agnes Beal, daughter ruler of Hiawatha Temple No. 91, the 23rd Anniversary Day program of the Daughter Elks was held last Sunday at Hamilton Methodist church. In the impressive service, Hiawatha, a Los Angeles Temple, was joined by Hope Temple No. 523, of Santa Monica.

"Highways to Happiness" was the subject of Daughter Ruler Beal's address. She pointed out the necessity of forming a "habit of happiness," just as other habits are formed, by practice and concentration.

Acting as mistress of ceremonies, Mrs. Edna Elgin presented an interesting program which included an exhibition drill by Golden West Jr. Herd No 10 and Hiawatha Drum and Bugle corps; a reading by Mary Bowdin, Poinsettia Juvenile class No. 181; a piano selection by Alice Logan of the Live Wire temple; remarks by Exalted Ruler Eugene Sorral of Golden West Lodge No. 86.

Rev. S. M. Beane, pastor of Hamilton and active figure in fraternal circles, preached the sermon. A presentation was made him by Henry L. Bukey; to the choir, by Esmilla Estell Gonzales; to the trustees by Leroy Brooks. Music was rendered by the Hamilton choir. Prayer was led by Mrs. Etta Fisher. Mrs. Geraldine Johnson, deputy of Hope Temple No. 523, introduced the mistress of etremonies.

In her remarks, Mrs. Elgin, m. c., lauded the founders of Hiawatha Temple. The three charter members who are living, were introduced. They are: Mrs. Eliza Warner, Mrs. Alice Lester and Mrs. Inez White. Officers of the two temples are:

Hiawatha Temple No. 91: Dtrs. Agnes Beal, daughter ruler; May Fowkles, vice daughter ruler; Bertha Washington, ass't. daughter ruler; Etta L. Fisher, chaplain; Florence Hoskins-Mathonican, organist; Adele B. Ashford, financial secretary; Lenora McHenry, recording secretary; Zora Thompson, treasurer; Annie Atkins, escort; Hattie B. Williams, first trustee; Thelma Norwood, second trustee; Mae Denton, third trustee; Mamie Perkins, fourth trustee; Pearl Reeves, fifth trustee; Armeal B. Taylor, senior mother; Kansas W. Tibbs, junior mother; Elizabeth Kimbrough, first guardian; Rhonie Goodwin, district deputy; Dr. Ruth Temple, medical examiner; Louise V. Fulghum, grand trustee; Hope Temple No. 523: Dtrs. Altha Polk, daughter ruler; Lagulia Shaw, financial secretary; Geraldine Johnson, district deputy.

The text of Dtr. Ruler Beal's address follows:

HIGHWAYS TO HAPPINESS

Happiness is very much a matter of habit. As we practice on the piano to learn to play efficiently, so must we practice the thinking of bright thoughts in order to learn to be happy. Whenever a misfortune comes to us, or a disappointment, or a tragedy to cast a shadow upon our lives, we are prone to dwell too much on the gloomy thoughts which such things arouse in our minds. No trouble is ever as bad as it seems. It becomes tremendous and unbearable because it is exaggerated by thinking. Our imaginations become magnifying glasses that enlarge trifles and make them appear to be monstrous things. To gain tranquility, to gain place, to gain success and happiness, you have to form the habit of thinking tranquil, peaceful, successful and happy thoughts. There is no doubting it, one of the finest and most constructive occupations in the world is that of thinking. Just take a sweet, joyful thought sometimes and dwell upon it and watch it grow into variations that are colorful and beautiful. There must be a song written. But after the theme is established, that song can be played in a hundred different ways.

Recently, while I was in a downtown theatre, the organist used "Dixie" as the basis for about 10 minutes of entertainment. Sometimes the music was martial, sometimes sad, sometimes it was religious in its rhythm, then at times it had a light and frivolous swing. Humor ran through some of the playing, yet beneath it all, I could recognize that familiar theme, "Dixie". We are all organists in the drama of life. We can take just the tiniest good thought and with the magnifying glass of the mind, have hours and hours of happiness, dwelling upon it and rising upon it to the heights of nobility and inspirational ecstasy.

It is only a matter of habit and in order to form a habit, we must practice a thing until it has become second nature; to do it constantly until in fact, it has become a part of our personality and character.

Queer how so many people will dwell upon the bad conditions in life until all their days are blighted by unhappiness. And so few are wise enough to magnify even the tiniest ray of sunshine until their days are made bright with success and happiness. No one can ever be completely lost. Into the lives of all, fall a few sunbeams. And even though there is but one feeble beam, it can be used to build a light that cast darkness out of all the hours of life. Why cling to sorrow? As long as there is life, there is reason for joy, and even though that reason be small, it can be magnified, just as reasons for sorrow are. The joy will quite overbalance the misery. If the people would just give this tho't a bit of consideration, there could be much more happiness in the world today. It's only a matter of selecting a correct method to cling to. Just of a simple process of eliminating all that is not conducive to mental well being, replacing such thoughts with those which bring happiness. The stars shine over the heads of all yours all well as mine. The sunsets are not mine alone. They also belong to you. This world is full of sunshine for those that will lift up their heads and look. It is well to remember that if you form the habit of happy thinking, then surely all the highways of your life will be highways of happiness.

Evelyn Spiller to Sing in Musical Probe of SRA

State, County and Municipal Workers of America today announced the addition of Miss Evelyn Spiller, blues singer, to the cast of their forthcoming musical investigation of SRA, "What a Relief." Miss Spiller, prominent local singer, will sing two numbers: "I Can't Give You Any ERO's" (ERO's are emergency relief orders for clients vitally in need of food, clothing, housing or medical care) and "Fit To Be Tied."

"We are indeed fortunate in securing the talent of Miss Spiller," stated the revue director. "Her singing will enhance an already musical and entertaining performance."

SCMWA announces that it intends to bring out in its investigation the facts about S.R.A. "so scrupulously avoided by the current reactionary-stacked investigating committees."

"The revue will show the tie-up between the Associated Farmers' hatred of the SRA and their desire to pay less than subsistence wages to agricultural labor, inefficiency in the offices of high-salaried political appointees of the SRA, the abandoning of the self-help cooperative program and the elaborate hierarchy which has been set up by SRA Administrator Walter Chambers to avoid meeting with SCMWA and representatives of relief-client organizations while rank and file employes are laid off en masse throughout the State and relief-clients are faced with eviction, malnutrition and complete lack of medical care," publicity released for the show said.

The musical investigation will be held Saturday and Sunday nights at 8:15 p. m. at the Beaux Arts Theatre, 8th and Beacon.

The first World Premiere in the history of New York's Harlem, staged in typical Hollywood extravagant style is planned by Paramount for "Buck Benny Rides Again", the new Jack Benny starring film in which EDDIE (ROCHESTER) ANDERSON (above) plays an important featured role. "Hollywood Goes to Harlem' is the slogan adopted by Paramount which intends to focus the eyes and ears of the world on Harlem for the unveiling of the film at Loew's Victoria Theatre on Tuesday evening, April 23. A special 2-hour NBC coast-to-coast broadcast is also planned.

'Mr. Washington Goes to Town' Very, Very Good

BY LAWRENCE F. LAMAR

At last Hollywood seems to have arrived at the business of producing all-sepia flickers, bearing some degree of screen merit. The writer comes to this conclusion after viewing the screening of one of the latest productions, at a press preview at the Lincoln Theatre Thursday night of "Mr. Washington Goes to Town."

The film, "Mr. Washington Goes to Town," is very, very very, very good. That should equal four stars in anybody's country. The screen story is by Walter Weems, taken from the original story by the same author. Weems, it will be remembered, was the author of "Hearts in Dixie," feature length picture produced some years ago by the Fox Film company, with such notables as Stepin Fetchit, Clarence Muse, Zack Williams and Rex Ingram.

Jed Buell, in bringing Weems' story to the screen, apparently has spared no expense in harnessing a creditable brace of actors. The excellent comics, F. E. Miller (he was with the late Lyles) and Mantan (Moreland), turn in a most hilarious and uproarous evening of entertainment.

DREAM TROUBLE

Add to thisc fact, that the film is well edited, in sound and action, the sets well lighted and the photography tops, and there you have a filmisical that is quite up to snuff. Most of the action takes place in a hotel. The plot revolves around a dream troubled man (Mantan) whose journeying journeyings while dreaming, along his pal (Miller), takes him on wild comical flights thruout the place. As such, Mantan is cast as Schenectady, a bellhop, and Miller as Wallingford, the clerk.

A lawyer, played by Charlie Hawkins, tells the comics that an uncle of Schenectady's has bequeathed him title to the hotel. A mortgage is all that stands in the way of taking it over. The mortgage is held by Brutus, played by Maceo B. Sheffield, who also wants to gain possession of the hotel. Into the setting move other characters, including a magician (Johnny Taylor), a gorilla (Clarence Morehouse), a Mexican knife thrower (Monte Hawley), two headless men, short (DeForrest Covan) and tall (John Lester Johnson).

Others in the cast of the Jed Buell production made under the label of Dixie National Pictures, Inc., include Arthur Ray, Margurete Whitten, Zoretta Steptoe, Florence O'Brien, Vernon McCalla, Edward Boyd, Clarence Hargrave, Waler Knos, Geraldine Whitfield, Sammy Warren, Nathan Curry, Slicum Garrison and Henry Hastings. Maceo Sheffield is also credited as an associate producer and Harvey Brooks with directing the music.

Evelyn Burwell in Operetta

Evelyn Pope Burwell, stage and screen actress-singer, has been assigned the role of Rose aL France, a music student in an Italian city, in the forthcoming operetta, "Milan In May," to have its opening at the Trouper's Theatre in Hollywood, April 22. Miss Burwell is the only Negro in the cast.

The talented actress will sing two numbers, one especially written for her. Miss Burwell came to the coast several years ago at the head of Eva Jesse's chorus, which she directed for the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture "Hallelujah." She has also assisted in the direction of Hall Johnson's famed choral group.

Leg Broken in Film Fight Scene

Acting became reality on sound stage No. 1 at the Sunset Studio of Million Dollar Productions Monday night of last week during the filming of Kenny Washington's first starring vehicle "Gridiron Graft." Participants in a free-for-all, fight sequence forgot to "pull" their punches. As a result, Joe Fluellan, 30, of 1917 S. Central avenue, is confined to the hospital with a broken ankle, and numerous cuts and bruises. Others of the half dozen actors had to be treated for scratched legs, and hands, swollen eyes and other damages.

Hampton Plays for Students

Lionel Hampton, popular member of the Benny Goodman band, was a surprise guest at Los Angeles City College last Thursday, taking part in the all-colored revue presented to the students.

Assisted by the King Cole Swing Trio, Hampton performed on the vibraharp, the drums and the piano.

Master of ceremonies was Eddie Lynn. Other artists were: the George Brown orchestra, the Bilbrew Twins, duet, Janis Quon, blues singer.

DUKE ELLINGTON TO PLAY AT ORPHEUM THEATRE WEDNESDAY

Ivie Anderson to Head All-Star Stage Show at Downtown Movie House

Duke Ellington, whose playing at the famous Cotton Club in New York won him the title of "Harlem's Aristocrat of Jazz", will be the stage attraction at the Orpheum Theater for one week only starting April 24.

Made popular by radio, Duke and his musicians have created a sensation in theaters from coast to coast as well as in Europe. They have been featured in a Ziegfield show, in many motion pictures and of course on phonograph records.

Duke and his boys have an instinctive feeling for jazz rhythmn and broken tempos, and they have the reputation of doing the most inconceivable things to the most trivial of melodies.

Ellington's unique arrangements have created a definite new style in dance melody, and his men are masters of the intricacies of hot jazz and syncopations. His particular brand of music is loved by almost everyone and during his engagement at the Orpheum, Duke promises some brand new arrangements never played before. An all star stage presentation headed by Ivie Anderson, will be seen in conjunction with Duke Ellington and his famous orchestra.

Mrs. Theresa Black Leaves for Chicago

Mrs. Theresa Black, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Broyles, will leave Los Angeles for her Chicago home Saturday morning after a visit here of several months duration.

A probation officer in the Windy City, Mrs. Black was the houseguest of her sister, Mrs. Douglas J. Henderson in E. 45th street, and was widely entertained.

Bridge Columnist Lauded By Bridge Ass'n Official

Ellis L. Veil 1597½ W. 36th place, who conducts a bridge column in the EAGLE for the Golden West Bridge association, is proud of a letter from Arthur R. Curiel, executive secretary of the American Bridge association, in which Curiel expressed the opinion that the EAGLE "ranks with the best."

Saying that he "derived great pleasure from reading the paper," Curiel complimented Veil on his column, which is a regular weekly feature of the EAGLE.

Hall Johnson Choir to Sing at Philharmonic

Under the auspices of the Los Angeles Young Women's Christian Association the renowned Hall Johnson Choir, consisting of 50 mixed voices, under direction of Hall Johnson, will be heard in concert recital, Friday evening, May 3, at Philharmonic Auditorium under L. E. Behymer's management.

Hall Johnson's choir is nationally known and has been acclaimed as one of the foremost musical organizations in this country. The ensemble consists of perfect singers imbued with the tender and wild ecstasy of the Negro traditional music.

This concert, which at the same time marks the fifteenth anniversary of the choir contains not only rapturous Negro spirituals, but also works songs and melodies from that brilliant musical production, "Run Little Chillun," which had a record run, ending with original arrangements of works by Stephen Foster.

Hall Johnson's name and fame as conductor and composer is nationwide. As a conductor, he has been called a veritable mesmerizer, his weird thin fingers beckoning his singers on one minute, and pressing them back in another. He composed and directed the music for "Green Pastures," and his recent success "Run Little Chillun" played to a quarter of a million people.

Tax exempt reserved seats range from 50 cents to $2.00 Reservations may be made at the Behymer Box Office, Auditorium Building, MUtual 1983, all branches of the YWCA, TRinity 0461, the ticket office of the So. Cal. Music Co., 737 S. Hill street, TUcker 1144 and their agencies.

Hughes' Play in Final Performance

Rounding out one of the most popular and successful ventures in Little Theatre movements here, the cast of "Don't You Want to be Free," Langston Hughes' poetic drama, will be presented in a final performance April 21 at Gray's Mus-Art auditorium, 4068 Central avenue.

A feature of entr'acte specialities for this performance will include a dance interpretation of Hall Johnson's immortal composition, "City Called Heaven," by Jo Stevenson.

Another innovation of this talented group is the verse choir trained and directed by Jack Gardner, former affiliate of the New York Group Theatre and Theatre Guild.

Among the players in the cast of "Don't You Want to Be Free" are: Ed Walsh, Frank Comfort, Chas. Lyles, Janet Bowman, Mary Troy, Anna Lee Johnson, Ed Singleton, Cecil Robinson, Alice Schuster, Anita Turner, Jeronie Hatcher, Welton Robinson, Leona Gravitt and Roy Glenn. Musical direction is by Evelyn Pope Burrell, who assisted Hall Johnson as director of the famed "Green Pastures" chorus.

Call Girl, 20, Movie 'Find'

Even though her bit in Million Dollar Production's new football picture, starring Kenny Washington was small, critics who watched her work, were impressed with the talent revealed by Joan Douglas. She ran second to Jeni LeGon in the recently completed contest for leading lady to the noted grid star.

Twenty years of age, with pretty brown complexion, a shapely figure, and expressive eyes and features, Miss Douglas has also had dramatic training at Oklahoma City High school, Langston University and in "Little Theatre" movements. She is being considered for the daughter of Louise Beavers in Million Dollar Production's next feature, now being written by Jos. O'Donnel.

FAMOUS SINGER and actor Ernest Whitman was the featured soloist Sunday and Tuesday at Hamilton Methodist church on the occasion of the church's 21st anniversary celebration. Tuesday, Whitman sang to more than 200 women, attending the Woman's Home

Floyd Ray to Go on Coast to Coast Tour

Floyd Ray and his Decca Recording orchestra signed a new long term contract with Reg. D. Marshall of Hollywood on April 1 and plans were immediately made to send the band on their third annual Coast to Coast tour.

The band will again feature those three "torchers," Ivy, Vern and Von, who captivated audiences their past two years with the band, and Eddie Byrd, sensational drummer.

The orchestra leaves, Los Angeles on April 23 to open a string of one-night stands through Arizona, New Mexico and Texas. Following this, they head for the "deep south" before making their annual appearance in New York and eastern engagements.

That New Orleans Trio

For the past several months three boxers—all from New Orleans—have been showing their wares at the Olympic auditorium and, all in all, have satisfied the cash customers no end.

We refer to Richard Polite, Jimmy Brooks and Johnny Jackson.

Polite is probably the best known, having shown more often. But Jackson is the current sensation of the three. His one-round kayo of Miller Fonseca a few weeks back was a classic. Fonseca, ring-wise and tough veteran that he is, was scheduled to prove quite a test for the souhern boy.

A few more fights under the belt of Brooks may elevate him to the level of his home-town mates—Jackson and Polite.

Colorful Newcomer

Next Tuesday night at the Olympic, matchmaker Jimmy Murray's card features a London-born Negro heavyweight, Tommy "Strike Me Pink" Martin. He meets the hard-hitting, although fragile-chinned, Bob Nestell.

The handsome Englishman not only speaks the REAL English but on occasions sports a monocle. It is claimed that he has never been knocked off his pins, let alone put to sleep by a punch that ricocheted off his chin.

Just how true those claims are may be determined to some extent next week because Nestell carries glowed dynamite in his right mitt and is capable of "striking me pink". In his last appearance at the downtown swatatorium, he bounced "Blimp" Williams on the canvas so often it was believed that something had rubber in it—and it wasn't the canvas.

Shorts in Sports:

They are raving in the East about a Boston university sophomore, Charlie "Chuck" Thomas of Dayton, Ohio. Thomas apparently compares with UCLA's Jackie Robinson as an extraordinary athlete. "Staked" by the citizens of Dayton so that he might attend Boston U., Thomas captained the basketball team, starred in football, and batted .348 on the baseball team. All of this was in his freshman year.

As a sophomore, Thomas has won letters in basketball as a guard, football as a halfback and is now seeking a letter in baseball as a shortstop, the same position held down by Robinson for the Bruins.

Weighing but 150 pounds, Thomas, in the opinion of experts, will be the fastest thing in eastern football next season. He is a star ball carrier and pass receiver but excels as a passer.

Emil Von Elling, New York University track coach, said in New York recently that he was more than sure Negro athletes would have dominated the Olympic Games picture had the Games been held in Finland as scheduled.

Pooh-poohing claims that Negro athletes have something in their blood corpuscles that makes them superior to other runners, Von Elling said:

"Take this summer for instance. If 57 assorted varieties of miracles should enable Finland to hold the Olympics, bet your last dime that our Negroes would monopolize the track picture even more than in 1936.

"There's Mozell Ellerbe, Herb Thompson, Pitt's Bill Carter, Penn State's Norwood Ewell, and five or six other Negroes who can hammer the daylights out of our current dash field. (We wouldn't discount the efforts of Stanford's captain Clyde Jeffrey.—J.C.F.) Ewell, double winner in the IC4A's, can broadjump, too.

"Tuft's Ed Dugger can give Allan Tolmich a real rub in the hurdles. Herbert (that's Jimmy, of NYU) here just notched up a double record at Dartmouth with his 47.9 and 48.4 in the 400 meters and 440 yards, respectively.

"John Woodruff, 1936 Olympic 800-meters champ, would be a cinch bet to repeat at Helsinki. His 1:47 flat in that heat at Dartmouth and his 1:47.7 for the 880 yards is terrific. And John Borican has knocked down the indoor three-quarter mile mark to 3:10.2.

"I don't think chemistry has anything to do with it. Those boys realize that they're given an absolutely even break in track. Where can they get that in any other sport? Fighting, perhaps, but a Negro has to be awfully good to get any break in that game.

"Another thing. Legs make a track man. Your Negro athlete uses shoe-leather to get places. The white youngster thinks it's beneath him to walk. Why a car means almost as much to him as his right arm. In track, at least, many of our white runners are getting soft."

Sports

JEFFERSON CITY, (Mo.) April 18—On the Dean's List are the names of six varsity athletes at Lincoln university. Three are football players, two basketball, and one a member of the track team. They are, left to right: James Hunt, senior, St. Louis, Mo., football, average 2.588; Robert Cobb, sophomore, Jefferson City, Mo., football, 2.2 (Cobb is president of sophomore class); Neil Williams, senior, Gary, Ind., track, 2.142; D. L. McIntosh, sophomore, Kansas City, Mo., basketball team captain, 2.5; and James Gleason, senior, Webster Groves, Mo., football, 2.176 (Gleason is national Lieutenant Strategus of the Kappa Psi Fraternity). Maurice Harris, sophomore, St. Louis, Mo., basketball, was not available for the picture.

HOT SPRINGS (Ark.) April 18—Henry Armstrong, world's welterweight champion, will defend his title in New York against Eric Boone, lightweight champion of the British Isles, promoter Mike Jacobs announced here this week.

Stating that he had arranged the match, promoter Jacobs said Boone had signed a contract for the bout but would have to make arrangements to come to this country since he is a member of the royal air force.

DUSKY FIGHTERS SWEEP MOST OF NATIONAL AAU CHAMPIONSHIPS

Three Negroes and Two Hawaiians Cop Five of 8 Titles in Boston Garden

BOSTON, April 18. (By Mabe Kountze for ANP)—Five out of 8 1940 National AAU boxing championships went to dusky fighters here last week at the Boston Garden.

Three Negro Americans: Frankie Robinson of Pittsburgh in the 126 lb. class; Henry Brimm of Buffalo in the 147 lb. class; and Wally Cross of East Orange, N. J., heavyweight, won their respective division titles.

Two Hawaiian Americans, Johnny Manolo, 112 lb. class, and Paul Matsumako, 131 lb. class, won one fourth of the AAU championships, and white lads, fighting furiously, captured the remaining three honors.

Supplying most of the thrill and excitement, the "color contingent" made up of 13 Hawaiians, around 30 Negroes, one Chinese, and five or six American Indians, were led by the most publicized man of the 1940 tournament, Charles "Cyclone" Williams of Buffalo, a second edition of John Henry, the "Black River Giant." A terrific puncher with both hands, Cyclone swept to the finals over a road of kayo destruction. It seemed nobody could beat him until another large colored boy, Wally Cross of East Orange, possessing the finest uppercut I've seen among amateurs, plus a murderous hook and best of all, a courageous heart, met up with "Cyclone" in the heavyweight final which sent the crowd haywire.

EXPLODING LEFTS

The Cyclone, who really hails from Alabama, started out to blast Cross out of the ring. Cross held the slugger off, but in the second round took some terrific punches to the wind, also a couple of blasts off the jaw, but stood up and fought back sensationally with the crowd in an uproar. They say two colored boys won't fight. These two almost slaughtered each other. Vicious lefts were exploding all over the place. Cross staggered the Cyclone and the crowd went crazy. Countering smartly, Cross won the third and the title.

Yancy Henri Craves Action With Nation's Heavyweights

Yancy Henri, local heavyweight battler, according to his manager Aljack Adams, has "gone on a rampage" because of delay in getting a suitable opponent. Adams is all for having his fighter "take his time in getting to the top." Henri wants action.

Last year when Champ Louis was here on the coast ... ing for his bout with Jack Roper. Yancy Henri sparred with the champion. During the boxing match, Louis stung Henri and had him down. When the local boy got up from the canvas, observers at the training quarters saw a real nip and tuck battle. Henri surprised the champion no end by his ability.

Crouch Regains Prestige; K. O.'s Ybarra in Six Heats

Definitely regaining his lost prestige, Georgie Crouch, outstanding lightweight contender, scored a sixth round technical knockout Tuesday night at the Olympic auditorium over Joe Ybarra, Oakland Mexican.

Crouch landed a long right cross following a clinch that sent Ybarra to the canvas. Up at the count of 9, Ybarra ran into a hail of leather and referee Reggie Gilmore stopped it.

The end came in 1:62 of the sixth heat.

Ybarra, a few weeks ago, went 10 bristling stanzas with knockout artist Jackie Wilson, and ruled a slight favorite in his bout with Crouch.

In the six-round preliminary, Carlos Miranda easily decisioned Bobby Espinosa. Four-round results: Dub Bowem nodded Eddie Rivers; Tony Navorro and Clyde Alexander fought each other to a standstill; Nat Corum outpointed Nash Diaz, and in the curtain raiser, Carmen Georgino decisioned Morrie Renee.

Elenore Calhoun, model designer, wearing a "Gone With the Wind" hat and skirt, carrying a purse as large as a cash register, was seen ankling in and out of the nite spots.

Ralph Love, one-time song and dance comedian, says that show business is so tough that the elephant can't remember when he walked last.

Bernice White, with an apartment at the Dunbar hotel for several years, is very rich and doesn't care about making money. She likes showfolks and wants to help them to get on easy street. I hope you won't mention this again as she is O. K.

Irene DeCuir of Los Angeles, at whose home go many of the top show people, is now a proud grandmother. O. K. Irene!

Fern Martin of Saan Diego is carrying a terrible torch for her boy friend now on a two months' vacation at Murray's Dude ranch, Victorville.

"Rochester" Anderson and "Stuff" Smith motored up to Frisco from Hollywood to bet on Eddie's horse. Up-and-Over, which was a 50 to 1 and couldn't keep up.

The Informative Double

The Philosophy of the Cards upon which the Winslow System is founded recognizes no superior or inferior suits; this ranking is arbitrary. The Natural value of the cards gives to the Ace of Clubs the same force as it gives to the Ace of Spades.

From California: "To us the other systems seem absolutely stupid after learning to bid "Winslow Way".

When Second or Fourth Hand holds 4 Naturals their call is "Double". This conveys to partner the information that if the opponent had not opened I would have opened". There are consequently but 4 Naturals left for distribution in the other two hands, and the competitive bidding is sharp.

Martin Tops Local Ring Card

English Heavy to Box Bob Nestell Tuesday at Olympic

A real freak of the ring makes his debut at Olympic next Tuesday night when Tommy "Strike Me Pink" Martin, London-born Negro heavyweight, faces slugging Bob Nestell in the ten round main event.

Martin has an accent thicker than "Lord Haw-Haw," wears a monocle on state occasions, and convulses the boys at Nat Rosner's Main Street Gym with his dialect.

Martin is under the management of Johnny Rodgers and Tommy Farmer. The latter is chief aide to Eddie Meade, manager of Henry Armstrong.

The heavyweight, from across the Atlantic yearns to fight Junior Munsell, whom he calls that "red Indian"—and Martin has been promised the match if he disposes of Nestell Tuesday night.

Though Nestell has been knocked out rather frequently in local rings, he is still the hardest hitting right hand socker in the game. Martin, however, has never been knocked out—or even knocked off his feet. If he can stand up against one of Nestell's whistling right crosses, he can be tabbed for future reference.

Martin is sparring daily at the Main Street Club, starting at 1:30 p. m.

On the card Tuesday night, Johnny Jackson meets Bobby Pacho in the six-round semi-windup.

THEATRICALS

The Four Hot Shots, formerly of Earl Carroll's Hollywood night spot are back in L. A. after an extended engagement in New York.

Showgirls, you would like to see are Juanita Moore, Rose Lee Lincoln, Alice Keyes, Hazel Reese, Ruth Mill Scott, Arline Williams, Louise Franklin, Mildred and Mona Boyd, Callie Dill, Lillian Randolph and Mae Johnson.

Mae Diggs' engagement at Barnum & Bailey's circus in 1940 was cancelled on account of so many kiddies. Mae is hip hurler No. 1.

Louise Jota Cook, after returning from Europe, signed a fat contract to show her jungle shake dance in Hollywood.

Nina Mae McKinney, after returning from London, got a break in Hollywood. She received $8,000 for one picture and all expenses.

Lovie Lane, now in L. A., is selling her latest Paree shake dance, which must be a killer.

When the well dressed Eddie Mallory and his all-star band played L. A. and crashed into the tune, "Harvest Moon" and others, Ethel Waters stopped the show.

Colen Carter, a Los Angeles pretty and a wire walker, doing her earthquake dance, may get a breaak at the coast fair.

Baby Cox, the acrobatic twist dancer, kept the Creole Palace fans on their tip toes for over two years. The same goes for Octavia Sumner and Margaret Jones, who can do their stuff.

U. S. Slow Kid Thompson appeared at the Golden Gate theatre only one week but spent three weeks in Frisoc which showed that he knew someone. It may have been Margaret Dodson.

HERE AND THERE

June Hall, Gwendolyn Hodge and Kathryn White beat the races at Agua Caliente on Sundays and spent their weekends sightseeing L. A., staying at the Dunbar hotel.

Jess Johnson, clocker at the California race tracks, after cashing in a bunch of tickets was heard to say, "Any smart clocker could have done the same thing".

Many people wonder what became of Speck Clark, formerly of Jack's Tavern, and Foster of restaurant fame. They are both still in the ailing room at a San Francisco hospital.

Prince White, while on a sightseeing tour across the country, had reservations at a rich baker's private residence in L. A. Prince owns a summer home in France but refuses to go while the scrap is on over there.

NEWS VIEWS

By HARRY MORGAN

I see where the Treasury Departmnt has started a "Know your Money" campaign. In recent years many people have been complaining that they haven't been able to keep their money long enough to recognize it--let alone know it. However, the Treasury Campaign is against "phony" money. This money is like a bad egg—it looks good until you try to break it. Lecturers are going around schools and clubs to tell all about the difference between counterfeit and real money. Now that people are learning what real money is, all they want to know is "How to get it?"

An Iowa driving instructor says husbands don't make good driving teachers for their own wives. Wives have been saying the same thing for years.

When you buy whiskey, gin or other liquors come to Harry Morgan and let me show you how to get your money's worth. You won't be mislead by trick cut-rate "bargains"--you'll know what you're buying. I pride myself on thorough knowledge of the liquor business and try to give my customers more for their money.

The theory of WPA and other federal work projects was at first bitterly assailed by those whom American public sentiment has learned to label "reactionary forces".

It is useles to suppose that the Republican party was not included, if not particularly indicated, in this category. Ever since the first ill-considered squawks of Republican "reactionary forces" in 1933, the party has been under a cloud,--a cloud which only now is beginning to fade.

Today, Republicans who deny the common sense of giving unemployed persons work at government expense are few and far between. It is a fact that the rank and file of the party never seriously objected. However, skillful publicity experts of the administration have been careful to preserve the notion that Republicans are black enemies of the unemployed generally, and the WPA, in particular.

But it is gratifying to note that thinking voters no longer depend exclusively upon the contentions of neighborhood Farleys. They are beginning to perceive that the Republican platform is not the hated thing F. D. R. would paint it. Substantially, fundamentally, it embodies the same broad ideas of social and economic reform of which the New Deal once boasted.

If then, the fundamental doctrines of both parties are not opposed, why, you ask, change administrations? It is a good question; and, fortunately, the answer is simple. The present administration has sabotaged its own high sounding principles. The entire New Deal idea has bogged down in a swamp of petty politics that spreads its vicious tentacles from the Capital of the United States to every hamlet in the nation.

If these are drastic statements, they herald drastic conditions. It is a fact that WPA administration is rotten to the core. In our own community, workers on several projects stand in fear of their daily bread because of the influence of petty politicians "with pull". Others have found unneeded employment through proper manipulation of the same individuals. These things are known to be true. If you doubt them, ask a neighbor who works in some branch of the WPA.

Minor street demagogues who have lived on political pay-offs for years have been rewarded for nondescript services to the administration by positions of responsibility in the WPA set-up. Tragic effect of all this is that WPA administration, needful always of the most expert and highly specialized workers, is manned by a clique of untrained ward-heelers.

Fear of losing that precious job has sealed the mouths of thousands in Los Angeles alone who might make stirring revelations of inner WPA maneuvering. If ever any U. S. government agency was so honeycombed with spying politics, it has not been recorded by any historian.

The present administration has installed itself securely in all important berths of project control—positions that should legitimately be open to all American citizens. The public cannot allow further consolidation of such a venomous political machine. Many citizens do not realize how dangerously close WPA administration parallels actual fascistic systems now in practice in Italy.

At no time in the past 50 years has a change in administrations been so vital a necessity for the very survival of democratic processes.

There is no need in pretending that Republicans are cherubic individuals on the verge of sprouting wings.

But once the current vicious Relief and WPA machines are ousted, the American public will never allow a repetition of the situation. A change of administration is the only broom that can sweep out the cobwebs of corruption that have polluted every corner of our government in the last seven years.

Portions of the 1940 Republican platform that should be of interest to Negro voters in particular are those sections which denounce Negro disenfranchisement in the South. It is certainly true that the Republicans were in power for over forty years previously without making effective efforts at remedying this evil. However, during that period, they had never been threatened with a mass revolt of black voters. The stampede to the democratic standard in 1932 by colored citizens taught the Republican party the most important political lesson of the decade. Promises to Negroes can no longer be forgotten and pigeonholed.

On every issue of striking importance to the Negro, New Deal politicians have compromised. The most flaring example of this legislative double-cross to the millions of black democratic voters was the differential battle over the Wages and Hours Bill. Southern senators--democrats all--argued long and loud over the fact that Mr. Wagner's measure allowed the South no lower standards. It was pointed out that the cost of living South of the Mason-Dixon line is so much lower than that above it that a blanket standard would be unfair to southern employers. The fact that this standard itself is several notches below ordinary decency wasn't stressed. In effect, then, this was the argument. In truth, southern senators simply wished to have the right to establish "differential boards" for the purpose of discriminating against Negroes. What happened? They got them, and Negroes in the South have not yet felt a benefit from this loudly touted "liberal" legislation.

Dewey's Coming

Thomas E. Dewey, crusading New York D. A. fresh from presidential victories in Middle Western primaries, will appear in Los Angeles April 20th at Hollywood Bowl.

Under the auspices of the California Republican Assembly, Dewey is scheduled to make a dramatic plea to California voters.

Traffic cops are already worried over the tremendous snarl expected on the Evening of the Twentieth.

BIG LITTLE BUSINESS

The small businessman—a very deceptive name!—is out in earnest to capture his rightful share of attention on the national scene.

He has stood patiently by while government has given its millions and billions for agriculture, for a rejuvenated merchant marine, for railroads, air transport, and housing. If America's small businesses are organizing to make themselves heard and this week forming a permanent council to speak for them in Washington, D. C., it is only because the nation's small businesses are really a big business. They want attention befitting their importance.

The National Advisory Council of Independent Small Business asserts, in fact, that 98 per cent of all business enterprises are small businesses. Be that as it may, government reports declare that 78 per cent of all retail sales in the country are rung up on the cash registers of the independent merchant, and in a nation that offers at least $25 billion yearly in available retail trade, that's no mean sum.

THE POCKETBOOK of KNOWLEDGE

OTHER PAPERS SAY

"Free Advertising"

From The Gary (Ind.) American

Honestly conducted newspapers rely upon the sale of space in their advertising columns for revenue with which to keep their enterprises in operation, and to earn any profit there might be in the business. In return for the money so collected, they disseminate news and information to the general public.

News is information concerning something of general interest to the public, from which no person or enterprise is expected to profit from a financial standpoint by its publication. Any other type of publicity is advertising and nothing less. It is evident, however many people are not able to distinguish between news and advertising, or they are of the chiseler type who are always trying to get something for nothing.

Every week we get reams of matter labeled "news" which is nothing but advertising, and frankly so, in the text. The persons who mail this matter to us seem to think that it ought to be published free of charge because of the "tremendous news value" to our readers. None of them so much as think of buying space to advertise the product which their articles tend to boost.

During recent weeks, perhaps the worst offenders in this regard have been candidates who aspire for every office from president down. So far, we have yet to read any of their "news articles" which present anything that could be of any possible interest to our readers unless it could be of interest to them to see how utterly selfish the candidates are. Nearly always they send along pictures to be published.

Locally, nearly all the clubs and individuals who give entertainments from which they expect to derive a profit, bring in their "news" of the coming event, and become insulted if they are told it must be paid for. Some times we have stretched a point and mentioned the affair, and then when one of our representatives attempted to enter, in order to really get news, his press pass would not be recognized, and the doorkeeper haughtily demanded the price of admission.

For the information of persons and organizations who do not understand, we are using this space to tell them that publicity regarding any event to which admission is to be charged, of from which financial profit is to be derived, must be paid for, as advertising. If not, then there is no alternative except to consign it to the wastebasket.

THE WORLD THIS WEEK

NATURE ON A SPREE

Nature's violently tempestuous moods of recent days have been more than a match for man, who is no amateur himself at raising Cain and wreaking havoc. Within a fortnight, Mother Nature has raised a gigantic hurricane on the sun which, shooting off great streams of electrons, paralyzed radio, telephone and cable communication some 93 million miles away on the solid speck of mud whirling in space which we call Earth. Not content with thus showing man's helplessness in the face of her superior forces, Nature has thrown in a few floods, ranging from Northern California to the Susquehanna River valley. As if these spectacular caprices were not enough, we now hear from Admiral Byrd that the South Magnetic Pole has succumbed to wanderlust and has been moving in a westerly direction since he discovered it in 1929. Man proposes, but there's no doubt as to who disposes!

PERFECT RECORD

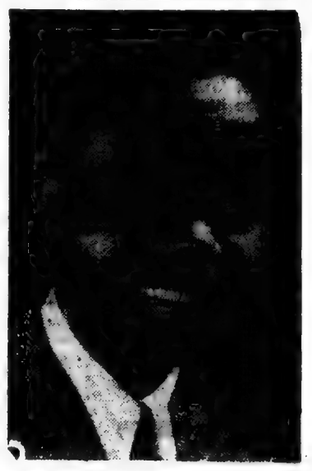
While science was last week offering a new and better remedy for pneumonia, California was announcing its virtual triumph over a once dangerous disease. During 1939, for the first time in nearly a century, not a single death from malaria was reported. That perfect record is a mute but eloquent monument to a half century of progress in medical science.

ANIMALS

BY GENEVIEVE W. MASON

A dog who had been given away managed to walk 300 miles back to his home. Another dog barked so persistently one night, that he aroused 12 people who had barely time to save themselves from the smoke and flames of a burning house.

A cat awakens his master every morning at the exact moment to dress, eat his breakfast, and go to work.



A horse, hitched to a wagon, drew it carefully from the woods to the door of the owner's house, not the barn, when the owner as lying dead in the wagon.

Newspapers carry such items all the time, also items telling of neglect of animals, cruelty and carelessness—neglect that allows horses and cows, valuable in a hundred ways, to starve—cruelty that permits loyal, capable and unselfish dogs to be stolen and sold for experiments, which so often are unnecessary, so rarely conducted properly, and almost never final in their results, careless smokers, who know they have no right to smoke in a barn, are responsible for fires which each year destroy priceless race horses and cattle.

Colored people have the care of more animals in this country than anyone else. Beside that, they own many animals themselves. Dumb brothers in the animal world must look to them for the intelligent handling and kind treatment which makes a dependent life bearable.

This is Kindness To Animals Week. Give your horse or cow, ox or hog, chickens, cats, or birds, and especially your dog, a little more care, a little more brushing or bathing, and by all means, a little more petting than usual.

In that way, you will remind yourself that there are 51 more weeks to follow in which to repeat the habit.

GAMALIEL MANSFIELD COLLINS, who was awarded a $1000 scholarship for one year in voice training by the Hollywood Studio club. The contest began some weeks ago with 88 contestants, professional, trained and untrained, Twenty-one won out for the finals which were held Monday. Young Collins sang "Ole Man River," accompanied by Samuel Lackey, a student of pipe organ, and was awarded the scholarship for the men's division at the close of the contest by three judges, including the music critics of the daily press. He will study with Robert deBruce of North Hollywood. Collins is the son of Rev. and Mrs. H. Mansfield Collins of 8th and Towne church and was the only Negro entered.

LETTERS

Dear Editor:

In a letter, published in the EAGLE, Jan. 11, 1940, the writer dwelt upon the neglect, during the Christmas season, of the colored war veterans, confined in Veterans' hospital at that time. Since then I have received repercussions from one relative and many other persons whom I consider personal friends, to the effect that the letter should not have been sent. The latest today!

I wish to make it clear that in writing that letter, I was not making a personal complaint. I was simply stating my observation. But since the numerous protests have the "personal touch," I see necessity for stating that during the Christmas season, there were 107 colored veterans (actual count) confined in the hospital. This does not include the domiciliary facility up in "The Home."

Every man of them received presents, ranging from razor blades to bed jackets, and Christmas cheer, ranging from hearty handshakes to fervent prayers. But they came from organizations of the other group, the white organizations.

In Los Angeles, there are Negro organizations of every kind, description and class, and I repeat that not one of them was represented here during the Christmas season. Many of them are masquerading under the banner of Religion, Service or Charity. I am wondering what attention they paid to the sick, sorrowful and depressed shut-ins in other hospitals and institutions.

If their attitude toward them was as it was toward the poor "Vet," then they have brought the name of Him who started this Christmas idea into high reproach, and have made a mockery of His teachings.

No, my friend, the letter was not a personal one; nor did it have a personal design. And too, I am wondering if said organizations were at fault, or was it the "committee" who handled the Christmas "fund."

I am respectfully yours,
Vernon W. Reynolds, A. M.
U. S. Vets hospital, Sawtelle.

Dear Editor:

I am very sorry I could not personally thank you for the kindness shown in publishing "Youth Asks America a Question" for me. It was indeed a pleasure, knowing that it was published in the EAGLE, one of the newspapers high respected by myself. Please accept my thanks.

Sincerely,
PAUL BREWER

Dear Editor:

Congratulations and thanks! Congratulations on your participation in the Honor Roll for Democracy Campaign. It was the most successful membership drive in the history of the Los Angeles Branch of NAACP. You can be proud of the fact that you played a part in making this historic membership effort a success.

Please accept my sincere thanks for your cooperation in an effort that means so much for our race and true democracy.

I feel sure that you will join with me in the hope that the success achieved in the Citizen's Honor Roll for Democracy Campaign will mark the beginning of a new era of progress for Los Angeles Branch of NAACP.

Yours sincerely,
GEO. A. BEAVERS, Jr.

"NEW DEAL" THE COST

Dear Editor:

In addition to other ills chargeable against it, the "New Deal" cost may be impressed upon him who thinks and cares by the following:

1. Increased national debt—heavily burdening this and coming generations: $25,000,000,000.

This sum would pay for—

a. $5.00 a day for a year to every resident of California over one day old; and

b. Build 500,000 homes for Californians, costing $5,000 each;

c. Provide food for a year for 1,000,000 California families. . . .

Well! that might be termed "the abundant life" for all California!

And there's left sufficient money to do this: each and all—

a. Build five $40,000 per mile super-highways from ocean to ocean;

b. Build 8 like super-highways —Canada to Gulf and to Mexican border;

c. Widen, deepen and make Panama Canal a sea-level canal; (Internationalize it)

d. Construct Nicagagua Canal (If above be done, why this?);

e. Fortify both canals (why?);

f. Build 5000 submarines;

g. Coast Defense, munitions of war, "crumbs to the 47 "Lazarus" states, "forgotten" when we were looking after California—and no mean sum "to throw at the birds."

That's what the "New Deal's" creator (who never earned a dollar "in the sweat of his face," nor—from experience, knows aught of the poor man's life and problems) cost us and unborn generations. And they—the unborn, will look back and pass judgment upon him—and the asinine, cowardly and forsworn Congresses that "aided and abetted" this astounding inbecility.

And, amazing; There are persons—past cradle age—who clamor to be "drafted" to "complete his work" Complete destruction of the TEMPLE (Political Liberty) our "Fathers" built—its cement, their blood!

Fascists, Communists. Anarchists—all the "undesirables." all feeding at the "trough"—these are the clamorers. None out of their mental swaddling clothes who think and care is amongst them. Of 100 per cent Americans, is there ONE?

Are there enough of these to SAVE US?

A bit more:

That sum ($25,000,000,000) in dollar bills, if placed end to end and ten abreast, would reach to the moon.

It would cover the District of Columbia (more than sixty-sq. miles(solidly; and enough left over to:

a. Give to its more than half million residents $10,000 homes;

b. Feed, clothe and warm them all for ten years ;

c. Give to each of them—infant, child, youth, adult, $2.00 a day "spending money" for ten years; and

d. Put a $20 gold coin in the hands of every person in Los Angeles.

And yet there are persons who would have that destroyer "complete" his work! If I did not know that GOD never helps them who can help themselves; that only by using our "horse sense" can we, do we, answer our own prayer, I might pray:

GOD DELIVER US

has resounded 'round the world.

During the three years of propaganda leading up to the U. S. entrance into the last international battle of commerce, most striking figures were those of the legion of English lecturers and "authorities" who visited our balmy shores with heroic tales of our duty to civilization. At the beginning of the last war, America considered Europe and its affairs completely alien, distant and unimportant to this nation. There was, in truth, a wave of horror at such a catastrophe befalling human beings, but there was no hint in the national consciousness that the disaster might have significant effects in the U. S. A. So the job of English propagandists was to descend from the outside upon a mass of indifferent, innocent, self-centered people with no suspicion that they were urgently needed on battlefields three to six thousand miles across land and sea.

The job of transformation was admirably performed. From the great Carnegie and Town Halls in New York City to the village meetings thruout the country, U. S. citizens were presented with a stunning and unprecedented procession of titled "interpreters of foreign affairs". The baby nation, wide-eyed and impressed, could not withstand such an avalanche of seductive wiles from its mother country. Propaganda in its crudest variations was applied to America—laid on with a trowel, if you please, from foreign offices in Paris and London.

When, A. M. (After Munich), it finally appeared to the English that they must once more defend their ill-gotten gains before an ambitious German nation, it was believed that the U. S. could be won again through the external manipulation of propaganda. The notion was eminently inaccurate. For twenty years, the U. S. had been girding itself for such a development. Never in modern history has there been a generation so thoroughly schooled in the detection and debunking of war propaganda.

Sensing that something special indeed was necessary to inspire proper U. S. enthusiasm for the cause of the Union Jack, British propaganda plotters trotted out the Royal Family, no less, and sent them bouncing merrily over the North American continent, attended by an army of official spokesmen. To no avail. Despite Her Royal Majesty's momentous decision to take tea with a Chicago housewife, thereby landing this good lady on the front page of most American daily papers, national sentiment remained sternly pro-neutral.

After this, various, fleeting, direct attempts at propagandizing the American people were undertaken only to foster a wall of resentment and opposition. Thus, finally, British public relations experts discovered that it was really best to keep quiet.

And into the gap charged Franklin Delano Roosevelt. What grandiose schemes of international reconstruction he may harbor we can only guess, but it is clear that his every action since the war has been sympathetic toward U. S. implication in the contest. It is a new kind of propaganda that wings its way from the very center of our own government. Billions for the army—to what end, Mr. Roosevelt? Speeches in favor of "the civilized way"—to what end, Mr. Roosevelt? Propaganda has changed its tune, no longer accompanied by a brass band, but spued forth to the subtle strains of "civilization", "tolerance" and "democracy". It is not the wolf at the door of whom we must beware, but the rat in our bread box.

The LAUNDRY MAN

By Caldwell Jones

Real Estate Agent Puts Hospital Over—Albert W. Dent, Negro real estate agent and insurance salesman of New Orleans, La., has proven himself a Class A executive. Back in 1931, Edgar Bloom Stern, son-in-law of Julius Rosenwald with the aid of a group of white and Negro doctors, built the Flint Goodridge Hospital for Negroes in New Orleans at a cost of $500,000.00. It is modern, sun-flooded, well equipped, and offers facilities for handling 30,000 patients per year.

Stern picked Albert Dent to put this hospital over. He did it with a bang. When he was appointed superintendent, the hospital had neither patients nor a staff. Dent set out immediately to create both. First, he got a staff together with the aid of some friendly white doctors; next he set out to overcome the traditional aversion of Southern-bred Negroes to hospitals, which they regard as "The Last Mile."

In his drive to get patients he organized venereal disease lectures, started mother's clubs, ran lawn parties, sent nurses into poverty stricken homes. To compete with "Grannies" who delivered 20 per cent of all Negro babies, he offered confinement and hospital care for $10.00. The Negro public finally rose to the bait and took hold.

Today Flint Goodridge hospital is one of the most successfully operated hospitals in the United States, and boasts the cheapest most complete hospital insurance plan in this country—one cent a day. So smoothly does its operation function, that several Northern hospitals have sought and secured the services of Dent to supervise their reorganization plans.

Slum Clearance Battle On—The other day an Assembly Committee got first-hand knowledge of slum conditions in our Angeles City, through a specially planned tour. Scarcely believing their own eyes, they saw dismal 3 and 4 room hovels with outside privies rented for $15.00 per month. Some of these shacks housed as many as 12 persons. In contrast they were shown some of the modern sanitary apartments in Wynverwood, and another government-sponsored project, and were informed that similar 3-room apartments could be built with Government aid and rented for $10.50.

The Apartment House Owners' Association is waging a bitter fight against the proposed State housing bill which will make such projects possible, also the Slum Clearance committee of the California Real Estate Association.

Naturally they would, for its passage would sound the death knell of the Hold-Up rents which Dillinger rent-hogs now demand and get. We hope that the Assembly committee will some day find time to visit our Eastside. We could point out to them a number of "lean-to's" over here that should be condemned, but instead, are renting for much more than $15.00.

"Black Eagle" of Harlem Still Grounded—It must be tough to have been born with the soaring instinct of a mighty eagle, yet forced to putter around on the ground like a Dominick hen. This seems to be the plight of Colonel Hubert Fauntleroy Julian, the Black Eagle, who has never soared successfully as yet. His latest fiasco according to report was his recent arrival at Bergen. Not by way by ship—accompanied however by his airplane and a mechanic. He announced that he had come to fight for Finland. Upon learning that the war had been concluded 24 days before his steamer arrived, he said that he would stick around, and renew his offer in case Finland was again attacked. Mebbe King Haakon of Norway will give him a job chasing German Messerschmitts.

POST NEWS

The California Eagle is one of but two Negro newspapers in the nation that hold membership in the American Press Half Century Club as is recognized by newspaper authorities as one of the best edited weeklies in the nation.

The two wise men who founded the Women's Breakfast club have every assurance that they planned wisely when they organized the ladies.

Though some of the women who helped to make the club famous have parted ways with the present administration, it is said that last Sunday's breakfast meeting demonstrated that new blood is flowing through the veins of this organization.

Even though no newspaper headline announced his coming, none other tha Gov. Culbert L. Olson was honor guest at the YMCA Sunday. Other new faces were those of Atty. Hugh B. Macbeth and brother, Coberly Atty. "Bert" McDonald and Walter Lawson took bows.

State Athletic Commish to Meet

A meeting of the State Athletic commission will be held here Saturday morning. J. M. Gamble, secretary, announced today.

The commission announced in a bulletin this week that a six-year contract has been filed on Joe "Blimp" Williams, heavyweight, by Pasquale Ferrando manager.

LOVE LIFE

It's not very difficult to fall in love and get married. It is exceedingly simple to fall by the wayside and secure a divorce. But it's not always so easy to stay in love and remain married. It can be done, however, and is still being done every day. Connubial bliss is not played up in the public's eyes like scandal and divorce. You only hear and read of the trouble of marriage and the way that they end.

Here are a few suggestions that have been tried and tested as being a way to stay happily married. Love and trust one another. Even though it may not seem a good idea at times, don't keep each other guessing. Each one should be sympathetic and consoling when the trials of the day are especially trying. The wife is the mainstay of a home and it is up to her to keep their married life from becoming monotonous. The husband must also do his share, by being more demonstrative in his affections toward his wife and in the general welfare.

Let Prof. Herman's Astrological foresight and knowledge of this phase of life help you gain success and happiness in your life-time partnership.

M. P. B.—I have been looking for work for the last few weeks and I am becoming very discouraged. Do you think I will ever be successful?

Ans.: According to your Zodiacal sign you are destined to find employment within the next 3 weeks. You have certain qualities that shoud make it much easier for you to find work than lots of other men, so make the most of your abilities and you will be greatly surprised at the results.

M. M. H.—What shall I do to make my friend care more for me?

Ans.: I. B. J. appears to be very interested in you and your signs are favorable. There is nothing you need to do to make him like you; simply be sweet and congenial and let him know that you think him a very fine person.

D. R. E.—What became of my eye glasses?

Ans.: It comes to me that you left your glaases at a friend's home a few weeks ago. But they failed to tell you because they were not sure that the glasses were yours. I vision your getting them within a few days.

H. K.—Where did my friend go after leaving Grand Rapids, Michigan?

Ans.: It appears to me that your friend has been to several different states and is now living in the State of New York.

G. A. J.—Will B. J. and I be good friends again?

Ans.: You and B. J. have entirely different natures and dispositions hence your never being able to get along. However, now that some of your misunderstandings have been cleared up, you will be able to remain as good friends, but nothing more.

Trips to 2 Fairs Go to Popularity Contest Winners

Wouldn't you like to make the New York World's Fair this Summer?

"Sure, who wouldn't?"

Or maybe you'd settle for the San Francisco Exposition?

"You betcha!" . . .

Well, you can . . . that is, if you're popular . . . If you know a lot of people, who would like to help a worthy cause

The Assistance League of the Outdoor Life and Health association, which is putting up a heroic battle to build a tubercular rest home at Duarte, is staging a Popularity Contest, with the above mentioned trips as first and second prizes, plus other awards.

The contest, which begins Monday, is open to anyone. In fact, several folks with the itch to travel have entered already!

So don't you delay! For information call RE. 5526—TODAY!

Mrs. Pearl Browning is chairman of the Contest. Mrs. Seth Lee is president of the Assistance League, and Mrs. Fannie Williams is supervisor.

CARD OF THANKS

Lazy Insides Answer All-Vegetable Call

You ought to know this easy way to get relief when you're lazy intestinally and it has you headachy, bilious, with sour stomach, no energy.

A spicy, aromatic, all-vegetable product taken by simple directions at bedtime, usually allows time for a good night's rest; acts gently, thoroughly next morning. BLACK-DRAUGHT'S satisfying effectiveness is due to a splendid combination of vegetable ingredients, chief of them being an "intestinal tonic-laxative", which helps tone lazy bowel muscles.

Next time, try all-vegetable, time-tested BLACK-DRAUGHT. It's economical, too. 25 to 40 doses: 25c.

FASHIONAIR by El Nora

Here is an ideal girl . . . a little fairer than the average, slim yet delightfully rounded. She is a lucky girl, for she may wear nearly all types of clothing, but there are special styles that are most outstanding on her. Princess type dresses, excellently fitted, show off ideal curves. High waist dresses are youthful and becoming. Closely fitted suits with simple tailored lines, loose and swagger coats, sport things, bathing suits, slacks, play clothes . . . what freedom of choice for the girl who has nothing to hide. Her clothes may be of any colors becoming to her, as long as they are harmonious together. Her shoes should be suited to the occasion, sport, business or evening. She wears the current novelty jewelry, and indulges in rare perfume and very sheer hose for a sophisticated touch.

Pasadena Reviews Activities of Days Long Ago

EDITORIALS
Seen Through the Eye of The Eagle

WRITER TAKES ISSUE WITH EDITOR; CALL JAN. 7 MEETING SUCCESS

Editor's Note: Ordinarily we do not publish letters to the editor in "The Seen Through the Eye of the Eagle" column, but since this presents another side to the issue raised last week, we are publishing it in full.)

Friend Editor:

When is a meeting a failure and when is it a success?

Reference was made in last week's editorial to the meeting of Jan. 7, the 'Emancipation Proclamation Celebration" held at Scott Methodist church.

Well, friends, all who were present (despite a driving rain) will long remember the oratorical brilliance, the profundity of wisdom, the very electrically-charged atmosphere of that occasion. The question, 'What the Negro of Pasadena Expects," (or some such topic) was analyzed, synthesized, broken down and built up, until at last, rafters resounding with the applause of "all present," we went home. All that a flop?

Actually, we felt that the meeting was eminently successful. And why? Just this: after three months of inactivity on the part of all those contributing gems of oratory .as well as the rest of us) here is one who says: "But what have we done?"

No, editor, we take issue with you. Our meeting, because of the seed of restlessness it planted in our heart—and perhaps in others— was a success!

Now, to one accustomed to "getting flops done," our contention seem a bit odd, perhaps, but being a resident of our local "Indifferent, Indurate (had to look that one up). Indolent, rustic society," we see in your restlessness a reflection of an urge for activity in our own hearts which has driven us to seek expression in everything—from Christianity to Marxian Socialism—to no avail.

To whom are we to turn? Shall we turn to our leaders? Or, is our salvation not so much a matter of group development as it is of individual expression?

At first blush, the question raised as to the source of activity in Negro advancement locally, i.e., "in the leaders of in the masses," seems as fruitless as that pointless query concerning "whether of not the egg or the chicken came first, "but in reality there may be a solution to our problem if we are but imbued with sufficient sincerity of purpose, clarity of vision and "utsay."

In the face of such machinery as now, we see it and as long as maintained, the present writer is reminded of the story of the exodus of the Hebrews from "Hitlerian" Egypt; especially are we mindful of that passage Exodus, 17:3-1) "and the people thirsted there for water (being in the desert) and the people murmured against Moses and said, wherefore is this that thou hast brought us up out of Egypt, to kill us and our children and our cattle with thirst?. . . and Moses cried out unto the Lord . . and the Lord said unto Moses . . . Behold, I will stand before thee there upon the rock . . . and thou shalt smite the rock, and there shall come water out of it that the people may drink. And Moses did so!"

Look to the masses? Ach! To leaders! Ach! Our salvation, politically and socially, lies in our willingness to follow leadership greater than anyone or any combination of "you's and me's!" Thus armed, we too may "strike our rock" and drink of cooling waters. Know! Then act! "Factis non verbis."

The masses always have thirsted. It has been intelligent, conscientious, careful, courageous, wisdom in the few which has inspired the many. Don't berate the masses, commiserate with them. "Without vision, a people perish." That our old men have ceased to dream and our young men to see visions, is not a shortcoming of the masses!

No, friend, our meeting was not a "flop". As long as a three-months interval cannot completely eradicate an impression, that impression has not failed. It's the "arrows that we find imbedded in oaks," the song lies in human hearts."

May we, as possible leaders, sing unceasingly of liberty, equality and fraternity. Some say, even among rustic bumpkins an echo shall thunder from the hearts of the masses.

Sincerely,
W. L. M.

THE NEGRO AND THE NEXT WAR

If this present war in Europe continues to spread, it will soon have the United States in it. And that will mean that the Negroes will again be in the thick of the fight, trying to "make the world safe for democracy."

Negroes had no exclusion practiced against them under the World War Draft Law, although they had been excluded from having equal opportunities in lines of work and social justice. At the time of the draft, they

● TURNING BACK THE PAGES OF PASADENA'S PAST

FRIENDSHIP BAPTIST CHURCH

During the years 1891 and 1892, several members of the Wheat Street Baptist church of Atlanta, Georgia came to Pasadena. Finding no Baptist church in this city, they asked Rev. Chester H. Anderson, who was pastor of the Second Baptist church of Los Angeles, to organize a church in Pasadena.

In 1893, Rev. Anderson came over and met with a few Baptists in a little frame building on Kansas street, now known as Green street. Those meeting at this time were Mr. and Mrs. Rubin Scott, Mrs. Hill, Mrs. Rena Reynolds, Mrs. Alice Griffin, Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Fowler and the Misses Henrietta and Annie Fowler. Rev. Fowler was chosen to act as pastor.

Previous to Rev. Grimm who built a nice little church on South Vernon were Rev. Yancy, Rev. Young, Rev. Kelley, Rev. Bushell and Rev. Evans.

After the church had been pastored by Rev. Johnson, Rev. Riddle, and Rev. Tillman, the congregation had grown so that they had to build another church. The trustees bought a lot on the corner of Dayton and Delacy. A new church costing more than $100.000 dollars was built here. Beautiful Friendship Baptist church was built under the pastorate and direction of Rev. W. D. Carter. They have a large and flourishing congregation.

Rev. Carter is now serving his 14th year. He is loved by all, regardless of denomination or race. He pastors one of our finest churches. It has many beautiful rooms, a fine pipe organ, rich furnishings and attractive stained glass windows. In the front of the chorch is a beautiful window which is a memorial to Mr. Rubin Scott.

Friendship has produced some strong men and women such as: Capt. Wm. Reynolts, the great song leader; Mr. Wm. Solomon, Bible teacher; Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher Smith, Young People's leaders; Mrs. Booker, the organist; Rev. Ford, Professor and Mrs. W. A. Payne; Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Mills, Mrs. Hicks, the singer; Mr. and Mrs. Burton and others whom we would be glad to mention if we had the space.

We have enjoyed many fine get-together meetings in this great church of some six or seven hundred members. A person always feels at home when he goes to Friendship.

What a Patient Should Know

BY ELIZABETH WAKNIZ

Shall we unwillingly surrender to Disease and Death? The Dictionary defines Medicine as the science of the treatment and alleviation of Disease, a specific for the cure of Disease. Therefore, is it not evident that somewhere someone has a specific to overcome Disease?

The hand of man has conquered the land, the sea and the sky and developed many intelligent feats in the wild animals? Can we also conquer the invisible germ that inflicts our bodies?

Inventions for pleasure and use have brought untold happiness to humanity; bt there is a cloud and a peril that confronts us, for in many homes a loved one is ill and longs to live.

For thousands of years, botanists have traversed and searched the world over for specimens of growing plants and have exercised great care in the gathering. the curing and placing in Herberiums the specimens that retained their most natural color.

There scientists met to ascertain their medicinal value. Herbalist-scientists classed the specimens as poisonous and non-poisonous and formulated recipes, which were used on patients ill of many diseases; after observing their effect on the various diseases, they discarded all plants that contained poison as dangerous and kept all recipes that did not contain poison that had won a victory over disease.

The animals possess an instinct when they are ill and are free; they will wend their way to some plant and partake thereof. There is a wonder working power in the herbs of the field.

Men's Day at First AME Sunday

Sunday, April 21, will be Men's Day at First A. M. E. Church, Vernon and Kensington, and promises to be an outstanding event in that it will be featured somewhat afer a General Conference.

There are ten major teams and one juvenile team in the field, each being named after one of the outstanding Bishops of the A. M. E. Connecion.

Rev. Jonathan A. Dames, our new Pastor will preach the morning sermon and will also represent Bishop Richard Allen; the theme of the day will be "Golden Momories" and the sermon will harmonize with this theme.

The day will be climaxed with a drama at night featuring the Biblical play, "Joseph's Brother". A capacity audience is expected as this play is being produced by our new Pastor. Come early for good seats. Mr. J. B. Frierson, the general chairman of the Men's Day services, also states that good seats for the evening program will be available to 7:30 P. M.

Baptist Hosts Ready for 3-Day Meet

Goodwill Tours Groups Arrive Saturday Morn

With only two days left before the arrival of the long-anticipated Good Will Tours group of the National Baptist Convention, Baptist forces are consummating arrangements for such parades, mass meetings, luncheon, and various other activities that are planned to make this three-day meet one of educational, informational and spiritual benefit to the churches here in Los Angeles and vicinity; and at the same time, to extend the warmest hospitaity to the members of the party.

When the entourage arrives Saturday morning at 8 o'clock, they will be conducted, by motorcade and special police escort, to the Second Baptist church where breakfast will be served. At ten thirty a. m. the Baptist Cavalcade will lead a sight-seeing tour, embracing Central Avenue Business District, Negro Baptist churches, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Studios, and other points of interest; concluding with a special meeting at 2:30 p. m. at Friendship Baptist church, Pasadena.

Sunday morning and evening the visitors will occupy pulpits in Baptist churches in Los Angeles and civinity. At 21:30 p. m. Sunday, a general Mass Meeting will be held at Mt. Zion Baptist church, 50th and Hooper; Dr. L. K. Williams, president of the National Baptist Convention, will be the principal speaker. Monday there will be denominational clinics and inspirational addresses throughout the day at Second Baptist church. A Fellowship Luncheon will be tendered the members of the Good Will Tour ata 12:30. Baptist Women of this area will hold a special mass meeting at St. Paul Baptist church, Naomi and 21st, at 2:30 p. m. Monday. Mrs. S. W. Layton, president of the Women's Baptis tConvention, will be the principal speaker.

All persons desiring to participate in the Baptist Cavalcade and parade must have their cars at Second Baptist church ready for parade formation at ten o'clock Saturday morning. The general public is invited to attend all sessions during the three days.

Pasadena N. A. A. C. P. Will Meet Sunday

Every meeting of the Pasadena Branch NAACP during 1940 has been a planned meeting. In January, a joint celebration of Emancipation ;in February, a notable Douglass-Lincoln dinner; in March, a patriotic meeting was held. At this meeting, Mrs. B. E. Hansen of the Daughters of Union Veterans, Lucretia Garfield Tent No. 19, presented the honored guests, surviving Union Veterans. In befitting remarks, she gave a United States flag to the Branch. Dr. Griffin, in her gracious way, received it and a representation from Crown City Post, American Legion, formally unfurled the banner. Dr. Elbert Moore, a charter member of the NAACP, gave a masterly speech, giving a brief history of the Association.

Other participants on this program were the Scott Community Orchestra, Rev. Karl Downs, pastor of Scott Methodist church; Rev. E. V. Banks of Calvary CME church and Mrs. Sharnette Floyd, choir director of Metropolitan Baptist church.

NEXT MEETING APRIL 21

The April public meeting will be held at Calvary CME church, Glorietta and Kirkwood avenue, two blocks west from Fair Oaks avenue, Sunday, April 21, at 3 p. m. All Pasadena citizens and friends are urged to be present.

GEORGE GARNER MAKES PROGRESS IN FIELD OF MUSIC IN PASADENA

Article on Garner Starts Series Concerning Advancement in Southern California

By NETTA PAULLYN

The visit of the city directory censors remind one of the passing of five years. Lest we become unmindful of the progress made during that interim, a series of articles will appear as a reminder of the social, cultural and economic advance of our people in Los Angeles and its environs. The progress in Pasadena has been steady, slow and sure and for that reason liable to be unobserved by the uninformed. My first article will be of the progress in the music field by George Garner of Pasadena, California.

PROF. and MRS. GEORGE R. GARNER, shown in a recent pose with Miss Marian Anderson, noted Negro contralto. The Garners have done much toward the advancement of music in Pasadena and Los Angeles. He is the chorister of the First A.M.E. Church, 8th and Towne avenue, Los Angeles.

The appointment of George Garner to the post of public school music teacher from our ranks was a step forward. Mr. George R. Garner, the first Negro teacher to be appointed by the Pasadena Board of Education is a substitute of the day system and as such is eligible for membership of the Adult Education Department.

George Garner, through training and experience is able to produce artistic results of such caliber that his work has received special recognition. As a conductor and builder of choral groups through the Pasadena School System he was appointed director of Negro music for the State of California for the San Diego Exposition. A medal of recognition and appreciation from the governing body was awarded for that accomplishment.

National Music Week throughout these United States is a period set aside for the acknowledgement of promising talent and accepted musical scores. It is indeed an appointment of honor for Mr. Garner to have been appointed a member of the Executive State Board of this august body of active musicians and substantial sponsors—as such as he has served two years. Music teachers throughout America have found the approach to music must meet the changing attitudes and standards of the present situation and for that reason national conferences are called at stated intervals that representatives from every state in these United States may give informative data on the work covered and the best approach for a richer future musically. As an appointee to the California Teachers Assoeiation, Mr. Garner is recognized as an authority on choral conducting and mass voice placement.

Mrs. Netta P. Garner is also a teacher with the Pasadena Board of Education and as such has assisted Mr. Garner in his particular field. Together with a wide background of musical training in both America and Europe, both Mr. and Mrs. Garner are serious students of Education and Anthropology and are master students at the University of California.

The Lutheran Church (white) of the Pacific Coast has long been aware of the importance of choral music in their religious life and with that objective, select their choir directors to meet in conference for 14 days of each year to the Pacific Palisades to absorb a complete outline of music for the following year. The post of head of this group has been filled by George Garner for three years. His assistants are (white) members of this church body from other Pacific Coast states .

Negro folk lore and music has long attracted both Mr. and Mrs. Garner and due to their interest they have given this particular field of music very serious study. Their work has been recognized by many music groups and has been an ine haustible series of lectures in this particular field. They have acquired a frame building which has been remodeled to meet the need of space to house a choral group with space for a library. Because of recognition and interest by observing laymen, this property is referred to as the George Garner Music Center. The work in this center is a leisure work of devotion, but with a keenness and alertness to all possible material that may lead to the unearthing of the possible origin and formation of our Negro music.

COMMERCIAL FIELD

The Sears Roebuck mercantile company, branches located in every sizable city of America, has recognized Mr. Garner's ability to get results with large groups and has appointed him as choral director to supervise their special music. The Easter and Christmas season are the periods which this large concern emphasizes. Mr. Garner supervises music to compliment these seasons. The Christmas carols sung throughout the establishments were under his direction.

The Pessimist

Nothing to do but work,
Nothing to eat but food.
Nohing to wear but clothes
To keep one from going nude.

Nothing to breathe but air,
Quick as a flash 'tis gone;
Nowhere to fall but off,
Nowhere to stand but on.

Nothing to comb but hair,
Nowhere to sleep but in bed,
Nothing to weep but tears,
Nothing to bury but dead.

Nothing to sing but songs,
Ah, well, alas! alack!
Nowhere to go but out
Nowhere to come but back.

Adult Education Classes Available to Pasadenans

Adult Education classes in various fields and interests are available to Pasadenans, Miss Christine Lofstedt, supervisor of the WPA education program, announced to the Pasadena Supplement of the California Eagle.

Since the classes cover a wide range of interest and are free to the public, they should attract a large enrollment. The increasing demands on the part of employers for a wider range of knowledge and skill on the part of the employed or job seeker means that the working man and woman should constantly make cultural and technical improvement.

Increased leisure time makes it possible for those who have not had opportunity to attend school as they have desired to pursue a definite course of study through the means of the classes which are being held from night to night.

Typewriting is a subject that will improve the efficiency and worth of any employed person and certainly would be of value in obtaining employment in many lines of work. Classes in dressmaking, eltmentary English, French, Arts and Crafts, Dramatic Art, Speech Correction, Portrait and Life, Spanish and the like are available without money and without price.

The class in Arts and Crafts is held at the Pasadena Settlement, 864 S. Raymond, Mon., Tues., Thurs., and Fri., from 12:30-4:00 p. m. The elementary English class is held at the Garner Center, 470 Blake St., Mon., Tues., Wed., and Fri., 6:30-9:30 p. m. Classes in Portrait and Life are available at 26 W. Union St., on Mondays and Tuesdays, 7:30-10:30 p. m. and on Tuesdays and Wednesdays, 9:00-12:00 a. m.

At the Pasadena Junior college's West Campus the class in Typewriting is held on Mon., Tues., Wed. and Thurs., from 6:15 to 9:15 p. m.. A class in Spanish is also held on the West Campus Mon., Wed., and Thurs., from 6:30-9:00 p. m.

Early afternoon classes in French and Spanish are held at Longfellow School, 1065 E. Washington, Tuesday and Thursdays, 1:00 to 3:30 p. m. Dressmaking is held at this same school on Mondays and Wednesdays, 1:00-4:00 p. m. and also on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 9:00-12:00 a. m.

Enrollment in any of these classes is possible at the present time.

Article of Faith

Against brutality and wrong . .
Build us a fortress pledged to song!
Against the tyrant and the knave,
The vicious lord, the venal slave,
Against the darkness and the grave
Against the horrors of the hour,
Beast passion and the lust for power—
Build us, oh, build the singing tower.

Now that the world is drenched with blood
And truth is trampled in the mud;
Now that the quest for beauty dulls,
And buzzards blacken over the skulls,
And man is once more crucified,
And the sky splits from side to side,
And the Four Feverish Horsemen ride,
Build us a temple where the treasure
Of heart and mind in noble measure
May stand, though every house be shaken
Endure, though every tower taken;
And from the dead ashes reawaken
Once more in man's impatient breast
Hungers no death can put to rest
The dream, the courage and the Quest.

—JOSEPH AUSLANDER.

OAKES ENTERTAIN FOR LUNCEFORD AND BAND

The beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Oakes was the scene of a lovely party honoring Jimmie Lunceford and his orchestra boys and the Deery sisters and Miller brothers. The guests enjoyed a lovely time and were loud in praise of their hosts and Mrs. Lizzie Thurman, sister of Mrs. Oakes, of the popular Oakland Cafe.

STYLE LEADER

Again Mr. J. D. Richardson set a precedent when he modeled a new style hat sensation during the early winter months. Easter Sunday saw this extremely wide brimmed creation adorning the heads of many a well dressed fashionable gentleman. Anxiously the members of the younger set seem to watch Mr. Richardson for the latest models in wearing apparel and most generously and often does he satisfy.

SOMETHING DIFFERENT

Looking in on one of the most orderly cabarets in Denver, the establishment of Mr. B. Hooper, last Sunday night filmed his entertainers and patrons in action. This feature was only one of the many that he is forever offering his guests, and to a man who respects everybody, and requires each person entering his premises to respect one another; may he attain the goal for which he is seeking.

● JUST TRUTH

The man who finds his business has "gone to the dogs" is usually the one who has whined the most.

All things come to him who hustles while he waits.

If you want to "get ahead," first learn to use the one you have.

Isn't it marvelous how quickly a crowd of failures can pick the reputation of a successful man to pieces.

constituted one-tenth of the population ,but they formed 13 per cent of the manpower of the armed forces of the United States. Two hundred thousand Negro troops were sent overseas.

The war was fought and won, and all parts of the world were made safe for democracy. The Negro returned full of hope and expecting at least social justice. But traditional taboos remained in this country. Negro veterans were refused even entrance into the brotherhood of labor.

Several things completely unfitted the Negro from falling into the traditional "outcast" role on his return to this country. He found that he could fight as good as any other race. The 370th Regiment (8th Illinois), officered throughout by Negroes, received more citations and Croix de Guerre than any other American regiment in France. Then the Alpht Army Tests showed them that their intelligence was on a par with their white comrades.

When war comes, what will the Negro do this time?

PASADENA JAYSEE NEWS

BY ESTHER OWENS

ATHLETICS

Ulysses Allen came in third in the 440 at Glendale Saturday.

Some of the boys who have been out for track this season are: William Irving, who came in second in the 220 and third in the hundred yard dash. Bill now has enough points for his letter.

Rufus Blake was second in the Fullerton meet. Due to an injured ankle, he has been unable to enter any other track meets.

WEST CAMPUS

Willie Anderson of West Campus has really showed the coaches how he can step forward; Willie came in second at the Glendale track meet.

Homer Houston is really stepping forward. Homer ran the 100 yd. dash in 10.2; that is very good for a freshman. Other West Campus students out for track are Walter Knott and James Armstrong.

ATHLETICS . . . GIRLS EAST CAMPUS

Alice Presley, Monrovia's gift to PJC is taking the eye of the Physical Education teachers on the east campus. Last Friday, I had the pleasure of watching her play tennis against a girl from LACC. She is a member of the Women's Athletic Association Tennis Team, and plays tennis with accuracy and ease. Alice has a good stroke and her serve is very powerful. She is a senior at Pasadena and her leaving will be a great loss to Jaysee.

Symanthia Hester, born Mar. 17, 1923, is one of the Negro girls who is very active in athletics on the West campus. Symanthia is 5 ft. 5, weight 107 lb., has blue eyes and a pleasing personality. She is very well liked by the students and is very outstanding in any sport. She makes 8 out of 10 shots in basketball generally. In Junior High school she played with Barbara George, making an unbeatable combination; she received a letter, numeral and the GAA emblem for the highest record in attendance and merit. Here's wishing her success in her every endeavor.

SOCIAL NEWS

The Sepian Pullae is really an outstanding club in the social circles of Pasadena. Doris Prince is president; Nora Mae Worril, vice president; Caroline Callier, secretary, and Imogene Thompson, treasurer.

The Ebony Earles have accepted Joseph (Duke) Smith as a member of their club.

Nella DeSuze has been admitted to the Crown City tennis team.

John Anderson, Jack Gordon, James Ruffin and Mack Robinson are expected back from the Relays sometime this week.

The Alpho Foo Alpha, a new club, has been organized by some of the students of Pasadena Jaysee.

The Sepia Pullae are giving a beach trip Aprli 27. Tickets are on sale for forty cents. They are serving hot dogs and potato salad.

CAMPUSES ATTITUDE TOWARD EACH OTHER

The feeling between the two campuses doesn't seem to be a feeling of unity.

A student of East campus states: "The students of West campus seem to be out only for a good time, and the social contacts that they can make, whereas the students of the East campus are striving to equip themselves with the proper material to enter college, or their life's work."

A student of the West campus states, "The students of the West campus are friendlier one towards the other than the students of the East campus. I have attended both campuses, and I was satisfied on the East campus until I attended the West campus. Then I began to see the difference in the attitude of the students. I feel more at home at the West campus because of the friendlier attitude of associates. We do study on the West campus but we study at home, and try to become better acquainted with our fellow students while at school."

Health Twins — Bread and Milk

By BETTY BARCLAY

That good old-fashioned supper dish, a bowl of bread-and-milk, is coming into favor again!

It's simple to prepare — a grand team for flavor — and practically a complete food for buoyant good health. Today leading nutritionists have taken up its praise where our grandparents left off. For they've discovered that a bowl of bread-and-milk supplies nearly everything the human body needs.

Vitamin-rich

Pure milk, they explain, is a "protective" food. It's rich in vitamins and minerals that "protect" by helping you to build up resistance. Milk might be called a "beauty food," too, because its food factors are necessary for lustrous hair and a healthy complexion. Grown-ups, as well as youngsters, need the vitamins and minerals in a bowl of bread-and-milk.

Bread for Energy

The modern white bread you get from the grocer or the baker, is made with milk, too. It contains some vitamins and minerals, as well as valuable proteins for muscle and tissue repair. But bread is chiefly important as our best and cheapest energy-food.

Since 85% of all the food we eat is used by the body for creating energy, it's easy to see why bread's been our "staff of life" for centuries.

Not Fattening

A supper-time bowl of bread-and-milk makes a satisfying and a nourishing meal — but it's not a "fattening" food.

One pint of pasteurized or certified milk provides 340 calories. Three slices of bread (the usual ready-sliced type) each add approximately 70 calories more. A generous bowl of bread-and-milk, therefore, supplies approximately 550 calories.

You could actually live on five such bowls of bread-and-milk a day without getting one bit fatter, for the average adult needs from 2,500 to 3,000 calories daily.

Ways to Serve Bread-and-Milk

According to Dr. James A. Tobey, prominent health authority, bread and milk combines to make an ideal "little meal" for children. So — when you're in a hurry — make it bread-and-milk . . . for breakfast, lunch, a fourth meal at four, or for supper. And there are dozens of ways you can "dress it up."

Some like it hot: for a warming dish, simply heat up the milk (but don't boil it). For a cereal-dish, stir bread in hot milk till it's soft, then add salt and butter. Or parch the bread in your oven, and pour browned butter and hot milk over the crisp gold slices.

Some like it cold: try rich slices of baker's bread cut into squares and covered with ice cold milk, served in a deep dish and sprinkled with sugar.

Flavor the milk anyway you like — with sugar and vanilla, raspberry jam, nutmeg and sugar, cinnamon and sugar, chocolate sauce, beaten raw egg and a little sugar.

Or spread the bread with molasses or corn syrup, with butter and brown sugar, with honey, jelly or jam. Let the youngsters discover new bread-and-milk treats for themselves. They'll love the fun of experimenting — and enjoy these "twin foods" for sturdy health all the more!

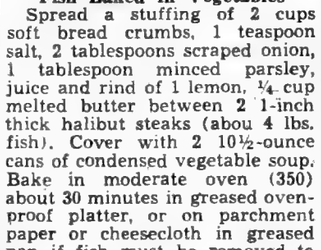
LOVE IS THE WAY

Song For The New Year

The guns of chaos roar away the night
And crack the coral silences of dusk
While Spain is gasping through heroic fight
And China shrivels like a withered husk.



The world is shaking yet from Hitler's shout.
And ghettos stretch where beaten people crawl.
The fires of hope now flicker—then go out,
The world is one gigantic Wailing Wall.

This is the old year's world. What of the new?
The task is ours to hush the hellish din.
Love is the way—and constant faith to view.
The world we yet shall dare to usher in.

ST. BARNABAS CHAPEL NOTES

Confirmation class is now being formed to be presented in June. All persons interested are asked to see the Vicar after the 11 a. m. Sunday service. He is also available Thursday evenings at 7:30 p. m. in the parish house. Sundays, Mass at 7:30 and 11 a. m., except the first Sunday, when morning prayer is said at 11. Thanks are expressed to the models and friends who made possible the success of the Georgia Weatherton Group Fashion Tea, held Sunday at the residence of the leader, Mrs. Robert E. Keys. Everyone is welcome to worship at St. Barnabas, 1062 N. Fair Oaks avenue.

CALVARY CME CHURCH
Cor. Glorietta & Kirkwood Aves.
Rev. E. V. Banks, Pastor

Last Sunday marked the third consecutive high day with Calvary. The Presiding Elder, in the person of Rev. G. L. Hays of Los Angeles, delivered the message, "Ever the Same."

Three o'clock marked the climax of the day. Rev. L. R. Dyas of Harris Memorial CME church of L. A. was the speaker for the Union meeting.

Again we were honored with the presence of our beloved senior bishop, Rt. Rev. C. H. Phillips, and his queenly wife.

Their stay here has been most enjoyable and their presence has brought sunshine to our social and spiritual life.

The Epworth League, under the leadership of Mr. Preston Hickambottom, is doing a fine piece of work.

Community Baptist Church
Rev. J. W. Coleman, D. D., Pastor

Woman's Day program on last Sunday went far beyond all expectations. Beginning with the church school, the morning, afternoon and evening services were all well attended.

Among the women who delivered special addresses were. Mrs E. W. Moore. Mrs. C. M. Long of Friendship Baptist; Miss Bernice Burch and E. Callender, Mrs. C. Hall.

Mrs. Elizabeth Holmes was chairman, Mrs. J. W. Coleman, mistress of ceremonies. Rev. J. T. Brown preached morning and evening. The program was a real success.

The Revival meeting, conducted by Dr. J. T. Brown, has had great success. Mrs. D. W. Phelps, Catherine Jones and Rev. Lewis Callender, served as the special committee.

The building has recently been painted and decorated both in and out.

Many of the community groups are meeting in the church center.

The Sunday School has increased and the total membership is now an appreciative one. With the many fine contacts being made by Dr. Coleman and the manly way that he has approached his new tasks, the indications are that this will be among Pasadena's most outstanding church organizations.

The pastor will preach morning and evening on next Sunday.

NICKERSON'S MISSION

The Young People's Meeting at Eld. and Sr. Nickerson's Mission was well attended last Sunday by Los Angeles' visitors. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell Pride and son and Mr. Booker Washington. A surprise volunteer program was presented by Mrs. Quincy James, Mrs. Clarence Guy, Mrs. Pride, Elders Monteir and Bone, Mother Montier, Mrs. Samuel Guy. A beautiful trio was sung by Eld. James, Sr. Nellie Dayan and Mrs. Pride. The sermon was given by Elder James.

Sponsored by Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Guy, the young people gave an exhibition of art and invention work which was very delightful. Rev. James exhibited a motor which makes its own power without fuel.

LINCOLN AVENUE BAPTIST CHURCH—
Lincoln Ave. and Hammond St.

Sunday School opened at 9:30 a. m. with a very good attendance. Rev. V. F. Goff, who is in charge of the services while Rev. Hockenhull is out of the city, preached a wonderful sermon, his subject was "He Made the Wrong Sale."

The afternoon service was under the auspices of the Usher Board. They were successful both spiritually and financially.

Rev. C. Randolph preached at the evening service. His subject was, "My Heart's desire for Israel is That They Might be Saved". Club reports each Sunday evening are increasing. —Anna Tracy, Reporter.

A HEARTY WELCOME TO EVERYBODY

IT PAYS TO CACKLE!

Scientifically, chicken eggs are no better than duck eggs. But the average person won't buy them at any price. If chicken eggs were selling for a dollar a dozen, the average housewife wouldn't buy duck eggs at 10 cents per dozen.

Why?

The difference is due to advertising.

The duck, when she lays an egg, waddles off in silence and with her head hanging low.

The hen, with head lifted high, comes off the nest cackling. And the old rooster sticks out his chest and crows about it!

It pays to advertise. (See J. W. Porter, our Pasadena representative of The California Eagle, or telephone SYcamore 3-1665.)

Golden State Agents Seek to Underwrite 'Household Disaster' in A. & H. Campaign

Representatives of Golden State Mutual Life Insurance company, with hundreds of other agents will enter the national campaign to increase personal protection Monday, April 22, the beginning of national Accident and Health Week which lasts through April 27.

Everywhere, prospects and men of the street are asking the meaning of the "68" buttons and teaser ads which are a part of the campaign; and representatives are ready with statistics: "68 persons in the United States are laid up every minute by sickness and accident—51 by sickness and 17 by accident".

Sickness and accidents as breeders of "household disaster" is the description given by the United States Public Health Service in its Interdepartmental Committee's findings. Many of the persons who are victims of accidents are without insurance. It is to lessen the calamity in homes in times of unexpected disability that Golden State Mutual participates in the sixth annual observance of the Accident and Health Week sponsored by the National Accident and Health Association.

Statistics released by the American Medical Association show that nearly half the cases in accredited hospitals are not able to pay their bills, it was pointed out by company repreesentatives and managers. Attention is also called to the fact that people living on limited incomes are those most in need of insurance and those of higher income levels are most obligated to insure themselves and dependents in order to maintain their living standards.

More than a score of Golden State Mutual agents won honors in last year's campaign, and those, with others, are concentrating on breaking their own and established records in bringing more protection to more people. According to available statistics, Golden State Mutual is the only Negro company that participates annually in the campaign; furthermore, it is the only Negro company licensed to sell Accident and Health insurance in California and Illinois.

Vocational at Jefferson Makes Hit

The 12 groups of 11th grade students at Jefferson High school who participated in the recent Vocational Day, covered topics in the academic and industrial fields in their discussions.

Each group had a speaker who was chosen because of marked success in his chosen occupation, each had a teacher host or hostess, and a student host or hostess, and each was conducted by a student chairman.

Mrs. Senola Green was the teacher hostess for the teaching group. Anna Mae McShann was the student chairman and Hazel Eason was the student hostess. Mrs. Bessie Burke, principal of Nevin Avenue school was the speaker.

Mrs. Gertrude Smith and Lillian Lomax were the hostesses for the nursing group, which heard Miss Ferrol Bobo. Louise Calhoun acted as chairman.

SOCIAL SERVICE

Both Mrs. Mary Tssassis and Floyd Covington spoke to the group interested in social service, for which Mrs. Cecil Larsen and Vivian Staton were hostesses. Fannie Plummer was the chairman of the group.

Dr. Warner R. Wright was the speaker on medicine. Mrs. Larsen and Iris Hodnett were the hostesses and Fannie Plummer was again chairman.

The speaker on agriculture was Henry Elmore, who was introduced by Urbano Robles. Roy Merrick was the host for the teachers and Joe Sutera was the student host.

Ray Herndon gave the talk on auto mechanics. The hosts for the group were Louis Emme and James McClinnahan. Elroy Foley was the chairman.

Unfortunately, Frederick Clopton, who was expected to speak on cabinet making, was unable to be present. The host for the group was Mr. George Wilson and the hostess was Veneta Hayden. The chairman was John Dooley.

Prentiss Brown, who spoke on electricity, was one of the original students at Jefferson High school. He graduated in 1920. Raymond Sebelius was the host and Juanita Jones was the hostess. The chairman was Joe Byas.

The speaker on mechanical drafting was Stiles Clements. William Reilly was the host; Autrina King was the hostess and Robert Verdugo was the chairman.

Oglesby Heads Willowbrook Club

The Willowbrook Civic Betterment club held annual election of officers Mar. 27th. Jolly Oglesby was elected president; Randolph Wicker, vice president; Beulah Pullum, secretary; Zerlease A. Schamberger, financial and corresponding secretary; Hilton A. Phillips, treasurer; Mr. Pullum, sergeant-at-arms.

Blanche Walker, Beatrice White, Vera A. Ellis, Mamie Truitt, Cora White, Mrs. Bailey and Mrs. Wilson were elected members of the Executive Committee.

The Club, which has as its slogan, "Come to Willowbrook and live" voted to request the County Board of Supervisors to improve Compton Creek which is a constant flood menace to the Blodgett Tract and the western part of Willowbrook. A "yes" vote for creation of a fire protec-

Yard Goods a Fifth Street Store Specialty

Each of us can do some one thing better than almost everybody else. We all have some special talent, no matter how small . . . and if we're smart, we've developed that talent.

That goes for business, too. Take Fifth Street store, for instance. There's a lot of competition in the department store business, but there's at least one service offered by Fifth Street, in which the other stores cannot begin to compete.

Fifth Street is the place to buy Yard Goods!

Frankly, we don't know how they do it. But Fifth Street always manages to keep ahead of the other stores in quality and quantity of selection in Yard Goods . . . in models . . . patterns . . . in REASONABLE PRICES . . . and the last mentioned might apply to all Fifth Street service. It's Reasonably Priced.

West Pico Can Make Play Spots of Backyards

Summer has come and with it, the call to the out-of-doors. These weekends you're hopping in your car and whirling off to the distant beaches, the parks, the highways . . . anywhere just to get out of the house.

That's swell . . . but you don't have to leave home to have fun out-of-doors.

What about your back yard? If your backyard is neglected, a desert kept in the background of your home, call in a West Pico salesman and let him offer you expert advice on how to make your backyard a play spot! . . . better than the average play spot, because it's private . . . for you and yours alone!

Salesmen for the Central avenue store of the West Pico Furniture Co. can show you how to do it. Give them a trial!

What Goes on at Camp Minnewawa

BY W. A. PAYNE, II

There are four definite departments involved in the CCC life: the War Department, the Technical Service (Forestry), the Selecting Agencies and the Educational Department. In this, the first of this series, let us consider the Technical Service and what it offers the enrollees.

Primarily, the Civilian Conservation Corps was, and is established, "To Build Men To Build Forests." When we think of the CCC we usually think of fire suppression, but fire suppression is only a small part of camp life. In order to put out a fire one must first be able to get to the burning section with safety. Therefore, let us start with road construction.

Part of the winter months are spent in building what are known in the CCC as truck trails.

Truck trails are, in actuality, unpaved roads. There are many in mountains and forests, built by CCC enrollees and maintained by our respective counties. The work on these roads, by the boys is identical to the work done by any road construction contractor.

STAKE ROUTE

After right of ways have been secured and approved by the government and property owner, the enrolles are taught to survey and stake the best route. After which comes the actual cutting and grading the proposed road. Naturally working in mountainous areas construction crews run into rocks and boulders. These are drilled, blasted and shoved over the side. This necessitates the training of jack hammer operators for drilling powder men to handle the dynamite and cat operators to handle the heavy equipment. This equipment costs thousands of dollars. After the rocks, etc., are taken off the road must be graded and sloped. The sloping is done by hand. That is, the sides of the mountains are sloped at such an angle that only an act of God can cause it to slide down onto the road bed. The entire work of road construction is done by enrollees, supervised by trained and capable foremen.

In the Forestry office, enrollees are trained to take care of records and other clerical work, and too, they are taught drafting and mechanical drawing. All roads, truck trails or projects on which CCC enrollees are used must be drafted and filed for reference. Naturally, this is very exacting as well as technical; but because of the care used in selecting the Forestry personnel, it is possible for the enrollees to learn and carry on this type of work.

In the case of the Negro youth, the CCC has opened a new field

Summer Keeps Benton's Busy

Summer is our dish!

That's what the boys on the motorcycles down at Benton's Drug store say. They like summer because you like Benton's in the summer, and your calls to AD. 7177 keep them whizzing through the street, day and night.

Benton's gives employment to more young Negroes than any other independent drug business on the Avenue. That's at least one good reason why you should patronize them!

Expert Lauds Ford Safety Features

Approval of the big hydraulic brakes on all 1940 Ford cars as a major safety factor is voiced by Barney Oldfield, internationally famous one-time king of American racing drivers, now a leading exponent of traffic safety measures. Oldfield points to the large brake drums on a new Ford convertible club coupe in the picture above. This model, as well as all other 1940 Fords, has 12-inch brake drums, largest used on any car in the low-price field.

GWTW Leaves Fashion Note

NEW ORLEANS, April 11—The motion picture, "Gone With the Wind," left Rampart street, this city's main artery of Negro life, with a new style in sartorial splendor. Modeled after the suits worn by Clark Gable as Rhett Butler in the film, Rampart street "shieks" are wearing suits which they have called after the famous film.

In light colors for the most part, the coats are 36 inches long, striking the wearer less than six inches above the knee. At the knee the pants are 27 inches in diameter and at the cuff, 18.

• LIBRARY BOOK NOTES

Vernon Branch Public Library

4504 S. Central Avenue

The Vernon Branch library continues to receive books of general interest each week. Among those recently on display, we feel sure you will enjoy "Since Yesterday" by Frederick Allen. All those who chuckled or were horrified over the story of the fabulous 1920's in "Only Yesterday" will have an opportunity to react in a similar manner to this tale of the "threadbare thirties." How many readers remember the strange things which have gone on during those ten years? How many remember "bathtub gin" and the crime wave, miniature golf and free wheeling, the Lindbergh kidnap case and the blue eagle? Perhaps we all remember them, but only as things that happened long long ago. Yet it was only yesterday that dust sank in a black pall over our prairies, that "Tobacco Road" began its run, that the Dionne quintuplets were born. Although this book may induce considerable nostalgia, it also has the power to provoke plenty of laughs, and if you men want something to hold over your wives' heads just turn to the pictures of what the well-dressed young woman was wearing in 1930.

ON CHINA

One of the most delightful of recent travel books is Graham Peck's "Through China's Wall". Mr. Peck is an amiable ambler who wanders at leisure through some of the cities and a great deal of the back country of China, making sketches which have a flavor all their own, and collecting anecdotes which compare favorably with those of the finest ranconteurs of history. Mr. Peck's easy wanderings will greatly enrich travel literature and we are delighted to be able to present him to you.

For the person who likes to relax with a thriller, Elspeth Huxley's "African Poison Murders" is another exciting mystery featuring Vachell, the hard-headed Chief of the C. I. D. who has figured in the author's earlier African stories. In this one, evil and sinister forces of a pathological nature are at work, and though none is upset when the leader of the local Nazi Bund is killed, the death of a more popular member of the community causes quite a stir. Aside from the dangerous things which happen to him, Vachell falls in love, introducing a new note. This author's books are specially recommended because of the authenticity of the African background.

American Exodus" by Dorothea Lange, tells the dramatic story of the 20th Century migration of farmers driven by the forces of man and nature to seek in the West, land that is no longer free.

Your Smile

By LEROY LAWS

Your smile is a smile to me,
And not a thing skin deep,
No matter where you may be
The memories one will keep.

A smile that gives treasures
That are wonderful to hold,
It brings more in pleasures
Than pockets full o'gold.

You are the same Betty
I knew in my school days,
Your same smile isn't petty
It hasn't changed its ways.

Your smile will make sad days
Bright and full of life,
Keep smiling and you'll amaze
It will make pleasure out of strife. . . .

Singer Triumphs in Chi Debut

CHICAGO, April 11. (ANP)—With a voice described by Chicago critics as "misty and soft one minute and as brilliant as sunlight the next," Dorothy Maynor, 29-year old soprano, made a successful debut here Sunday afternoon. Singing a varied program of arias from Handel, Mozart, Weber, Bizet, and Charpentier, Miss Maynor charmed her audience with an extremely musical voice of dynamic range as well as with the modesty of her demeanor.

Miss Maynor, who first attracted attention when Serge Koussevitzy, conductor of the Boston Symphony orchestra, auditioned her and pronounced here a "native Flagstad," appeared at Orchestra hall, with the Chicago Symphony orchestra, under the direction of Frederick Stock, noted conductor.

Williams Addresses Tenn. A. & I. Faculty and Students

NASHVILLE (Tenn.) April 11—Paul R. Williams, noted architect of Los Angeles, as week-end guest of President and Mrs. W. J. Hale, Texas A & I college, in an address to the faculty and students on April 5, brought a practical message on community, property and home betterment as it relates to the Negro individually and collectively.

"The grandest feeling I have in visiting any city is when Negro sections are not pointed out by the usual signs attributed to them," was the statement made by Williams in declaring that more attention should be given to improvement of property, thru simple means of cleaning and planning.

Williams' outstanding achievement in the field of achitecture includes plans and designs for many of the most outstanding personages in California. As a consultant for the Housing Commission, he is en route to Washington, D. C., where he will engage in a series of conferences.

A reception, to which faculty, senior students and Nashville friends were invited, was given in honor of Williams in "Goodwill Manor," the residence of President and Mrs. Hale, on Friday evening.

Accompanying the eminent architect was James E. LuValle, once one of the greatest quarter milers, having won the 440 at the Olympic meet in Berlin in 1936.

Arthonia Taylor Divorces Mate

Mrs. Arthonia Taylor was granted a divorce Tuesday before Judge Lewis Howell Smith from Morris Taylor, son of retired fire captain J. L. Taylor. She claimed cruelty.

Socially prominent, the couple has a 7-year old daughter. Taylor is a Board of Education engineer. Mrs. Taylor is one of two Negro women, working at the Veterans Administration at Sawtelle as a hospital attendant.

FLUSH KIDNEYS OF POISONS AND STOP GETTING UP NIGHTS

Live a Healthier, Happier, Longer Life

Thousands of men and women wonder why backache bothers them—why they have to visit the bathroom often at night—why flow is scanty and sometimes smarts and burns.

Any one of these symptoms may mean that your kidneys and bladder need attention now before these minor symptoms may develop into serious trouble.

To flush out excess waste poisons and acid from kidneys, soothe your irritated bladder and put more healthy activity into them, get a 35-cent package of GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Capsules and take as directed.

This harmless, tried and true medicine gives results—you should feel better in a few days, as this effective diuretic and kidney stimulant drives excess uric acid from the body which is often the aggravation of joint agony, sciatica and neuritis.

Don't be an EASY MARK and accept a substitute—Ask for Gold Medal Haarlem Oil Capsules—right from Haarlem in Holland. GET GOLD MEDAL—the original—the genuine. Look for the Gold Medal on the box—35 cents.

Large Congregation Greets Dr. Morris in San Diego

SAN DIEGO, (By Mrs. E. B. Wesley)—A large congregation greeted Dr. Charles S. Morris of Tennessee State college, nationally known lecturer and eminent divine, at Bethel AME church Sunday morning when he was guest speaker on the Men's Day program. Coupled with eloquence and spirituality, Dr. Morris' splendid address was of marked forcefulness. A visitor to San Diego on previous occasions, he has always attracted large crowds, which proves that our community recognizes and appreciates worthwhile race representatives.

NEW EDITOR

C. E. Wiggington of Louisville, Ky., a young man thoroughly schooled in journalism, arrived in the city a few days ago to take over the San Diego Informer, edited for the past few years by C. E. Ware. Mr. Ware is giving up the paper to devote his entire time to real estate. Mr. Wiggington was presented in an address, "What's in a Name", at the Community Center Sunday afternoon by the Women's Civic league. Mrs. J. E. Craft is president.

VISITORS

Distinguished visitors, who accompanied Dr. Morris from Los Angeles to this city over the weekend, were Mrs. C. S. Morris, wife of Dr. Morris; Mrs. Jewel Smith and Mrs. Jefferson D. Fowler.

Herman Hill, Dallas Maderas, and Dr. Garner Grayson of Los Angeles, were the weekend guests of Mrs. Gladys Ward, Miss Alberta Atkins and Miss Lucille Leftridge. The visitors expressed themselves as very much pleased with San Diego.

Miss Anita Beverly of Riverside, a student at UCLA, is visiting her cousin, Mrs. J. L. Branham, recent bride of Rev. J. L. Branham, young pastor of Calvary Baptist church.

PIANIST PLEASES

Miss Jane Dickens, young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dickens, was the only representative of our school group at the Girls League Regional conference which convened in this city Saturday. After the welcome addresses to the delegates were made, Miss Dickens rendered one piano solo, and another as the program progressed.

MASS MEETING

Matters of vital concern to every Negro in San Diego will be discussed at a mass meeting Friday night at Logan school auditorium. Everyone is urged to be present. The committee of arrangements is composed of Messrs. D. V. Allen, E. W. Anderson, T. M. Brinson, Mrs. J. E. Craft, Mrs. Exie Lee Hampton, Reverends J. L. Branham, L. W. McCoy, C. H. Hampton; Mr. C. D. Jolly.

SKIT

The Civic league presented a skit which drew much praise at its meeting Sunday prior to the introduction of Editor Wiggington of the S. D. Informer. Mrs. Marie Williams, well known parachute jumper, and wife of Gilbert Williams of Gilbuilt Radio shop, was presented by Mrs. J. E. Craft, president of the league. Mrs. Williams, who has signed for several performances in Hollywood early next month, will stunt under the name of Marie Daugherty.

The coming of Dr. L. K. Williams, president of the National Baptist convention, was announced at this meeting by Mrs. Eva Lipscomb.

SOCIETY

Mrs. Esther Holomon was hostess at an elaborate dinner party Thursday at her pretty home on F street. Bidden were Mmes. Edward Hatcher, E. Murphy and Evangelist E. Kincaid.

The Best Yet club was the guest of Paul Moore on 30th St. Saturday night. Mrs. Bert Temple is president of the club.

The annual flower show for Rosebud temple, S. M. T., sponsored by Mrs. Florence Morgan, will be held early in May at the Community Center. Mrs. Morgan will present a children's program at Logan Chapel AME Zion church Sunday night.

Last Sunday afternoon, Miss Ovia Fay Phillips was hostess at delightful luncheon. Covers were laid for 7. The table was beautifully decorated with yellow, white and red roses. Guests present were Misses Anita Beverly of Riverside; Edna Wilkins, Mamie Dedman, Marjorie McKinney, Willa Mae McKinney, Mrs. Walter Woodin. Preceding luncheon, several interesting games were played.

CHURCHES

Services at Bethel church carried special interest Sunday because it was Men's Day. The sermon subject of Dr. C. S. Morris was "The Unknown God and How to Know Him". The men's choir, directed by Joseph Nelson jr., with Frank McCoy at the piano, supplied good music. Hiram Brown rendered a solo impressively. Lee Brown led a congregational hymn.

ACE league at 6:30, was conducted by Mr. Murphy. Guests at the meeting were Rev. Dwight Ball, pastor of the Community Presbyterian church of Pacific beach, and 7 high school boys of the Good Fellow club, of which Ted Brooks is advisor.

At the evening service, Rev. Ball read the Scripture lesson, followed by a realistic service, after which Dr. Morris presented another powerful sermon, from the subject, "The Spirit of God in Action".

Finances of the day reached the $100 mark.

There will be guest speakers at both Wesley services Sunday. The girls of the Sunday School will be hosts at an afternoon tea Sunday at Community Center.

Leon Wilson, usher in the Bethel choir for a number of years, left for Portland the first of the week. He hopes to return home

At Calvary Baptist church the Community Missionary Breakfast club met Sunday morning, presenting an interesting program. The pastor, Rev. J. L. Branham, preached at both services Sunday.

Services followed the usual order at the Church of God in Christ, Rev. James A. Jackson, pastor.

THE SICK

The Sunshine club reports the sick for the week at the General hospital: Mrs. Fannie Buckley, Mrs. Rosa Anderson, Lurdie Price; at Vauclain home: Mrs. Arnita Banks, Miss Marian Miller, Mrs. Ophelia Holmes, Theo. Steele, Bennie Luckey, Russell Miller; at Naval hospital: Wm. Holden.

Mrs. W. Atkins is improving at her home. Mrs. Fannie Cross is at home, recovering from injuries sustained in a fall. Mrs. Mabel Williams, gospel chorus director, is ill at her home. Mrs. Minnie Coleman is at home and out again after several weeks in the General hospital.

TWO AT MINNEWAWA

Co. 2924 Minnewawa is happy to add two versatile young ladies to its educational staff. Through the facilities of the National Youth Administration, Miss Annie Strickland and Miss Alice Picou have been retained as secretaries to the educational advisor.

Both young ladies are graduates of San Diego High school and have done post graduate wrk in clerical work and business administration.

Miss Strickand has had extensive training in music, and is, at present the pianist in a popular San Diego orchestra. While on NYA in San Diego she held the position of sewing and office work. She will assist Franklin E. Wilson as pianist of the camp swing band.

Miss Picou is also a pianist. She has consented to assist the popular camp glee club. While on NYA in San Diego, she held the position as head of department of cutting dresses.

SAN DIEGO, April 18.—After a Superior Court jury had deliberated 13 hours, James Bridges, 70, stood acquitted here Friday of the self-defense slaying of Dan Allen, 37, at Bridge's home on Feb. 29.

Do You Know Your Lemon Garnish?

By BETTY BARCLAY

Do you make the most of lemon to bring out flavor in other foods? A plate of lemon quarters may very well take its place on the table along with the salt and pepper shaker, for in any meal there is always some food the flavor of which can be enhanced by lemon. It is well, therefore, to see that the family shopping list always provides an ample supply of this fruit.

Lemon quarters or sixths are suggested because they are most practical for juice. With a sharp knife, cut a lemon lengthwise in four or six pieces. These lemon pieces may be squeezed without getting juice on the fingers. They are decorative additions to the foods they accompany, as are lemon slices, plain or cut in fancy shapes. To heighten decorative effect, the lemon may itself be garnished with chopped mint, pimiento strips and parsley.

The lemon garnishes pictured are easily copied with the use of a sharp knife or scissors. They are used to decorate and provide flavor for an appetizing plate of asparagus, summer squash, beets, corn and sardines.

Here are some other suggestions for food combinations that may very well include lemon garnishes.

Lemon with Tea: The custom of serving lemon with tea has grown and many guests now prefer lemon with this beverage, so the thoughtful hostess will always include a plate of lemon slices and quarters. Cloves may be inserted in the lemon for a decorative touch. Iced tea, in particular, calls for generous additions of lemon.

Lemon with Other Fruits: The juice of half a lemon adds a tang to the morning glass of orange juice. Quarters of lemon cut lengthwise give keener flavor as accompaniments for such fruit cocktails as tomato, pineapple and prune juice. Lemon does something, too, for stewed prunes, apricots, peaches, pears and apple, both dried and fresh, and there's nothing like lemon juice to bring out the full flavor of melon or provide just the right dressing for avocado.

Lemon with Fish: Lemon's affinity for fish and shell fish is well known. Oysters or clams on the half shell; seafood cocktails of all kinds; baked, broiled or fried fish gain by lemon juice, which may be provided in decorative lemon wedges or quarters. Canned salmon, sardines or tuna should be garnished with greens and a generous supply of lemon quarters. Again — and this is a trick worth knowing — sprinkle a bit of lemon juice on canned salmon or tuna before creaming or scalloping.

Lemon with Vegetables: Whether you eat spinach for duty or pleasure, lemon juice makes the eating more enjoyable. Other greens and many vegetables are improved by lemon juice. Here's a chance to do a bit of experimenting for yourself. See what lemon juice does for each. You'll make many pleasant discoveries.

Lemon Garnish for Soups: Novel but good is the idea of a lemon garnish for soups. Float a slice of lemon on each bowl, the next time you serve bouillon or consommé. Decorative and good, too, on bean or lentil soup and such cream soups as tomato, asparagus, spinach or green pea. Lemon is especially good with iced or jellied consommé!

Lemon with the Breakfast Wave: From England comes this surprisingly good but novel lemon use. Sprinkle waffles or pancakes with sugar and follow with a generous squeeze of lemon juice. You'll never believe how good this is until you try it.

CALEXICO CHURCH IS SCENE OF REVIVAL

CALEXICO, (By Pearl Herron)—Evangeline L. Casson and the gospel singer, Liska J. Moss, are running a revival in Calexico at the AME Church. Started last Thursday night, a very inspiring message, "A Cry for Life," was presented Friday night. On Saturday night the church gave an entertainment in the two leaders' honor. Sunday morning Evangeilst Casson was heard in a sermon from the subject, "Have You Got a Scar," and in the afternoon in a discourse on Negro musicians, "The Musical World". She preached again in the evening and Mrs. Moss sang at all three services. Presiding Elder of the sister church of this city, and his congregation, were all present.

Friends of little Miss Louise Thomas regret her departure from the city. She left Sunday afternoon for San Antonio, Tex., where she will live with her sister. She was accompanied by her sister and brother-in-law.

Mrs. Priscilla Stewart was in the hospital last week, but is at for her a speedy recovery. home again. Her friends wish

TEMPLE CELEBRATES ANNIVERSARY OF FOUNDING

The 23rd anniversary of the founding of Hiawatha Temple No. 91, IBPOEW, was celebrated in a gay and decorative party, held Monday night in the Lodge Rooms of the Elks' Hall.

A generous-sized cake, decorated in purple and white, the colors of the fraternal order, bore a candle for each member of the original charter organization. Three of the four surviving members of the initial group were present and honored. They are: Mrs. Alice Lester, Mrs. Eliza Warner, Mrs. Inez White. Also honored was Mrs. Annie (Mother) Hicks.

Daughter Ruler Agnes Beal sponsored the affair.

TAFT SUPPORTERS TO HOLD DINNER MEET TONIGHT AT CLARK

With thirty outstanding leaders in civic, religious and business groups selected to serve on the State Committee of the Taft-for-President campaign, Jesse A. Graves and Miss Fay Jackson, co-chairmen, announce a dinner meeting for tonight in the Clark hotel at 6 p. m.

"We have met with such tremendous success in forming this committee that both Mr. Graves and I feel that the Republican Pary has actually taken on the new life it so badly needs to win the election in 1940," Miss Jackson stated.

"We attribute our success to the calibre of the people who have consented to work with us on the committee," she added.

Committee members are: Rev. J. H. Wilson, editor of the AME Christian Recorder; Rev. T. L. Griffith, Second Baptist church; Rev. H. Mansfield Collins, 8th and Towne AME church; Rev. E. W. Rakestraw, Wesley Methodist church; Atty. Lloyd C. Griffith, Atty. Ivan C. Johnson, T. A. Green, former executive secretary YMCA.

Also, Miss Edna Rosalyn Heard, composer; Misses Louise Beavers, Beulah Wyndon and Laura Bowman, stage and screen players; Chas. Butler, film casting agent; Miss Violet McDowell, Mrs. Genevieve Queen, social service worker; Eugene Sorrall, Exalted Ruler Elks'; Mrs. Fay Beal, American Legion Auxiliary, Ben Bowie Post; Mrs. Edna V. Elgin, past president Pacific States Association Daughter Elks and Past Matron Deborah Lodge of Eastern Stars; Mrs. Beatrice Johnson, Anna Guess and Wood Wilson, of the County Central Committee, 62nd assembly district; Elijah Cooper, realtor; John Bills, barber; Louis Cole, Young Republicans; Ernest Reese; Dr. W. E. Bledsoe and Lawrence F. LaMarr, newspaperman and Dr. J. T. Smith, druggist.

Republicans Hold Dinner Meeting

The Republican County Central Committee, 62nd Assembly District, in its second dinner meeting, at the Golden Rod cafe, Newton and Central, with 30 or more present. Slogan, "Republican Coming Back Into Its Own." A very timely paper was read by Mrs. Doris Grace Penland, "Our Republic," which was commented on by ex-assemblyman Frederick M. Roberts.

The main feature of the evening was Atty. Ivan J. Johnson, III, to the Assembly from the 62nd Assembly District in 1940. In a very brief sketch, Mr. Johnson talked upon some of the highlights of his campaign. Among other speakers of the evening was Atty. Lloyd C. Griffith, the thunder-bolt for Republicanism, gave one of his interesting talks as usual, with the assurance to Johnson that he was one hundred per cent behind him for the Assembly in 1940.

Judge Irvin Taplin, Judge of the Municipal Court, who has thrown his hat in the ring as a candidate for District Attorney, was also present, and was presented by Mr. F. L. Buford, and gave very interesting facts as to his present administration.

Among other speakers of the evening were Mr. Geo. Williams of hte Golden State Insurance company; Geo. Phillips, chairman of the Republican Assembly, 62nd Assembly District; Mr. Les Vaughan, campaign manager for Judge Taplin; Mrs. Wood Wilson, Mrs. Venita Evans and others.

SOCIETY TO HOLD BANQUET IN VAL VERDE

VAL VERDE, (By Clara Taylor)—The California Race Relations society will give a banquet Saturday night, April 27, at the Community clubhouse, at which time a branch in Val Verde will be organized. A program will be presented during dinner and a dance will follow. Mrs. Alice Gafford will serve the dinner, which is 65c per plate.

General attendance at the clubhouse last Sunday was exceptionally good as over 400 cars crowded the parking space.

Dudley's Inn is doing a good business. The dance hall, particularly, is enjoyed by the young people.

Great interest is being manifest in the First AME church in Val Verde by visitors and residents. Sunday School is at 10 a. m., the pastor's service at 11. Rev. Jude Wiley, John Derfield, and Mrs. Blanch Jamison are attending the district conference in Los Angeles.

The Pastor's Aid club of First AME church of Val Verde requests all who can to contribute one dollar on Mother's Day, Sunday, May 12, which will be known as Dollar Day rally, the proceeds to pay for needed improvements on the church.

A birthday dinner party was given at the Community clubhouse Sunday afternoon in honor of Connie Savala. Sixty persons were present, all from Castaic.

Mrs. Thomas gave a tea, honoring her 74th birthday. As a gift, each person gave pennies, to mark the years she is old, which Mrs. Thomas in turn gave to the AME church to apply on its debt. 750 pennies were received in all.

Mrs. Royal of Los Angeles spent the week-end in Val Verde, the guest of Mrs. Pearl Ambrose, who is also here for a rest.

Mrs. Frances Collins of Los Angeles is spending a two weeks rest period as the guest of Mrs. Carrie Bean. Mrs. Fanny Finley is also a houseguest.

GRAND MUSICAL HELD IN BAKERSFIELD

BAKERSFIELD, (By Mrs. G. A. Jackson)—On last Friday evening at Mt. Zion Baptist tabernacle, the junior choir and usher board presented one of the grandest musicals of its kind. Mrs. W. M. Austin, the organist, who has worked untiringly with the children, was well pleased. She was assisted by Miss Lois Small.

The tabernacle was beautifully decorated with spring flowers and greenery. Each girl was presented with a lovely bouquet of flowers. The boys were also given tokens of appreciation.

The service at Mt. Zion was well attended. Pastor Green's Sunday morning subject was "Remedy for Sin". The senior choir rendered music for the morning and evening service. The Sunday School is progressing rapidly under the leadership of Mrs. L. G. Collins, who has served more than 15 years. B. T. G. is doing nicely with Miss James as its president.

The Sunday School choir of Cain AME church had an initiation party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gus Little last Saturday. All present enjoyed an evening of entertainment. Jane Alexander is president and Jeane Little is secretary. The Spanish dinner, which the Club Unique held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Adams recently, was a financial success. Mrs. Estella Dickinson is president; Mrs. Sarah Little, secretary.

Pastor Swann's morning services were well attended; his subject, "The Four Books of Life". The message was uplifting and inspiring. In the afternoon, the annual thanksgiving service of Goodwill Lodge and Ne Plus Ultra Temple No. 522 were held at Cain AME church. Miss Lois Small, state president, was mistress of ceremonies. Very timely remarks were given by Dtr. Small, a solo by Brother Gus Howard, remarks by Dtr. Ruler L. Helslep, and Austin Hawkins. Rev. M. C. Swann delivered the sermon. The evening worship closed out the state rally.

Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Emma Drisdom, the senior mission of Cain AME church and members of Mt. Zion Missionary society, spent an enjoyable evening. Mrs. H. A. Green of Mt. Zion Mission was guest speaker.

YWCA REPRESENTED

Mrs. Claudia Clopton is the representative of the 12th Street Branch of the YWCA on the committee of the Los Angeles YWCA which is sponsoring the Hall Johnson choir in concert at the Philharmonic auditorium May

Schedules + Operating

THEIR JOB seems easy—"to take you there and bring you back"—but to do this for each one of our million daily customers, our operating department needs thousands of eyes and hands.

Continually changing traffic trends means that new schedules must be drafted so that service will be "on tap" where and when needed.

From division superintendents, supervisors, and traffic checkers in all parts of the city come hourly reports on car and coach service, to be dissected and analyzed by the office of the Manager of Operations.

And from the information thus assembled, dispatchers, leaders, and other specialists in the operating game are able to maintain schedules by which passengers are borne across this far-reaching city of ours on steel and rubber, by electricity and gasoline, safely, quickly, comfortably and inexpensively.

BEAUTY AND ROMANCE

SPONSORED BY LARIEUSE BEAUTY FOUNDATION

The Larieuse Beauty Foundation was established by the Godefroy Manufacturing Company to study methods of preserving women's natural beauty, and to make the results of this research available to the public.

Ever since the first breath of spring has been in the air, I have been receiving letters asking how to have a clear smooth skin for spring and summer. What few of you seem to realize is that a beautiful skin starts from within. You must get yourselves in good physical condition if you hope to glow with youth and beauty and springtime freshness.

Get More Sleep and Exercise

The first step in getting ready for spring and summer is to work out a balanced routine of sleep, exercise and diet. If you have been burning the candle at both ends, you are probably paying for it now with dull, lusterless eyes and sallow skin. Remember that eight hours' sleep every night is more effective than any beauty treatment. And if you have difficulty getting to sleep early, the solution is right at hand. You probably need more outdoor exercise that will leave you pleasantly relaxed and healthfully tired at the end of the day. A brisk walk, say to and from work, or, if you are a lady of leisure, the early part of these sunny afternoons, is one of the best forms of exercise for all around reconditioning. Don't feel, however, that you can give up your special indoor exercises. Select the ones that do you the most good according to your individual requirements and stick to them.

Eat Fresh Fruits and Vegetables

And watch your diet. Throughout the winter you have doubtless been eating more than your quota of heavy starch foods. Now that spring is here, there is an abundance of fresh fruits and vegetables on the market. Why not try eating a spring salad for lunch instead of sandwiches or meat and potatoes? You'll find it just as sustaining and a great deal better for your health. And be sure you have a substantial helping of green vegetables for dinner, and a few less potatoes and bread. And drink lots of water—at least eight glasses daily. Plenty of water will help purify your entire system.

Select Make-Up With Care

After you have taken care of these fundamental rules, start on your skin. As I have told you so often before, it is important that you cleanse your face at least twice a day, either with soap and warm water, or a good cream, depending on the texture of your skin. A good skin tonic which has an astringent effect is a great help in toning up the skin after cleansing. If your skin is inclined to be dry, a rich night cream is a boon in helping smooth and soothe and in discouraging tiny lines and wrinkles.

In selecting your make-up for spring, choose shades that will not only blend well with your natural coloring but also with your new spring wardrobe. Never buy cosmetics by the hit-or-miss method. Weigh them all carefully and don't buy until you are satisfied that the shades you select blend perfectly with your individual skin tones. It may take a little longer but it is really fun and is well worth the time.

I hope this answers the questions of those of you who have been wondering but haven't got around to writing me personally. Follow these simple suggestions, and here's to an exciting spring and a glamorous summer.

What are your beauty problems? Write Marie Downing, Larieuse Beauty Foundation, Room 521—319 North Fourth St., St. Louis, Mo., and she will be glad to answer them. Be sure to enclose a self-addressed stamped envelope.

Illinois & Chicago Invite You to the AMERICAN NEGRO EXPOSITION

CELEBRATING 75 YEARS OF NEGRO PROGRESS

JULY 4 to SEPT. 2 1940

1865 1940

at the COLISEUM WABASH AV at 15TH ST

"On to Chicago"

TO COMMERCIAL EXHIBITORS:

This gigantic spectacle offers a golden opportunity to place your merchandise or services before the vast throngs who will attend this 60 day Negro World's Fair. A limited space is available for exhibits of this nature. Write immediately for complete information.

FOR THE FIRST TIME in history, the Negro will have a real Exposition detailing his past and his glorious achievements in the 75 years since emancipation. Murals, dioramas and exhibits will graphically tell the dramatic story of the race's great part in building America.

The State of Illinois has set aside $75,000 to aid the Exposition. Government departments, federal agencies, foundations, institutions and individuals of both races are cooperating wholeheartedly. Whole sections will be devoted to displays of the Negro's contributions to every phase of American life. Pageants, dramatics, motion pictures, special days, noted leaders and many other special attractions will be featured during the duration of this epoch marking event.

Plan now to be in Chicago between July 4 and September 2. It is a national celebration which no Negro can afford to miss. Never before has there been an event comparable to this mammoth observance of the 75th anniversary of Negro freedom. You owe it to yourself to visit the American Negro Exposition, the most amazing event ever conceived.

A DISPATCH from Washington, D. C., this week reveals an important step forward taken by the capital's Committee for Democratic Action when the organization conducted a two day conference in the Hall of Nations, the Washington Hotel, on Civil Rights. The sessions were divided between Civil Rights and Labor, Civil Rights and the Negro, Civil Rights and Minority Groups, and a Washington Town Meeting on District suffrage.

A smacking rebuttal to the general notion that Negroes are dependent upon relief to a greater extent than other American groups was found in the session on Civil Rights and the Negro, as census figures were cited to show that 59.2 per cent of the Negro population is gainfully employed, against only 47 per cent for the native white population. The heavy price which the North has to pay for the South's neglect of its Negro populace was also brought out. The 1930 census shows 2,409,219 Negroes in the North. Fifty-eight per cent of these were born in the South, while less than one per cent of the Negroes living in the South were born in the North. The census also showed that of the seven cities in the United States with the largest Negro population, six were in the North, whereas only one, New Orleans was in the South.

Great progress made by Negroes in education was shown by the fact that in 1916 in sixteen Southern states only 12,662 Negroes were enrolled in public high schools, whereas in 1934 in those same states 157,034 were enrolled in public schools.

Congressman Joseph Gavagan of New York addressed the Conference on his anti-lynching bill which recently passed the House and is threatened with a filibuster in the Senate. He declared the anti-lynching bill to be constitutional and a fundamental necessity if America is to preserve a democratic form of government and guarantee to all people the equal protection and due process of law. He flayed the filibuster. Said Congressman Gavagan: "The filibuster denies to the majority of the Senate the right to express itself, and constitutes a triumph of minority rule in opposition to every principle of democratic function. It is a vicious weapon of destruction and frustration." The Congressman said that the bill can be passed in this session if the people in the States will make it sufficiently well known to their Senators that they want it passed. He urged all persons to write their Senators and to urge their friends and organizations to urge them to vote for cloture in the Senate in order to limit debate when the bill comes to the Senate floor.

Congressman James Seccombe of Ohio who has introduced a civil rights bill for the District of Columbia promised a vigorous fight to carry the bill through Congress. He said the District of Columbia is a paradox. Said Congressman Seccombe: "Washington is the southernmost point of the North, and the northernmost point of the South. Railway trains from the North going South put on Jim-Crow cars in the nation's capital. When a hungry Negro passenger reaches Washington he can eat in the station restaurant, but if he steps outside the railroad grounds he will starve unless he can find a Negro restaurant. Negro actors play in white theatres but Negroes cannot sit in the audience. Negro spectators sit in the grandstand at Washington football and baseball games, but Negro players cannot participate. It does not make sense."

This particular and little publicized proposal for D. C. enfranchisement is very interesting to me. For many years I have wondered at the irony of the capital of the "world's greatest democracy" being completely without fundamental civil rights and privileges. A trip to that city this summer confirmed my conviction that here, at the very heart of our nation, existed a flaming injustice, a bold denial to all that we are taught to believe American.

Over 200 Dead in Fire

MORE BODIES PULLED FROM RUINS OF DANCE HALL IN NATCHEZ, MISS.

Walter Barnes, Chicago Dance Band Leader, 10 Members of Band, Dead

NATCHEZ, Miss., April 25.—A toll of 250 dead was expected to be reached here today when authorities have finished counting charred bodies of dancers, trapped in a burning dance hall.

More than 200 men and women, all Negroes, were burned to death late Tuesday night when flames engulfed the Rhythm Night club and blocked the one exit.

226 dead have been found in the embers of the building, which was formerly a church. Hospital authorities estimated more than 40 might die of burns and other injuries, caused by the stampede for the open.

WINDOWS BOARDED

The fire, believed kindled by a carelessly thrown cigarette, broke out near the front door and spread rapidly through the decorations of dry Spanish moss, festooning the hall. There were no rear or side doors and all windows had been boarded up.

Walter Barnes, leader of the Chicago orchestra, which was playing for the dance, lost his life in the holocaust, along with 10 members of his 12-piece aggregation, including the girl singer.

Barnes was starting a two-week's engagement at the club.

The band made an heroic attempt to quell the panic of the trapped dancers by playing its theme song, "Clarinet Lullaby."

The terrified dancers huddled around the bandstand as the flames ate toward them. Most of the bodies were found piled in fron of the bandstand.

The fire started at about 11:15. Approximately 500 persons were said to have escaped with their lives.

The Rhythm club is located in the heart of the Negro section, which is on the fringe of the business disrict.

BLANCHE WILEY, popular UCLA student, who is entered in the popularity contest, sponsored by the Assistance League of the Outdoor Life and Health association, for the benefit of the Tubercular Rest home at Duarte. (See story on page 14)

Barkley Remains Silent on Anti-Lynching Legislation

NEW YORK, Apr. 25—Senator Alben W. Barkley, majority leader of the Senate, continues to remain deaf to requests that he make some statement on what action the Senate will take on the federal anti-lynching bill.

Senator Barkley has not responded to a letter from the NAACP dated Apr. 2, asking him to indicate when the bill will be taken up. His silence has encouraged newspaper and radio commentators to state that the anti-lynching bill will be sidetracked in the Senate.

Walter White, NAACP secretary, wrote Senator Barkley again Apr. 18 communicating to him the concern of church and labor groups, and especially of Negro Americans, over the treatment of the anti-lynching bill.

The NAACP has been advised that a number of senators, while in favor of the bill and pledged to vote for it, do not wish to have a "nasty racial fight" on the floor of the Senate, and for that reason are not insisting that the bill be brought up.

"Only one circumstance can secure action," the NAACP statement said, "and that is expression from the people back home to their senators demanding that the bill be brought up for a vote. Letters should be sent to Senator Barkley as majority leader at the Senate Office Building, Washington, D. C., and to the senators from each state.

Given Suspended Sentence for Trying to Be Juror

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Apr. 25—Lawrence Sigmon received a suspended sentence here April 16 on a charge of disorderly conduct, which grew out of the fact that he answered a summons for jury service June 5, 1939.

When he reported for service and applied to the sheriff's office (since the court was not in session) Sigmon says he was carried into an elevator along with several deputy sheriffs. The car was stopped between floors, and Sigmon was severely beaten. He says he was told that he was being made "an example for all other Asheville Negroes who might have the audacity to report for jury service."

Sigmon later was arrested and charged with disorderly conduct, but he says he was offered his freedom if he would agree not to press charges. He refused and was convicted. The conviction was appealed, and on Apr. 16 he was given a suspended sentence for disorderly conduct and the other charges dropped.

The NAACP conferred with the Department of Justice because of the intimidation of Sigmon as a prospective juror, and the department has notified the NAACP that the investigation of the FBI is complete and the case is in the hands of the prosecuting attorney in Asheville.

Moorland, Retired 'Y' Senior Secretary, Near Death

BROOKLYN, Apr. 25. (ANP)—J. E. Moorland, for many years senior secretary of the Negro department of the National YMCA, was reported critically ill Monday and not expected to survive the week.

Pastoring a local Congregational church since his retirement from YMCA work 20 years ago, Moorland has lived here most of that period. When he became senior secretary, he took the position formerly held by William Hunton, first Negro named to that post.

Moorland, known especially for his work among college youths, is credited along with James Parker, Chicago "Y" official, with inducing the late Julius Rosenwald to aid in the construction of Negro buildings for this work throughout the nation. Under the Rosenwald agreement, the noted philanthropist contributed $25,000 if the rest of the community raised a certain sum.

He is also noted as a collector of Negro literature and African art. His personal collection formed the basis of the books owned by the Moorland foundation of Howard university, of which Mr. Moorland is a trustee.

Editor Named to Exposition Post

Mrs. Charlotta A. Bass, EAGLE editor, has been named to serve on the California Commission to the American Negro Exposition in Chicago. The appointment was announced this week by David L. Foutz, public relations secretary to Governor Culbert L. Olson.

Assemblyman Augustus Hawkins was named chairman of the commission.

Indian Learns of 'White' Ways Thru Negro

NEW YORK, Apr. 25. (ANP)—Charles Chandler, Harvard graduate, conducting a class in literature in the High School of Commerce, has among his pupils, Red Cloud, an Indian, who has promised to enroll again next year to "learn to ways of white folks" from his colored tutor.

Red Cloud, whose father was a chief at a reservation at Aligandi, Panama, lives here with his wife, Minnie, and their son. Answering to the American name of Charles Owen, he works in the Erie Railroad freight yards in Jersey City. Attending school for the first time in his life, he is completing his initial year in the night school English and citizenship classes sponsored by the Board of Education.

Santa Fe Promises Pickens Better Accommodations

NEW YORK, Apr. 25. (ANP)—Dean William Pickens, NAACP branch director who protested to the Interstate Commerce commission over railroad accomodations given Negro travellers during a recent trip to Oklahoma, has been assured that conditions will be remedied in a communication from E. J. Engel, high official of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad system.

Engel stated that all the equipment intended for operation on the trains on which Pickens was a passenger had not been received and that when delivery of the cars on order has been received, "there will be a redistribution of space and facilities for colored people in such a way, we hope, as to take care of the situation satisfactorily all around."

Settle Street Car Suit Out of Court

The suit filed in March, 1939, to recover damages against the Los Angeles Railway company arising out of the death of Mrs. Champ Bradford, was amicably settled last week out of court. Atty. Hugh Culler, who filed the suit in the name of the woman's husband, Champ Bradford, sr., and their two sons and a daughter, was in excess of $50,000.

Mrs. Bradford was injured in a fall she suffered when a "U" line car at 42nd and Central avenue reportedly started up before she had completely alighted from its steps. The back injury is believed to have been directly responsible for appendix trouble which resulted in her death.

Tom Dewey Debunks New Deal

Over 30,000 Hear GOP Presidential Aspirant in Bowl

The New Deal can lay no claim to a monopoly on social vision, Thomas E. Dewey, New York district attorney and candidate for the Republican nomination for the presidency, said here last week. Dewey was debunking the New Deal in his speech at the Hollywood Bowl last Saturday. An estimated 30,000 persons heard him.

Social needs automatically "evoke the necessary legislation regardless of the name of the political party in power," Dewey said.

"Our liberal legislation does not come from the minds of political partisans. It comes from the hearts of our people.

"Let me recall to you that the greatest liberal issue of our national history—the abolition of slavery—created the instrument of its own solution. It gave birth to the Republican Party."

Dewey denied that the New Deal could pat itself on the back for social benefits like unemployment and old age security. He said the Democrats could lay claim only the slipshod method in which the bureaus of social security are run.

Girl-Mother, 15, Kills Husband in Night Club

SAN ANTONIO, Apr. 25—This city's first murder of the year occurred here Saturday night when a 15-year old girl-wife-mother plunged a knife into the heart and throat of her 23-year old husband.

The dead man is Frank Burdette. The girl slayer, Mrs. Katherine Burdette, told police she stabbed her husband as he choked her in a night club during a jealous quarrel.

Someone handed her the knife, she said, and while Burdette's mother and father looked on, she plunged it into the man's body. When police arrived, Burdette was still choking the girl. He started to accompany the officers from the place and at the foot of the stairs, collapsed.

Public opinion predicts freedom for the girl-wife as this city has no provision for delinquent girls. The Burdettes had one child.

Charge Forced Labor in Miss. Saw Mill

WASHINGTON, D. C., Apr. 25—An affidavit alleging that Claude B. Cistrunk, 22, of Mashulaville, Miss. has been held in forced labor by two white Mississippi saw mill operators has been filed with O. John Rogge assistant attorney general, by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

In the affidavit, Cistrunk stated that he borrowed $5 from Coleman and Kich Watkins, white operators of a saw mill at Christmas time, 1938. He swears he offered to pay it back on two occasions, but each time they refused to accept his money and told him he would have to work it out.

He states that he was working as a helper on March 26, 1940, on a rural milk route when the Watkins brothers stopped him and one beat him with a stick while the other threatened him with an axe. He says they told him that if he moved back and worked for them "everything would be all right."

GOVERNOR'S RADIO TALK TIME CHANGED

A change in the time of Gov. Olson's Sunday evening radio program was announced today. The governor will be heard from 9:15 to 9:30 p. m.

"X" MARKS the spot where little Dorothy Gordon kidnaped since last Mar. 5, was found slain by three studio workers, one of whom was a Negro. This shallow grave is near Jefferson and Culver.

Kidnaped Girl Found Dead at Roadside

Conduct Rites from Cornerstone Baptist at 2 This Afternoon

Nine-year old Dorothy Gordon is dead.

The girl for whom a nation-wide search had been in progress since last March 5, when she was kidnaped at 16th and Hooper avenue by a middle-aged white man, was found last Friday afternoon buried in a shallow grave near Jefferson and Culver boulevards.

Following the inquest yesterday morning, at which time a coroner's jury returned a verdict of homicide by a person or persons unknown, it was announced that last rites for the girl will be conducted today at 2:00 p. m. from Cornerstone Baptist church, 14th and Hooper avenue, with Conner-Johnson in charge.

Last Friday, three Paramount Studio horticultural department employes, Frank Roman, Willard Robbins and Andrew Johnson, the latter a Negro, were digging for carpet-grass to be used on a movie set, when they saw a knee and a portion of thigh protruding from a depression in the ground.

Captain Virgil Gray of the Sheriff's bureau of identification; Lieut. Fred Trosper of the police homicide detail; Police Chemist Ray Pinker and Deputy Sheriff Gordon Bowers answered the men's summons.

BODY DECOMPOSED

Partially decomposed the body of the girl was examined by Pinker. After scrutinizing her hair, shoes and bits of cloth, he exclaimed: "It's Dorothy Gordon."

Object of a nation-wide search by law-enforcement agencies this was the first tangible clue

Western Christian Recorder Editor Lauded By Press

Selected for tribute this week by editors of the California Eagle was Rev. J. H. Wilson, guiding light of the Western Christian Recorder.

Chosen on the basis of journalistic and managerial ability, Wilson was termed by staff members "one of the finest religious newspapermen in the country."

For several years, Wilson has been editor of the Western Christian Recorder, bringing that journal into the foreground among Race religious publications. Reputation of the paper is of national scope, and it is distributed throughout the nation. Expert treatment of religious news by this highly specialized organ has been recognized by newspapermen over the years.

High ranking officials of the AME denomination have been lavish in their praise of Wilson's editorship, and he has always found a ready support from them.

Now De Scripture Sez:

"Drink of the river of thy pleasures." But my Aunt insists that somewhere along the line Uncle Zeke must have gotten all mixed up, because instead of him drinking of "the river of his pleasures," he seemed to take eternal pleasure in trying to lap up a whole river!

Yours, until considerably more people will realize that it isn't at all necessary to drink until they become disgusting in order to be "sociable,"

EUGENE HENRY HUFFMAN.

FIRMS CONGRATULATE EAGLE ON 61ST ANNIVERSARY

Richard R. Wright, 3rd, Named Possible Head of AME Book Concern

PHILADELPHIA, April 25. (ANP)—When the Rev. G. E. Curry, present business manager of the AME Book Concern, announced this week that he would not campaign to succeed himself for the office, Richard R. Wright, III, was named by AME officials as the most logical person to succeed him.

Wright, the son of Bishop R. R. Wright, Jr., known as the "Business Bishop," and grandson of the distinguished Major R. R. Wright, Sr., first Negro paymaster in the United States army, not only comes from a business family, but has been trained for a business career. In 1936-37, after the resignation of Dr. Baxter, he capably managed the firm.

Prepared from his youth to serve the church in business, Wright has expressed his desire to make the Book Concern a financial success instead of "just a charity dependent upon Allen Day collections." Having had experience in the banking, newspaper and insurance business, all three lines built up by his family, Wright is considered by a large AME majority to be the most suitable layman for the Book Concern position. As a layman, too, it is thought that he will be especially adaptable for the work.

Four Watson Aides Held in Detroit

DETROIT, April 25—Four men, named by the one-man grand jury as chief aides for Everett L. Watson, alleged policy king of Detroit, were arrested on grand jury warrants here Wednesday.

The four are Woodson Ray, 49, said to be field man for Watson's Yellow Dog Clearing House; Henry Sherman, 42, alleged assistant manager of the number's game; Tom Turner, 39, named as Watson's right hand man in operation of the game; and Earl Cuzzens, bookkeeper and auditor of the game.

At the arraignment all three stood silent and a plea of innocence was entered for them by Watson's counsel, Attorney Lloyd A. Loomis.

The court set Ray's bond at $2500 to the others' $2000, because Ray had left the city and was in Chicago with Watson when the latter was arrested Feb. 10.

The men were arraigned on a warrant which carries four counts of conspiracy to operate a lottery and gambling place. Three others are still sought.

In a supplement which has been filed, Watson is accused of collecting protection money from lottery operators and turning it over to Harry Colburn, chief investigator from the prosecutor's office. The supplement accused investigators of receiving $80,000, at the rate of $1500 a month between April 1935 and Aug. 1939.

'Y' Marriage Group to Meet

The YMCA Marriage Forum group will meet again Monday at 7:30 o'clock. Dr. George Gleason, executive secretary of the Los Angeles Committee on Community and Church Cooperation, will be the leader. The subject for discussion will be "Achieving Emotional Maturity."

At the Apr. 15 meeting, Dr. Carl Elliott Yaeger gave leadership to the Forum under the topic "The Social Relationship of the Sexes." About 40 young people participated enthusiastically in the discussion and question period.

The Forum group will continue each Monday evening until May 13. All meetings are open to young men and women between the ages of 18 and 35, without cost.

SCHOOL OF BUSINESS HOLDS OPEN HOUSE

Metropolitan School of Business will hold Open House today, Thursday) in the day school session from 10 to five-thirty p.m.; in the evening school, from 7 to 9 p. m.

The public is invited.

Makes Special Offer to Camera Fans

Catering to the ever-growing fad of candid camera photography, the Hollywood Photo co., is making an offer this week that should appeal to camera fans, both young and old.

At a price far below that of the average, they are offering 6 or 8 kodak rolls, developed and double size prints, for only 25 cents. 36 exposure candid rolls are being offered enlarged, 3 by 4, finely grained, for $1.00.

The work is done under the supervision of Lloyd Woolever, who has not only developed and released all the photo stills used in all the colored pictures made to date, but for years has done this class of work for the major studios. It is his large facilities and long experience that makes it possible to extend this service to camera fans.

Father Divine Enlarges 'Heav'n'

NEW YORK, April 25. (ANP)—Palace Mission, Inc., a group formed by followers of Father Divine, have taken over the Rockland Palace, formerly called the Manhattan Casino as a meeting place for daily religious services. The Palace, composing several buildings, will be altered to increase the seating capacity of "angels."

Leasing the building for five years at a rental of $40,000, the palace will be used as a center for various Father Divine activities as well as religious meetings. It will house social, educational and political activities under religious supervision, according to reports.

Angelenos today are guessing what 1940 census figures will mean for Los Angeles. One of the most careful guessers, the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, which officially and conservatively estimates 1,400,000, arranged with Cozette Chaney a signpost showing population growth of the city since 1880. Citizens not yet enumerated are urged by the Chamber to write the Census Bureau at 12th and Santee. Los Angeles County's representation in the Legislature and in Congress is based on the official Census, the Chamber points out, and a complete count of the city will mean additional representation.

Ministers, Laymen Honor Rev. Beane at Reception

At a reception Monday night which closed the 21st anniversary celebration of the pastorate of Rev. S. M. Beane and the location of his church, Hamilton Methodist, at the corner of E. 18th street and Naomi avenue, ministers and laymen of the city paid glowing tributes to the work and accomplishments of the prominent prelate and his congregation.

Hostessed by the Young Women's club of the church, some 300 members of Hamilton, friends and ministers, heard a program of music and numerous greetings in the main auditorium of the church.

Following the program, the audience retired to the reception room where refreshments were served by members of the club.

During the evening's program, Miss Imogene Woods was crowned "Miss Hamilton" by Mrs. Zelma Watson Duke. Miss Woods was the winner of the contest to determine the young lady of the church to wear the crown for the year.

Rev. Beane, in his remarks at the conclusion of the program proper, said, "I do not claim credit for the growth of the church on this corner during the past 21 years. We have grown together."

Artists appearing were Mrs. Duke, wife of Rev. Baxter Duke; Violet Aldridge, Helen Dundee and Edward Boyd.

Set 'Community Night' at Avalon Center May 3

Highlighting National Youth Week activities, the Recreation department at Avalon Community Center, E. 43rd street and Avalon blvd., has scheduled a "Community Night" program for Friday, (next week) May 3, from 8 to 10 p. m.

Exhibition games in basketball, volleyball, ping pong and badminton, will be given by teams organized at the Center, and other groups which use its facilities for practice.

A motion picture, released by the Federal Bureau of Investigation, showing the activities of the G-men in suppressing crime, will be featured. Art, and craft exhibits will be shown.

"Community Night" is planned as a family gathering, and a special invitation is extended to all parents and their children in the community. There is no admission charge.

EAGLE GREETED ON SIXTY-FIRST BIRTHDAY

Because it has been estimated that voting powers will be fairly evenly balanced between white and black citizens of Washington, should suffrage be gained, race baiters have kept the two races in the city fearful and jealous. The conditions of discrimination and segregation are shocking. Within its environs some of the finest Negro intellect Washington yet has become the shame of the nation with regard to civil rights. It is gratifying to note that the stultifying effects of Mr. Roosevelt's black cabinet are at last being shaken off. For the past several years, members of this great ex officio body have quietly blocked national publicity on the interracial situation in the President's own town. However, it appears that the force of progress can no longer be denied. And high time.

It is also interesting to note the cross-section now occupied in supporting Senator Seccombe's measure: Mrs. Mary McLeod Bethune; Judge Armond W. Scott; Dr. C. Herbert Marshall, President of the Detroit Branch of the NAACP; John P. Davis of the National Negro Congress; Dr. Dorothy Ferebee, President of the Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority; Rev. Robert W. Brooks; Rev. W. H. Jernagin, Equal Rights League; Captain Eugene Davidson, Director of the New Negro Alliance; Dean William H. Hastie of the Howard University School of Law; Doxey Wilkerson, vice-president, American Federation of Teachers; Professors Alain Locke, Sterling Brown, Alpheus Hunton, E. Franklin Frazier, Ralph Bunche, and Dean Charles H. Thompson of Howard University; and Charles H. Houston of the legal staff of the NAACP.

Hail the new day!

Lauds Garner in Speech Here

"Cactus Jack is no hypocrite. A shovel is still a shovel to Garner," stated Mrs. Clara Driscoll, white Texan, who spoke here in behalf of Vice President John N. Garner of Texas, for the presidency.

In emphasizing Garner's consistency, the Texan failed to account for Garner's recent change of heart as regards Negroes, to whom in the past he has always been indifferent.

Clint Rosemond Plays in 'Dark Command'

NEW YORK, April 25. (TYP)—With the winning of an Academy Award by Hattie McDaniel, interest in colored performers on the screen has increased considerably. In no recent picture has this interest been more deserved than in Republic's "Dark Command", with Claire Trevor, John Wayne, and Walter Pidgeon in the leading roles. In this are two outstanding colored players, Mildred Gover and Clinton Rosemond.

Miss Gover, who plays "Ellie" in the film, entered pictures in 1935, after 10 years experience on the legitimate stage, including such successes as "In Abraham's Bosom" and "All God's Chillun Got Wings". Her first motion picture was "Harmony Lane", and since that time she has appeared in 7.

Rosemond, in the role of Tom in "Dark Command", started his stage career in "Green Pastures" in which he played for three seasons. Entering pictures in 1936, he has appeared in many films.

During the filming of "Dark Command", which tells a story of Kansas during the War Between the States, over 200 colored extras were used.

Temple's Civil Liberties Group Meets

Chalking up another highly enthusiastic confab, the Civil Liberties Committee of Hiawatha Temple met Monday night at the Elks' Temple.

Since its birth a few months ago, the militant women's organization has taken an active part in community and civic affairs. Outstanding efforts have been exerted to bring about immediate housing reforms on the Eastside, protests to the Mayor and City Council filed against Ku Klux Klan marchers, and a "parent education" program rising out of the Dorothy Gordon case.

The executive board of the organization met Thursday evening in the home of Mrs. Adele B. Ashford, secretary, to consider future action. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

Eastside C. of C. Holds Meet

The Eastside Chamber of Commerce met Monday night in the mezzanine of the Dunbar hotel, for the purpose of mapping out a course of action that is calculated to go far in curing many of the social, economic and business ills affecting the Eastside area and peoples of this city. N. A. Easter was chairman of the shaping-up committee.

Henry Warren, prominent florist, was named chairman of a nominating committee, which will elect the new board of directors and other officers. Others who addressed the meet were Lt. Journee White, Milton Spears, Lawrence F. LaMar, William Rhodes, Ivan Austin and R. G. LaMar.

Kansas G. O. P. Disappoints Bass' Kin

P. G. Porter of Atchison, Kansas, son-in-law of the late EAGLE editor, J. B. Bass, was among Kansas Negro Republicans disappointed in the state's failure to name a Negro delegate-at-large to the national Republican convention.

Porter, a school principal in Atchison, is active in Republican politics and expected to be one of the delegates elected. With Alfred Landon, former Kansas governor and 1936 presidential nominee, and John M. Hamilton, GOP national chairman, a cinch for election, much speculation was rife in Kansas as to the third and fourth delegates.

A Negro delegate, it is reported, was sacrificed to the naming of a woman and a young Republican to the positions.

Porter's wife, Alma, was adopted by late Editor Bass.

Politics Interests More Women

Increased activity among Republican and Democratic women in the national campaign has been seen by political observers. The two groups of women are entered wholeheartedly in the fight to win voters to their respective standards.

Observers professed to see an edge over the Democrats by the Republican women however.

Marital Mixup Thrashed Out in Court

Climaxing a very much mixed up marital status, Floyd E. Clark, 1157 East 52nd street, and popular member of the young social set, received an annulment decree yesterday in department 30 of the Superior Court before Judge Charles D. Ballard.

Testimony was introduced showing Clark's wife, Lucille, had never procured a divorce from her husband of 19 years, Walter Edwards, before her marriage to Clark in 1932.

Clark originally filed suit for divorce through his attorney, Walter L. Gordon jr., and upon service of papers upon Mrs. Clark she assertedly raised a disturbance in the lobby of the Dunbar hotel.

Among the persons attracted to the scene was her former husband who identified himself as having married the woman in Longview, Texas, in 1921, at which time her name was Lucy Cass.

Clark, upon being informed of the turn in events, changed his complaint for divorce to one of annulment. Edwards testified to the earlier marriage yesterday.

Police Intensify Search for Gordon Kidnaper-Slayer

as to the whereabouts of either the girl or her abducor. And when Bernella Gordon, mother of the dead girl, living at 1458 E. 23rd street, was apprised of the discovery she collapsed.

Particularly significant is the discovery by an EAGLE reporter that one of the men who found the girl is a Negro, a fact not mentioned in either the daily or weekly press of the nation. The discovery by Johnson, 59, who lives at 1255 N. Virgil, thus parallels that of William Allen, Negro truck driver, who found the body of the kidnaped Lindbergh baby near Hopewell, N. J., May 12, 1932.

Although police thought that Dorothy probably was bludgeoned to death, examination of the skull failed to substantiate this theory. Because of the condition of the body, which had apparently been buried shortly after the abduction, authorities were unable to determine the cause of death, although strangulation was hinted.

SUSPECT NABBED

Intensifying their search for the kidnaper-murderer, police had their hottest suspect this week when on Monday they arrested Dave Klien, white, a San Diego florist, booking him on suspicion of attempted kidnaping.

Odessa Proby, 14, of 1426 East Adams boulevard, told police early Monday morning that while she was on an errand she was accosted by a white man at 16th and Hooper, the spot from which the Gordon girl was kidnaped. She said the man bothered her continually as she walked north on Hooper between Adams and 16th, a distance of approximately 10 blocks.

When she reached 16th, she related, the man drove the car in front of her as she stepped from the curb and said: "If you don't get in this car I will kill you.". He then grabbtd her arm and tried to pull her in the car, the girl said, but screaming, she broke away.

Radio patrol officers J. E. Holmes and S. H. Reed, who investigated, learned that as the girl ran away she looked back and saw what appeared to be another girl about her size and height get in the car and the pair drive off at a high rate of speed.

PICKS UP WOMAN

A woman and her son, walking along the street were said to have witnessed the proceedings. The boy took down the license number of the car and the woman gave the Proby girl a nickle to call police.

Two hours later the car was traced to Klien at 2621 South Cufson, home of his mother. The "other girl" Klien picked up turned out to be Stella Haskins, 49, 1518 East Washington boulevard.

At a police show-up Monday night, witnesses in the Gordon kidnaping case and other victims of molestations were unable to positively identify Klein as the guilty party. Homicide detail officers, returning here yesterday from San Diego, learned that Klein, who has been released, was in San Diego at the time of the kidnaping last March.

Besides questioning all known sex degenerates, Captain Edgar Edwards this week again urged that anyone who saw a white man with a young Negro girl in a car any time after Mar. 5 anywhere in the Southland contact him at the Los Angeles police homicide bureau in the City Hall.

The Delightful Side...

by Bill Smallwood

Now I have said a second farewell to youth.
Let others burn Love's incense.
I have learned
What precious things in that same fire are burned!

Intellectual Bob Robinson got off Monday to DeeCee. He'll be back within two weeks or so . . . There were a half dozen or less quiet assemblies for pianist Josephine Harreld during her brief between-trains visit. The Portwig reception, chronicled a few issues back, rather began the cycle. Realling that particular culling of villagers, also here with the celebrated aurora was tennis-champ Flora Lomax, visiting here, too. She'll do the nationals at Wilberforce, comes summer. Handsome trio there: svelte Thelma Price, her youthful mother, and Thelma's handsome cavalier. Sort've a cynosure for admiration . . . Don't know if anyone told you, but Harreld return later for a recital on our village green . . . mazzaltov! . ..

Myrtle Anderson is here from NY. Meanwhile, Fredi Washington (hubby joined her Tuesday eve) goes right along dashing from breakfast to lunch to dinner to cocktails. I do believe Fredi knows everyone, everywhere. The Bob Clarks, the Muses, the Towleses, et al, are a few of the many who have played hosts to date. And La Ellington trips a merry trip, too, these fine, but passing, hours. The welkin gets rung pretty often for her. She'll be here two weeks more, then home to NY. Fredi and Ruth are a couple of honest-to-goodness glamour girls . . .

Almeta Porter left Tuesday a. m. for Chi. She deserts her Chi scene ever so often for a good bit of our sunshine, and if she becomes but a wee bored, here, off she choo-choos. But she'll return here in June. She took a fine Dalmation dog with her. Delightful tall glass touching with her during last Sunday's all-day party for the Hamptons, given by Martha Belle Rutherford and Julia Richardson out at the B tract. . . A filled house of bright folk, quite festive and quite at leisure. Cross-sections likeable Marvin Johnson and his family, the Harold Fosters and his camera, La Ellington does the rhumba with Lionel Hampton. . . a Chine buffet, and much traffic around it. . . bridge, here 'n' there . . . I like these kind of gatherings where you can wander around at will and not be cornered by a glittering-eye hostess who has planned every minute of your time. Allah forbid.

Mentioning Gladys Hampton: her old club (she was a charter member), the Antique Art, recently gathered at Lela Walsh's place in her honor. Champagne corks popped on and on, and it must've been pretty gay, in all. And mentioning Lela Walsh, she and Everett are about to build a snazzy home, did you know? Yep. . . Have Irma and Cy Cooper a B-I-G secret? I, for one, hear that they really have. . . hooray for you. . . Ann Lawrie's fashion show on the first, at Birch Street Church, has gained momentum in expectations. She's rounded up a glittering array of interesting folk and they're all perched waiting to sally forth and look their oh-there-you-are best. Ann's show will have something new in sequence, and has our collective interest. You'll go, of course? Of course.

Losing an old friend by suicide is a terrible thing. Lucas Howard's tragic end, in DeeCee, must be an awful blow to his parents (the Perry Howards) and his brother, Perry. Lucas and Perry Jr. always held my interest as brother team. They were alike and yet, at times, they weren't. . . Lucas was a crack swimmer, and could swim for miles in the Chesapeake Bay, upon which the Howards have their summer home. . . hail and farewell Lucas. . .

Yawn: A Westside mother and daughter team have accused us of ill manners--well!-- we've REALLY arrived now . . . Charming: Mrs. Curtis Smith. . . Recollection: Mrs. Moselle Moore at the Portwig reception had her hair up, a priceless old cameo and wore a beautiful Viennese lace jacket, all of which made her look exactly like one of those sentimentally picturesque paintings of yesteryear. Somehow, I can never quite think of anyone to compare with her, she's so very grand a person.

Clyde Richardson pens an interesting post from back East, relating how he sold an autograph of Richard Wright to his boss for ten dollars! . . . Gay session, the Unique Club dance last week-end. More of the mass how-dee-do tactics and swingin' and swayin' all 'round the place . . .

Teddy Austin, of NY, is here via TWA, trying to get over a blasted romance. Says he's not looking for solace. But I can't resist gently repeating a Dorothy Parkerism for him: Skirt the parlor and shun the zoo, for women and elephants never forget!

You'd be doubtlessly amused at the flutter being fluttered back and forth by a half dozen or so matrons, all bent on having Duke Ellington as their very own guest. Duke goes right on bowing from the waist, flashing his smile, and looking vastly content. . . That radiant creature you see on his arm is Bea Ellis, who has long been a favorite of ours. . .and, gosh, can Bea bake a cake. . . yummy. . .

Anticipated: fun-loving Luther Thompson has solemnly promised Ann Lawrie he'll be in her fashion show. If Luther doesn't break it up, we'll miss our pet guess. . .

'Til he does. . . period

"Build-Up" Good News For Suffering Women

Much of women's periodic distress may be unnecessary!

Many who suffer from headaches, nervousness, cramp-like pain, other symptoms of functional dysmenorrhea due to malnutrition are helped by CARDUI.

Main way it helps relieve periodic distress is by increasing appetite and flow of gastric juice. Thus it often aids digestion; helps build strength, energy, resistance to periodic disturbances.

Others find help for periodic discomfort this way: Start a few days before and take CARDUI until "the time" has passed. Women have used CARDUI for more than 50 years.

MRS. F. D. CLOPTON, chairman of the 12th Street Branch YWCA Committee for Hall Johnson Concert at Philharmonic Auditorium.

Mrs. Clopton announces that she is receiving enthusiastic support from the Committee of Management Staff, Committee Women and Club Girls, who are interested in the forthcoming concert by the Hall Johnson choir, Friday evening, May 3, at the Philharmonic auditorium. Among the women working with Mrs. Clopton are: Mmes. Walter L. Gordon, Sr., Juanita E. Miller, Jack Smitherman, Jessie C. Grayson, Byron Kenner, J. Cullen Fentress, Isidore H. Brown, Bert McDonald, Isabelle Clifton, Ursula Adams, Lloyd C. Griffith, Charles Satchell Morris, II, A. R. Mosely, C. D. Frederick, Florence Gray, Thomas A. Greene, Birdie Brooks, Ardela Anglin, Bessie Hosmon, Sidney Provost, Edward C. Atkinson, Sr., Lucille Pulliam, Ella Van Vactor, Minnie Wickliffe; Misses Eleanor Coleman, Dorothy C. Guinn, Ruby C. Jefferson, Faye Wynne, Louise Skanks, Sara De Vaughn, Thelma Hardon, Minerva Clark, Mae Bishop and Ruth Clark.

The Los Angeles YW selected the concert by the Hall Johnson Singers as an outstanding cultural entertainment to sponsor during the Spring of 1940. Great interest has been manifest among all groups in the four branches of the YWCA in promoting this concert.

GIRLS' CLUBS

Among other events of interest at the 12th Street Branch of the YWCA are activities of Girls' Clubs. The Girl Reserves are participating with their advisors in the Youth Parade which is to take place Saturday. They will be under the supervision of Miss Ruby C. Jefferson, Girl Reserve Secretary, and Girl Reserve Advisors.

The Business and Professional Girls' League have elected their officers for the forthcoming year as follows:

Louise Skanks, president; Myrtle Hughes, vice president; Faye Wynne, secretary; Mattie Laws, corresponding secretary; Nellie Mills, treasurer; Anella Rice, reporter.

Members of the Business and Professional Women's club are congratulating Silvia Gilliam, who has been elected president of the City-Wide Business and Industrial Council. Miss Gilliam attended the recent Student YWCA and YMCA Town Meeting on Race at the Pasadena Junior College, where she acted as a Resource on Race Relations. At this same Conference were: Mrs. Wathia Sims Jones, resource leader; Miss Dorothy C. Guinn, leader of the round table on "Black and White Relationships;" and Mrs. Vivian Osborne Marsh, technical advisor of the NYA, who as sociologist, made an able presentation at the morning panel discussion, of the contribution of racial groups.

A number of interested housewives and their friends are meeting each Thursday afternoon at the YWCA to learn new skills in knitting and handcraft under the able direction of Miss Dorothy Brown. This class, which is open to any girl or woman is each Thursday afternoon from 1 to 4 o'clock. Not only is there instruction in knitting and sewing, but also in metal and leather work. No fee is charged.

La Jovial Girls

The La Jovial Girls' club met last Thursday with Mrs. Fannie V. Dean, 818 E. 31st street. Sixty seconds of silent prayer were devoted to Club Mother Nettie B. Reese, whose husbands, Ernest Reese, died suddenly that morning.

Guests present included: Mmes. Jean Anderson, L. Hines and Miss Nettie Payne. Mrs. Barbara Crenshaw is a new member.

Prizes were won by the following: Mmes. M. Eades, N. Jones and M. Johnson, for bridge in the order named; Mmes. A. Powell, R. Butler, O. Odell in the order named for keno.

GRAND PRINCESS OF ORDER FETED ON OFFICIAL VISIT

California Temple No. 17, SMT, with Princess Viola Pollock presiding, entertained the Grand Princess of the California, Oregon and Washington jurisdiction Wednesday afternoon at Masonic Hall on the occasion of the high official's annual visit.

In her address to the group, the Grand Princess placed special emphasis on efficiency and cooperation. Other grand officers present were Etta Daggett, Eva Jones and Rhoda McNeil. A beautiful corsage and leather handbag was presented to the Grand Princess as a gift from the temple. The hall was beautifully decorated in a variety of spring flowers.

Interest Mounts as Essay Contest Nears Closing Date

Junior and senior high school students are showing an increase-interest in the second annual essay contest sponsored by the National Negro Insurance Association it was noted this week as the 500 word theme competition neared the closing date. No essays will be accepted that are postmarked later than midnight of April 30 or given to Golden State Mutual representative after that date.

The subject of this year's competition is "THE OPPORTUNITIES OFFERED TO NEGRO YOUTH BY LIFE INSURANCE" and all high school students are eligible. Golden State Mutual Life Insurance Company is offering three state prizes of $12.50, $7.50, and $5.00 respectively for the best essays by California students. All these will be entered in the national competition and will be eligible for the national prizes of $100.00, $50.00, and $25.00 for the first, second and third prizes respectively.

Esasys will be judged on the following basis: twenty-five (25) points for English and composition, and seventy-five (75) points for quality of thought expressed in the subject matter. The decision of the judges will be final.

All essays must be written on one side of regular composition paper or typewritten one one side of 8½x11 typewriter paper. At the top of the page must be plainly written: (a) Full name, (b) correct address, (c) male or female, (d) age, (e) grade, (f) name of school and principal. It is understood that all essays will become the property of the National Negro Insurance Association.

California contestants may hand their entries to an agent of Golden State Mutual or mail them to any branch office or the home office at 4261 Central avenue, Los Angeles.

Edgar J. Johnson, assistant secretary of Golden State Mutual, is chairman of the committee of judges and George A. Beavers, Jr., vice president-director of agencies, is state manager of the contest and the National Negro Insurance Week drive which will be observed from May 6-11th.

Phi Beta Sigmas Relax; Host Dance

Phi Beta Sigma fraternity relaxed from the rigors of celebrating Better and Bigger Negro Business week with a dance last Saturday night at Masonic Hall with more than 500 friends. The annual celebration of a week of concentration on business proved highly successful and colorful.

The week was started with the public meeting Sunday, April 14, at the Second Baptist church. Rev. T. L. Griffith, pastor of the church, delivered the sermon. Members of the fraternity were presented by the president, Edgar S. Brown, and a history of the fraternity given by Atty. Slaughter.

A round table discussion was held Tuesday night at the Golden State Assembly room where more than 200 gathered to discuss questions facing Negro business men.

On Wednesday and Thursday, a Sigma committee paid a visit to Eastside businessmen, inspecting their methods of operation. Friday night, Dr. E. W. Moore spoke at the banquet given at the Second Baptist church.

Cosmopolitan Club

The Cosmopolitan club met last Thursday at the residence of Mrs. Daniels, 1512 E. 49th street, for its monthly social. There was a lovely program arranged by the presidents' wife, Mrs. W. M. Moore. Rev. and Mrs. F. L. Taylor were among the honored guests. After a few very encouraging remarks by Rev. Taylor, the acting hostess (due to the illness of the hostess, Mrs. Maxwell) served a delectable and delicious repast. Club is holding a business meeting at the home of the President of 51st street and Hooper avenue.

Cornelia Leggett Bradford Is Gracious Hostess

On last Saturday afternoon, Mrs. Cornelia Leggett Bradford, of 1728 W. 51st street, was a gracious hostess to a group of her friends at an elaborate luncheon party. The luncheon was in honor of Mrs. Irene Freeman Morris, bride of Dr. Charles Satchel Morris, and sister of Mr. and Mrs. Paul R. Williams.

The guests were received in the spacious and beautiful gardens of the Sojourner Truth building on E. Adams blvd. During the garden party and throughout the afternoon, Mrs. Bradford was assisted in receiving by Mrs. Ruth S. Webster, Mrs. Hazel G. Whitaker and Miss Jennie Dora Grayson.

The luncheon table was elaborately and artistically decorated. White was the only color used in the decorations and the motif was the "bride going to the altar." The flowers arrangements were unusually beautiful. The table centerpiece was a large and beautiful bride made entirely of fresh lilies of the valley. The place cards were striking in their charm. They were all the hand work of Mrs. Bradford.

Guests included many of the intellectual and social leaders of Southern California. They were Dr. Anna J. Leggett, Della Williams, Iva Washington, Clarissa Matthews, Louise Kenner, Naomi Booker, Seth Lee, Calme Russ, Faye Griffith, Alma Covington, Pauline Slater, Portia Griffith, Irma Hopkins, Lilly Tyler, Willa Garrott, Alice Harvey, Janie Lee, Ruth Webster, Lena Tucker, Ellen Garrott, Juanita Miller, Dorothy Johnson, Juanita Williams, Laura Fowler, Marzella Lewis, Ethel Bell, Bessie Burke, Hazel Whitaker, Nadine Whisenant, Ella Matthews, Marion Moore, Betty Brazley, Jennie Grayson, Ruby Terry, Antoinette Atkinson, Zeph Brown, Elah Lewis, Carney Stewart, Bernyce Wilson and Irene Morris. Also present at the party was the young daughter of Mrs. Bradford, little Ann Louise Bradford.

At the conclusion of the delicious luncheon, the rest of the afternoon was spent in playing games. Beautiful prizes were won by Nadine Whisenant, Ellen Garrott, Zeph Brown, Ella Matthews, Laura Fowler and Marzella Lewis. A guest prize was presented to Mrs. Morris.

Mrs. Bradford and Mrs. Morris were childhood friends and the elaborate party was a fitting tribute to a fine friendship.

Puente Hostesses Give Hawaiian Dancing Soiree

The Puente Hostesses, popular bridge club, entertained their many friends with a Hawaiian Dancing Soiree at the Elks' Ballroom. Palm branches were placed at advantageous points in the hall by James Brown, decorator, transforming the stage into a Hawaiian rock garden, with huge palm trees on either side.

Each guest was presented with leis upon entrance. Prior to the introduction and to lend Hawaiian atmosphere to the dance, John Lawrence Criner, Jr., baritone, sang "Sweet Leilani." Following this was a song and dance number, "Honolulu," by Edna Elam and Wrenna Clark, both pupils of the Malcolm Nash Dance Studio. They were appropriately dressed in the traditional grass skirt costume of the Islands.

HAWAIIAN PRINTS

A. J. Williams, master of ceremonies, presented the "hostesses" to their guests. Either Hawaiian solid colors or prints with a white handmade leis and gardenias in the hair was worn by each member, except the president who wore wnite chiffon with yellow hand made lei with yellow jonquil hair corsage.

PLUKO BLACK AND WHITE HAIR DRESSING

The Social Whirl...

by Lillian Johnson

The Alpha Phrateres, interest group of Alpha Kappa Alpha sorority, entertained Sunday with an Oriental tea at the Sojourner Truth Home. The unique idea was carried throughout the entire affair with the members of the club dressed in Chinese and Japanese costumes. Decorations were done in the Oriental style, made with beautiful flower arrangements by Mrs. Minnie Hough. Around the darkened room could be seen lovely Oriental dolls and hanging lanterns.

Greeting guests at the door were Misses Janis Quon, Vivian Marshall and Winifred Allen. Pouring tea at a low teakwood table were Miss Valarie Martin and Miss Joyce Dancer. The menu included almond cookies, tea cakes and other Oriental delicacies. Mingling with the 400 guests were Miss Violet Aldridge, sponsor, Misses Edythe Brue, Alma Peake, Jewel Harris, Gwendolyn Duseau, Edith Cotton, LaVerne Longing and Emma Millhouse, members of the club.

Entertainment consisted of an original Oriental dance rendered beautifully by Mrs. Ceresa McGruder; an authentic Japanese fan dance by Miss Joyce Dancer; several piano selections by Miss Betty Yarbrough.

Among the guests were Mrs. R. Portwig, Dr. Vada Summerville, Mrs. John Young,, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Black, Mrs C. Graham and daughters, Mrs. Naomi Booker, Miss Manila Smith, Mrs. Myrtle Edwards, Miss Ruby Jefferson, Miss Dorothy Brown, Miss Gwen Davis, Miss Helen Dundee, Miss Clothilde Curry, Miss Dorothy Lawrence, Mrs. Myrtle Robinson, Miss Harris, Mrs. Allen, Mrs. Boswell, Mr. Charles Boswell, Mr. and Mrs. W. '40 Jolly Twelve Matrons Club Has Meeting

The "1904 Jolly Twelve" Matrons' club of OES, met at the home of Matron Anna L. Beavers, last Sunday, April 21, in their regular monthly meeting. Called to order by our efficient, crarcming and dignified presidtnt, La Gula Shaw, the meeting had a two fold purpose: tn transact business of the club and to celebrate the birthday anniversary of Matron Beavers, who first saw the light of day April 19.

All matrons were present ,but one. Important plans were discussed and made. After all matters were attended to, the meeting adjourned to go into the social hour—"the party." A dainty repast was served and gifts unwrapped. There were many "ohs and ahs" that sounded through the house, with much joy and laughter. Matron Beavers was visbly surprised and her face beamed with joy as she viewed and reviewed each gift and read each card.

So the "Jolly 12" spent an afternoon long to be remembered. There will be more birthdays and each matron will be remembered on her day. Next meeting will be with Matron Frankie Bowdoin, 732 W. 32nd street, Sunday, May 19, at 3:30 p. m.

On Tuesday, April 16 was inaugurated a new day in Queen of Sheba Chapter, known as "Patron's Day," honoring their Patron, Bro. Arthur L. Crosby and presenting him with a lovely OES apron and collar as a token for his untiring efforts and service rendered the chapter. Many fitting addresses, solos and remarks were enjoyed by all. Patrons, matrons, both past and present were in attendance, also many visitors. The Worthy Matron, Anna L. Beavers and honored Patron Bro. A. L. Crosby, together with the committee, saw to it that each enjoyed the repast served them in the dining hall. A delicious chocolate cake was also given the patron and he was so generous and big-hearted that he cut it and gave everyone present a slice and only had a slice for himself. The halls upstairs and down were decorated with an abundance of flowers.

1940 Matron's Popularity Contest given by Orpah Chapter No. 15, Santa Monica, awarded the honor of being the most popular matron to Sis. Anna L. Beavers, W. M. of Queen of Sheba Chapter No. 7, and she was given as a prize, a beautiful Past Matron's pin. Many useful and expensive hand embroidered and crochetted gifts were given the Matrons' for their untiring efforts. Sis. Beatrice McCarroll, W. M. and Orpha Chapter left nothing undone in showing the kindest hospitality to the matrons' in this contest. The rostrum was arranged like a cozy living room, well lighted, comfortable, cheerful and quiet; this was for the "1940 Matrons" only. And here they were served by charming hostesses in beautiful evening gowns and corsages. Thus ended successfully the Popularity contest and afternoon tea by Orpha Chapter. The Masonic Hall in Santa Monica was continuously packed all afternoon. A good musical program was rendered.

In the recent concert at Vashon High school, St. Louis, by the University (Mo.) musical organizations MISS HELEN PHILLIPS, soprano, was enthusiastically received by the 1600 listeners. A senior, Miss Phillips who was recently auditioned by Marian Anderson in St. Louis, plans to continue her voice training in New York next year.

Eastern Appoints W. L. Merrill as Advertising Head

J. M. Sieroty, vice president and general manager of the Eastern, announces the appointment of W. L. Merrill to the position of advertising manager of all the firm's neighborhood stores.

Mr. Merrill has been associated with the firm for more than four years in the capacity of Advertising Production Manager under the direction of J. P. Scyster, Advertising Director. Merrill has spent most of his adult life in Southern California, is a member of the Los Angeles Advertising club and is a graduate of the University of California, Southern branch.

In addition to being in charge of advertising the firm's ten units, he will supervise window decorations, store displays, and public relations. He will likewise assume the duty of being assistant to A. R. Giffard, who is in charge of Eastern's neighborhood stores.

His first comment when making arrangements at the Central Avenue store was, "If all relations will be as pleasant as doing business with the California Eagle, my new venture will be a pleasant one."

W. L. MERRILL

In assuming his new duties, Mr. Merrill's first task is the coordinating of his activities at Central Avenue with Mr. Charles Wien, manager of The Eastern at 45th and Central. Mr. Wien and Mr. Merrill are looking forward to big things insofar as the local store is concerned.

Virgin Isles Ask Tax Returns

NEW YORK, Apr. 25. (ANP)—Ashley L. Totten, former outstanding Virgin Islander, speaking to New York Virgin Islanders here recently, asked support of legislation which, if passed, will transfer to the Virgin Islands all taxes collected under the internal revenue laws on articles imported into the United States from the Islands. The Bill, H. R 9214, already has passed the senate, and is pending in the house. Enactment of the bill, Totten said, would make possible elimination of the export tax of six dollars per ton on sugar which Island exporters now are compelled to pay.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"The Lord will perfect that which ncerneth me: thy mercy O Lord dureth for ever: forsake not the rks of thine own nands." This rse from the Psalms is the Gold- Text in the Lesson-Sermon on robation after Death" on Sunday all Churches of Christ, Scientist. Among the Scriptural selections the Lesson-Sermon are these pas- ges from John: "Now there is at rusalem by the sheep market a ol, which is called in the Hebrew ngue Bethesda, having five rches. . . . And a certain man was ere, which had an infirmity thirty d eight years. When Jesus saw n lie, and knew that he had been w a long time in that case, he ith unto him, Wilt thou be made ole? The impotent man answered n, Sir, I have no man, when the ter is troubled, to put me into pool: but while I am coming, other steppeth down before me. sus saith unto him, Rise, take up bed, and walk. And immediately man was made whole, and took his bed, and walked."

These statements from the Chris- n Science textbook, "Science and alth with Key to the Scriptures," Mary Baker Eddy, are also pre- nted: "Unless the harmony and mortality of man are becoming re apparent, we are not gaining true idea of God; and the body ll reflect what governs it, wheth it be Truth or error, understand or belief, Spirit or matter."

Prayer meeting begin 7:45 each night.

Pastor Leath earnestly request your presence and assistance in this great soul saving effort.

'Art Forms in Clay' Delights Avalon Center

In a lecture-demonstration "Art Forms in Clay," Glen Lukens, internationally famed ceramist, stimulated and delighted a large, appreciative audience, at Avalon Community Center last Thursday, April 18. Assisting in the demonstration was Stephen Zaiken, student in sculpture at the University of Southern California, where Lukens is a Professor of Fine Arts.

This, the inaugural event in an "Evenings in the Studio" series sponsored by the Music and Art departments of Avalon Center, provided a new and altogether interesting experience in cultural presentations.

Concluding the evening, Mrs. Gertrude Hicks, hostess chairman, and her assistants, Mesdames Dow, Windsor and Roberson, the Misses Constance Smart, Willa Jefferson, Marjorie Gordon, Mae Morrison, Barbara, Geraldine and Charlotte Woodruff, served the guests delicious refreshments.

Responsible for the planning and execution of the delightful program were Mrs. Zelma Watson Duke, director of music at Avalon and Lillian Jones, recreation and art director. Miss Jones presided as mistress of ceremonies for the evening.

MISSIONARY UNION WILL MEET SUNDAY

The Interdenominational Missionary union will meet Sunday afternoon at three p. m. at Beulah Baptist church, 100th and Success street, Rev. Jodie Barnett, pastor. Rev. A. C. Capers will be the guest speaker, from the subject, "Christ Pre-eminent." There will also be special music. Mrs. A. Fields is president, Mrs. O. Bell, secretary.

Bishop Walls Brought in Court

Case Continued Until Today; P. E. Also Arrested

LOUISVILLE, April 25. (ANP)—Nothing more sensational or shocking has happened in the history of colored Louisville than bringing a Negro bishop and presiding elder of a great church before a local court.

But that happened Tuesday morning when Bishop W. J. Walls and the Rev. B. N. Henningham, presiding elder, were brought before Magistrate Thomas J. Young on warrants sworn by Atty. C. Eubanks Tucker, charging them with "banding together to disturb or injure a person." Atty. Tucker claimed Bishop Walls and Rev. Henningham "conspired" to injure his reputation.

The case was continued until today (Thursday) and Judge Young held the two churchmen under bonds of $2000 each.

It is claimed Atty. Tucker was suspended as a minister or pastor in the AME Zion church because, it is alleged, he struck a fellow preacher in church at Russellville, Ky., and cursed and swore at him in the church in the presence of Bishop Walls. Charges of conduct unbecoming a minister were brought and a church court trial held. He was suspended for a year by the church court.

H. Y. M.—Will I make the trip to New York, and tell me if I will be successful in my plans this coming September?

Ans.: The trip to New York is off . . . your brother can't afford it now that he's married. If you expect to enter Nurse Training in September, file your application at the hospital right away.

H. L. C.—I want someone to love me as I am lonesome. When will I be a lucky girl and find my dream man?

Ans.: There is a young man living in West Virginia whom you are corresponding with at this time that regards you with strong affection. He's the man for you . . . why not consent to his visiting you this summer as he has asked you many times in the past.

H. T.—We have been married only two months and my husband claims that if I don't start a family that he won't stay with me. What must I do?

Ans.: Consult with a doctor or a person with knowledge on this subject and let them talk with your husband. He's taking a very silly attitude towards marriage. I predict at least THREE CHILDREN for you two but give yourself time . . . it can't be done overnight.

C. L. M.—Should I expect any financial aid from my step-son? I worry lots about it.

Ans.: Right at the present time he can't possibly help you any. He's only making a meager living Teaching School. It seems to me that he is also trying to complete his education, and until he does so, he can't do much for you.

K. E. G.—If I were to leave here and go to another city or town will I be able to find work and make a good living?

Ans.: Leaving the city and making a change will have a tendency to place you farther behind the "8-ball". Stick to your husband and stay in the store with him . . . this other fellow is shooting you a big line of Bull.

D. C.—What makes this so called sweetheart of mine flirt with other women?

Ans.: He's full of hot air and furthermore he's not your sweetheart any longer. This fellow doesn't intend to marry you . . . he's a play boy at heart and I assure you that you are wasting your time.

At 4:00 p. m. a Vesper hour will be observed, honoring Booker T. Washington, in a dramatic play by the Mme. Pearl C. Walton players.

At 7:30 p. m a popular program under the direction of the boys of the church. Thomas Martin of London, England will be the speaker. You are cordially invited to worship with us at all times.

ADVENTIST

"The Future of the War in Europe as Foretold in the Bible," will be the subject of the picture sermon at the Adventist Church Sunday night at 8 p. m. Pastor P. G. Rodgers will use screen pictures to unfold the Prophecies and the service promises to be a very educational one. Sabbath (Saturday) he will speak at the 11 a. m. devotional service held in the large auditorium and the choir will render music.

Soul - Saving Services Begin

The Westside Missionary Baptist church, 1734 West 35th place is engaged in a soul saving campaign. Webegan on April 15th, and will continue for ten more nights.

We have engaged the services of Rev. L. D. Stevens, B. D., the pastor of the Abyssinia Baptist Church of this citl. He is preaching every night at Eight o'clock and is having great success.

This is a young church, and deserves your support. The citizens of this commnity are responding in a great way to the services that are being held at this church. We are expecting greater results during the next ten nights. Rev. L. D. Stevens, is a safe and sound Baptist Minister, and has had several years of experience, both as a public school teacher and a successful pastor. We want you to hear him each night, and assist us in extending the Kingdom of God in this great city.

We extend to you a cordial welcome, and shall expect your presence. May God Bless You.
Rev. S. H. Jennings, Minister
Mrs. Ophelia Vernon, Clerk

Boys to Have Charge of Sunday Program at Avalon

Avalon Christian church is entering wholeheartedly into the spirit of Youth Week, and while active church groups are doing much to help the boys give a good account of themselves in the Boys' Parade on Saturday, other committees are working full time, arranging other Youth Week events

Sunday morning at 11:00 a. m., the Boys' Day Program gets under way. Every opportunity will be given the boys of the church and community to enter into the spirit of the occasion. The entire program will be conducted by youth. Highlight of this program will be a "Host-Guest" arrangement wherein a large group of boys will be host to a group of representative business and civic leaders of the community. Boys will be represented in groups and by organizations.

To further accentuate the events of the day, an additional program is being given in the evening, in conjunction with the regular 4th Sunday Musical, which is to be presented at Avalon, beginning at 7:30 p. m.

A unique essay contest is being held and awards will be given.

OPPORTUNITY NIGHT

Wednesday evening will be Opportunity Night. Floyd Covington will discuss vocational opportunities and employment fields.

Friday evening, May 3, will be community night at Avalon, at which time fun-loving and art-conscious groups of the community will be guests of a Youth Week set-up.

There will be exhibition games of ping-pong, volleyball, skating; displays of art and handicraft work exected in the educational departments of the Community Center.

On Sunday, May 5, a unique Girls' Day program, giving expression to the many and varied talents possessed by the girls of Avalon Christian church and surrounding community will be held.

'SRO' AS L. K. WILLIAMS, NATIONAL BAPTIST PREXY, SPEAKS IN SAN DIEGO

Religious Leader Explains Object of Current Goodwill Tour at Calvary Baptist

SAN DIEGO, (By Mrs. E. B. Wesley)—Standing room was at a premium at Calvary Baptist church Monday night when San Diego turned out en masse to hear Dr. L. K. Williams, internationally known head of the great National Baptist association, in one of his distinctive messages, in which he explained the object of the unprecedented good will tour of himself and distinguished co-workers, composed of Mrs. J. C. Matt, vice president of the Women's Auxiliary of NBC, and associate promotional director of the $200,000 campaign; Rev. J. H. Branham, one of Chicago's foremost Baptist divines; and the Goodwill Quartette including J. R. Bradley and Thos. Shelley, Memphis, Earle Hines, Cleveland, and M. B. Floyd, Los Angeles.

Dr. Williams' address at no time lacked either interest or information. Mrs. Matt outlined her special work and received contributions in pledges. The singing of the quartet was excellent. Bethel Baptist church, of which Rev. Charles H. Hampton, president of the Western Baptist convention is pastor, and Calvary Baptist church, pastored by Rev. J. L. Branham, sponsored the coming of this distinctive group. The combined choirs, with Miss Octavia Payne directing, and Miss Edna Henry, pianist and Miss Ollvia Fae Phillips, organist, furnished the music.

Rev. C. A. Harris, presiding Elder of the San Diego district of the Southern Conference of the AME Church, and Rev. L. H. Owens, pastor of Bethel AME church, left the city early Monday morning for Los Angeles where they joined a delegation of AME ministers enroute to Detroit and the General conference of the church, convening there next week.

Elder Van Goodlow, assistant state overseer of the Church of God in Christ, of San Francisco, was the guest of Elder and Mrs. J. A. Jackson last week.

Miss Marjorie Casson, evangelist, and Miss Liska Moss, singer, 2 young enthusiastic Christian workers, are here from Waterloo, Ia., to take charge and conduct the services of Bethel A. M. E. church, during the absence of the pastor, Rev. Owens.

Elder J. A. Jackson, Miss Lydia Trimble and Mrs. Ella Wagoner returned from the Valley last week where they conducted a series of revival services.

The American Woodmen Camp No. 3 will observe its annual sermon Sunday night at Logan Chapel AME Zion church, of which Rev. L. W. McCoy is pastor.

Mrs. Louise Davenport, graduate practical nurse, received high recommendations from Dr. O. H. Warner and Dr. C. L. Jackson for fine work in her profession.

Orville Diggs of San Bernardino, was the week-end guest of Miss Lucille Leftridge while he and a group of youngsters were attending the state track meet here.

MISS JOSEPHINE HARRELD HEARD

Sponsored by Delta Sigma Theta sorority and Trinity Baptist church, Miss Josephine Harreld, brilliant young concert pianist, was presented in a recital at Memorial Junior High school Thursday night. Miss Harreld pleased her large audience of music lovers with her artistic rendition of compositions by the old masters and modern composers. Modesty and simplicity of manner added much to her beauty of feature and form as she skillfully interpreted the art of great musicianship.

SOCIETY

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Wooden, 3024 Greely avenue, entertained at a delightful dinner party Sunday in compliment to Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wooden, their son and his bride of a few days. Bidden were: Messrs and Mmes. Ted Price, L. Robinson, Clarence King, R. Johnson, Edna Tate and Watson Dobbs.

Alvin Newman was host to the Best-Yet club at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bedman Saturday night.

Thursday night Rose Bud Temple, was hostess to the State Grand Princes, Mrs. Gertrude Edwards and the State Grand Queen, Mrs. Hattie Payne.

Members of the Order, uniquely dramatized "The Ten Mysteries," after the Grand Princess had given her address

A most delicious repast was served while Timothy Williams showed pictures taken of his home and surroundings as well as the last Rose tournament.

The Worthy Princess, Mrs. Elizabeth Williams, presented the Grand Princess with a gift and a bouquet of Rose buds.

The Scholarship committee of the Women's Civic League is now making great plans for their red and white carnation dinner on Mother's Day. This will be a scholarship benefit, and they are expecting the support of the community. Those who wish to do something nice for their mothers might call Mrs. J. E. Craft, Main 8628 or Mrs. Ida Jackson, Main 5859 and make reservations. Tables will be set and decorated and served to your party at the time set by you, and a Mother's Day program rendered for your entertainment. The white carnation table will be for those who will honor their mothers in memory.

Words from Mrs. Exie Lee Hampton, executive secretary, during the YWCA convention at Atlantic City, keeps Clay street in touch with the outstanding actions.

GIRL RESERVE

The Girl Reserve committee wishes to thank the public for its splendid cooperation in making their Dinner a success.

The High school group is participating in the Camp Rally and Song Fest, at Central Saturday. Mrs. Alice S. Whaley is the advisor. The Girl Reserve's Advisory Council met at Central Apr. 16.

HOUSEHOLD EMPLOYEES

The Household Employess club met Thursday. President Arcola Andrews conducted a questioneer on "Running a Household." The meeting was well attended. Their Bridge Tournament recently held was a conference effort.

BUSINESS & PROFESSIONAL

The Business and Professional Women's Club is holding their meetings the 1st and 3rd Wednesdays in each month. The last meeting was a Pot-Luck. The group has taken as their project "Bedecorating the Auditorium." Their initial endeavor will be a Bridge Tournament held at the building May 2. Two new members joined during March. Mrs. Florence Foster, Nurse and Mrs. Esterlyn Lanning, former school teacher and now an active Business women. Mrs. A. C. Richardson was guest at the last meeting.

MEMBERSHIP RALLY

A call is going out to women and girls in San Diego to join in a work of far-reaching and significant import, a work that is desperately needed. The call comes from the YWCA which is challenging women and girls or this community to give up less important duties, if need be, or to assume this responsibility in addition to their present tasks. The YWCA is calling for new members. Have you been invited to a neighborhood tea? If not, you will be, sometime soon. Groups of members are getting together to talk about YWCA over a cup of tea.

RESIDENCE GUEST

Mrs. Dorothea Lewis of Chicago and Miss Millicent Wylly of New York City who have been residing in Los Angeles for the past several months paid San Diego another visit. While here they visited the Clay street building.

HOUSE COMMITTEE

The house committee held open house for members and friends Thursday from 5:00 to 8 p. m. Dinner was served at 5:30 at which time special music was furnished by the Girl Reserve's Glee Club.Attractively appointed tables were presided over by the man life stories were given by the past and present matrons, Mrs. Beatrice Palmer and Mrs. Gracie Goodwin.

CHURCHES

Sunday was a full day at the Bethel AME church, with the quarterly meeting and the closing of the Battle of Roses contest. Rev. C. A. Harris, presiding elder, delivered a sermon of deep spiritual thought at the morning service. In the evening Miss Marjorie Casson, evangelist spoke and Miss Moss sang and whistled.

The clubs reported for the "Red Rose" with Mrs. Rosa Baker, general, collecting $94.00. The White Rose laid $251.00 on the table. Mrs. A. E. Morgan was general.

Theodore Steele, an exemplary young member of Bethel church, died Saturday night.

At the Church of God in Christ Elder Van Goodlow preached at both morning and evening services.

MASONS OF SANTA MONICA HOLD ANNUAL ENROLLMENT

SANTA MONICA, Apr. 25.—At their intermediate meeting for the month of April, Masons of Crescent Bay Lodge No. 19 of Santa Monica, held annual enrollment of Eastern Star women at the Masonic Hall Monday night.

The affair was indeed a red letter day in the annals of Santa Monica Masonry. With Hampton Worthy as master of ceremonies, a program was presented which included: Horace Bradford, baritone; John Rucker, imitator; Miss G. Craddock, cellist. John Q. Tabor, Jr., was the speaker, relating his experience in Holland as the only U. S. Negro boy in the International Jamboree of Boy Scouts.

The climax came in the unveiling of pictures of every master of Crescent Bay Lodge since its founding in 1911. Longest office holder was Roscoe Broyles, who held the chair 12 years.

In compliment to Mrs. Daisy Lee Payne, the Young Married Women's club of Firsta A. M. E. church entertained last Friday evening with a surprise stork shower in the home of Mrs. Payne, 1719 18th street. Highlight of the evening was the Baby's Question Box". The honoree was presented with many lovely gifts, after which refreshments were served. Guests present were Mmes. Essie Quinn, Bessie Noble, Ethel Lewis, LaVert Terrell, Mary Lee, Florence Burton, Geneva Tidwell, Christine Moore, Aileen Lewis, Ada Harris, Beulah Reid, Lela Brown, Edna Brunson.

Mrs. LaVerne Sumlin, 1838 22 street, delighted a few friends at her birthday party. Chinese checkers and other games provided pleasing diversion. Present were: Mmes. Vera White, Smith Willie Gilmore Kennedy, Lillye Cowan and Willie Clark.

Mrs. Arthur L. Reese, 541 Santa Clara, Venice, has been quite ill, but is reported improving at this writing.

3 Youths Eliminated from Redlands Speakers' Tourney

REDLANDS, Apr. 25—Competing against 300 of the foremost young speakers in Southern California, three colored youths went to the semi-finals in the Redlands tournament of high school speakers last week. The three, Annie Mae McShann, and Carl Yaeger of Jefferson High school, Los Angeles, and Charles Lang of Santa Barbara High school, represented their schools in the tournament that lasted three days.

Lang and Yaeger split the honors in the semi-finals, both being eliminated by close margins in the oration contest. Lang got to the semi-finals on a comparison of the sharecropper and the migrant laborer of California in his oration entitled "America Must Keep Faith." He warned that this element constituted a threat to our national honor and to democracy for today "democracy is retreating before the goose-stepping hordes of totalitarianism."

MINORITY PROBLEM

Carl Yaeger of Jefferson gave his oration, "Over Here, Over There" that won for him the L. A. city championship and also gave him victory in the regional contest.

With a clear cut comparison between totalitarianism and democracy, he told of the sufferings of the minority in Germany.

Yaeger also got to the semi-finals with his declamation on Napoleon but was eliminated before he reached the finals, again by a very narrow margin.

Miss Annie Mae McShain, also from Jefferson, made her way to the semi-finals in the declamations. The students were accompanied by Mrs. Jessie Lee Catley of Los Angeles, who is very much interested in the promotion of civic activity.

COUPLE ENTERTAINS AT RANCH IN CALEXICO

CALEXICO, (By Pearl Herron)—On Wednesday Mr. and Mrs. Forknor had Mrs. Maguriе Casson and Mrs. Tiska Moss and the Judgkin family out to the ranch for dinner. Friday night Mr. and Mrs. McCloud had them out to dinner. They also enjoyed several trips to Mexico, accompanied by the Judgkin family. Thursday night the Evangelist spoke from the subject, "Just Want Quiet". Mrs. Moss sang.

Friday night, consecration nite, 24 were consecrated with Holy Waters from Missouri. The Gospel Shoes were worn by Mrs. J. Blake, bringing in $6.97. She was given $4.00 to go to Mexico to buy shoes. Mrs. Moss sang three request numbers.

Friday night the Evangelist gave a candle light service, taking as her subject, "Let Your Light Shine."

The evangelist and gospel singer gave their thanks and left Saturday morning for San Diego. They hailed from Clarinda, Iowa. During their 9 day stay, two young people united with the church.

Earl and Curtis Colbert, J. C. Diamond and James Patterson of the CCC, visited their relatives and friends here Sunday.

Miss Hattie Thomas and John Finney also visited friends and relatives in Calexico Sunday.

Hostess Shower in Riverside for Coronan

RIVERSIDE, (By Francis M. Williams)—A linen shower honoring Mrs. Maxine Elliott of Corona was given in the home of Mrs. Matilda Williams, 2740 10th street Apr. 16, sponsored by Mrs. Lena B. Porter and Mrs. M. Williams. Mrs. Eddie Streeter and Mrs. Ruby Culpepper served. The table was beautifully decorated with pink sweet peas and other cut flowers. Various designs of lovely linens were left by the guests, who after an evening of conversing and refreshments, congratulated the bride-elect and wished her much happiness.

Mrs. Maxine Elliott of Corona, Julius H. Williams, accommpanied by the aunt of the bride to be, Mrs. Armead De Beal motored to Pheonix, Ariz. late Friday night and were joined in holy wedlock by Rev. Upthegrove, pastor of Tanner Chapel AME church. The bride was attired in deep rose crepe with accessories of dark blue while the groom wore a suit of dark gray. While there they visited Mrs. Gordon whose husband is on the police force. On their return Sunday, they spent several hours with Mr. and Mrs. Albert Gaulf of Palm Springs. They will be at home to their friends May 3.

Starling J. Hopkins, Grand Lecturer of Most Worshipful Sovereign Grand Lodge, Free and Accepted Masons, for the State of California and Jurisdiction, on April 18 gave a very inspiring lecture to members of Orange Valley Lodge No. 13.

Riverside Political Study club members and friends enjoyed a lovely tea on the wonderful lawn in the flower garden of Mrs. M. Alves Sunday. Mrs. L. Jackson, Mrs. J. D. Johnson served at the table. Mrs. A. Beverly registered the guests, Mrs. E. A. Williams was mistress of ceremonies of the program which was as follows; Club song, four selections by Robt. Ramerio with his electrical steel guitar; "Preparedness-Opportunity of Youth from a Political View-point", Mrs. Grace Mabra of Anna B. Young Pianist Impresses El Centro, Valley Audience

EL CENTRO, (By W.A. Payne)—"Miss Josephine Harreld, talented young Negro pianist, is one of the most brilliant young pianists Valley audiences have yet had the opportunity to hear, according to those who attended her concert Monday evening in the Wilson school auditorium under the auspices of the Second Baptist Church". So writes the music critic of El Centro's daily paper, the Post Press. Miss Harreld arrived directly from Albuquerque, New Mexico where she gave a recital in the University of New Mexico. She was met in Yuma, Arizona by Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Perue of Imperial at whose home she was guest during her two day stay in the city. Mr. E. A. Washington, chairman of the committee sponsoring the program, accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Perue and gave the official welcome.

Commenting further on the concert the music critic writes: "Miss Harreld not only has a flair for the modern style but plays Chopin with rare skill and has a comprehensive mastery of the classic school as well.

"Her program was one of great interest, and designed to show her skill, including the Bach Hess, Jesu of Man's Desiring" and the Mendelssohn, "Variations Serieuses", a group of Chopin numbers which were really outstanding, the Debussy numbers, the well known "Cathedrale Engloutie" and "General Lavine"; and to many, the most interesting, William Still's "Summerland". Mr. Still is an outstanding musician of the Negro race. The concluding numbers were the Lecuona "Malaguena" and the Verdi-Listz "Rigoletto" paraphrase.

"Those unable to hear Miss Harreld missed hearing a real artist with technical skill and a sensitive temperament who should go far in the world of music."

Miss Harreld has a pleasing stage appearance and many took advantage of the opportunity to meet the young artist at the conclusion of the concert. She left the next morning for Claremont college where she was to be presented in concert.

REVIVAL

The revival services conducted by Second Baptist church and Johnson's Chapel A. M. E. church closed last Friday evening. The meeting was very successful. There were additions to both churches and renewed interest shown in both organizations.

Preaching during the meeting was done by the pastors Rev. I. N. Whitten and Rev. A. C. Austin.

Johnson's Chapel announces the celebration of its 21st Anniversary, May 5-12 .A program of merit and interest is being prepared. Indications are there will be large attendance during the week.

Dr. Ralph Jensen, Executive Secretary of the Southern California Baptist Convention and Rev. Oliver deWitt Cummings, director of Religious Education, were among the large number of persons attending the Imperial Valley Baptist Asso. and entertained at dinner by the Women of the Second Baptist Church, Friday evening. Much interest was shown in the new church building and the pastor and officers were complimented on its convenient arrangements.

Public School week is being observed by the schools of the entire city. Washington and Douglass schools gave a joint program Tuesday evening. The several rooms and departments are welcoming parents and friends and to demonstrate their daily activities. The P. T. A. is sponsoring the field day program Friday. The pastors of the several churches last Sunday stressed the place of education in the lives of the people and urged full attendance during the week.

WEDDED

Zenas Butler Cops 2 Events For Long Beach

LONG BEACH, (By Mrs. D. V. Bouggess)—Top man in the track and field meet Saturday between Long Beach and Santa Monica Junior college was Zenas Butler, winner of two events, the high and low hurdles. Butler's time in the 120-yard high hurdles, 15.3s., is one of the best recorded in jaysee circles and his mark of 23.5s, in the 220-yard lows is the best attained this season by a junior collegian.

In addition to his athletic ability, this handsome lad is also one of the best musicians at the j. c. and a member of the school's orchestra and band.

John McQueen was a member of the winning team in the four man mile relay.

CLUB NEWS

Mrs. R. B. White, president of the Roland Hayes Unit of the WPSC, was one of the speakers Monday evening at a testimonial banquet in the Hilton hotel, honoring Harlan Boyer, candidate for the Republican nomination for Congress from the 18th district.

The club met last Wednesday evening in regular business session at the home of the first vice president Maude Marks. The Ways and Means committee reported on the Program tea, given recently at the home of the corresponding secretary. Mrs. Darthula V. Bouggess. The committee worked hard to make this affair a success and was proud of the number and quality of guests and the commendations received on the excellence of the food, the beautiful club color scheme carried out.

At a special meeting last Thursday evening of the Colored Citizen's League, held at the Navy Men's club, Candidate Boyer spoke again.

Next Saturday evening at 8:30, members of the League will attend a program at the Second Baptist Church, given by pupils of Hamilton Junior High school, celebrating National Public Schools week.

CHURCHES

Sunday was a red letter day at Grant Chapel with Rev. Frank Harris or Los Angeles, speaking at morning and evening services. Accompanying Rev. Harris was his wife, Mrs. Florence Harris, and Mrs. Agnes McNeil, wife of the pastor of the AME church in Fresno.

Sunday afternoon the Los Angeles District ACE League held its monthly meeting at Grant Chapel.

At both morning and evening services last Sunday the pulpit of Second Baptist church was graced by ministers traveling with the Goodwill Tour of Rev. L. K. Williams. Sunday morning Rev. Phillips of Memphis was the speaker and Sunday evening Rev. Patton of Sioux City, Ia.

Wednesday Rev. and Mrs Lomax left for the 8ri-County Baptist asso. meeting in Arizona.

Yes, employers do judge your age by your hair. And if your hair is gray you might as well wear a tag saying, "I'm old—too old for this job!"

Have you ever lost out on good jobs for this reason? If you have, don't worry—you can keep it from happening again. Simply color your hair with Godefroy's Larieuse. No matter how gray yours is now, it will instantly take on glowing, youthful-looking color when Larieuse is brushed through it. No experience necessary—directions in package tell you how to apply Larieuse. Takes only a few minutes. Color will not rub off or wash out.

Use Larieuse—keep your age a secret. Who knows, it may mean a new job for you . . . and new friends . . . and new chances for romance. Get a bottle today. IF YOUR DEALER DOES NOT HAVE IT, SEND $1.25 (no extra postage) DIRECT TO

Student-Teacher Makes Survey in Santa Barbara

SANTA BARBARA, (By Phyllis A. Hoxie)—In Santa Barbara making a survey of the rural schools in Santa Barbara county is Miss Albertine Parker, student at Stanford university on a Julius Rosenwald scholarship.

Miss Parker was awarded the scholarship on the basis of her work as an instructor in the State College at Grambling, in the northwestern section of Louisiana. She is a student in the Stanford graduate school of education, working toward her master's degree. The purpose of her survey is to help in the advancement of education in rural communities of the south.

EARLINE HOPKINS TAKES SECOND IN ARCHERY TOURNEY

Competing with 18 other contestants in the Junior Columbia division of the State College Archery Tournament, Miss Earline Hopkins, sophomore student at Santa Barbara State college took second place with a score of 247 points.

Miss Hopkins has been shooting for only 10 weeks and spectators marveled at the skill and form she displayed.

Visiting Santa Barbara over the week end was Mrs. F. R. Baker of Los Angeles, who stayed with her sister, Mrs. Carrie Richardson. While in the city Mrs. Baker visited the many scenic spots and was entertained by friends.

The club meeting of Les Femmes de Clique was held at the home of Miss Earline Hopkins. A new member, Miss Altheda Marshall was formally initiated into the club. Following the club meeting an informal social was held.. Guests included Messrs Larry Pickens, DeMelvyn Dennis and Lowell Steward.

The National Baptist Convention stopped in Santa Barbara Friday evening as the guest of the Second Baptist church, pastored by Rev. H. B. Thomas.

The delegates numbered 46 in all, including Dr. L. K. Williams, president of the National Baptist Convention of America and pastor of the Olivett Church of Chicago; Rev. B. C. Barlow, editor of the "Baptist Voice", Rev. Branham, head of the transportation committee; Mrs. S. W. Layton, president of the Women's National Baptist convention and Mrs. Mapp, vice president.

The delegates are now on their fifth good-will tour of the country. From Santa Barbara they traveled to Los Angeles, from there they will go to Arizona.

James Morris honored a host of friends gathered at the home of Mrs. Mayme Washington by reciting many of his own poetical works. Mr. Morris is from Lexington, Missouri and is spending a few weeks here as guest of Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Brasher.

Those present to hear his recitations were Mesdames Beatrice Taylor, Fannie Casmon of Los Angeles, Carrie Richardson Callie McGowan, Laura Gaddis Johnson, Matilda Thomas, Alberta Marez, Mary T. Baker and Lizzie Brasher; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence McGowan, Cicero Henderson, J. P. Hawkins and Guy Workcuffs; Misses Anna Meyers and Beatrice Green.

EXCITEMENT

Plenty of excitement on the part of the Eastside populace last Friday when news got abroad that kidnaped Dorothy Gordon had been found murdered.

The office 'phone was plenty hot for details of the discovery.

The case, tragic as it is, has served to put the populace on its toes. It remembers to jot down license numbers of cars if suspected criminals use them. The nabbing of a suspect in the case early this week shows alertness on the part of a boy.

The police blotter often carries reports of molestations of Eastside women and girls.

The sooner citizens learn to cooperate with the police in making it unhealthy for this type of fiend the more wholesome this district will become.

If the situation was reversed and Negro men, intentionally or unintentionally, molested white women and girls in the exclusive residential districts, or anywhere else for that matter, there would be no doubt of the outcome.

They would be dealt with swiftly and surely—and that's not idle talk.

The same thing would apply where Negro women and girls are concerned if Eastsiders themselves paid more attention to their duty to themselves. Respect of your own, causes respect from others.

GABBY BITS:

First day sale of Booker T. Washington stamps passed the 200,000 mark to exceed all previous sales of stamps on the first day. The Mark Twain stamp, issued in Missouri several years ago, is next closest with some 165,000 . . . Marian Anderson, last year, gave 75 concert recitals in less than six months to top her previous record made the year before of 70. It's said to be the longest and most intensive itinerary in concert history . . . For the first time the Motion Picture Year Book, the "Bible" of the industry, devotes a section to Negro theatres. As usual, a number of Negro actors and actresses have lines, without regard to race or color. The same holds true of producers and directors. All of which is more evidence that motion pictures are coming to the realization that the Negro should be integrated into all of its ramifications.

Overheard following Tom Dewey's speech Sat. night in Hollywood Bowl: "Whenever the Bowl is used for anything it would seem that mention of the person who gave it would be mandatory" (or words to that effect). Not a bad idea, either. There is nothing in Southern California, we think, that is quite as impressive . . .

An unappreciated imitator: The vocalist in Will Osborne's band who tries to sing like famous Bert Williams . . . Writes Mrs. T. M.: "What has become of the chivalry of past generations? When men pass women nowadays there isn't so much hat-raising." All we know, madam, is that the women themselves may have the answer . . .

Whenever Duke Ellington hits town it perks up. Indicating the Duke has more on the ball than given credit for . . . Omega fraters all over the country this week are talking about the playing of the song, "Omega Dear" over the air by Sammy Kay and his band . . .

Did you know that Kid North is one of the most highly respected men in western turf circles?

10 SMART DEBS ENTER POPULARITY CONTEST

Who will win that ticket to the New York World's Fair?

Who will win that other ticket to the San Francisco World's Fair?

Ask the Assistance League of the Outdoor Life and Health Association, they will tell you how. They have all the answers, the tickets and other awards, too.

Sunday, the League sponsored a pep rally at the home of their advisor, Mrs. Fanny Williams and ten anxious and charming young misses got on their marks and have G. W. W. There is, however, still room for more entrants.

Among those already in the race are: brilliant Nancy M. Harris of UCLA; sweet Muriel Foley of Compton Jr. College; lovely Marcella Monroe of City College; popular Blanche Wiley of UCLA, whose cut appears in this issue; talented Helen Mitchell of the Lauretta Butler Studios; youthful Leontine Taylor of Foshay Jr. High school; smiling Shirley Curry of Santa Barbara State college; Vera Henderson, of L. A. High; Cherry-Oh! Jean Norman of Jefferson High; artistic Rosalia Saffold of Metropolitan High, and youthful piano artist, Gloria Roberts of Manual Arts High.

For more particulars call the league chairman, Mrs. Pearl Browning, CE-23466; or the president, Mrs. Seth Lee, PA-5588, or the sponsor, Mrs. Fanny Williams, RE5526.

WOMAN FAVORED BY PRESIDENTS IS DEAD

WASHINGTON, D. C., Apr. 25—Miss Hattie Madducks, blind needle work expert, who presented a layette she had made to President and Mrs. Grover Cleveland at the birth of their first child, and later presented a knitted bag to Miss Margaret Wilson, daughter of President Wilson, died here last week.

Army Camp Asks for Recruits

The Citizens Military Training Camp for colored trainees began enrollment Apr. 4. The camp will be held under the command of Fort MacArthur, San Pedro from Aug. 8 to Sept. 6. Training will be given in Infantry, which marks the third time such opportunities have been given to local youth. Each year improvements have been made at the camp, and it is desired to get the very best boys possible to qualify for this year's camp.

The plan, according to Baxter S. Scruggs, will be to enlist more than 100 boys from Los Angeles, San Diego, Kern, San Bernardino, Riverside, Orange, Imperial, San Luis Obispo, Santa Barbara, and Ventura counties for registration at this camp. Scruggs has worked for some time with War Department and Army officials in an effort to equalize opportunities for Negro citizens, and this marks one of the achievements in that direction.

It is important that boys planing to attend make application at once. All boys are eligible, between the ages of 17 and 24 years. A letter addressed to the Executive Officer, C. M. T. Camp, Fort MacArthur, San Pedro, requesting an application blank, is the ifrst step. Upon receipt of the official blank, it should be filled out and promptly returned to Fort AacArthur. If further assistance or information is needed, it may be secured by calling the YMCA, Adams 7193, or the Benj. J. Bowie Post, American Legion, Adams 9260.

'40 Fair Recreation Chiefs

The most extensive public recreation program ever assembled is being arranged by the Committee on Recreation of the California Commission for the Exposition. After a recent meeting on Treasure Island to perfect their plans three of the committee engaged in an impromptu softball game with a girls' team from San Francisco State College. Fay Allen, Robert Robinson Leave for NNC Conference

Elected as delegates to the Third National Negro Congress, meeting in Washington Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Mrs. Fay E. Allen, executive chairman, and Robert Robinson, executive secretary of the Los Angeles Council NNC, left the city Monday for Washington.

Mrs. Allen is programmed as one of the principal discussion leaders in the panel on "Cultural Freedom" at the Third National Negro Congress.

According to most recent announcements from the National Office of the Congress, the meeting will have in attendance delegates from practically every state in the union. It promises to be an important, history-making meeting, and will be watched with interest by the whole country.

Nothing is achieved before it be thoroughly attempted. — Sir Philip Sidney.

'War or World Brotherhood' Theme for Panels Revealed

Continuing a close study of the European situation following his trip abroad last summer, Rev. Clayton D. Russell, minister of People's Independent Church of Christ, announced this week that beginning next Sunday night, he will conduct a series of lectures, sermons, panels and discussions on the theme, "War or World Brotherhood."

These informative and educational features will begin immediately after the regular evening services, which open at 6:30. Distinguished speakers of different races will be heard during the series, and the public is invited to take this opportunity to listen to and participate in these interesting discussions.

Rev. Russell will deliver a special lecture for women only this afternoon (Thursday), beginning promptly at 3 o'clock in the main auditorium of the church. This will be the third of such meetings that are given because of numerous requests.

No young women under 18 will be admitted.

Weed Covered Lots Being Posted

The Weed Abatement Section crews of the Los Angeles County Department of Forester and Fire Warden are placing posters of 28,630 weed covered lots in County territory outside of incorporated cities.

Lots posted are those covered with weeds and are adjacent to improved properties. These lots have been declared as fire hazardous by Deputy County Fire Wardens and County Fire Protection District Captains.

Posters advise property owners that unless the weed fire hazard is abated by the removal of said flammable weeds that County crews will remove same and the cost of such removal will be assessed upon the lots and will constitute a lien until paid.

YOUTH WEEK OPENS SATURDAY; MANY ACTIVITIES PLANNED HERE

Activities, Problems of Young People Stressed in Nation-wide Observance

Boys and girls will come into their own during Youth Week, April 27 to May 4, when the entire community and nation join in recognition of the activities and problems of young people. Youth Week is being observed in conjunction with National Boys' and Girls' Week.

Organized groups, including churches, clubs, coordinating councils, schools, group work agencies, will participate in programs emphasizing the important position of young people in the social and economic structure of the community. Among the groups are 26 Community Chest character-building agencies, including community centers, housing and employment units, settlement houses, national group work organizations such as Boy and Girl Scouts, Camp Fire Girls, Woodcraft Rangers, YM and YW-C. A.'s.

In order that all phases of youth activity may be brought to the attention of the community, the Group Work Division of the Council of Social Agencies has arranged an outline of activities: Youth Recognition Day, Saturday, Apr. 27; Spiritual Growth, Sunday, Apr. 28; Need for Healthful Living, Monday, Apr. 29; Homes and Hobbies, Tuesday, Apr. 30; Vocational Interests, Wednesday, May 1; Civic Responsibility, Thursday, May 2; Educational Developments, Friday, May 3.

Saturday, May 4, will be devoted to recreational opportunities out-of-doors with special playground features, outdoor rallies, hikes by organized groups of youth.

Letter Carriers Plan Benefit at Shrine

Everywhere the mail goes in Los Angeles this week will go invitations to the letter carriers' stage show and dance at the Shrine Auditorium June 6.

Postmen seeking to advertise the big benefit performance which is expected to finance the convention of the National Association of Letter Carriers in Los Angeles next year, will distribute 500,000 invitations. Later, the mail men will have tickets for sale.

First to purchase a ticket was Mrs. Mary D. Briggs, postmaster. Other postoffice officials, and officers of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce hastened to show their approval of the entertainment by getting their pre-convention dance tickets early.

Public Speaking Program Planned

The Public Speaking and the Friday Evening Chorus classes at Jefferson Evening High school, will present a program in the school auditorium May 9.

The affair promised to surpass the Patriotic Night program, staged last year, a feature of which was the procession and the Drum and Bugle corps of the Ben Bowie Post of the American Legion, a Mexican orchestra, the Jefferson Evening High orchestra, the Musolit club, 96th street school, the County Harmony Four, the Ladies Quintet.

Geo. Smith New Post Commander

Installation of officers of Frank Ernest Post No. 2134, VFW of the U. S., was a brilliant success and a colorful affair with the ladies of the Auxiliary participating.

The ceremonies inducting into office the new commander, Geo. Smith, will be long remembered. Enic Tate was the retiring commander.

Comrades in charge of the event were: Adjutant Raymond J. Smith, publicity and Dewitt Jones, refreshments. Smith is co-chairman of the National Encampment committee of the Eastside and Tate is chairman.

Last Quarter Begins at Jeff

This week Jefferson Evening High school begins its last quarter. For students desiring a short intensive course of 10 weeks, there are many classes which are available at this time. Among these are English, problems of democracy, short story writing, journalism, photography, scientific poultry raising, art crafts and parliamentary law. There is no tuition fee and all the instructors are experts in their respective fields. Any adult is eligible to enroll.

BEHIND the SCENES with Harry

Serving notice to all my old friends who began reading "Behind the Scenes with Harry," away back in May, 1926, and to new ones who have read it during the eleven consecutive years it ran in the California Eagle, I will be here with you now every week.

Yes, "Your Scene Peeper," Harry Levette has returned after three years' absence. But the absence was only in the flesh, not in spirit. For I have always had and always will have a kindred feeling for the old bird, ever since first introduced to the best by my revered friend, the late J. Bass and the "Madam."

So returning with the same pleasant understanding under which I resigned in order to devote full time to motion pictures, I shall do my bit towards making this the biggest and best publication west of the Rockies.

So watch out for "Behind the Scenes," and "Gossip of the Movie Lots" next Thursday morning, chock full of news, spicy chatter, valuable info, etc., bigger and better than ever.

Colored movie extras are all excited over the big upset in Central Casting Bureau which culminated last Wednesday in the replacement of Campbell McCullough, by Howard Philbrick as General Manager. Neither the white nor colored atmosphere players for whose employment Central Casting is a clearing house have been entirely satisfied with McCullough's handling of affairs. The greatest complaint the Race members had was that the first thing McCullough did was to cut Charlie Butler, for eight years colored casting director, off the office playroll, thus forcing him to do his work at home on commission from Central. Philbrick, a former "G-man," is very efficient and is sure to better the conditions of the extra players. "Bit" and contract players do their own bargaining. They have only to deal with the Motion Picture Producer's Association.

Throbbing, tropical romance takes place deep in the jungles of the West Coast of South America! Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., beautiful Madeline Carroll, Tullio Carminati, who returns to the screen, and Muriel Angelus, star of the recent "The Light That Failed," join together under the direction of Edward H. Griffith to provide one of the most dramatic, pulse-tugging romances of recent years. It's dynamic, swift-moving excitement, plus heart-throbbing romance, deep in the heart of the jungle, with a surprise twist in the midst of an exciting lion hunt.

CRY OF GEORGIA QUAIL PROBLEM FOR SOUND MEN

It took a lot of headwork, but the dulcet cry of the bobwhite—the Georgia variety—finally has been preserved for posterity on the screen.

Always sticklers for authenticity, the invincible sound department imported to Hollywood a covey of Georgia quail to make noises in "The Biscuit Eater."

Chasing villain Allan Mowbray in RKO's "Villain Pursued Her," Hugh Herbert, one of the posse, encountered a flock of hens which escaped at the crucial moment from a distracted prop man's charge. But Herbert was equal to the occasion. He bowed elaborately, tipped his hat, said "Hello, Girls," and galloped on.

'My Son, My Son' Screens at U. A.

Headed by a cast of superlative players and starring Brian Aherne, Madeline Carroll, Louis Hayward, Henry Hull, Josephine Hutchinson, Sophie Stewart and Laraine Day, Edward Small's film production of Howard Spring's international best seller, "My Son, My Son" is now playing at the United Artist Theatre, 933 S. Broadway, in Downtown Los Angeles. Directed by Charles Vidor from the screenplay written by Lenore Coffee, "My Son My Son" is being released through United Artists.

Due to the fact that the story of "My Son My Son travels thru several cities and country sections of England and covers a period of more than 25 years, Small called in John Dacasse Schulze, his noted art director, and explained that England would have to be brought to Hollywood. Schulze, in turn, put a corps of research workers to work to preserve the accuracy of every little detail of set construction and decoration. The result is that audiences will see the cast performing in settings that are minutely patterned after places which actually exist in England.

Among the many sets constructed for the production, one of the outstanding shows the slums of Manchester in the latter part of the 19h cenury. Schulze unearthed an old photograph showing just such a street and from this photograph the set was designed, built and decorated.

As a companion feaure, at the United Artist, patrons will see Jane Withers and Gene Autry in "Shooting High". Don't miss this excellent program.

Jack Benny Film to Open Today

Andy Divine is an appreciative audience for Jack Benny's gags, but it would take a derrick to get a rise out of Rochester. Anyway, these gay buckaroos have plenty of fun in Paramount's "Buck Benny Rides Again," which opens on Thursday at the Paramount Theatre. And even Rochester laughs when Benny mounts a horse. There will also be a Fanchon and Marco stage-show.

ALL-COLORED CAST FILM STARRING KENNY WASHINGTON IS FINISHED

More Time and Larger Budget Used in Making Vehicle for Famous UCLA Star

By HARRY LEVETTE

Climaxing over four months of preparation, rehearsals and actual camera "shooting", Million Dollar Productions' new film melodrama starring Kenny Washington, UCLA football ace was finished last week. Longer time and a larger budget of expense was used on this than on any previous all-colored cast picture. It was directed by Leo C. Popkin, and will be released shortly.

This was done because Harry M. Popkin, executive producer, felt that a story built around such an outstanding figure as the 21year old college student who has been such a credit to his race and to his alma mater, should be of mapor calibre. Hence, first placing him under contract at $2500 per picture, to bar other companies angling for his services, he surrounded him with a fine and famous supporting cast, and secured the best of cameramen, sound engineers and other technicians. Special music and a song for the star was written by Lange and Porter.

As far back as January, several "location" trips were made as far away as San Francisco, for outdoor scenes, and some sequences staged at Kezar stadium. Location shots were also taken in the exclusive districts of Hollywood as well as on busy Central Avenue in the principal colored district.

In the story which depicts the struggle of young athletes against gamblers who attempt to corrupt them, Kenny's leading lady is Jeni Le Gon, selected from over a hundred girls in a nation-wide contest, in which Joan Douglas placed second, and Ruth Phillips, third. Kenny's brother played by Reginald Fenderson as "Phil;" Ida Belle 'plays "Rose;" Florence O'Brien is "Daisy;" Mantan Moreland is "Nash," Kenny's trainer; Monte Hawley is "Johnson," and Lawrence Criner is "Green." Besides these, there are a number of bit players and hundreds of atmosphere players.

LOUISE BEAVERS is being considered as star in a new screen drama by Million Dollar Production. The story os being written by Jessie O'Donnell.

The popular star is seen waving good-bye as she left for a triumphal tour following "Reform School", her last Million Dollar flicker.

Teddy Wilson to Feature Blues Piece in Classic Form

NEW YORK, April 25—Teddy Wilson, formerly pianist with Benny Goodman, and now leading his own band, will soon feature a blues composition done in the classical form of the fugue, made famous by the composer Bach, and having the effect of a jam session, according to a recent announcement.

Wilson is enthusiastic about this piece of music because it combines his love for the classical background and his great skill in swing.

"I got hold of this piece from a 19-year old, New York white composer, Albert Tepper," Wilson said. "He is a second-year student at the New England Conervatory of Music and he brought the score to me last Fall. I had been looking high and low for just such a thing," he continued, "but had no luck in finding it. This was the answer. It is called 'A Chip off the Old Bach.'"

Handy's Song Honors 'De Lawd'

NEW YORK, Apr. 25, (ANP) —A song honoring the late Richard B. Harrison, "De Lawd" of "Green Pastures" fame, has just been published by Handy Brothers Music company of New York. From the poem, "Finis," by Andy Razaf, it was set to music by W. C. Handy.

According to Handy, this is the first of a series of songs designed to teach the Negro's history. When a sufficient number of subjects has been covered as in "Finis," they will be bound in book form.

Jitterbugs to Vie as Duke Plays Friday

With the same brand of music that has set the nation's feet tapping, Duke Ellington, with his famous orchestra is currently packing them in at the 9th and Broadway showhouse, the Orpheum Theater.

The Duke needs no introduction to music-lovers anywhere. He has been made famous on the air, on phonograph records, in a Ziegfield show, in the movies and has packed them in the theaters and dancehalls from coast to coast.

The writer of "Sophisticated Lady," "Mood Indigo," "Black and Tan Fantasy" and numerous other hits, still has what it takes and is ranked with the very best of contemporary composers.

A special added attraction for tomorrow night (April 26) will be an all-colored Jitterbug Contest for cash and other valuable prizes for winning couples. Those wishing to enter the contest may call MIchigan 6272 for further information.

Rochester Seeks Aviation School

Eddie "Rochester" Anderson of the movies, today planned to have Congressman John M. Costello, Hollywood, present a bill to Congress which would establish a U. S. Army Aviation School for Negroes.

Long an aviation enthusiast and currently studying to gain his own pilot's license, the dusky film comic said he believed the War Department would gain hundreds of first-class combat pilots if the school was established.

Anderson, who is in New York to attend the world premiere of "Buck Benny Rides Again," in which he is again "Rochester" to Jack Benny, plans to go to Washington, D. C., himself to do what he can to aid in the campaign.

Hall Johnson Choir To Sing At Philharmonic Next Friday

Manager L. E. Behymer expects a capacity audience to attend the concert of the nationally noted Hall Johnson Choir, when they appear in their 15th anniversary concert, Friday evening, May 3, at the Philharmonic Auditorium, under the auspices of the YWCA.

The choir was organized in 1925 with a membership of eight singers. At that time nobody dreamt that this organization would grow, flourish and attain national fame and recognition. Even today, thanks to the splendid spirit that prevails in this ensemble, it is a fact that most of the singers who took part in the first concert are still active members of this organization.

Hall Johnson, distinguished composer and conductor can be heartily complimented, not only for his artistic achievements, but also for the splendid development and coordination of his choir.

The complete program follows:

Theatre—"The Green Pastures:" Lord, I don' Feel No-ways Tired, De Ol' Ark's a-moverin,' In Bright Mansions Above, Joshua Fit de Battle of Jericho.

"Fi-yer:" Death is a Li-yer, Elegy, Don' Cry, War will soon be over, He'll Bring it to Pass.

"Run, Little Chillun:" Processional and Credo of The New Day Pilgrims, I'll Never Turn Back No Mo,' Run, Little Chillun.

Intermission.

Motion Pictures—"Song of a Nation:" The Star Spangled Banner.

"Way Down South:" Rain Down Fire, Couldn't Hear Nobody Pray, Send One Angel Down, Sometimes I Feel Like a Motherless Chile.

"Swanee River:" Here Comes de Heavin' Line (Male Voices) Ole Black Joe (Male Voices), St. Louis Blues ("Banjo on my Knee.")

Old Favorites (By request): Crucifixion (Male Voices), Hold On, Deep River, By an' By, Go down, Death.

Tickets at the Behymer Box Office, Philharmonic Auditorium, Mu-1983, and the So. Cal Music Co. Ticket Office, 737 So. Hill street, TU-1144 and all agencies.

RALPH COOPER former star of Million Dollar Productions started to work in his first starring vehicle for Supreme Pictures Corp. yesterday. He is portraying the role of a physician.

Eva Jessye Choir Sings, Dances

BROOKLYN, April 25. (ANP) —The Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences brought to a close last Wednesday evening in the opera house of the Brooklyn Academy of Music its series of "Music and the Dance" in a Negro folk festival of song and dance featuring the well known Eva Jessye choir thrilling a large audience.

The program consisted of two parts: spirituals, and Songs of "Love, Labor and Leisure" including such well known numbers as "Water Boy" and Handy's "St. Louis Blues", the Jessye version of which was so effective in Gershwin's "Porgy and Bess". Arrangements of both Grant Still and Hall Johnson were also included.

Hollywood Legion Gets in the Swim

Regular patrons of Hollywood Legion stadium boxing cards will see their first Negro main-eventer tomorrow night when Jackie Wilson climbs into the squared circle to do battle with Mexican Tony Chavez.

Although Matchmaker Charley MacDonald has carded Negro preliminary fighters very often since the famous hearing some months ago when Hollywood Legion Post, No. 43, decided to use Negro fighters, tomorrow night marks the first time a Negro shows his pugilistic wares there under main event billing.

In Wilson, it is doubtful if the genial matchmaker could have made a better selection to introduce Negro top notchers to his patrons. Classed as one of the foremost lightweight prospects on the coast, and indeed in the country, Wilson has a disturbing habit of getting down to business with dispatch, leaving little for the referee to do but count over the prostrate forms of his opponents.

In Chavez, however, Jackie meets a gamester who will test him to the limit. He has met most of the current crop of lightweight standouts, including Henry Armstrong, now welterweight division ruler, and has always given a rather convincing account of himself.

Already "solid" at the Olympic auditorium where they have been showing to advantage for the past few months, Negro fighters greet Wilson's debut at Hollywood Legion with high hopes for a bright future—a future which will offer them opportunities to work more often, thereby earning a better livelihood.

Track and Field Mecca Is Southland

What with the announcement of a million dollar talent show, Champions of 1940", in the past few days by the National Finnish Relief committee and the Southern California Committee for the Olympic Games, beginning next month Los Angeles and Southern California will see a continuous parade of the best this nation has to offer in the way of track and field perfection.

May 11 in Fresno, the West Coast Relays will be held. More than 600 tentative individual entries have already been filed from something like 61 universities, colleges, junior colleges and high schools. All of which indicates a corking good meet.

The following Friday night, May 17, in the Memorial Coliseum here, the spectacle, featuring track, screen and radio stars, will be staged. Besides Taisto Maki, the Finns' successor to Paavo Nurmi, Mozel Ellerbe, the great Tuskegee sprinter, is scheduled to dig in along with an outstanding 100-yard dash field.

In what will probably be the finest event of the 8-event track and field program, the century will also find Clyde Jeffrey Stanford; Hal Sinclair, the UCLA dash star; and Sam Lankford, L. A. City college and former Jefferson High speedster, included among those who will "get on their marks".

Sanctioned by the Amateur Athletic Union, if any records are broken during the benefit meet they will be duly recognized.

And then, news broke this week of plans underway to hold an American Olympics here July 4. The move is backed by Dan Ferris, secretary of the AAU, and members of the American Olympic committee.

Supporters of the timely plans hold that the matter of transportation will be of little or no consequence in the event the American Olympics are held here because the cream of the nation's track and field crop will be passing through Los Angeles anyway from the national AAU championships at Fresno on June 28-29.

Plans for this top event will probably go thru and this city will take its place as the track and field center of the nation and no one (in his right mind) can deny that ever since the 1932 Olympic Games Los Angeles is the one and only track and field host.

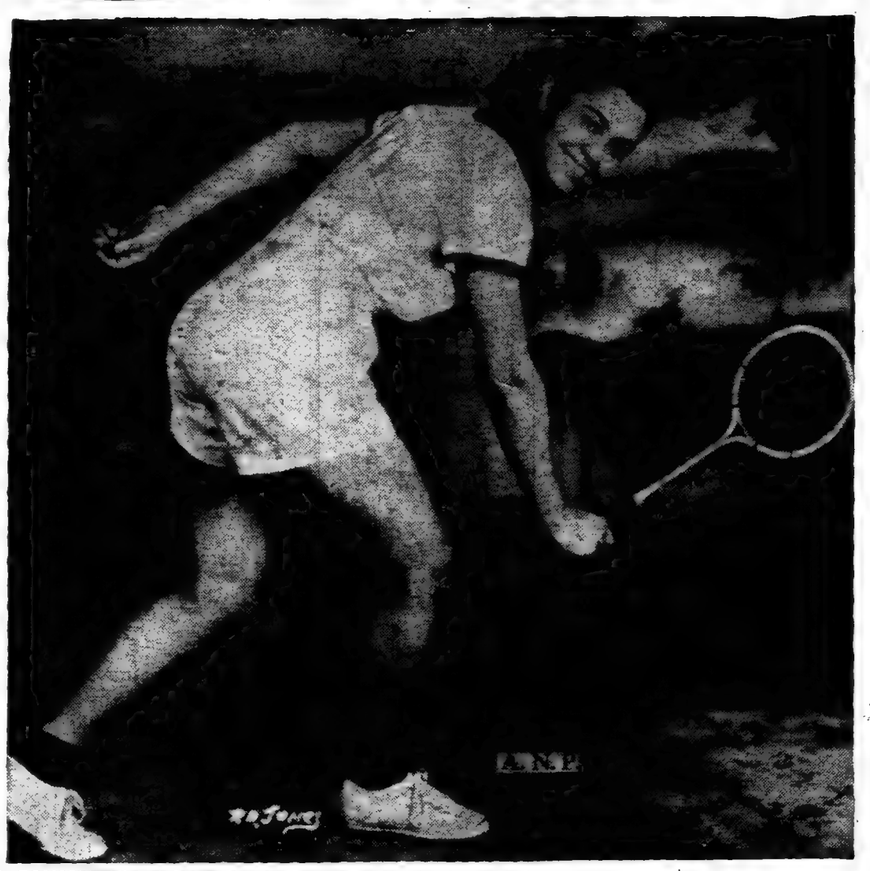
Woody Strode Quits Mat for Movies

Woodrow Wilson Strode, the former UCLA star wingman who drew a wrestling suspension recently, plans to make it a permanent one, according to advices received by this column this week.

The statuesque gridder, also quite a shot-putter and discus ace during his competitive career, will devote full time to a career in motion pictures. He is taking definite steps to accomplish this end. He has turned the gasoline station recently opened in his name back over to the sponsoring company.



Having had considerable experience posing for artists and art students, Strode probably considered the maintenance of his natural features more important than becoming an outstanding grunt and groan man. His picture appears in the May issue of a motion picture trade mag. So now, it's Woodrow Wilson Strode, actor.

So said Coach Marty Brill, former Notre Dame star, as 61 candidates for the 1940 edition of the Loyola University Lion answered his call for spring practice.

A CONSISTENT CHAMPION is Mary Lou Ford, who for the third consecutive time successfully defended her state badminton championship in the Illinois State YMCA badminton tournament held in Chicago recently. Mrs. Ford and John Wright were runners-up in the mixed doubles.

Carver Hero of Stirring New Pic

Film of Life of Southern Scientist Important Work

NEW YORK, April 25—One of the most important films we have seen is Ben Parker's full-length biographical film of the life of the foremost Southern Scientist, George Washington Carver.

The film (it is titled "George Washington Carver") was photographed in Alabama, home of Tuskegee Institute, the famous educational center for which Booker T. Washington is revered today.

Dr. Carver himself is shown in his office at Tuskegee where he heads the Institute's Agricultural Experimental Station. He is seen relating the story of his life to a despondent pupil who can see nothing but disillusion ahead for the college man today.

Although Dr. Carver does not answer every question, his life as it unfolds on the screen becomes a source of pride and inspiration. As the film flashes back and forth to the 1880's, the role of Dr. Carver as a young man is played by Tim Campbell, a young actor. Campbell wins by unadorned simplicity and quietness of his performance.

Another leading member of the cast is Booker T. Washington III, who plays his illustrious grand-parent. The Tuskegee Choir adds an authentic musical note to the production.

Highlights of the film: 1864. A plantation in the South. Carver a slave child and his mother kidnapped by night riders. A splendid sequence. Later Carver is returned to his master in exchange for a spirited race horse. The mother is never seen again. All these scenes are capably done.

LOVES NATURE

We see Carver as a boy in love with birds and flowers, studying the secrets of nature and the universe. As he grows up, his life is beset with many obstacles. Chief of these is racial discrimination. The film brings this out in several scenes.

Carver's interest in science takes precedence over everything. There is an amusing scene to illustrate this point. Carver hires himself out as a cook. He is not a very good cook. It is simply a means to an end so whe nhis application to college is accepted he leaves the eggs in the pan, takes his coat and quits even while the boss is bellowing for an "order of ham and."

But the head of the institution thought he had been corresponding with a white man and Carver is turned down because: "Science is no concern of yours. Negroes were intended by God to work with their hands not with their minds." Carver is deeply hurt but continues his experiments with plants and flowers and wins the admiration of all who come in contact with him. Finally Booker T. Washington invites him to Tuskegee. His real work is just about to begin.

Carver tries to stop the boll-weevil. Takes his laboratory to the fields. Organized a school on wheels to aid the farmers in the South. He investigates the life of the peanut and the sweet potato which since then has resulted in over a thousand edible and usable by-products.

"George Washington Carver" is a fine documentary film about a great man and deserves a wide audience.

McDaniel Cops Singles Title

NEW ORLEANS, April 25—Jimmy McDaniel, Xavier's sensational net star, who won 19 championships last season, including the National singles and doubles title, opened the 1940 season by winning the Prairie View Collegiate Singles title, defeating Russell of Tuskegee, 7-5, 6-4, 6-1. Paired with Louis Gravens, also of Xavier, McDaniel was defeated in the finals of the doubles by Russell and Minnis of Tuskegee.

Direaux Cracks Shotput Record

Tom Direaux, Compton jaysee weight star, cracked his own record in the 16-pound shotput Tuesday in the Coliseum, shoving the ball out 48 feet 8⅝ inches to better his old mark by six inches.

The feat occurred in the Metropolitan Conference track and field preliminaries, finals of which will be held tomorrow night at the Coliseum.

Will Improve Drainage Menace

Work on Compton creek, including 108th street "ditch" to remove the menace of this open drainage channel, has been approved by army engineers in Washingon and will be included in the next authorization bill soon to be submitted to Congress by the Flood Control committee of the Congress.

Bob Talamon Dances for Lodge

Robert Talamon, young Negro tap-dancer has been acclaimed as "the best dancer in the country" by a well-known theatrical agent. In recognition of his unquestioned talent, he was invitfriends of the Menorah Masonic friends of he Menorah Masonic Lodge on a program arranged in observance of Public Schools Week by Martin Pollack, Master of the Lodge. The show was presented on April 23 under the direction of A. R. Giffard, and included in addition to Robert Talamon, juvenlie acts by Betty Malatte and Jack Coffee, Spanish and Comedy dancers; O'Neal Nolan, singer and dancer; Patsy McCartney, exylophone and dancer; Earl De Lao, singer; Patricia Cowdell, accordian; Ina Clair Malatte, singer. Miss De Haven was the pianist.

There were programs held throughout the state in celebration of Public Schools Week. However, Mr. Pollack is endeavoring to make this particularly outstanding by engaging so many popular juvenile performers, most of whom have had motion picture or stage contracts.

In addition to the juvenile entertainment was an address by H. H. Van Loan, internationally famous author, traveler and lecturer. He is known by millions for his "Virgin of Stamboul", "Streets of Sin", "Rogue's Romance" and hundreds of plays, articles, novels and short stories.

TOMMY MARTIN STAYS LIMIT WITH NESTELL AFTER HURTING LEG

British Brown Bomber Loses Decision But Stock Rises Because of Gameness

Heavyweight Tommy "Strike Me Pink" Martin, the British Brown Bomber, made an auspicious, tho luckless, American debut Tuesday night at the Olympic auditorium.

Although he lost a 10-round decision in the main event to hard punching Bob Nestell, white, Martin proved he has all the qualifications necessary to go places.

His show of gameness, however, is what has the fans talking today. Wrenching his left knee as early as the third round as he was avoiding one of Nestell's whistling right hands, Martin limped around the ring and remained a thorn in Nestell's whiskers the full distance.

It was probably the queerest heavyweight brawl ever staged at the Olympic. Nestell was almost [illegible] early in the bout when Martin "struck him pink", blood trickling from a cut over his left eye. The Briton couldn't finish the job, however, because he couldn't put his weight on his left leg to throw one of his fast rights.

From the third round on, his seconds taping up the knee to ease the pain, Martin was up and down, more from being pushed or from trying to throw a punch than because of any damaging blows from the potent fists of Nestell. Apparently in good condition, Martin wasn't breathing heavily at the final bell.

His gameness in carrying on, and in most cases, landing the most damaging blows, completely won the fans. On the other hand, Nestell was booed continually because he was unable to put across the finishing touches on a man who had the services of only one leg. In fact, fans today are clamoring for a rematch.

Johnny Jackson, fast, hard-punching New Orleans middleweight, stepped up another notch in local favor as he decisively whipped Bobby Pacho, Mexican veteran, to capture the six-round semi-windup. Neither fighter was on the floor.

In the four-round prelims of another of matchmaker Jimmy Murray's sizzling fistic masterpieces, Petey Mike and Bert Valesquez drew, Danny Saenz nodded Miller Fonseca, Pancho Ramirez decisioned Billy Cook, and Otis Dedmon TKO'ed Red Welty in the third heat of the opener.

Next week the Olympic maker-of-matches cards another of his "graduation nights" with five six-rounders, winners being eligible for future main event consideration.

Topping the card are Al Smith and Jimmy Brooks of New Orleans. Following in order are: Carlos Miranda versus Jesse James Jackson, Richard Polite versus Zeke Castro, Carlos Chavez versus Nat Corum, and Memo Llanes versus Clyde Alexander.

Ellerbe Will Show Here May 17

Tuskegee Star to Run in "Champs of '40" Spectacle

A million dollar talent show featuring track, screen and radio stars will be held at the Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum May 17, it was announced today by the National Finnish Relief Committee and the Southern California Committee for the Olympic Games.

The National Finnish Relief Committee has selected Los Angeles to be the locale of a huge outdoor event in behalf of their international program.

The spectacle, to be known as "Champions of 1940", will be the last in which Taisto Maki, the great Finnish runner, will appear in the United States.

Leading track and field stars from the East, Mid-West and Far-West have agreed to compete in this meeting. Races will be sanctioned by the Amateur Athletic Union, and conducted so that any new records achieved will be properly accredited.

Screen and radio stars have responded wholeheartedly to this appeal for their assistance.

Among them are Paul Robeson, distinguished actor, singer and former athlete, and Eddie (Rochester) Anderson, famed comedian.

The 8 track and field events chosen are the 100-yard dash; the four man one mile relay; the four man two mile relay; the pole vault; high-jump; javelin; 120-yard high hurdles; and the special two mile race.

ELLERBE TO FACE JEFFREY

The 100-yard dash will bring together the two best sprinters in the world in Mozel Ellerbe of Tuskegee Institute, and Clyde Jeffrey of Stanford. Ellerbe was NCAA 100-yard dash champion in 1938 in 9.7s. In 1939 he defended his championship from Jeffrey and won by about six inches, but it took the movies to decide it.

In the National A.A.U. Championships, Jeffrey got revenge by defeating Ellerbe at 100 yards. Jeffrey ran the 100 yard dash in 9.4s, to tie the world's record set by Frank Wykoff of Southern California in 1930, and tied by Jessie Owens of Ohio State in 1935. Jeffrey ran this 9.4s race in the Long Beach relayls in March 1940.

Only outstanding stars are entered in the 100 yard dash. All must qualify by a past record of running this distance in 9.8s, or better. Competing in additon to Ellerbe and Jeffrey are:

Mickey Anderson, USC, (9.7); Payton Jordan, S. Calif. Ath. Asso., (9.6); Hal Sinclair, UCLA, (9.7); Dean Rickman, USC, (9.8); Cliff Bourland, So. Calif. Ath. Asso., (9.8); Stan Skafte, USC Frosh, (9.8); Gene Putman, L. B. J. C., (9.8); Sam Lankford, L. A. C. C., (9.8).

Eight contestants whose time for this speedy event ranges from 15 seconds to 14.6, will attempt to better existing records in the 120 high hurdles. Competing will be:

Ivy Bledsoe, USC, (14.6); Leonard Anderson, USC, (14.7); Bill Lacefield, UCLA, (14.7); Dick Simpson, Stanford, (14.8); Don Hommel, USC, (14.8); John Biewener, USC, (14.9); Norman Malyneaux, UCLA, (14.9); Art Kacenicz, USC, (15).

13 New World Marks Go By Boards

Three By Herbert Leads Parade of Six By Negroes

NEW YORK, April 25.—Thirteen world's records were established during the indoor track season, just closed here last week. Of that number, Negro athletes counted for no less than six, according to the records.

Jimmy Herbert, New York university track ace, led the record-breaking parade with three new marks. They are 0:47.9 for 400 meters; 0:48.5 for 400 yards and 1:10.8 for 600 yards.

John Woodruff, long-striding Pittsburg alumnus, was in second place with two marks, the first records ever established by him indoors. They are his 1:47 for 800 meters and his 1:47.7 for 800 yards. Both were set on the fast board track at Dartmouth college.

Johnny Borican, Shore A. C. runner, clipped his own three-quarter mile run record down to 3:01.2.

The only one of the records made in competition was Herbert's 600 yard mark. The others were set in pacing efforts against time.

Another world mark established was the 5 second effort of Norwood Ewell at the Penn A. C. games. The mark is threatened with setting aside by the AAU committee, which claims that Ewell "beat the gun."

Yaeger First, Then Second

Carl Yaeger, Jefferson High School orator, placed first in an oratorical contest sponsored by the California Bankers' Association in which speakers from Fremont, Roosevelt, San Pedro, and South Gaate high schools also competed. On May 3, he will compete in the regional finals. The grand prize is a trip to Honolulu with expenses paid for the winner and a companion and $100 in spending money.

Carl won a gold cup when he took second place in the Lions club oratorical contest which was held at Corona last Thursday. It was the third time that he hap spoken in the contest eliminations.

I see where Dizzy Dean and Chicago Cubs' manager Gabby Hartnett, two gentlemen to whom conversation, usually in a loud tone, is not a lost art, had a difference of opinion lately. Gabby fined Dizzy $100 or breaking training rules, but Diz refused to pay a cent and went home pouting. However, his wife was waiting for him at home, and she did a piece of talking on her own hook—with the result that Dizzy paid his fine and promised to be a good boy. MOVIES MEAN MONEY $200,000,000 or more is spent annually in the production of motion pictures and allied industries for wages, salaries, materials, supplies, electrical energy, etc. The availability of low-cost Edison electric power is one of the factors influencing the centering of the motion picture industry in Southern California.

Welcome Health News

Welcome news came to the Central Avenue section from Dr. George Parrish, L. A. City Health Officer, this week, as he announced that plans are underway for the construction of a fully equipped local branch clinic of the Health Department.

Even more welcome is the news that this proposed establishment "is planned to be just the same as all other outlying health centers conducted by the City Health Department in other districts". However, this information is not surprising to the many local citizens who have taken a peculiar pride in the work of Dr. Parrish ever since his appointment. At no time have charges of racial discrimination been hurled against him; at no time has he been accused of favoritism or unfairness in the conduct of his office.

For many years Dr. Parrish has employed fully qualified Negro assistants. In addition, much incidental help in the Health Department is supplied by colored workers.

The proposed local health center is only added evidence of justice and integrity on the part of L. A.'s health administration.

Dewey Comes to Town

Thomas E. Dewey came to town last week and left the city panting for breath. The vitality and energy of the New York District Attorney completely swept reception committees, official greeters, and the thirty thousand people that crammed the Hollywood Bowl to hear him Saturday evening.

Not since 1928 has a Republican presidential campaign appeared so enthusiastically supported. Seasoned political observers were particularly astounded at the great evidence of Dewey support because he has not yet been nominated. The general atmosphere of determination about the Dewey camp has taken a heavy toll of opposition in Southern California.

Outside the surprising force of the young D. A.'s personality the most striking fact about him is his brand of hard-hitting speech. During the past eight years, the nation has become so accustomed to Republican addresses emanating from gravel-throated sour-pusses that the impact of Dewey's slapping denunciation, sharp invective and general lack of respect for political taboos leaves his audiences palpitating.

The most important of the candidate's oratorical innovations in so far as standard Republican statements are concerned is his curious ability to wade in the myth of New Deal "liberalism" and reveal its incompetence and ineffectiveness. The New Yorker thus has brought himself the distinction of becoming the first Republican leader of national importance who has realized the serious damage done the party through the prevailing public misconception that it is opposed to the various forms of social legislation that have come into being within the past decade.

Dewey pointed out what should have been an obvious fact: that social and economic reform came about as a direct and natural result of social and economic abuse peculiar to this period. In other words, the solution of these problems as embodied in relief, unemployment insurance, and old age security cannot be considerd the particular contribution of ANY political party. Instead, the nation must be informed that the very nature of many of these twentieth century complexities brought about their obvious solutions. That Republicans and Democrats cooperated fully in the creation of most of the important legislature of recent years was given long wanting recognition. Moreover, the birth of most current "liberal" legislation was traced to previous Republican administrations. The whole fantastic bubble so carefully blown by New Deal propagandists to the effect that social and economic legislation is the peculiar province of the democratic party was ignominiously burst.

In contrast, Dewey brought home to his listeners the fact that the last seven years have been the most inefficient national administration in the nation's history. Millions of dollars in social security collections are today untraced by Treasury officials in Washington, D. C. In addition, faliure to administer relief and WP A efficiently was delivered a nasty broadside. But the most devastating —and the truest of Dewey's accusations was his charge of "politics" in the conduct of governmental agencies. At no time in the long story of U. S. government since the adoption of civil service has the art of political placement been so neatly developed as during the Roosevelt dynasty. A change in the White House is nowhere better seen than by those who have had experience with federal administration of the New Deal agencies.

WPA workers have been intimidated throughout the nation in the most subtle and vicious campaign known to national politics. Agencies supported by taxation of all citizens have been transformed into political happy hunting grounds for Mr. James A. Farley and his army of deserving democrats. Whenever political expediency has been matched against business efficiency in the selection of executives for WPA, relief and other like administrations, the former has been consistently victorious.

Conditions in our own Los Angeles are a fine illustration of political control of vital emergency agencies. Minor politicians of the worst sort, individuals who have maintained a doubtful existence over the years as political stooges, have lately been elevated to positions of executive responsibility in several of the "alphabet orders". The maintenance of a rigid, vindictive political machine has been god and master of relief administration. Employees in this division have been unable to express honest political opinions, in many cases, through fear of job loss. So common has the condition become that we are in danger of finally accepting it as a "necessary evil".

Of course, no more damaging notion could be harbored by U. S. citizens. The domination of governmental agencies which, by virtue of their highly specialized duties, call for the most carefully trained and expert supervision by ward heelers and assorted political incompetents is a vital threat to the future of effctive government in this nation. The recognition of this danger is tremendously important today. Laxity may serve to establish a venomous precedent under which our children may well suffer for the next few generations. The ideal of free government has never been realized in America; but, to date, consistent progress has been made toward it. No form of political patronage, no resurrection of the spoils system, must be permitted to stifle such progress.

BUT LOOK BEHIND YOU!

A Kingdom Wanes

By GORDON B. HANCOCK in The Detroit Tribune.

IT HAS BEN SAID THAT at Waterloo Napoleon reeled before the iron fact that at last the end of his gilded dream had come. It looks like "reeling" time for Father Divine. The decision of the court to adjudge him responsible for money he had taken from certain of his "angels" predisposes his kingdom to demolition. "It won't be long now"!

Mystery and magic have never won against law. I can never forget that as a lad I once saw a man who could extricate himself from any cord ties. He would allow himself to be tied with various knots and by strong men and with cords unfailing. Yet he could work himself loose within 10 minutes. This prank was tried a whole Saturday afternoon in a little Southern village and the magician was coining money by his prowess. Late in the afternoon, an officer of the law arrested him for some infraction of the laws. He was tied by the officer, and he remained tied until bond was arranged.

The knots the law ties usually hold. When the law goes after a man it usually gets him and the law is definitely after Father Divine. The recent decision is the beginning of the end; and hard upon this decision comes one from the psychiatrist who claims that the emotional upset of the children involved in Divine's kingdom works havoc to the future and fortunes of those coming generations. Law and science are combining in their attack on Divine's kingdom. With the church it is always let "thy kingdom come." In other words Christ kingdom is a coming kingdom but Divine's is definitely a "going kingdom." Father Divinism, from all indications, has spent its force and intelligent students of human affairs are not surprised. Things of that nature have a way of suddenly flaring up and as suddenly quieting down.

This is in no way an indictment of Father Divine and his followers; for it is safe to say that the crowd who followed Father Divine would have followed somebody any way and that it was Father Divine was merely an incident. The people in this world are hungry in their hearts and poor creatures, they are trying to find the Holy Grail of life and although they make many mistakes and blunders, their quest is an noble one. The very fact that Divinism could take such respectable hold on the attention and devotion of such vast numbers of people is the significant thing. That these mortals could look up with such reverance to an earthly and visible god is interesting, but that this god is a Negro of dark complexion is marvelous. This is news.

Divinism is the counter-part of Garveyism. As Garveyism waned Divinism waxed and soon Harlem will be ready for another "ism." When white men feel as Negroes do about frustrated life and hopes they seek the ranks of communism. Disillusioned and frustrated Negroes seek Garveyism and Divinism. The case of the Negro is too desperate for his puny efforts at redemption to be disparaged. Garveyism bereft of its bluster and bemest had a kernel of worth and set forth the fundamental principle of self-help without which no group can achieve. Garveyism was a protest movement set to economics; Divinism is the protest movement set to religion.

As short-range measures, they both have merits, but as a policy of racial redemption they are both abortive and illusory. Good old moral stamina and industry and intelligence are about the last word in the matter of racial redemption and there are no short cuts. The task is tedious and the outlook at times painful. These "isms" are mere hyperdermic and harmless if not taken too seriously, but they do not reach the seat of the troubles. The hundreds of thousands in money that Garveyism got together and was variously slysquandored, wrought a miracle in the Negro's self-confidence. It showed what the Negro could do under pressure and for this the world must give Garvey great credit.

Garveyism was not a total loss. Wherein Divinism has fed the hungry and clothed the naked and succoured the spirits of the masses, it is not a total loss; but the fact remains that Divinism is definitely on its way out. The "legaly blockade" is being gradually tightened about it, and its strangulation is only a matter of time. "Heaven" cannot stand many lawsuits and it will soon be "Father Human." With Garveyism dead and Divinism dying, is the Negro ready for vocationalism in education? A KINGDOM WANES.

• ANIMALS

Last week the British torpedoed a German transport off the coast of Sweden. She carried men and several hundred horses. It was said that, as the waters rushing about the sinking ship subsided, the whole area was full of the bobbing heads of men, swimming for their lives, finally most were rescued by Goteberg fishermen. Every horse went down.

Without a cry, no doubt, for, although wounded horses scream pitifully, they do not, as a rule, complain.

That should be considered by those who own their own horses. You can cause a horse to suffer dumbly every moment by putting ill-fitting shoes on him. or by not trimming his hoofs properly every two or three weeks when he wears no shoes. He can suffer from thirst, because his owner waters him once or twice a day, instead of three times at least, and oftener in summer. He can be literally eaten to death by flies, as I once saw an Indian's horse, and they say that mosquitoes will let a man alone when they can attack a horse.

Once I was putting a fly blanket on my horse in pasture. A heifer grazing there, was about to have a calf. She charged at me. I caught her by the horns and stopped her, but didn't dare let go. "Jupiter, Jupiter," I called, desperately, to the horse. Like a charge of cavalry he came. I let go, and the heifer ran as she never ran before. The horse ran to the farthest corner of the pasture, and there he made her say as long as she was in the pasture.

That horse was well-bred and high-strung, but he used his head. He was loyal and sympathetic. Once I was driving him hitched to a sleigh. I tried to run one side through deep snow. The sleigh overturned, and I, much wrapped in blankets, was pinned underneath. Still I managed to hold the reins steady, and to talk to Jupiter. As he felt the sleigh turn he gathered himself to run. When I spoke he paused, looked around with his big, kind, observant eyes, and seemed to grasp the situation. He remained perfectly still until I had crawled out and righted the sleigh.

I do believe that if we could make comrades of our horses as we do our dogs, they would respond as much as our dogs do.

THANK YOU NOTE

Dear Editor:

This is to thank you for the kind cooperation which you and your staff have given the Census Bureau in its recent effort to make the Negro population of America conscious of the tremendous importance of the 1940 Census.

As this work is now completed, I am returning to full time status with the National Urban League, as Managing Editor of Opportunity. You will doubtless be hearing from me there in the near future.

Yours very truly,
EDWARD LAWSON
Consultant, Dept of Census

Dear Editor:

May we take this opportunity to express to you our appreciation for the publicity which you have so generously given Metropolitan Evening School of Business through the columns of your newspaper.

The school has grown considerably during the past few months. We know that you have contributed greatly to this growth by carrying information about our courses to the public served by your publication.

Very truly yours,
H. O. RACKER,

• THE WORLD THIS WEEK

BALLOTS AND BELLIGERENTS

With a dull stalemate prevailing in the European war a fortnight ago, Wisconsin voters went to the polls in their presidential primary and gave President Roosevelt a three-to-one victory over his Democratic rival, Vice-president Garner. Last week, the very day after Chancellor Hitler gave the word to his armed forces for a lightning pounce into Scandinavia, Illinois voters went to the polls and balloted Mr. Roosevelt into an eight-to-one lead over Mr. Garner and a plurality of more than 300,000 over Thomas E. Dewey. The vote is significant because Illinois, biggest state in the Mid-West's industrial and agricultural empire has been traditionally Republican, like Wisconsin, since that party was officially founded in 1856. In the last two presidential elections, however, both states swung into the ranks of the Democratic party. Judging from these recent primaries, whether they swing back again when November's decisive vote is taken, is something Mr. Hitler may play a bigger share in determining than the party councils or either Democrats or Republicans.

WAR GUNS ECHO HERE

The sound of belligerent guns in this closely knit world carry far. The extension of the war to Scandinavia will leave, and has already left, its mark in the United States in renewed demands for still greater armaments appropriations. No sooner, in fact, did Senate members read their morning papers announcing the British-German contest for supremacy on the Scandinavian peninsula than they restored, with grim haste, a $15 million appropriation for a third set of Panama Canal locks which had been previously deleted. The quickening war tempo abroad will all too likely divert attention from our uncomfortably urgent domestic ills, greatest of which is unemployment. War tension, in this country or anywhere, stimulates increasing government control of the nation's life, while at the same time tolerance and freedom of opinion become increasingly suspect, and siege guns are wheeled into place to begin blasting against racial and political minorities. True it is that freedom, peace, and real prosperity go hand in hand, while war and depression sire the ugly offspring—intolerance and dictatorial government control. Knowing these facts, America may guard against them. Is it too much to hope that she can and will?

HELLO AGAIN

An old acquaintance of California's is back once more, slightly streamlined, to be sure, in a new 1940 garb but full as ever of optimism and enthusiastic promises as it extends the glad hand—into which, if you will be so kind, you can drop as many hand-earned dimes and dollars as you like. Needless to say, our old acquaintance is Twenty Thursday, alias Thirty Thursday, now rambling through hamlet, town and city in search of those 212,117 signatures needed to put him back on the ballot this November. However, our agents report there is no truth to the rumor that Twenty Thursday promoters have taken out a lease for 6 square inches of space on every State ballot for the next ten years. But if California voters prove themselves as immune to the blandishments of the paper money schemers this year as they have twice before, the promoters may be driven to it. Let's prepare for the worst!

IT'S ELECTION YEAR

The Assembly Interim Committee has informed the Legislature that no new taxes are necessary. Congress is saying the very same thing despite its many and huge appropriations. This would be good news for all taxpayers except—it's an election year! Isn't it likely that what the boys are saying is, "Slap new taxes on the folks back home and then turn around and ask them to re-elect you? Brother, we may make mistakes, but let it never be said we bite the hand that's going to feed us"

PUBLIC SCHOOLS WEEK

It must be the hope of all men, viewing nations given over to brutish strife, persecution, and hate, that tomorrow's world will bring a better sense of fellowship, morality, and fair dealing into the family of nations.

But to find support for such a hope, where can America turn but to her schools? For it is there that tomorrow's generation is being trained, acquiring the beliefs, social habits and ideals which will shape this nation's course in the world not many years hence.

The role that schools play is therefore all-important, and well merits the setting aside of a Public Schools Week, April 22 to 29—a special occasion for parents and adults to visit classrooms and obtain for themselves a vivid, first hand glimpse of the new methods and means by which the public school system is ably and enthusiastically fulfilling that role.

It was California who, in 1921, first celebrated this week. The response was so hearty that other states have since eagerly adopted the idea until now it commands virtually nationwide observance.

California, a pioneer in many fields, in this instance pioneered another worthy effort to quicken public interest in what will ever be one of democracy's front-line defenses—the classroom. In maintaining a public school system second to none, this State shows itself alert to the perpetual need of keeping those defenses stoutly bulwarked.

But pay a visit to the classrooms yourself. Public Schools Week deserves your participation, for in our schools the form of tomorrow's world is taking shape. The chances are you will come away with renewed faith in the future of America and in the school system where youth is serving its apprenticeship for citizenship in a democracy.

WHEN OPEN ROADS CLOSE

A strike "call" went out to several thousand motor transport drivers in Los Angeles the other day. Within a few hours the city's three great produce markets felt the slackening tempo. Transactions fell off 20 to 50 per cent, and threatened with lack of supplies were cities in northern Caliornia, Arizona, Nevada, Utah, and Washington, all of whom depend on daily shipments from Los Angeles, major distributing center of Southern California's fertile green and gold granary.

• BOOK NOTES

Vernon Branch Public Library
4504 S. Central avenue

Among the new books received this week at Vernon Branch library, you are sure to enjoy the following; "An Old Capacity" by Norway, "Dildo Cay" by Hayes, "Sons and Fathers" by Hindus and "Voice of Destruction" by Rauschning.

"An Old Captivity," the March selection of the Literary Guild, is a story of a transatlantic flight from England by way of Iceland and Greenland to America. Professor Lockwood of Oxford wants to survey ruins in Greenland, in an attempt to prove that the Irish made an early settlement there. Donald Ross, an out-of-work pilot is chosen. Donald is at first displeased when the professor's daughter, Alix, insists upon accompanying them, but later, when she willingly shoulders her share of the expeditions burdens, he learns to love her. The Greeland natives refuse to stay near the ruins at night, because of what the professor regards as supersition, but when Donald has a strange dream that is as vivid a reality and that bears out these superstitions, the professor is forced to take them seriously. This is a blend of realistic adventure and romantic mysticism that makes some of the season's best reading.

CARRIBBEAN ISLANDS

"Dido Cay" is a story of one of those Carribbean islands that seem paradise to those of us in the work-a-day world, but that are something very far from that to their inhabitants. "For 11 generations the Ainsworths lived in Dildo Cay, one white family among 200 native workers. Young Adrian Ainsworth has inherited the island and follows the family tradition by marrying a woman who can endure lonliness." When a sophisticated young woman comes to the island with her father, the new manager of the salt works, romance, drama and tragedy quickly follow.

"Sons and Fathers" by Maurice Hindus "is the story of Kolya Mitosa, young Russian medical student and intellectual, of his father Nicolai, life-long revolutionist, and of the girl Kolya loves, Irina Mirovaya, daughter of a czarist coloney. The scene is Petrograd during the years which saw the collapse of the Czarist government and the rise of the Bolsheviks. Against this background flame the violent clashes within families caught in irreconcilable differences of political ideals."

Perhaps it should not be suggested that you will "enjoy" reading "The Voice of Destruction" by Herman Rauschning, because it is a horrifying book about the Nazi plans to conquer the world, but you should at least read it, as a citizen of one of the countries concerned.

The LAUNDRY MAN

By Caldwell Jones

UNCLE SAM is about to join in the armamant race according to late news reports. Last week the New York Times carried the following headline; "VAST SECRET FLEET IN JAPAN REPORTED". The story related that Japan is secretly building three or four big battleships which will be from ten to twelve thousands tons heavier than the biggest ships in our fleet.

Harold Stark, Chief of Naval Operations, however announced that the story was a lot of hooey. He said that the United States has no reliable information about Japan's naval program. He did admit to a Senate committee though, that it is reported that Japan is building Eight, instead of Four new battleships. The real significance of these rumors may lie in the fact that the U. S. Senate is just about to take up the $963,799,478.00 Naval Appropriations Bill. Subjected to such pressure it should not be hard to pass. We may need all the floating forts we can muster before this war is over.

WAR CLOUDS MAY BE GATHERING IN THE EAST.—I happened to be passing thru San Pedro harbor a few days ago bent on a fishing trip. As the little tug I was on chugged past the breakwater I cast a leisurely glance shoreward expecting to feast my eyes upon Uncle Sam's martial array of fighting ships which generally lay at anchor there. To my surprise the harbor was as clean as a chitterling. Nary a ship was in sight.

"What's the matter, where are the battleships?" I asked a blond, bronzed fisherman who sat beside me.

"They're gone to Hawaii for the fleet maneuvers", he said.

"Who's protecting this coast for us now." I pressed. The fisherman took time out to light his pipe, then answered sententiously. "The British, I reckon. They ain't nobody else to do it."

While musing over the matter, I began to piece together a bit of news picked up here, a bit there, and finally got a slant on what may probably be the real reason for our Naval maneuvers in the Islands, namely the Dutch East Indies.

These island possessions of the Dutch form one of the richest colonial possessions in the entire world. They produce untold wealth in oil, rubber and valuable minerals, all of which are indispensible to modern military machines. Millions of U. S. capital have been invested there by Standard Oil, and U. S. rubber concerns. Just now, oil is perhaps the most precious commodity in the world. The mechanized, swift-striking divisions of modern armies require immense supplies of lubricating oil, especially the great air armadas of Germany, Great Britain and France.

Japan with unusual prescience has already boldly announced that in the event the Netherlands is gobbled up—or downed by any of the great powers as Denmark was, she will not allow any European nation to move in and take over the prized Dutch possession. In effect this Japanese pronouncement is nothing more or less than an Oriental version of our vaunted Monroe Doctrine. As to how much heed Uncle Sam will pay to Japan's blunt statement—with all the millions of U. S. capital at stake in the islands—nobody knows except those in the inner circle of our government. If the attitude of the man in the street is any barometer however, we are as sure to get in this war before it's over, as we are that the sun will shine today or tomorrow. A hundred times within the last two weeks I have heard the expression, "We're bound to take a hand sooner or later."

The saddest thing about the whole business is the fact that the warring nations have already destroyed enough wealth in ships and cargoes, and expended upon war armament, to have financed the development of a New Continent.

Canada's production of pig iron and stell in January was twice as great as in the first month of last year.

IN MEMORIUM

Our devoted husband and father, Alphonso C. Primus, passed April 27, 1938.

Al—we smile through tears
Today makes two years
That we said goodbye to you.
For, Darling, though gone
Your memory lingers on
For memory is the only friend
That grief can call its own.

Sadly missed by Esther B. Primush, widow; Carl Primus, son.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of the late Jon Michael Harris, wish to thank their many friends for their kindnesses during the loss of their Dear Son. Especially to the Rev. Clayton D. Russell, for his comforting words; William Gillispie for his tender expressions in song; for the lovely floral tributes, and cards of condolence and the Peoples Funeral Home or their kindly service.

Signed:
Mr. and Mrs. Chester Harris,

SPIRITUAL SCIENCE

Spiritual Science is fast gaining a place of highest importance in the minds of all thinking people, in fact it stands alone as the Great Highway to all that life holds worth living for—Happiness, Contentment, Love, and Financial Security.

It gives the Golden Key that unlocks the great city of your inner dreams and lays bare the hidden opportunity fit for princes and kings—gives one mystical powers, astonishing control over loved ones—brings one luck and the realization of your dreams.

Take inventory of your abilities and let Spiritual Science assist you in obtaining your goal. Prof. Herman will be only too pleased in helping to reveal your hidden characteristics through your stars and guiding planet. Write him today.

W. M. S.—Dear Sir: I have been a constant reader of your column for the last few years, and find it very helpful. I am now writing for some information of myself. Why it is that I have that constant feeling of unfaithfulness about my wife? We never get along, and we quarrel all of the time.

Ans.—A good marriage and a happy one is built around several things, but one of the most important is confidence and trust in each other. If you started out doubting each other without any cause, naturally you will continue to do so. I suggest that you and your wife sit down and think over your problem carefully and find the loophole that seems to be causing the greatest amount of trouble. And you will find that if you discuss your differences of opinion openly instead of carrying around a grudge in your heart or mind, you will get along much better.

E. A. S.—Where has my report card disappeared?

Ans.—It comes to me that you brought your card home for your family to see, and the last one that looked at it, accidently laid it on some newspapers that were thrown out later. You will have to get another one made out, as this one has been destroyed.

V. McG.—Would we better our conditions if we moved to Michigan?

Ans.—According to your luck stars and guiding planet, another State would bring you better luck. You both have become discouraged in your present location and the change would help all the way around.

A. T.—Will I ever be able to locate my Son?

Ans.—My Psycho-Mentalist Crystal reveals that you have moved several times since your son was home, and he has lost track of you. His efforts to contact you have been in vain so far. He has traveled quite a bit lately and is kept busy with his work. I suggest that you write to the missing persons bureau, as they have means of finding persons, that are adequate.

S. H. R.—Will my wife and I be successful in reuniting and get along well?

Ans.—Probing into this matter I find that your greatest trouble has been solved and there is no reason why you should not be successful, if you went back together again. You love each other and according to your Zodiacal signs should be able to make a success of your marriage.

X. R. J.—Will I be successful in passing the examination after I complete the course?

Ans.—The grade you will receive from the examination depends a good deal upon how you have been doing in your general class work. If you have been able to get good grades during the term, and you understand the work, you should be able to pass the final examination without any trouble.

D. H. H.—I am out of work and I want to know when I will get a good job?

Ans.—Your Zodiacal sign indicates this period that you have been out of work as a crucial period in your life, but the future looks much brighter. I vision your finding employment within the next 2 weeks.

E. C.—There is quite a bit of competition gossip in my church about me. Is it best for me to move my membership elsewhere?

Ans.—Concentrating upon your question the answer I find is that if you are able to stand this gossip for a little while it will stop. And you will also be proving that there wasn't any truth in it. On the other hand if you leave the church, that will only verify the fact that there must have been some truth in what they were saying.

Conduct Rites for Idella Ware

Miss Adella Ware, aunt of Mrs. E. C. Jennings, died Thursday at the family residence in Baldwin Park, following a brief illness. Miss Ware who is a native of Augusta, Ga. came to California 9 years ago to make her home with her niece, Mrs. Jennings.

The funeral was held Monday from the residence. Mrs. C. D. Frederick and Mrs. E. Taylor of Baldwin Park were the soloists in the very effective service., conducted by Rev. E. E. Lightner, a long time friend of the family, assisted by Dr. "Bob" Shuler, pastor of Trinity Methodist church of Los Angeles.

Rites Held for Ethiopian 'Prince'

DALLAS, April 25. (ANP)—Funeral services were held here last week for Wxyzewixard S. J. Challoughiczilczie, who called himself the "Prince of the Royal House of Ethiopia," and was believed to have fled Ethiopia with a fortune to $120,000 at the time of the Italian conquest of Ethiopia.

Settling in Dallas, Challoughiczilczie was rumored to have the $120,000 on deposit in the name of the Ethiopian Empire at a Perry, S. D. bank.

FAMILY NARROWLY ESCAPES DEATH

WADESBORO (N. C.) Apr. 25. (ANP)—A family of 8 narrowly escaped death Thursday when a tornado, ripping through Wadesboro, wrecked the house in which they were living and blew them across the road. The family, John Cox, his wife and their six children, in the path of the terrific wind, received slight injuries.

TEXAS COLLEGE GRADS ORGANIZED HERE

Mrs. Enola L. Chism, 1138 E. 22nd street, will host the club tonight (Thursday) at 8 p. m. All former Tyler collegians are invited.

List Services for Week at People's

HARRIS

Services for Baby Jone Michael, six-months old son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Harris of 277 E. 43rd street, were held in Memorial Chapel of People's Funeral Home April 12, following his death at the Children's hospital. Rev. Clayton D. Russell conducted the rites and burial was in Evergreen cemetery.

FELDER

James Felder, pioneer citizen, 1421 E. 15th street, succumbed at the General hospital April 13. Born in Washington County, Texas, he had lived in California for the past 30 years.

Final service was held in the Memorial Chapel of People's Funeral Home April 16 with Rev. Clayton D. Russell officiating. Interment was in Evergreen cemetery. His widow, Mrs. Carrie Felder, and other relatives survive.

ALLEN

Last rites for Mrs. Della Mae Allen, 1208 E. 22nd street, were held in Memorial Chapel of People's Funeral Home, April 19, following her death at the General hospital April 15. She was a native of Bryan, Texas, and had made her home in Los Angeles for 15 years.

Rev. A. Lively conducted the rites, with interment in Lincoln Memorial Park. Her husband, Henry Allen, and a large number of relatives survive.

ALLEN

Funeral services for Mrs. Margaret Allen, beauty operator, 810 E. 42nd street, were held in Memorial Chapel of People's Funeral Home Tuesday, with Rev. L. M. Curtis conducting the obsequies and interment in Lincoln Memorial Park.

Mrs. Allen passed away April 17 at the General hospital, after a brief illness. Her native home was in Shreveport, La., and she had lived here for four years. Her mother, Mrs. Mary Clayton, came from Shreveport for the funeral. Other relatives surviving include her husband, Hollis Allen.

LEWIS

The funeral of Mrs. Katie Lewis of 1223 E. 55th street, prominent member of the La Jovial club and the Usher Board of First AME church, was held from the Eighth and Towne avenue church last Monday afternoon, with Rev. H. Mansfield Collins, conducting the obsequies. Interment followed in Evergreen cemetery, directed by the People's Funeral Home.

The deceased succumbed at Olive View sanitarium last Friday following a lingering illness. Her native home was in Mississippi. Her death was just one year after the passing of her husband, Sandy Lewis.

She is survived by four daughters, Juanita and Elizabeth Lewis! Mesdames Celestine Thomas and Olivia Pettibone.

Final Tribute Paid Ernest R. Reese

City Pays Respects to One of Its Most Prominent Citizens

Leading city and county officials, various civic, religious, social and welfare organizations, and citizens in all walks of life thronged People's Independent Church of Christ Tuesday afternoon to pay a final tribute of respect to Ernest Richard Reese, one of Los Angeles' most widely known citizens.

A member of Independent for the past 18 years, rites for the deceased were conducted by Rev. Clayton D. Russell, minister, assisted by Rev. G. Albert Miller. Musical numbers were rendered by the senior and gospel choirs of the church, with Earl Pleasant as soloist; instrumental numbers were given by Alma Hightower's Young People's orchestra, which was sponsored by the deceased.

Resolutions and condolences were received from the following: County Supervisors, City Council, Eastside Mothers' Shelter Board, Past Presidents' Council of Federated Women's Clubs, Federated Clubs of California, La Jovials, of which Reese was the "father;" Live Wire Club, from the neighborhood in which the family formerly lived, and many other organizations.

HOUSTON SPEAKS

The obituary was read by Carl Gross, playground director and Norman O. Houston, of the Golden State Mutual Life Insurance Company, spoke on behalf of the citizenry of Los Angeles.

The end came suddenly last Thursday morning at 5:45 at his East Adams residence. Reese was apparently in his usual health when he retired the night before, and when he awakened the family about five o'clock, they did not think his condition was serious. Before a physician could be summoned, however, he succumbed. At his bedside were his wife, and two sons and Wendell Franklin.

Reese was born in Asia, Texas, and educated in the public schools of Galveston and Houston. In San Antonio, he met his future wife, Miss Nettie B. Scott, who was a teacher in the public schools of that city. They were married May 17, 1911. The deceased had been employed at various times by the Southern Pacific railroad, the Pacific Coast club at Long Beach, and the Security-First National bank.

All organizations and movements for civic betterment and social welfare attracted the attention of the deceased. Through his sons he became especially interested in the problems of young men and would talk with any of them like a father. Among many clubs of the city he was known as "Daddy Reese."

The Angelus Funeral Home was in charge of the service and directed interment in Evergreen cemetery.

His immediate family surviving are: his widow, Mrs. Nettie B. Reese, matron of the Eastside Mothers Shelter, one of the city's most ardent social welfare workers; two sons, James and Richard; two aunts, and several cousins.

"Best hand lotion I have ever had," comments one enthusiastic electric range owner, in a letter to the Bureau of Power and Light; adding, "It's amazing how clean and bright utensils stay after months and months of use."

The consensus of hundreds of unsolicited communications received by the city-owned electric system attest the claim that flameless fuel in the kitchen constitutes a real aid to beauty by eliminating soot and grime, thus keeping the range, hands and pan spic and span.

SEEN THROUGH THE EYES OF THE EAGLE

The Disease of Orchestra-Itis Spreads

A Pasadena pastor was asked a few weeks ago if he was going to start an orchestra. If he did, Mr. So and So wanted to join.

The pastor asked: "Why should I start an orchestra?"

"Well," the man replied, "you organized and conducted orchestras in other places, and we thought you would start one here. The other churches have them."

That last remark seemed to get under the parson's skin. He blazed back: "That is about the last thing I would do in Pasadena. Why, bless your soul, you don't have enough good players for one good, balanced orchestra. You can't have an orchestra without sufficient violinists, and Pasadena doesn't have sufficient Race violinists to give balance to even one good community orchestra."

Well, anyway our preacher friend hasn't succumbed to "Orchestra-Itis".

"The term "orchestra-itis" is a symbol of many things which of many things which take place in Pasadena.

Let one church start an orchestra in Pasadena, and every other church feels it must do the same thing. Not because it is needed, but in order that it might compete with or else cripple what the other church is doing. If Hyde Park Church and Ebenezer Church have orchestras, than Shiloh has to start one, too, because some of the young people from Shiloh play in the other orchestras. So Shiloh gets "Fess" Doodle who used to play fourth Alto horn in the Toonerville band to start the orchestra. The players in the other orchestras are urged to be "loyal" to their own denomination. The preacher condemns and commands. Soon "Fess" Doodle has his group together. The other orchestras are weakened. "Fess" Doodle, having had no experience as a conductor and "knowing hardly anything in the first place, is unable to hold his group together. Anyway Shiloh is satisfied, because in the meantime the other orchestras have about expired also. The old folk's don't differ, but the young people do. The orchestra served as an outlet for energy and was of culturial value to them and to the community. But sectarian competition pushed them out into the streets to dangers of undirected activity.

"Orchestra-itis" has been seen in civic matters. Was it denominational "orchestra-itis" that has kept us from having a Race man one the police force? Is it "orchestra-itis" that keeps us from having a Race teacher in our regular public school-system to teach our children the fundamentals of life? Is it orchestra-itis that keeps us out of the Fire Department?

We doubt if Monrovia or Oakland or Berkeley have church orchestras, but they do have representatives in public offices

Keep alive and support the orchestras we have, but for the community's sake don't start any new ones if you have to destroy what you have to build up the new ones. Builders, not wreckers, are needed in all the phases of life in Pasadena.

PASADENA FLIES ON EAGLE'S WINGS

Letters have been received from Easteners and Southerners, stating that they have been reading with interest the happenings in Pasadena. As we stated before, wherever the EAGLE flies, Pasadena flies also. A great city like Pasadena needs a voice that can be heard all over the country. The California Eagle with its growing Pasadena section is telling the whole country about Pasadena and its noble people.

As the paper grows, the section will grow into a four-page supplement, characteristically Pasadenan.

The policy of the paper is to represent the interests of all the people. This paper proposes to be the voice of all the people.

THE LOCAL NAACP CAMPAIGN

The local officers of the Pasadena Branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People have launched their annual membership drive. This is an organization to which every individual interested in civic justice and the advancement of minority groups should belong. Theoretically we all belong to the NAACP. We support its efforts verbally and run to it for protection of our liberties. Now is the time for us to give the Association financial support by paying our membership fees.

Those who come to you for your membership receive no remuneration from a financial standpoint for their efforts. So don't treat them like a peddler. Have at least your dollar set aside for the membership fee. Mrs. Carolyn Green is chairman of the membership campaign.

KU KLUX KLAN UNMASKS

By order of the national officers of the infamous Klan, there is to be no more hoods or masks worn by these night-riders. This order went into effect last week when 17 men went on trial in connection with night-rider terrorism at Atlanta, Ga.

Dr. John W. Wood Dies in Indianapolis

AME Zion Bishop Suffers Stroke En Route from N. C.

INDIANAPOLIS, April 25. (ANP)—Bishop John W. Wood of the second district of the AME Zion church, prominent churchman for more than 30 years died at his home, Thursday. He succumbed as the result of a stroke suffered at Lawrence, Ky., Sunday while he was enroute from Ashville, N. C. Bishop Wood was accompanied by his wife, a daughter, Mrs. Inez Smith, and a grandson, John Brooks. He was returned here Sunday nite.

Funeral rites for the eminent churchman were held at Jones Tabernacle AME Zion church Monday. Bishop William Jacobs Walls of Chicago read the eulogy. All bishops, general officials and many leading pastors attended the rites here.

Born at LaGrange, Ga., more than 60 years ago, Bishop Wood had spent much of his life in church activity: having pastored outstanding charges at Norfolk, Va., State Street AME Zion church at Mobile, Ala., and Jones Tabernacle of this city and has the record of having done highly creditable work throughout his career.

Prior to his election to the bishopric at Knoxville, Tenn., in 1920, Bishop Wood had served for 12 years as secretary of foreign missions. He presided as bishop over the second district.

PASADENA DELEGATES OFF TO CONFERENCE

Leaving for the General Conference, Rev. and Mrs. J. A. Dames motored to St. Louis, Mo. from where he was elected delegate. There he will join the Missouri delegation and motor on to Detroit, Michigan where the General Conference is being held. Others in the party are Mr. and Mrs. Piersaul, Melton Johnson, and Merline Ballard. Others attending the Conference are Rev. J. M. Brown, Mrs. John Wright, and Mr. Joe Clements.

Rev. Karl Downs Returns from Oregon Trip

After a short vacation and a speaking engagement at the Oregon State University, Rev. Karl E. Downs returned to the pulpit at Scott Methodist Church Sunday, April 21.

In his pulpit chat at the opening of the morning worship services, Rev. Downs urged the membership to continue their efforts and make a good showing from now until the end of the conference year. He also stressed the importance of the Sunday School and the necessity of greater co-operation by the parents in promoting better attendance by the youth of the church.

The sermon of the morning was delivered by the minister whose subject was, "What Does Christ Do For You?" The text was, "They saw the light, but did not hear the voice." As one significant answer to the subject, Rev. Downs said, 'Christ does what I allow him to become."

Roy V. McGaha's Trial Set for Thursday

Unusual local interest is being manifested in the trial of Roy Venoy McGaha, white, which is slated to come up before Superior Court Judge Frank C. Collier, next Thursday, May 2, at 10:00 a. m.

McGaha is charged with kidnapping and an array of crimes to terrible to print which he perpetrated against Mrs. Katherine Berry on the night of March 6.

At the arraignment McGaha entered a plea of "not guilty by reason of insanity". If the jury returns the verdict of guilty, the defendant will probably be given the death penalty.

JAMES MILLER SINGS ON "GOLD HOUR"

James Miller, Pasadena's own tenor, has been engaged as soloist over the Gold Hour, and appears each night except Sunday on the 6:30 p.m. program. Mrs. A. C. Bilbrew is the musical director of the program.

NO. CAROLINA LAW SCHOOL TO REOPEN

DURHAM, N. C., Apr. 25. (C)—The Law School of North Carolina College for Negroes will reopen next September, it was announced by President James E. Shepard last week. It has been approved by the State Board of Law Examiners last month, and makes graduates of the School eligible to take the North Carolina Bar examination.

Community Baptist Church Host to Federated Societies

REV. J. W. COLEMAN
Th. B., D. D., Pastor

This church was the host on last Friday for the Federated Church Aid Societies of Pasadena. More than ten white churches were represented with a delegation of more than 50 women.

The entire building was open for inspection, having recently been decorated both in and out with slight remodelling.

The annual election took place at the morning session. Dinner was served in the beautiful social hall.

Our pastor was the principle speaker at the afternoon session.

Our church is now affiliated with the following white religious organizations here in this city, namely: Pasadena Council of Religious Education, Pasadena Pastors Union, Pasadena Council of Church Women, Pasadena United Churchmen, Pasadena Federated Church Aid Societies.

Our pastor came to this city two years ago from Chicago where he was regarded by both races as a director of Religious Education, aside from being an active pastor for more than 18 years in Chicago. He was a delegate to the International Council of Religious Education for 4 years, sent by the white Baptist convention. This alone has given our pastor a fine chance here to cooperate with many leaders here whom he had met in the field in the east.

Our church is fortunate to have for its leader a man who has had membership in both of the Negroes' National Baptist Conventions, the Lott Carey, and also the Northern Baptist Convention (white) over a period of 18 years.

The pastor will preach next Sunday morning. The regular monthly musical will be given at the evening service under the direction of the Senior Choir.

Lucille Fairfax, Reporter.

● WE ARE SORRY

Our printer unfortunately left off "by-lines" of two articles in the Pasadena section last week. The article, "George Garner Makes Progress in Field of Music in Pasadena," was from the pen of Mr. Garner's distinguished wife, Mrs. Netta Paullyn Garner. Her last name was, inadvertantly, left off this article which was the first of a series to appear in the Pasadena section from Mrs. Garner.

The Rev. Wm. Prince was not given credit by the printer for his article, "Turning Back the Pages of Pasadena's Past". This article like the others in this series, was written by this beloved pioneer citizen. His article this week tells of the beginnings of Metropolitan Baptist Church. An understanding of the past enables one to appreciate the present.

WORTHY OF NOTICE

Booker T. Washington, beloved founder of Tuskegee Institute, which can be pointed to with pride is this month being honored along with other educators in the "Famous American" series of U. S. postage stamps. This is the first stamp in the nation bearing the likeness of a Negro. Even thought the stamp is of 10 cent denomination, all Negroes should purchase and use as many of the stamps as possible in commemoration of our greatest educator. Letters of appreciation should be sent to proper Government sources commending them for this recognition to one of our race

The devotion of thought to an honest achievement makes the achievement possible. — Mary Baker Eddy.

U. S. STATESMAN SEEKS TO DEFINE OBJECTIVES OF ECONOMIC SYSTEM

Change in Political Leadership Will Give Negro His Just Due, Emmett Scott Writes

By EMMETT J. SCOTT

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 25.—Some months ago an American statesman sought to define the objectives of our economic system in terms of the best thought and opinion of American citizens. He inquired. "What is it we want the economic system of America to provide for the citizens of this country?"

His answer to this inquiry are inclusive of the minimum hopes and aspirations, the ideals of our people everywhere, white and black alike. They are deeply concerned with the whole system of American life.

He enumerated as minima the following:

"We want American children born in health.

"We want them brought up in the sunshine, with plenty of vitamins.

"We want our race physically stronger with every generation.

"We want our youth high in ideals and resolute in character.

"We want them inspired with the spirit of human brotherhood.

"We want them trained to make their own living, to contribute to the advancement of the nation.

"We want everyone of them to have a job to start in life. And we want them to have constructive joy all through the process.

"We want old age serene in security from poverty or the fear of it.

"And we want profitable work for the great middle group between youth and old age, for they must support the whole.

"The focus of their lives is the home. We want them to have their own homes.

"We want each home to have a job, or to own a farm, or its own business.

"We want Americans to be secure in that job and get living and comfort out of it.

"And, above all, we want them to have that American personal liberty which makes the rest worth havin'

What is the answer to the question, "How are these ideals of American living to be brought about?" They are many and sundry. Mainly, they are political, when, as a matter of fact, they should be divested of political partisanship and concerned wholly with the highest and best interests of all the people.

The Negro people of the United States by every right of justice and equity by their common citizenship, and by their contributions to the upbuilding and ongoing of this country are included in this category "of all the people."

How are they faring during these days of tribulation? In what adequate way are the youth-masses of the race being provided with opportunities for health and virility? How much of human brotherhood is the Negro's share of our American democracy? Where are the jobs and the security of jobs—not relief? What joys can be his in the midst of present-day efforts, particularly in the Democratic South, to deny him that equality of citizenship which is presumed to be guaranteed him under the Constitution of the United States? And finally, how much of spiritual freedom and liberty, of which we hear so much is being assured him?

The years of depression have weighed heavily upon the Negro group. The economic dislocations of the past ten years have had to be borne with a resolute patience and determination worthy of all praise and encouragement.

They now fervently pray, after seven years of New Deal futility for constructive changes in Governmental administration which shall assure to them those benefits an American citizen has a right to expect of his country.

More copper and chrome were produced in the Union of South Africa in ten months last year than in all of the previous year.

Youth Parade Slated April 27

Plans for the gigantic Youth Parade to be held Saturday are shaping up nicely, various committies at work on the parade stated today.

A project of the South-East Coordinating Council, the parade will formally usher in Youth Week in this community.

According to present plans the parade will march south on Central avenue from 28th street to 46th, west to Avalon Blvd, starting at 10 A. M. Among the many organizations which have offered to cooperate is the Whittier Boys School band.

Bilbrew Quartet Attracts Large Audience

Mrs. A. C. Bilbrew and her accompanying quartette proved an unusual attraction to an audience of approximately 300 eager listeners Sunday, April 21, at the Sunset Avenue S. D. A. Church in Pasadena. Apparently many had not heard such a unique program. Everything was much in order with the exception of a slight interruption from an attempt to seat the steady influx of patrons.

The program commenced with quartette numbers. Mrs. Bilbrew alternated with her marvelous recitations. Every number inspired fervant applause which was given in Chautauqua salute fashion. So highly appreciated were these noble artists that the total proceeds from patrons and offering amounted to $151.33.

Timely remarks and financial reports of the group leaders were made by Owen A. Troy, pastor of the church. Mrs. Bilbrew followed again, announcing the addition of James Miller, Pasadena's own tenor soloist, to the quartet's Gold Hour program over KGFJ between 6:30 and 7 p. m. and urged everyone to tune in on the recent and especially arranged program in which Mr. Miller plays the stellar role. The entire group was again praised for their excellent performance. Captain Gaines offered a worthy benediction after which many social acquaintances were renewed by the cosmopolitan group.

Benefits of Negro Health Week

BY BLANCHE BIGBY, R. N.

National Negro Health Week is the idea of Booker T. Washington, which has grown to become a great program. He did not live the see the declaration of National Negro Health week, but his challenge was accepted.

National Negro Health Week is a period for emphasis and demonstration of health problems beginning Mar. 31 to April 7. It has also been a means of distributing information to all groups interested in conditions affecting the Negro, and arousing the Negro himself to become more health conscious, thus creating a desire to work together for better health.

In the southern states, the response to Health Week is much more enthusiastic than in the North. Doctors, visiting nurses, social workers and laymen work together toward the one goal—better health. Mass meetings are held urging the carrying out of the health program. Health talks are given by doctors and nurses, sanitation needs and improvements are considered, homes and buildings are thoroughly cleaned and provisions are made for annual health examinations of adults and children.

We can see that the benefits of this great organization are many. The way has been paved to greater cooperation, lower mortality and broader health education among Negroes.

The features of Negro Health Week are to be incorporated in the observance of Pasadena's Health Days, May 1-12.

Rosenwald Fund Makes Big Grant

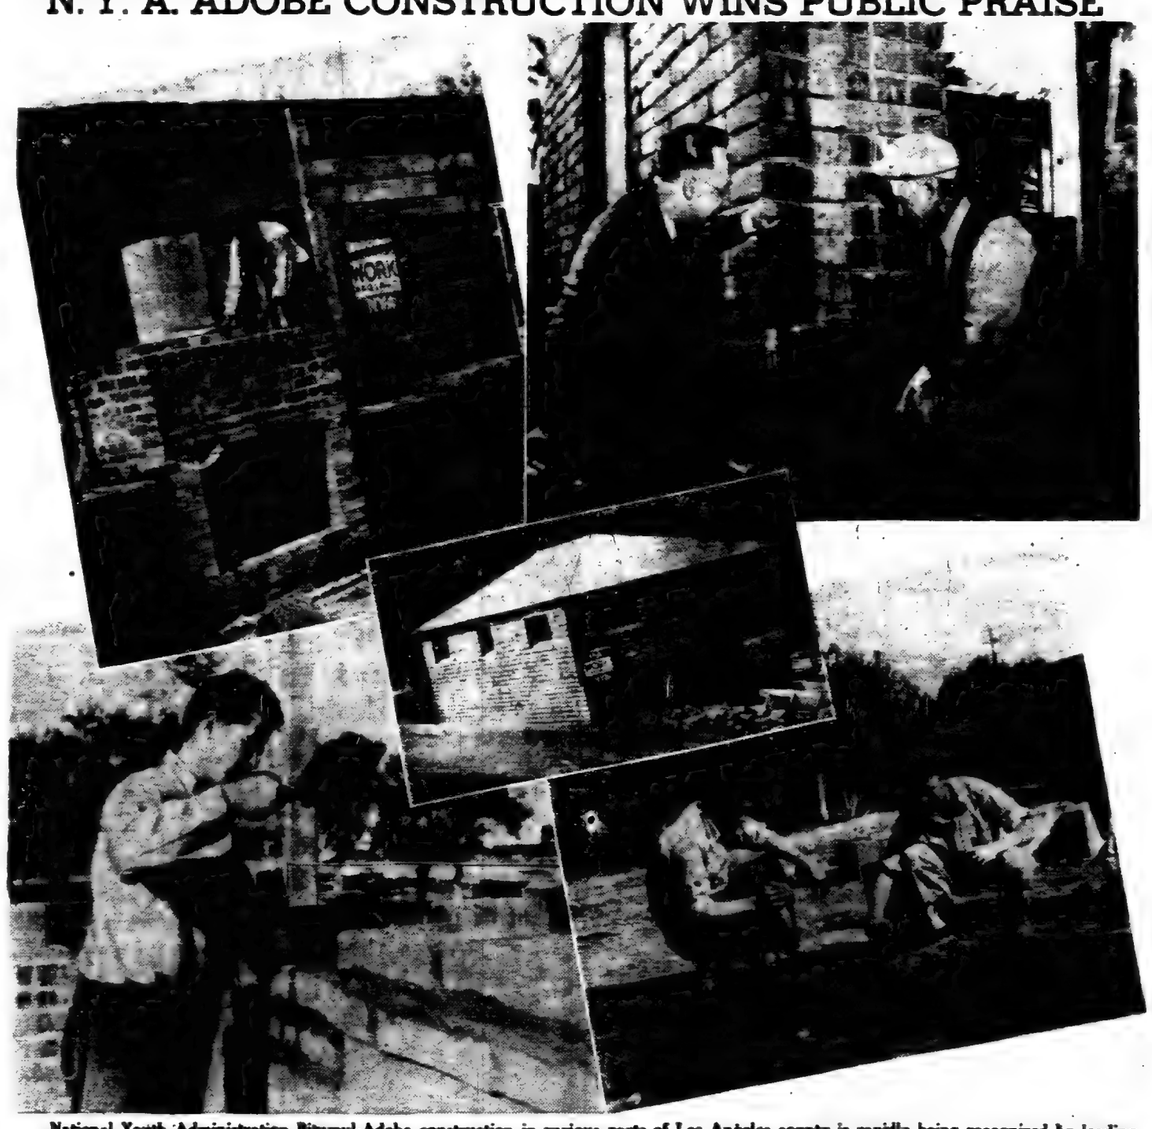
CHICAGO, Apr. 25.—A grant of $15,000 has been made by the Julius Rosenwald Fund through its president, Dr. Edwin R. Embree, to the American Negro Exposition, it was announced this week.

This grant, intended to help underwrite the entire Exposition, will also be used in part for active sponsorship by the Rosenwald fund of the special sections on education, health and social science which will be strongly emphasized at the coming event. Arna Bontemps, noted author, and Horace Cayton, prominent sociologist, are gathering technical data in preparation for these exhibits. Both Bontemps and Cayton are former recipients of Rosenwald Fellowships granted annually to outstanding Negros and southern whites.

Hold 3rd Session of SDA Seminar

The Seminar of the Sunset Avenue SDA Church, corner of Sunset Ave. and Pepper Sts., held its third session last Monday night with a full attendance of the student body. Instruction is being given in Parlimentary usage, Congregational Music Conducting, Church Organization and Polity, and Lay Evangelism. This is the first unit of the Adult Educational program which Rev. Owen A. Troy has inaugurated since accepting the Pasadena pastorate.

Increased attendance and many visitors are noted at the Sabbath preaching services which are held at 11 a. m. on Saturday mornings. Mrs. Benjamin Mc Adoo and her assistants conduct a well-organized Sabbath school at 9:30 a. m. The large number of adults in attendance is a feature of this school.



Poor May Use Grass as Food

CINCINNATI, Apr. 25. (CNA)—Three white Kansas City, Mo. chemists reported to the American Chemical Society this week that they had found a way to enrich the diets of the poor by using grass as a food.

W. R. Graham, G. O. Kohler, and C. F. Schnabel, connected with a big Kansas City butter concern, reported that they had made "the first successful effort to transmit the unique properties of grass directly into human nutrition."

Next in order for the Ku Kluxers will be to change their names. That may deceive us some. But as long as the hearts of the group are unchanged, they will continue to manifest their un-American hatred for Jews, Catholics and Negroes.

However, if they did change their name, now that they are taking off their masks, they might at least sound respectable though still intolerant and unprincipled at heart.

Possibly if they talled themselves the Ku Klux Improvement Association and worked only against the colored races and thereby get leading city officials on their board of directors, they might regain their original strength.

Turning Back the Pages of Pasadena's Past

By REV. WILLIAM PRINCE

The Metropolitan Baptist church was the third church organized by our group in Pasadena. Rev. J. D. Gordon organized the church in 1904 in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Boykin who lived on Worcester Ave. Mr. and Mrs. Boykin are the parents of Mrs. Strickland who is a prominent missionary worker in the Baptist church.

Those present at the organization were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gold, Mrs. W. E. Ford, Mr. and Mrs. John Long Mrs. Leslie, Mr. and Mrs. Boykin. Rev. J. D. Bushon the following Sunday, and Rev. Gordon installed the officers of the church in a hall on the corner of Colorado and Raymond Ave.

The church bought a lot on Waverly Drive and there built a beautiful house of worship where they have been happily carrying on for a number of years. Mrs. Brooks--who gave the city beautiful Brookside park--built an addition to the church which serves as a social hall and nursery. She also furnished it with beds for children and gave several hundred dollars worth of choice books.

Rev. Bushell was the first pastor. We think of him as the great leader and the eloquent preacher. Succeeding him was the Rev. Archer who was also a very fine man. Those following Rev. Archer were Rev. Hart and Rev. Hughes. Under Rev. Hughes' administration the social hall was built. Then Rev. Strothers, a strong man who did fine work, added many new members to the church. Dr. Moore pastored for few years. He came from one of the large churches in the East Coast California for a rest.

Rev. J. W. Cornelius, who was called from Phoenix, Arizona was beloved by all regardless of denomination but on account of poor health he had to resign and return to Arizona. Rev. Dr. Mabee was then called to the pastorate. He has been very successful and has paid off all debts, added money and bought a beautiful lot in the northern part of the city where most of the members live. They are planning to build a new church in the near future. Defective wiring caused a fire a few weeks ago which did considerable damage to the church. The services are being held at the present time in the social hall.

'40 Fair Grounds Chief

Christopher T. Merchant, Chairman of the Committee on Buildings, Grounds and Maintenance of the California Commission for the Exposition, is a busy man these days. His committee has charge of getting the buildings and grounds in the State and Counties area on Treasure Island ready for the big opening on May 25. Assisting Commissioner Merchant in selecting some plants are the Misses Janet Conradi (left) and Virginia Murphy. Other members of the committee include Commissioners L. E. Bontz, Michael Costello, Gordon F. Irvine and Dr. Edward [illegible]inson.

PRE-NUPTIALS CONFIRMED

Out of a clear sky just like the sunshine itself comes the news of intentions to wed from a happy girl and a lucky boy who are none other than Matthew Jones of Los Angeles and Miss Patricia Jones of 314 W. Mountain street, of Pasadena. The glorious affair is scheduled to take place some time in July as Miss Jones completes her beauty course in the Henrietta Beauty School, Los Angeles. The wedding will take place in the home of the bride to be.

Fate tried to interrupt the plans of the pre-nuptials as a car full of inebriates side swiped their beautiful streamlined deluxe V-8 one evening last week, on their way home from Redlands, California. As luck would have it, the other car was the worst damaged as it careened into other objects.

PROUD PARENTS

Albert Wright, proud father and son of Mrs. Sally McBride, was all smiles again as he received the news of a 6½ lb. baby girl, Diana Elizabeth Wright Friday morning, April 19. Mr. Wright now has a boy and girl. Mrs. Wright is expected to return home, 38 W. Mountain street, next Sunday. Mother and baby are reported doing well.

MRS. SUSIE KIDD OCCUPIES NEW APARTMENT

The Tillman Courts, located at 1016 N. Fair Oaks avenue, offers virtually a heavenly retreat declares Mrs. Susie Kidd who occupies Apartment B at the above address. Modern and streamlined equipment make these apartments comparable to any in the city of Pasadena plus economic home comforts.

The Mary Bethune Unit of the Woman's Political club met at the Chicago Club House on Morton avenue, Tuesday, April 16. An interesting and instructive program was presented by the program chairman, Mrs. P. L. Kirkland. The subject was Booker T. Washington. Three pairs of silk hose were raffled off at the close of the meeting. Mrs. Lillian Ford, a popular hair stylist, was the visitor. Mrs. Corrine Hicks, president; Mrs. N. F. McMickens, secretary.

Mr. David Copeland, 714 Winona avenue, has received the sad news of the passing of an only brother, Mr. Elijah Copeland of Lima, Ohio.

ATHLETICS

James Ruffin, Jack Gordon, Roscoe Deeore and Mack Robinson have returned from the Texas relays. Ruffin came in second in the 220. This track team is planning a similar trip to Tuskegee next month.

Last Saturday at the Sacramento track meet, Willie Anderson came in second. Ulysses (Mohawk) Allen came in third in the 440.

It is rumored that Alton Ballard is wanted by UCLA to play basketball next year.

GIRLS—WEST CAMPUS

Barbara George entered Jaysee from McKinley Junior High school, and with her came a splendid record in athletics. Barbara is a very good baseball player; she can throw a ball as hard as a boy, and as far. She is also outstanding in tennis, hockey, soccer and basketball. Here's hoping she will remain as active in athletics at Jaysee as she has been at McKinley.

East Campus

Muriel Simmons, one of Jaysee's outstanding students, is well liked for her pleasing personality, and sense of humor. It is hard to tell which is the better tennis player, Muriel or Alice Presley. Alice and Muriel have just finished playing several doubles matcnes in the WAA tennis tournament.

SOCIAL

It is said that the Armulite Dance held at the Civic, was the affair of the year. Among those present were, Barbara Reynolds, Suz Young, Gloria Batiste, Mable Renfroe, Harriet Nash, Harriet Wills, Syi Irvin, Muriel Simmons, Ruth Smith, Denzil Perdue, Nella DeSuze, Frances Bailey, Lexie Anthony, Madline Burch, Bernice Burton, Lilly Mae Burton, Cornel Jackson, Wilmer Hickambottom, Bernice Collins, Doris Mae Glass, Bill Couton, Rufus Blake, Alton Ballard, Paul McReynolds, David Brown, Cournel Young, Bob Brown, William McLurkin, Jimmy Bell, Tommie Billups, Wilbert Fisher, Harrison Bailey, John Anderson, Bernard Harris, Ulysses Allen and Robert Cunningham. The Harlem Collegians furnished the music.

Many students of the East Campus were seen visiting the West campus during assembly hour last Friday. The Harlem Collegians played for the assembly, and Earthlene and Edward Hall tapped and jitterbugged.

The YWCA is opening an Athletic club for all the Negro girls. Meetings are held at the Y every Saturday morning from 10-12 o'clock.

NOTICE:

All music majors: If you want to receive voice training, come to Gilbert Allen Rehearsals at Scotts, every Monday and Saturday. Mr. Allen is also giving instructions in dramatics.

JOURNALISM

Almost one-fourth of the Negro students on the East campus are English majors. One of the subjects offered for English majors is that of journalism. This class enable one to become acquainted with the are of news writing. News is defined as, that which holds the interest of the greatest number of people. A study of journalism helps one to detect news from propaganda, thus keeping him from being mislead by the thoughts of propagandists written in news style. Journalism often creates such an interes that the students select this as their vocation. The Negro has a position to fill in journalism. If you think and your thought is placed on a printed page, it will cause your fellowmen to think, reason, or secure beneficial information. Then investigate journalism as your vocation.

Many of the students of the West campus are preparing themselves for secretarial work. The awakening of the Negro and his climb from the kitchen to the office, has made a greater demand for secretaries. If the student will master typing, shorthand, neatness in appearance and efficiency in work, he will undoubtedly secure a position in the offices of our future doctors, lawyers, and numerous other offices occupied by the twentieth-century Negro, who has made his appointment with destiny.

LORD, HEAR THEM
By Syrenetha Irvin

Hear them crickets croakin,'
Jug o' rum, jug o' rum.
Listen to them thicker
Comin' home, comin' home.
Lord, hear them; Lord, hear them
Sing a merry song of
Jug o' rum, jug o' rum.

Listen to the big ones,
Hum de hum, hum de hum.
Lord, they're happy, Lord they're happy.
Sing a merry song of
Jug o' rum, jug o' rum.

Down there in the valley
They're a crickin' all the time,
'Minds you of the drummer
As he beats the marchin' time.
'Minds you of the clatter of the big, big guns.
'Minds you of the shatter of the Marching drums.

Now the beat is quicker,
Rum de dum, rum de dum,
Lord, hear them; Lord, hear them,
Hear the cricket callin,' Lord.
Let the crickets thicker,
Jug o' rum, jug o' rum,
Let the beat get quicker,
Rum de dum, rum de dum;
But stop the steady shatter,
Of the marchin' drums.

• LITTLE BLACK BOY

"Mother, my hands are black and my face is black and my feet are black. I am just black all over. And Wilbert's hands and feet and face, they are just like mine, only they are different; they are white-like. What's the matter with us?"

"Nothing dear, only you are a little black boy and Wilbert is a little white boy."

"Why is one a little black boy and one a little white boy?"

"God made it so, my dear."

"What for? Why didn't he make all just one—I mean, just all little black boys or little white boys?"

"Come here, dear, and sit on this stool and listen while mother tells you a story about how God made little black boys and little white boys."

"Did God make a black world, too?"

"No, dear. He only made one world."

"Well, the night is black and the day is white."

"Listen, dear. Do you remember how mother makes the Christmas cookies?"

"Yes, mother. You made some brown, some white, and some pink. You made a lot of colors."

"Well, that is just what God did when he made the world. You see, he made a lot of things, but he made them different and of different colors. There are many races of people living in different parts of the world; some are brown, olive, yellow and red and white."

"Is that why you made all those kinds of cookies, cause God made all those kinds of people?"

"No, dear, that is not the reason I made them, but it does lend to the general idea. You see, God likes making people different. That was his joy and pride and happiness. He made different climates too, to suit different kinds of people."

"Did you get joy and happiness when you made the cookies?"

"Yes, dear, and they are all so pretty and smooth and nice, don't you think?"

"How did God get them different? Did He make a lot of them in a bowl like you make the Christmas cookies?"

"Yes. He made a very, very large bowl of dough, then when he had put all the ingredients in, sugar, salt and a number of other ingredients, just as mother adds salt, sugar, butter and other things to the cookies dough—well, when God got his dough made, He began dividing it into many portions. Then he added the colors to suit his own enjoyment. So that was the beginning of my little black boy."

"Oh may I get down now, Mother, and please, may I have a brown cookie?"

Rev. W. D. Carter, Pastor

Young People's Day will be held Sunday. Come out and support the Young People's effort.

The visit of the National Baptist convention Goodwill Tour group was an occasion of much pleasure and interest to a large group who met them in the Social Hall where dinner was served by the ladies of this, Metropolitan and Lincoln avenue churches. Assisting Mrs. Mary M. Durham, chairman, were many young men and women, among whom were: Mmes. V. Corry, Mattie Edwards, Hattie Pope, Washington, Lawson, L. Parrish. Among the ladies who acted as hostesses were Mmes. E. Smith, C. Harris, Belle Dotson, L. Johnson, Beulah Sims and Annie Mae Woods.

The program was inspiring and entertaining. The Tour quintet sang spirituals and George R. Garner, accompanied by his wife, also sang.

Dr. U. J. Robinson of Mobile was the Sunday morning speaker. "The Juliet Hour" was the theme of the message.

The evening speaker was Rev. John Goins of Missouri, who brought a stirring sermon on "Looking in all Directions."

FIRST AME CHURCH
Rev. Jonathan A. Dames, Pastor

The annual men's day service was observed last Sunday. Mr. John Frierson, chairman. Dr. McRiley, director of music. Mr. Albert McNeil of Los Angeles was at the organ. The service was a source of great inspiration. The men's chorus sang "Lift Up Your Head oh Ye Gates", with Mr. Wm. Stoard as soloist. The singing brought calm to every heart and prepared them for the very helpful and touching sermon delivered by the pastor, who spoke at the morning hour on: "Why Men Go Fishing", a subject that will live long in the hearts of the people.

At 7:45 p. m. the men presented a Biblical drama entited: "Joseph and his Brethren", which was a grand success.

A new department has been added to the church, the Junior Auxiliaries to the Missionary Society. These groups, the Mother of Pearls, Allen Stars, and Mary E. Lee Circle, have been organized by Mrs. Ruby Langston Sister of the pastor. She is assisted by Mesdames Alice Bugg, Edna Banks, Mary Hawthorn, Emma Ratliff, the Misses Gertrude Scott Ruth Ridley and Alvie McAfee.

• THE COOK'S SCRAPBOOK

HAM AND VEAL LOAF

2½ lbs. veal, ground
½ lbs. smoked ham, ground
1 cup cracker crumbs
1 onion minced
4 tablespoons ketchup
4 tablespoons minced green pepper
1 teaspoon pepper
1 cup mushrooms
1 egg

Method: Mix ingredients, pour into a baking dish, cover with 2 slices of bacon, and bake in a moderate oven 1½ hours.

CUCUMBER CREAM SALAD

½ pint cream, whipped
1 tablespoon tarragon vinegar
Dash of salt and cayenne
½ cup finely cut cucumbers
2 tablespoons gelatin

Method: Dissolve gelatin in a little cold water, and then add to whipped cream. Stir in remaining ingredients. Pack in either individual mold or one large mold and set on ice for several hours. Garnish with sweet red peppers and serve with boiled dressing.

BOILED DRESSING

1½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon cayenne
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1 egg slightly beaten
½ cup vinegar
1 cup sweet or sour cream.

Method: Cook ingredients in double boiler until thick and creamy.

COOKING HINTS

Wash green vegetables in warm water; rinse in cold.

To bake tomatoes or peppers more easily, put them in muffin tins, which will hold them securely upright.

The odor of garlic or onions may removed from hands and mouth by eating celery tops and rubbing the hands with the tops.

To clear cloudy or frozen olive oil, add one teaspoon of salt to each quart and in 24 hours it will be clear.

HIGH ALTITUDES CAUSE VAPOR LOCK

If your car suddenly decides to quit on a long grade on your trip this summer, don't get unduly alarmed. The chances are it will only be a case of vapor lock--that is if you didn't forget to fill up with gas at the last station.

The cure for vapor lock is simple. Allow your motor to cool. The cause of vaporization in the line between fuel pump and carburetor creating an air pocket. The process can be hurried by placing wet rags on the fuel pump and fuel line, but care should be taken not to place them on the manifold or other cast metal parts that might crack.

So much for vapor lock. But if you ran out of gas, there's only one answer.

CAMP FIRE PERMITS

Motorists, campers, and sportsmen who plan to visit national forests are advised they must have permits to build campfires in these areas. These permits, good for 1940, may be obtained without charge at any district office of the Automobile club. IT PAYS TO CACKLE!

Scientifically, chicken eggs are no better than duck eggs. But the average person won't buy them at any price. If chicken eggs were selling for a dollar a dozen, the average housewife wouldn't buy duck eggs at 10 cents per dozen.

Why?

The difference is due to advertising.

The duck, when she lays an egg, waddles off in silence and with her head hanging low.

The hen, with head lifted high, comes off the nest cackling. And the old rooster sticks out his chest and crows about it!

It pays to advertise. (See J. W. Porter, our Pasadena representative of The California Eagle, or telephone SYcamore 3-1665.)

• NOTES ON A SCRATCHPAD

By Bill Smallwood

About Duke: He has had his freedom. He has been privileged to come and go as he wished, to meet the people he liked, and though sometimes he has had periods of bad luck he has found the game worth playing, has been avidly interested in current events, in his fellow craftsmen's work as well as his own, and has had no loud complaints to make. I've always marvelled at the strength and stamina that kept him going along the rough road.

Duke belongs on the concert stage, without a doubt. He has about as much business peddling his fine wares on one-nighters as has Stokowski. I've sometimes thought Duke has almost been a prophet without honor, for it is Europe that places a far more true and appreciative valuation upon his genius. Last year, exactly at this time, he was in Stockholm on his birthday (April 29). Ten thousand people sang for him on that day, five thousand in the morn and five thousand all thru the evening . . . . And showered him with roses . . . . They thought it was the least they could do . . .

The narrowness and vicious jealousies in his business world have really kept Duke out've the grade A hotel dates, where he should've been years ago. With such a finished band, Duke deserves far more cooperation from the powers that always be . . . John Hammond, the paradox to end all paradoxes, took Basie and pushed him up. If Hammond had taken an organization like Ellington's and given them that pat and nod, Duke would be more than an American institution by now. I have little fault others than technical flaws to find in Basie, but his band really wasn't quite finished for the terrific push Hammond treated them to . . . I only hope they won't slip. For once you get there, you've got to have more than a good bass section. People are fickle, and their demands are invincible. You soon tire of sameness.

Hammond, while we're on him, has taken a strange delight in scouring the deeper Dixie joints for fearful-looking and plenty loud types, and fetched them to Carnegie Hall (generally) and saying they truly represent the American Negro artist. Which is grossly unfair. But he can't see Ellington or his type. Claims they're unoriginal. Further, while here, someone told him to catch a show at the Bal Tabarin and hear C. L. Burke on his guitar and singing his island melodies. But Hammond walked out on him.

But, of course, Hammond hasn't fooled all of us.

Duke, meanwhile, goes on. But it's maddening to see him get such below-the-belt treatment.

Nordics are becoming more and more aware that as a group we're more than banging on the door, we're wearing down the hinges! . . . Particularly in the entertainment world . . . All they can do to keep us out won't be enough to stem us. And the next few years will tell a brilliant story, I feel somehow . . .

Note: Fredi Washington, with a party, were told Sunday nite at the Bal Tabarin that "tables were for white people." But Fredi squelched Big Poppa, and they saw the show from ringside, and Fredi was very gracious when introduced. For which she gets a big hooray, for she made 'em feel like a half cent. Popsie Hampton and a table of us were also on hand, and the fun was terrific, Jack . . . Don't be surprised if C. L., who is the best we've heard in this part of the world, gets a break this year in a big-time outfit. And probably the whole outfit he has now, may fall right in. When he plays Paradise and Tabu, we're outa this world . . . The Bal Tabarin show is good, too . . They've got a comedienne out there who can take our money ANY time . . . and when she does her Cabbages and Peas number, we're wowed . . .

Herb Jeffries has improved his technique marvelously. Reason: Duke's brilliant young arranger, Billy Strayhorn, has put all his fine art to work and arranged some good numbers for Herb. Strayhorn is also doing a book on Duke which he finished this week. It goes to the publishers within four weeks.

Added Notes: Rosalind Russell asked La McDaniel to postpone her trip and do a film with her. But it was no go. Louise Beavers will get the assignment.

GEORGE W. PETERSON, of the U. S. Post office department in Washington, D. C., who is ranking colored clerk in the stamp division. Sent to Tuskegee to aid in the first day sale April 7, of he new Booker T. Washington stamp, he received high praise for his work, supervising approximately 35 clerks. This was the first time in history that a Negro post office official had been sent out on this kind of mission.

• BRIDGE POINTS

BY ELLIS L. VEIL

There has been a great change in the schedule of plays, conducted by your association. The weekly Monday night plays have been discontinued. Instead, we will have two big tournaments the first and third Friday of each month. (Next tournament May 4.) The fee for the first will be 25 cents per player with cash prizes. Fee for the second will be 10 cents per player with a trophy awarded the player with the highest average at the end of four plays. We are dependent on you 100 members to make these plays a grand success. Master point certificates will be awarded the winner of all plays.

Special to bridge players from San Diego to Seattle, Wash: Dr. E. T. Belsaw, president, and all officers of the American Bridge association are urging you to be present and take part in the 8th Annual National Bridge championship the week of Aug. 19 at Atlanta, Ga. Plan your vacation for the above date. A grand time is guaranteed all who attend.

Your columnist is off on a motor trip Apr. 24 for the next few weeks. I hope to bring you interesting bridge comments from the Lone Star state and the South's largest city, New Orleans, La.

The following question is most often asked by bridge players: after opening the bid with one in a suit, partner responds in another suit; you, having a rebiddable suit and support for partner's suit, is it better to rebid one's own suit or raise partner's suit? If partner's suit is a major, we are definitely in favor of raising partner's suit. To rebid your suit, may not encourage partner at all and he will have to pass if he has a minimum hand and a void Singleton or a worthless Doubleton in your suit. While a raise from you may mean that your partner can visualize the game. The sooner we get together on the trump suit, the better. Next week, we will give you an example hand on the above bidding.

Last week's hand was not hard to bid or play, but some North-South pairs failed to reach game on this board. At our table, the bidding went like this: South, one club; North, one heart; South, four clubs; North passed. Six clubs were made due to a favorable lead. Why North passed the four club bid, we cannot understand. Holding two and one half honor tricks, plus a 7 card major suit, North should have had visions of game as soon as South opened the bidding, playing for four. One should be playing for game and not a part score with a hand such as the one we are discussing with you. Even if you are set, the reward sheuld be worth the try. Here is the hand again:

Postal Employes Here Organize NAPE Branch

A group of progressive local Post Office employes, realizing the need of group effort, met and reorganized a branch of the National Alliance of Postal Employes. The Alliance is nation-wide in scope with headquarters in Washington, D. C.

The purpose of the local branch is: to encourage thrift among its members, to urge home ownership, to create a more favorable opinion of post office employes, to acquaint the community with the various facilities of the Post Office, and to urge greater use of the Post Office services by the public.

While the NAPE is a distinct organization in its own right, nonetheless, it is not a separation from the general Union effort of the local Post Office, as each member of the NAPE is a member of the national federation of all the employes in this particular field. These federations are affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

DR. CHARLES MORRIS WIDELY ACCLAIMED THRUOUT NORTH

SACRAMENTO, Apr. 25—In a whirlwind trek through Northern California, Dr. C. S. Morris of Los Angeles, educator, orator and minister, is receiving wide acclaim. Dr. Morris was guest speaker Sunday and Monday at the Shiloh Baptist church in Sacramento. Wednesday night, he was the attraction at a city-wide interracial gathering at the white First Baptist church. He will speak in Vallejo and Palo Alto the remainder of the week and will go to San Francisco for Sunday services.

Dr. Morris will speak Sunday at the 88-year old church which was founded by his great-grandfather, Rev. Charles Satchell, Third Baptist church. An interracial gathering will be held in the afternoon, at which Dr. Morris will speak.

During next week, Dr. Morris will appear at Oakland, Berkeley, San Jose and Fresno. He will return to Los Angeles in time to occupy the pulpit at First AME church in the absence of Rev. H. Mansfield Collins.

Fate of Tribal Chief Up to High Court in London

LONDON, Apr. 25. (ANP)—Fakisandhla Nkambule, a tribal chief, convicted of poisoning one of his wives, his brother, and a sisterin-law, last week appeared before the privy council here in an appeal of the death sentence imposed upon him by the court in Swaziland.

The alleged murders were said to have taken place around a campfire when 13 natives sat in a circle while medicine men conducted weird ceremonies. A gourd containing water and magic powder was passed around, and when it reached the intended victims, according to trial witnesses, poison was added.

Evidence against the Swazi chieftain included the confession of one medicine man who said that he put poison in the water at the order of the chief. Defense counsel claimed the chief's conviction resulted from a faulty trial

Foster Had Colorful Career

Veteran Newsman Organized First Negro Film Co.

Ed's. Note: William Foster died quietly at his home "The Little White House", 5807 Compon avenue early April 9. His wife, Mrs. Ella B. Foster and his life long friend, Phil A. Jones, were at his bedside. Foster, who was 78 yrs. old had been a long sufferer from asthma. Following is an interesting summary of a busy lift, written by an intimate of the colorful figure.

NEW YORK, (By Count A. J. Gary)—William Foster came to New York in 1884, and settled in the old 15th Ward. Having been reared around horses, he secured his first position as paddock man and clocker with Jack McDonald, the noted horseman of the '80's. In a short time McDonald recognized Foster's valuable knowledge of horses and promoted him to commission man at a salary of $10.00 per day. During the late 80's, Foster was affiliated with such well known characters around New York as Andrew Thompson, trainer; Chas. Jordan, owner; and Bill Walker the jockey who rode the famous Tinbrook.

In those days Foster knew the records of every race horse and prize fighter in the history of the sporting world. It was this that inspired him to become a sports writer in later years, under the pen name "Juli Jones". At the turn of the century, Foster extended his interests to the theatre and became publicity man for the William and Walker shows, "In Dahomey" and "In Abyssinia". Remaining with them until they disbanded, he joined Cole and Johnson's "A Trip to Coontown." In 1910, William Foster moved to Chicago and organized the first all Nego moving picture company. His initial production, under the banner of the Will Foster Moving Picture company, was "The Railroad Porter", a comedy starring Lottie Grady, Jerry Mills and other famous characters of that time. Two years later, in 1912, the William Foster Music Company was organized. This company also handled pictorial posters of colored institutions and churches.

His next venture was circulation manager for the Chicago Defender. After joining Robert S. Abbott's newspaper staff, he built up the largest circulation of any Negro weekly in the world. During the Chicago race riot, in August 1919, Foster and Phil Jones, the paper's youthful general manager, exhibited great courage and heroism by delivering the Defender to agents despite the bullets which greeted them on every corner from the mobs in the stockyard district. Throughout the several weeks of rioting they never missed an issue or a delivery although the paper was published in the center of the disturbance.

In 1925, Foster resigned his position with the Defender and established the Haitian Coffee Co., which continued until 1927. At this time Foster and Count A. J. Gary, founded the Chicago Daily Times which had a successful run. Having written several short stories Foster, in the latter part of 1928, set out for Hollywood, where he, with persistence crashed the gates of Pathe Studios and became the first Negro director of pictures. Here, he directed pictures for Buck and Bubbles, famous song and dance comedy team. Later, he opened the Foster Photo Play Co. office and wrote a series of shorts for Stepin Fetchit, Clarence Muse and Buck and Bubbles. The most popular of his short stories were: "Hannah in Hongkong," "Buck and Bubbles' Troubles", "Last Shot Got Him", "The Fool that Played With Fire," "Chicago Black and Tan", "Fire Dance of the Congo" and the "Trail of the Black Hills."

From the earliest years, "Bill" Foster was imbued with an ardent race spirit and aided every movement for racial progress. He was adviser to hundreds of men and women who have since attained success. He formed friendships with persons in every walk of life. His simple, but wise philosophy was appreciated by all,

Anita Scott Coleman Victor in California Poets Contest

To Mrs. Anita Scott Coleman, 1208 E. 34th street, goes the distinction of being declared one of California's outstanding poets and a prize of $100 in cash. Mrs. Coleman's latest achievement was the winning of the annual Robert Browning Poetry Contest for 1940, open to all poets of California.

That the award was not distinction is noted in the amount of warm praise that was showered upon the winner by outstanding persons in the field of prose and poetry.

L. E. Nelson of Redlands university said in a letter to Mrs. Coleman: "The winning of this prize is more significant in that there were more than 500 contestants, and in that the final selection was made by the outstanding American poet, Hermann Hagedorn."

Mrs. Coleman has also won first prize for poems submitted to "Crisis" and "Opportunity" magazines. Her two daughters have also achieved some distinction in poetry. The Misses Willianna and Mary Coleman, students at UCLA, have walked off with prize honors in national poetry contests. The former will receive her master of arts degree in June.

Oil Company Honors Man for Service

The father and brother of two Los Angeles women received distinctive recognition in Austin, Texas recently, it was learned here this week.

Mrs. Grace Hankins Dyson, 4122 Naomi avenue, and Mrs. O. W. Washington, 1197 E. 51st street, are proud of the achievement of their father and brother, Jake Hankins, who was awarded a gold pin, set with two diamonds and a ruby, by the Gulf Oil company.

The presentation was made in observation of Hankin's quarter-century service to the company, O. H. Carlisle, division sales manager for five southwestern states, made the presentation, stating that in recognizing long service periods of employees, the company is awarding pins, set with a diamond for each 10 years of service and a ruby for each five.

Hankins, a warehouseman in Austin for the past 25 years, before retirement, used to perform his duties with the aid of a mule team before mechanized equipment came into popular use. He was also awarded a certificate attesting to his long period of service.

Other California relatives include a sister, Mrs. W. E. Tucker in Elsinore.

Noted Baritone at Town Hall

NEW YORK, April 25. (ANP)—Aubrey Pankey, who has received the praise of European critics from Jerusalem to Zurich, will make his debut here at Town Hall Sunday evening. The first American to make a concert tour of Palestine, Pankey has 200 appearances in recital, radio and with symphony orchestras to his credit. Encouraged by Roland Hayes and R. Nathaniel Dett, his career has progressed from a brief experience as boy soprano.

A native of Pittsburgh, Pankey studied at Oberlin conservatory, the Hubbard studios and the Boston university college of music.

FASHIONAIDS.
by DR. Nora

If you are one of those persons with a conspicuously large bust, don't consider it a major figure defect and sit down with a complex—do something about it! The first step of course, is a proper foundation garment which can mold the large bust to fashionable lines over which well designed clothes will fall with easy grace. After the correct foundation is attained, concentrate attention on the face and head above the heavy bust by using soft, draped necklines, graceful collars, long jabots, etc. Never wear high round collars or tight and tailored shirt fronts . . . as the expanse of bust shown will prove it much too large. Don't use contrasting colors in the waist or heavy bulky materials such as wool or velvet, or shiny fabrics as satin. Loose jackets and boleros are especially good if the sleeves and armholes are well fitted.

GLOBE NEWS & GOSSIP

By JAY GOULD

SAN FRANCISCO, Apr. 25.—Wonder why Marshall Miles, one of the swellest lads I know from out Buffalo and Detroit way, departed so suddenly from Tanforan.

Roy Gardner now has a Japanese, Greek, Mexican, white and a colored boy in his stable. All good boxers. Roy is now in Frisco getting fight dates ironed out.

Lee Thompson, formerly of Chicago, motored down to Aqua Caliente one Sunday with Marie Williams of Oakland, beat the daily double which paid $535.00 for a deuce, and stopped in San Diego and paid $500.00 cash down on a Buick. When Alonzo Carter beat the double for $700, he took his wife, Kate, to Hot Springs, and now take their mail at the Pythian Hotel.

Ernestine Porter, Bal Taborin show producer for the last 3 years in L. A. has a dozen pretties parading the floor nightly.

Ernest Marshall, one of Frisco's top sports, went to the front for Wuddie White when he landed in Frisco from Mexican immigration officers and bought him a first-class ticket to Vancouver.

Lester Mapp has reopened the Bay Meadows Smoke Shop, which folded under peculiar circumstances and is now doing a good business.

Club Alabam has a fine outfit. Vernon Alley, bass; Barefield, tenor sax; Wilbur Baranco, piano; and packs them in nitely. Vernon Alley is vice president of the Hot Music Society and Ofay Jam Session Club. . . so they have lots of followers.

New York delegation that seldom misses Hot Springs is Bob Carter, movie fame; Jack Rivers of the Monte Carlo Club, Dr. Bushon of insurance fame, Trivy Woods, Roscoe Barnett and Ed Small. Gus Greenlee, Wooger Harris and John Henry Lewis, have not missed the Springs for years.

SAN DIEGO FLASHES

Mabel Ramsey Rowe with a big neon sign, corner 2nd and Market, with Joe Robinson, mgr. doing the best business in the city, which keeps all employees busy on the jump with Al Watson's band a terrific draw.

FRISCO FLASHES

The Brown Sisters played 5 weeks at the Embassy Club (Ofay Spot) to a nitely packed house. Have been asked for a return engagement after making a picture with Duke Ellington in Hollywood, go to Portland for 3 weeks at a swanky club.

Chester Marant of the Town Club has found a lovely with a sizeable bank roll and a '40 Dodge which seems to be very interesting. Best of luck, Chet..

Ace Adams has turned very business-like. He doesn't play the nite spots like he used to. It can't be lack of cash as he still sports his '40 Oldsmobile.

Boots Mayfield, who has been enriched to the tune of $2500, is in Frisco for a pleasure jaunt en route to Seattle and Vancouver.

Jack's Tavern under new management is doing O. K. Saunders King and his combo open this week and this gang is truly mellow.

The Town Club with Jim Roberts, Fred Pugh and Cheat Marant, with Fay Hollis and Eileen Glass are the tops in Frisco.

Grover Woods' Cleaning shop, has folded and he is now taking his mail at Vallejo.

Carl Harris, the Monterey play boy, is opening a club in Vallejo. We do wish you good luck, Carl.

Speck Clarke, formerly of Jack's Tavern is in the ailing room at the San Francisco Hospital with arthritis and a bad pump. Here's wishing you a speedy recovery, Speck.

Cleo Foster, the Frisco playboy, was operated on two weeks ago and is very much worse, owing to the fact he loves to gamble. . . When he should have been resting, he was trying to win.

Mrs. Lewis of the Club Alabam really puts out lovely food. When you are real hungry, Mrs. Lewis will give you all you can eat.

Lenora Calhoun, the Frisco play girl, can be seen nightly ankling in and out the swanky nite spots alone! (Why?)

Kay Gaylor and Helene Walker, formerly of the Guest House are now taking their mail at Murray's Dude Ranch at Victorville.

OUT BOWIE, MARYLAND WAY

Matt Smart, trainer of renown, has some likely looking two-year olds parading at Bowie. It wouldn't surprise if one of these stepped down at 20 to 1 soon.

Taps for S. H. Dudley, of vaudeville fame, who recently turned to training horses. Dudley passed away earlier this spring.

Harry A. Dyson, noted D. C. lawyer, who always proclaims he will never again return to the races, will probably be out as soon as his fever runs high, which happens when one or two long shots pop in.

Robert Smith, proprietor of the Little Mayflower Cafe in Baltimore, can be seen ankling in and out of the daily double lines, where he has had unusual success with the big payoffs.

No Bowie Spring meeting would be the same without Dr. Goodloe, Dr. Beckley, Joe Evans, and Phil Cuney being present to welcome in the sport.

Have you ever seen a dream walking. Well here's a dream that was running and WON. Mrs. Vivian Peters, wife of Cortez W. Peters, typist of national renown dreamed that The Queen won first time at Bowie, but unfortunately did not lay a bet. The Queen won a 11 to 2. The pretty missus won't be looking out the window next time.

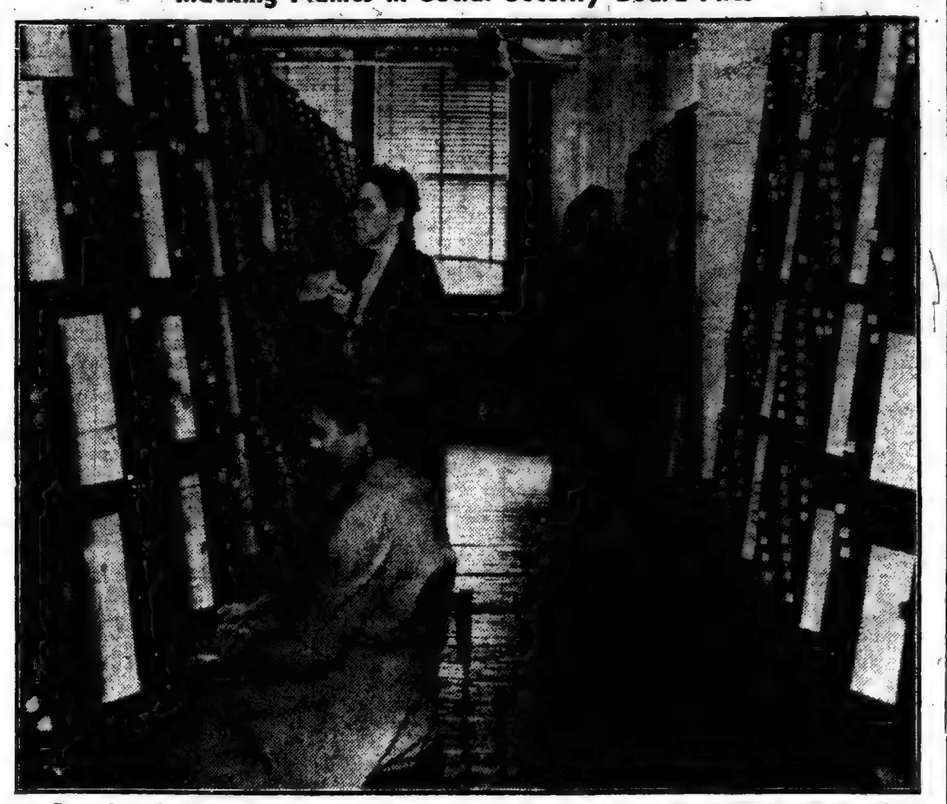
Mrs. E. T. Moore of Oakland. Miss Josephine Johnson, Miss Edith Nesbitt, Miss Reta Thompson, Mrs. Ethel Blackman, Mrs. Lydia Newton, Mr. George (Tiger Floyd) of Oakland, were some of the few that were having a gay time at Jack's Saturday night.

Mrs. Dolly Strange of Oakland is living in the big city again.

Tommie Jordan is doing nice business in the restaurant at Jack's Tavern. Keep up the good work Tommie.

For further information write or wire JAY GOULD, manager, New Sutter House, 1951 Sutter street, San Francisco, California.

Calif. Counties Will Have Theme Pylon at '40 Fair



Ground has been broken for the towering theme pylon to be located in the California Counties' Plaza de la Fiesta on Treasure Island and which will be completed when the 1940 Exposition opens on May 25. Assisting California Commissioners Gordon F. Irvine, left, and J. C. Berendsen, right, in the ground-breaking ceremonies is pretty Miss Jill Turner, who had just completed her tryout for one of the big Exposition shows. The pylon will be 60 feet high and will have multi-tiered fountains and pools lighted by all the colors of the rainbow in an ever-changing pattern.

Child's Health Day Slated

A large group of mothers and children are expected to participate in the celebration of National Child's Health Day at the Community Health Center, 4920 S. Central avenue next Wednesday at 4:30 p. m. The Mothers' Clinic, the Marriage Guidance Institute, the Community Health Assn., and other civic organizations are cooperating to make this program both interesting and helpful.

At this meeting free feeding kits will be presented to mothers with young babies, and milk will be given to all children. Brief, interesting and instructive talks will be given by Dr. Ruth J. Temple, Medical Director of the Mothers' Clinic; Dr. Carl Elliott Yaeger, General Director of the Marriage Guidance Clinic; Rev. J. L. Caston, pastor of Trinity Baptist church and others.

'40 Fair Recreation Chiefs

The most extensive public recreation program ever assembled is being arranged by the Committee on Recreation of the California Commission for the Exposition. After a recent meeting on Treasure Island to perfect their plans three of the committee engaged in an impromptu softball game with a girls' team from San Francisco State College. Left to right: Commissioners Irene Erdman, umpiring; Herbert Erskine, chairman of the committee, catching; and L. E. Bontz batting.

Radio and Movie Writing New Class at Jeff

Because of the swiftly increasing demand for trained writers in radio, motion pictures and newspapers, a new class will be formed at the Jefferson Evening High school which will offer an intensive 20-lesson course in those subjects, it was announced this week by William T. Smith, the instructor of the new class.

Special emphasis will be placed on the preparation of moving picture and radio scripts, which fields are now wide open for the trained writer, according to radio and film executives. The new course is planned to include talks and demonstrations by various well known figures in the radio and film industries.

According to Edwin L. Martin, principal, the new class will be open for enrollment on Monday. Those who wish to enroll must do so promptly, he pointed out, if they wish to obtain the full benefit of the new class. There is no fee. The classes meet Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights.

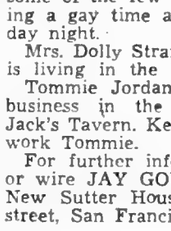
Rush '40 Fair Farm Exhibits



R. V. Garrod, chairman of the Committee on Agriculture of the California Commission for the Exposition, pauses in his tour to select exhibits for California's Hall of Agriculture to show an olive tree to pretty Miss Vivian Turner, who has just finished trying out for one of the big Exposition productions. The agricultural exhibit for the 1940 Exposition which opens May 25 will be bigger than ever, Garrod declares. Virtually every big agricultural agency, organization and division in the State will be represented.

TESTED RECIPE

By Frances Lee Barton

COOKS are cooking cookies when the frost is in the air. Or perhaps the word is "baking." Confidentially, I don't care. I only know that cookies are now munched 'most everywhere, and the little tip below will assure your friends their share.

Coconut Orange Cookies

2 cups sifted cake flour; 2¼ teaspoons double-acting baking powder; ½ teaspoon salt; 1 teaspoon cinnamon; 1 cup oatmeal; 1 cup butter or other shortening; 4 teaspoons grated orange rind; 1¼ cups sugar; 2 eggs, unbeaten; ¾ cup shredded coconut; 4 tablespoons milk.

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, salt, and cinnamon, and sift together three times. Add oatmeal. Cream butter and orange rind thoroughly, add sugar gradually, and cream together until light and fluffy. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each egg; then coconut and blend. Add flour, alternately with milk, a small amount at a time, mixing thoroughly after each addition. Drop from teaspoon on ungreased baking sheet, placing far apart. Bake in hot oven (400° F.) 10 to 12 minutes, or until done. Makes 4 dozen cookies.

Illinois & Chicago Invite You to the AMERICAN NEGRO EXPOSITION

TO COMMERCIAL EXHIBITORS:

This gigantic spectacle offers a golden opportunity to place your merchandise or services before the vast throngs who will attend this 60 day Negro World's Fair. A limited space is available for exhibits of this nature. Write immediately for complete information.

FOR THE FIRST TIME in history, the Negro will have a real Exposition detailing his past and his glorious achievements in the 75 years since emancipation. Murals, diotamas and exhibits will graphically tell the dramatic story of the race's great part in building America.

The State of Illinois has set aside $75,000 to aid the Exposition. Government departments, federal agencies, foundations, institutions and individuals of both races are cooperating wholeheartedly. Whole sections will be devoted to displays of the Negro's contributions to every phase of American life. Pageants, dramatics, motion pictures, special days, noted leaders and many other special attractions will be featured during the duration of this epoch marking event.

Plan now to be in Chicago between July 4 and September 2. It is a national celebration which no Negro can afford to miss. Never before has there been an event comparable to this mammoth observance of the 75th anniversary of Negro freedom. You owe it to yourself to visit the American Negro Exposition, the most amazing event ever conceived.

SOCIAL LEADER GOES VISITING

Mrs. Geneva L. Wallace, above, wife of prominent medico Dr. A. L. Wallace, left yesterday via Southern Pacific for points South and East.

To be gone more than two months, the well known social leader will visit in Oklahoma, Louisiana, New York, Washington, D. C., Michigan and Illinois.

Mrs. Wallace leaves behind two sons, stalwart students of McKinley Junior High school, Andrew Lee and Lorenzo Elbert. With their father, the lads will keep home fires burning while mother's away.

ITINERARY OUTLINE

From Los Angeles, Mrs. Wallace will go to Oklahoma, visiting Drs. D. E. and C. P. Wallace, and Dr. and Mrs. J. Napier at Tulsa. Proceeding to Okmulgee, old home of the Wallaces, the L. A. matron will be lodged with Dr. and Mrs. J. M. Wallace. In Muskogee, she will visit another doctor of the Wallace clan.

A great sentimental treat will be Mrs. Wallace's return to New Orleans, her home, where she taught six years prior to her marriage. After a reunion with her daughter in the Creole City, Mrs. M. S. Paul will accompany her to Washington, where Mrs. Wallace will pay her respects to an old school teacher, Nannie Burroughs, of the famed National Training school.

Continuing northward, the L. A. traveler will visit her sister, Mrs. C. P. Loving in New York, stopping off at Niagara Falls. Detroit and Chicago will round out the itinerary and head Mrs. Wallace toward home.

CHOIR MEMBER

Mrs. Wallace is a member of the Independent Church of Christ choir, broadcasting with that organization each Sunday morning. She is also a figure in the Benjamin Bowie glee club.

THE DISINTEGRATION of the National Negro Congress has at last begun.

With the refusal of A. Philip Randolph to run for the presidency of the organization this week, the first barrage was fired in a war which had been long expected by observers of the racial scene.

The National Negro Congress today is in much the position in which the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People found itself 25 years ago. As this century passed thru its 'teen-age, the NAACP was a young, struggling and radical organization which the old rank leaders of Afro-America feared and disliked. At the time, you remember, the black populace of the nation was suffering a reaction from the conciliatory philosophy of Booker T. Washington. W. E. B. DuBois was the spiritual, if not the actual founder of the NAACP, and for many years the association reflected his hard-hitting extremist tactics.

However, as time passed, the NAACP developed into a highly skillful, less blatant body. Its guidance fell out of the hands of the DuBois cliche and it came under the sway of a group of astute young men whose brilliance ran more to behind-the-scenes manipulation than to the frank, old-time rabble-rousing policies.

Meanwhile, a new generation of "young radicals" was fast growing to maturity. The youngsters found that NAACP sessions did not satisfy their youthful yearning for fireworks. Strategy of procedure was a chief concern of the body, whereas young adherents wanted juicy mudslinging and fiery denunciations. So, the National Negro Congress.

Of course, it would be unfair to represent the NNC as purely an outgrowth of an urge for fireworks. It is certain that the organization has grown to be a legitimate headquarters of leftist Negro thought. In the brief period of its existence, the body has made tremendous strides in power and influence. Wise publicity management and the friendship of the Roosevelts during early formative stages were great aids. In many sections, the NNC has run the NAACP a close second in popular support.

But, like many a successful youth, the National Negro Congress was riding high for a fall. And this week the push needed to precipitate such a descent was roundly administered from the one source that is most damaging — that of ex-president, friend, founder and supporter, A. Philip Randolph.

That the NNC has thus found its first Waterloo is no surprise to newspapermen and well-informed persons throughout the nation. Trouble was expected for two specific reasons, (1) increasing outside leftist domination of the organization, (2) its failure to achieve any outstanding accomplishment helpful to racial progress.

Taking the latter point first, this failure was made particularly apparent in the face of the consistent and unprecedented procession of victories piled up by the "reactionary" NAACP. Within the past two years, the older body has staged a brilliant spectacle of "brains over prejudice". In Maryland, NAACP lawyers topped all performances when they secured a court order demanding equal pay for colored school teachers in Anne Arundel county. So vital a victory was this single

Klan Flogger Convicted

ATLANTA, May 2. (ANP)—The first dent on Ku Klux Klan terrorism in this state was made last week when Henry Cauthen, Klansman, was convicted here of the flogging of P. S. Toney and sentenced to the maximum punishment under Georgia law, 12 months on the chain gang, six months in jail, and a $1,000 fine.

Cauthen, red-haired Baptist deacon, who led his night riders in a terrorization campaign against Negroes and whites, was the first to be tried of 16 Klansmen indicted.

Seeks $25,000 in Damage Suit

George Pitts, 13-year old son of John Pitts, well known in fraternal and civic circles, will seek, through a suit filed in the name of his father, to recover damages totaling $25.000 it was learned in a brief filed by Atty. Loren Miller last week. The youth suffered painful injuries when struck by a "B" line LARY street car near 18th and Hooper.

Dr. Morris Returns from North; to Speak Sunday

DR. CHARLES SATCHELL MORRIS, minister, educator and orator, who returns to Los Angeles Saturday morning following a tour of Northern California will be guest speaker at both regular worship services of First A. M. E. church, 8th and Towne avenue, Sunday. An overflow audience is expected to greet him at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.

During the past two weeks, Dr. Morris has been appearing in Northern California before large audiences in Sacramento, Oakland, Berkeley, Palo Alto, San Francisco San Jose, Stockton, and Fresno. He returns to Los Angeles directly from Fresno where he speaks Thursday and Friday nights under the direction of Rev. L. S. McNeil pastor of Carter Memorial AME church, and president of the local NAACP.

Dr. Morris' sermon subject on Sunday will be "The Spirit of Christ in Action". In the evening his theme will be "The Search for the Best". Special music will be furnished by 8th and Towne's choir, directed by George R. Garner. Dr. Morris was invited several weeks ago to fill the pulpit by the pastor, Rev. H. Mansfield Collins, during his absence in Detroit at the General Conference of the AME church.

Hundreds at Gordon Rites

PART OF the huge crowd at funeral services for little Dorothy Gordon, 9-year old slain kidnap victim. The rites, held at Cornerstone Baptist church, E. 14th and Naomi avenue, attracted playmates of the girl, friends of the family, acquaintances and the "just plain curious". It was the largest crowd in the history of the little church, of which Dorothy was a member.

Large Crowd at Dorothy Gordon Rites

Friends, Curious in Final Tribute to Kidnap-Victim

The largest crowd ever to attend any service at little Cornerstone Baptist church heard last rites said over the body of 9-year old Dorothy Gordon last Thursday afternoon.

Located at 14th street and Naomi avenue, the church, of which the slain girl was a member, was overrun with friends of the girl and the family and the curious. Hundreds crowded the walks and street outside the building.

Rev. D. C. Austin, Cornerstone Baptist pastor, officiated at the services, Conner-Johnson was in charge, with the remains being interred in Evergreen cemetery.

Kidnaped last Mar. 5 at 16th and Hooper as she was going home from an Easter pageant rehearsal at her church, the Gordon girl was found murdered April 19, approximately six weeks after she was first reported missing.

Her kidnaper-slayer, said to be a middleaged white man, is still at large.

The Rev. Austin, in his sermon, charged his hearers with the responsibility of using more diligence in the upbringing of their children and urged that the moral standard of the community be raised.

Messages of condolence were read and brought by numerous organizations and civic, fraternal and business leaders.

The entire funeral attachments were donated the stricken family of the dead child by Conner-Johnson company, which was in charge of the services.

GETS REWARD!

Announcement was made today by the Eastside Citizens' committee that the payment of the reward fund, which was $250 offered for the finding of the remains of the kidnaped child, Dorothy Gordon, will be given at the Cornerstone Baptist church, 1428 E. 14th St., at 8 p. m. on Monday evening, May 6.

Frank Roman, a white employe of the Broadway Florist, found the body of the child while digging for carpet grass.

Will Be Shot If Warning Unheeded

Warned to Keep Gambling Business Out of Indiana

CHICAGO, May 2. (ANP)—Tiny coffins, containing black dolls, shoofly, black-spot "gigs" and other bad luck omens have been delivered to the homes of Ily Kelly, William Driver and the Jones brothers in the past several days, according to reliable sources. The symbols, along with the messages, warning the policy kings to keep their gambling business out of Indiana, predicted that they would be shot if this was not heeded.

Kelly and the Jones brothers, policy lords of Chicago's southside, reopened their gambling and policy haunts last week after they had been closed for weeks by police order and subsequent indictment of the Jones trio on charges of income tax evasion.

Messages to the various policy kings were identical. Pinned to the clothing of the black dolls reclining in the coffins, they read:

"Rest in peace.

"If you pull even one drawing in northern Indiana you'll catch up' with what Walter Kelly got."

Walter Kelly, brother of Ily Kelly, was shot to death Jan. 8, 1939 as he stepped from his automobile on Chicago's southside. At the inquest, testimony indicated that Walter had paid out $185,000 in four years for the privilege of operating the numbers games in Gary, Ind.

Hundreds have returned to Ily Kelly's gambling establishment on E. 51st street since he reopened with policy, keno, blackjack, poker, chuck-a-luck and dice games.

$2,000 for Burial of Fire Victims

JACKSON, Miss., May 2 (ANP)—The House last week approved a bill to donate $2,000 for emergency hospitalization and burial expenses for the 200 victims of the South's most tragic fire. The bill called for $5.000, but was cut to $2,000 by a committee considering the measure.

Burial of the fire victims presented a problem to undertakers who appealed to the city for grave diggers. Working without sleep since the Rhythm club fire Tuesday when the place of merriment became a blazing furnace, undertakers cited conditions at the funeral parlors as chaotic.

Undertaking firms, according to information given Mayor William J. Byrne, would have faced bankruptcy if forced to meet obligations on burial benefit policies. Burial expenses, voted by the legislature, aided this condition. The Red Cross also aided where burial policies could not be met and to help those that could not be financed.

Reports are that the Red Cross disaster relief fund has reached $2,000, almost all contributions made locally. Mayor Byrne announced that approval of a WPA project to meet the need for gravediggers had been requested.

DIES AFTER JOKING WITH UNDERTAKER

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 2—"You're the last person I want to do business with," joked William Albey, 48-year old tailor, with B. R. Butler, mortician, last Sunday evening, during an idle conversation. One hour later police reported Albey dead from knife wounds, inflicted during a quarrel with another man.

MAX YERGAN NAMED PRESIDENT OF NEGRO CONGRESS IN CAPITAL

Randolph States He Opposes Policies; Fay Allen Elected to Vice Presidency

WASHINGTON, May 2. (ANP)—A. Philip Randolph and the National Negro Congress came to the parting of the ways here Sunday night when, in the final meeting of the body, Randolph stated his difference of opinion with the trends indicated in the meeting and refused to be reelected to the post he had held continuously for the past three years.

3000 delegates attended the convention, held in the Labor auditorium.

Opening his speech, Randolph said:

"It was reluctantly that I consented to serve as president of this organization when it was first organized in Chicago. I sent a wire notifying the organization that I was not in a position to serve. However, I accepted the presidency when elected. At the second congress in Philadelphia, I declared it was impossible for me to continue as president of the congress, as I was not in the best of health and could not accept the responsibility for the policies of such a national organization. However, I agreed to serve again.

"I have come to the point, so far as I can see, when a departure has been made from the original program. Policies have been adopted to which I agree, and some have been adopted to which I am opposed. I would not be true to myself and because I am opposed to certain of the policies, it is impossible for me to continue as president of the congress," he said.

"Rumors of personal differences between John P. Davis and myself which have been circulated are absolutely untrue. I am very fond of John P. Davis and consider him capable and an able person. We disagree on certain policies.

"I am not in agreement with tieing the National Negro congress too closely with the CIO and I am not in agreement with tieing the National Negro congress with the A. F. of L.

"The reason is plain. When an organization is tied up, it loses in the nature of things its mass character.

ISSUES WARNING

"I am compelled to warn the delegates of the congress against delivering a tie-up with any political organization and there has been some trend to this.

"We have received large donations from the CIO organization and the Communist party. This is not a healthy condition. The National Negro congress must depend upon resources supplied by Negro people alone. The ground for my belief is that where you get your money, you get your ideas and control.

"We disagree on the question of the Soviet Union. I oppose the National Negro congress indicat-

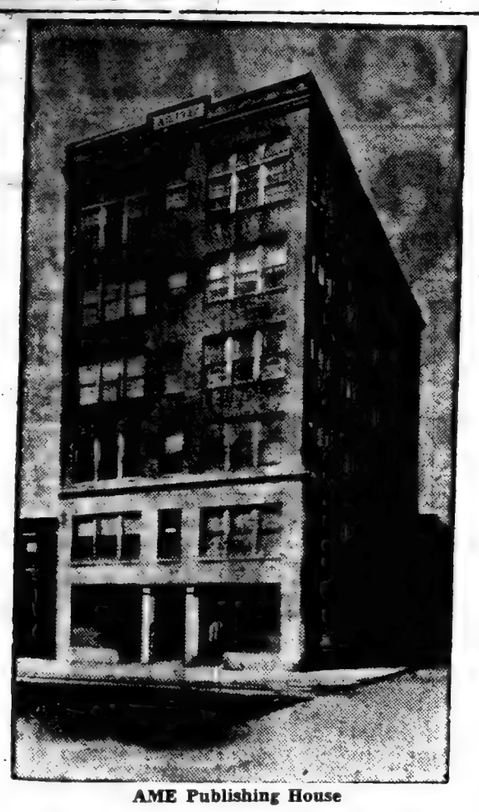
9 Enter Race for Pa. Legislature



PHILADELPHIA, May 2—Nine Negroes will contest for seats in the State Legislature in November, after triumphing in a city-wide primary here last week. They are: Mrs. Willa T. Moss, Republican, 7th district; Russell Allen, Republican, 13th district; Dr. Edwin F. Thompson, Democrat, 13th district; Ralph T. Jefferson, Democrat, 21st district; Paul F. Keene, Republican, 21st district! Rev. Marshall Shepard, Democrat, 18th district; Wm. A. Allmond, Democrat, 7th district; Edward G. Young, Edward Duffy.

Delegates Favor Dr. Curry for Election to Bishopric

BY BAXTER LEACH

DETROIT, May 2—Hundreds of delegates are gathered here for the thirty-first Quadrennial of the African Methodist Episcopal church. Interest is keen in the rivalry for election to the Bishopric among the many candidates that thave thrown their hats into the ring. At this point, it is conceded by a majority of the delegates that Dr. G. E. Curry, manager of the Book Concern, will be elected on the first ballot.

"We need a business man on the bench that has proven himself able to cope with the situation in this period of economic adjustment and no other man in my judgment, measures up to the standard more than does Dr. Curry," said John Shack, Jr., lay delegate from the New Jersey Conference. Shack was expressing the opinion of a majority of the laymen who are very strong in this Convention.

PAYS SUPERANNUATES

The paying of $5 per month to Superannuates, for the first time in more than 100 years, by Dr. Curry, has also met the approval of the delegates assembled here. They argue that any official who rescued the Book Concern from bankruptcy to a position where in a few years it is able to disburse funds for the relief of old ministers of the Church—will continue to carry the Church forward to a high state of efficiency if elected Bishop.

PRESENTS MORTGAGE

The most outstanding work that has been done during this Quadrennium, has been the redemption of the Book Concern building by Dr. G. E. Curry.

He presents the mortgage to the Conference, this week, showing the building clear of debt, after having been rescued by him, from bankruptcy a few years ago. The Book Concern, under his management, is now solvent, for the first time in many years.

Dr. John J. Coss Dies in Flint-Goodridge

NEW ORLEANS, May 2. (ANP)—Dr. John J. Coss, director of the summer session and head of the department of philosophy in the college at Columbia university, New York City, died in the Flint-Goodridge hospital of Dillard university here, Sunday.

Doctor Coss was a trustee of Dillard, Atlanta university, heIO Dillard, Atlanta U., Morehouse college and the Julius Rosenwald fund and in these capacities had become nationally known as a friend to educational enterprises for Negroes.

He was first stricken with a cerebal hemorrage while in New Orleans to attend a meeting of the Dillard trustees in November, 1939. He rtmained at Flint Goodridge for six months after which he returned to his home in Massachusetts. In January of this year, Dr. Coss returned to Flint-Goodridge and again three weeks ago for further treatment. It was during his last visit to the hospital that he suffered another cerebal hemorrage from which he did not recover.

$100,000 Negro Hospital Sought

CLARKSDALE, Miss., May 2. (ANP)—The Cahoma County Chamber of Commerce announced a movement last week to obtain funds for the establishment of a colored hospital at a cost of approximately $100,000. Stressing the fact that a quarter of a million Negroes within radius of 50 miles around Clarksdale do not have the advantages of such an institution, the group passed a motion to incorporate a non-profit organization to be known as the Coahoma Negro hospital.

Celebration at Jefferson High Well Attended

Public School week celebration at Jefferson Evening High school during the week of April 22, was enthusiastically attended by thousands of local residents. Elaborate programs were given Wednesday and Thursday by the Associated Student body and faculty.

Over 600 students and visitors filled the cafeteria Wednesday night where the school orchestra led by the instructor, W. R. Murray, played delightful music at intervals between the show. The president of the student body, Manual Talley, acting as master of ceremonies introduced the principal, Edwin L. Martin who gave an inspiring welcoming address. Miss Girda Norris of the voice class sang a solo which was followed by several models in house dresses from the sewing class. The Cosmotology class offered a number of beautifully modeled coifures followed by a solo by David Eogram. While those interested were looking at the exhibits from the radio, arts and crafts, photography and woodshop classes, the cooking classes served dainty delicious refreshments.

Thursday night the dramatics class held the interest of a well filled auditorium with plays that brought both tears and laughter. The chorus class sang two songs followed by an exhibition by the First Aid Class.

JOHN L. LEWIS AWARDED PLAQUE BY THIRD NATIONAL NEGRO CONGRESS

Only Way Negro Can Better His Lot Is Thru Organization, CIO Chief Says

WASHINGTON, May 2. (ANP)—"I do not know what gives me more pleasure than to be presented with a gift that reveals to me what is in your hearts. Greater than silver or gold or pearls of great value is the respect and esteem of one's fellow man. The things that one remembers is not the amount of money or material compensation but rather that day when he received the thanks and appreciation for something he had done for them."

So said John L. Lewis, president of the Congress of Industrial Organizations at the third annual National Negro congress, Friday night, in the Department of Labor auditorium, when he received a plaque for the work he had done in behalf of workers.

"I am one American, who believes in equality of opportunity for Negro people and I don't try to conceal that fact," Lewis continued. "I am doing what I can to educate them on that point and I want the help and the cooperation of Negroes."

"The only way they can better their lot is through organization. Then only through the power of organization can he help his family and people. Carry the word of organization back to your people."

He was photographed receiving the plaque wth two Negro miners, Thomas Stark of Ohio and Milford Jackson of Pennsylvania.

This speech was made following the radio talk in which Lewis blasted the New Deal and scored them for "broken promises" made to labor in the 1936 elections. Lewis was bitter in his denunciation and there was no mistaking the pointedness of his remarks.

Demanding the elimination of poll taxes and the elimination of lynching through federal legislation, he made a direct appeal for the support of labor as one of the factors thru which this could be accomplished.

He also demanded that the U. S. stay out of war and said the present administration is seeking to obscure knotty unsolved domestic problems by directing emphasis on foreign crisis.

"We of labor call upon other groups of American citizens", he said, "interested in the common welfare to join in demanding that the political leaders of the nation stand by and deliver or give way to those who can."

GREETS CONGRESS

"I appreciate deeply the honor of being invited to address this assembly of American citizens," said Lewis in his opening remarks. "The Negro people have a growing importance and place in American life. The great contribution made by Negro leaders to American life in the past and the even greater contributions which will come in the future emphasize the significance of your fine gathering. I am glad to have this opportunity to pay tribute to these accomplishments.

"Most of the Negro people in this country are wage earners. They are American workers, and as such, they have a common stake in the growth and power of organized labor.

"If it is our mission to save Western civilization, then let us begin by saving it right here in our country. Our responsibility is to save American civilization. We will defend our country. There is work to be done at home."

State Takes Over Jackson College

JACKSON, Miss., May 2. (ANP)—After approval by both the house and senate, a bill authorizing the state off Mississippi to take over old Jackson college and operate it as a colored teachers' training school was given to Gov. Johnson last week for his sanction. Urging passage of the bill the school ground on Lynch street, including 50 acres of land and 9 building, would be deeded to the state by the semi-church organization owning it. The Rosenwald fund has authorized a donation of $30,000 for maintanance of the school and $50,000 additional to enlarge W. P. A. funds for repairs and improvements.

USHA Finds Negro Tenancy Improves Property, Claim

WASHINGTON, May 2, (ANP)—The experience of athe public housing programs in this country indicates that the Negro can be a good neighbor as well as a good tenant, Robert C. Weaver, special assistant for the Administrator of the U. S. Housing Authority asserted at the third National Negro congress last week-end.

Speaking on Sunday afternoon, Dr. Weaver said that the government's low rent housing program has refuted charges of real estate men that Negro occupancy always causes property deterioration. Negro tenants in projects keep their homes clean and neat and take great pride in maintaining the appearances of their projects, he said. Property values in the neighborhoods of these projects had increased, according to a recent housing authority survey.

Likewise, the speaker pointed out, the experience with mixed projects indicates that the two races can live harmonlously in the same projects.

The Government's public housing program is too young to tell what effect it will have on the problem of residential segregation, Dr. Weaver declared "however", he said, "the program has already made an initial demonstration of two important factors involved in this problem; first, that Negro occupancy need not result in the depreciation of property, that the Negro is a responsible tenant in a decent home, and second, that the two races can live together in the same project, that the Negro can be a good neighbor as well as a good tenant."

EMPLOYMENT FOR NEGRO STUDIED

WASHINGTON, May 2. — In furtherance of the action taken by the General Convention of the Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity in New York in August 1939 to study employment opportunities for Negroes there met in Washnigton, D. C., Thursday a committee appointed by General President Charles H. Wesley to draw up a definite program.

Jessie C. Grayson Sings With Choir Tomorrow Night

Mrs. Jessie Coles Grayson, Chairman of the Committee of Management of the Twelfth Street Branch YWCA will sing with the Hall Johnson choir of which she is a member at their concert tomorrow, (Friday) evening, at the Philharmonic auditorium. An enthusiastic group of members and friends is looking forward to attending the concert which is being sponsored by the Los Angeles YWCA.

Mrs. Grayson, prominent in musical, religious, civic and social life of the city, has been chairman of the Committee of Management since 1939, having served as acting chairman after the death of Mrs. E. D. Harris. She is a member of the Board of Directors of the YWCA and of the Functional Committee of the Council of Social Agencies. Before returning to Los Angeles, her girlhood home, in 1936, Mrs. Grayson lived in Portland, Oregon, where she helped organize the Williams Avenue YWCA. She was also chairman of the Committee of Management in Portland. Another event of interest in the 12th Street Branch will be the Sulsiyaki Supper of the Industrial Club Thursday to be held at the Japanese Residence where Miss Maki Ichiyasi will tell of her trip to Japan.

Already dates have been announced for the Griffith Park Girls' Camp from June 29 to July 11. More information will be available on call at the Y. W. C. A., TUcker 9379.

Making their last public appearance before leaving for their home in Chicago, Knowles and Anderson, popular gospel singing duo, will be presented in a final concert next Sunday evening at People's Independent Church of Christ, 18th and Paloma, at 7 o'clock.

Gospel Singers to Return to 'Chi'

Robert L. Knowles and Robert Anedrson, gospel singers of Chicago, who have been on the Coast since October, have accepted an Eastern contract and will return to their home city in time to fill a radio engagement for Mother's Day, they announced today.

Friends will hold an appreciation service for the young singers Sunday at 3270 Hooper avenue. They will leave Monday afternoon at two p. m.

Liquor Sale Banned on May 7

California will return to the "dry" column temporarily on May 7, according to William G. Bonelli, fourth district member of the State Board of Equalization, who reminds alcoholic beverage licensees and the general public throughout Southern California that the above date is the day of the presidential primary election.

Section 59 of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Act reads: "Every on- or off-sale licensee who sells, gives away or furnishes any alcholic beverage in any election district or precinct in any county in the State where an election is in progress, during the hours when by law the polls are required to be kept open for voting, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor."

Polls will be open on May 7 from 6 a. m. until 7 p. m.

Violation of this law is punishable by a maximum fine of $500 or a jail sentence of six months, or both fine and jail sentence, in addition to which licensees will be required to appear before the board to show cause why their license should not be revoked or suspended.

MITCHELL REFUSES TO TAKE 'LOW' AT REQUEST OF SOUTHERN COLLEGE

Invite to Speak at White College Recalled By Officials When B'ham Citizens Protest

WASHINGTON, May 2. (ANP)—Congressman Arthur W. Mitchell of Chicago refused to cancel voluntarily an address before students of Howard college, white, in Birmingham, scheduled for April 25, it was learned here today.

The invitation to have the congressman speak was recalled by Howard officials after whites in Birmingham protested.

The invitation was originally extended on Jan. 9 by Harry Teel, president of the International Relations club; President Davis of Howard, and the I. R. C. faculty adviser, who had heard Mitchell was making a tour of the South this spring. On Feb. 28, he was told by Teel that the date was set for April 25, and he would address the entire student body in the college chapel. Because of interest aroused at Howard, classes were arranged so that a full hour instead of the customary 30 minutes would be devoted to the congressman's appearance and services of the Stockham Negro glee club were secured for music before and after the address.

JOHN W. ROXBOROUGH, co-manager of Champion Joe Louis, who was recenly indicted along with 28 as an alleged head of a Detroit policy ring. (Story on page 1-B).

It was then, after preparations had been made that race prejudice assertedly raised its head. A group of persons who reportedly attempted to block the first Southern Conference on Human Welfare held in Birmingham a year ago, fought the congressman's appearance at the college.

Bringing pressure to bear on Howard officials, they got them to agree to cancel the speech it is charged. They intended, however, to make it appear that this action was being taken voluntarily on Mitchell's part and went to the brother of the congressman, who is a YMCA secretary at an industrial plant and persuaded him to call the congressman. Mitchell was asked to cancel the speech by stating he had learned he could not appear on that date.

The congressman refused.

Baptist Ministers' Union Meets at Second Baptist

The Baptist Ministers' union met in regular weekly Tuesday at the Second Baptist church. Devotions were conducted by Rev. R. M. Marshall. Prayer was led by Rev. J. W. Clay. The following members made reports with 35 additions.

Reverends Marshall, John A. Davis, B. J. Franklin for Zion Hill, R. B. Porter, E. A. Anderson for St. Paul, A. A. Lively, F. L. Taylor. The president announced opening of the doors of Providence Baptist church, of which he is pastor.

Current and religious news was brought by Dr. W. H. M. Dickerson. The Sunday School Exposition was delivered by Rev. A. C. Capers.

Mrs. Bobbie Gywnn, representing the Welfare committee of Ruth's Beauty school, and Mrs. E. Caffee, representing the Nursery dept., were privileged to speak, concerning their respective vocations. The report of the treasurer, Rev. L. M. Curtis, was accepted. Rev. George Mangrum, Jr., was accepted into membership. Dr. Mattheson of Detroit addressed his parting remarks to the Union.

Union Usher Board Meets

The Union Usher Board of Southern California held regular meeting at the Second Baptist church Tuesday evening of last week. With the president, Mrs. C. K. Burgess, presiding, the session considered and adopted several recommendations influencing the Union program.

The Union Drill team is planning a May Fashion tea. The tea will meet at Progressive Baptist church, 1201 E. Vernon avenue on May 9. Rev. R. B. Porter is pastor.

Commander, Joe Lamb was installing officer for the Post. National Encampment Committeeman and Past Post Commander Enic Tate, Master of Ceremonies. Sister Elsie Watson installed the Ladies Auxiliary. The attendance at the installation was approximately 900 persons, largest installation ever held by the Post.

The Ladies Auxiliary installing team put on a beautiful show. The ceremonies were impressive and enjoyable. Music was furnished by the Drum, and Bugle corp; Cornerstone Baptist church quartet rendered two numbers. Boy Scout Troop No. 131, sponsored by Frank Ernest Post, gave a demonstration. After the installation, refreshments were served in the dining room.

NNIW GOAL SET AT 25 MILLION FOR CAMPAIGN FROM MAY 6 TO 11

Golden State Mutual Life Agents Enter Forty-two Company Campaign

With the goal set at 25 million dollars additional protection on the lives of American Negroes in Negro insurance companies, Golden State Mutual Life Insurance Company agents will be among the representatives of the forty-two member companies participating in the National Negro Insurance Week campaign from May 6th to 11th.

The drive is sponsored annually by the National Negro Insurance Association for the purpose of concentrating the attention of the nation on the services rendered by Negro insurance companies. Dr. P. P. Cruezot of New Orleans, La., president of the association, proclaimed the week earlier this week and since that time national and state committees have been working in various sections of the country to make the week the most successful in the association's history. George A. Beavers, Jr., vice president-director of agencies of Golden State Mutual, is state manager for the drive here.

Among the outstanding activities sponsored by member companies and the NNIA was the second annual essay contest for junior and senior high school boys and girls which closed midnight of April 30. Edgar J. Johnson, assistant secretary of Golden State Mutual, is chairman of the state essay committee.

Underwriters participating in the drive will be recognized by blue and white buttons on which are inscribed a pilot and the association name, insignia of the National Negro Insurance Association. Last year Golden State Mutual led the nation in per capita ordinary production and looks forward to surpassing its own record this year.

C. L. TOWNES, Secretary National Negro Insurance Association announces completion of plans for the Sixth Annual National Negro Insurance Week May 6-11, 1940. Mr. Townes is also Secretary, Virginia Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Co., of Richmond, Va.

Publish Names of Contributors to Boys' Home

The names of all organizations and persons who have contributed to the special campaign fund for support of the Boys' Home will be published weekly, beginning next week, sponsors of the Home said today.

An appeal has been made to all churches, clubs and various groups, as well as individual citizens, to contribute $1.00 a month to this institution for homeless and pre-delinquent boys in order that they may be developed into worthy Christian citizens.

Boosters Hear of Social Service

At the regular meeting of the Second Baptist Boosters Sunday, Miss Elizabeth Hampton, well-known social service worker, gave a most interesting and informative talk on the origin of social service work and how it can be perfected to the best advantage.

The Boosters invite the public to attend its Sixth Annual Tea and Fashion Revue, from tiny tots to stylish stouts, tonight (Thursday) at 8:00 o'clock, in the "social hall" of Second Baptist church.

Arthur Peters Is Guest Soloist

Guest soloist next Sunday morning for the regular weekly broadcast presented by the Angelus Funeral Home for the sick and shut-in from People's Independent Church of Christ will be Arthur Peters, well known gospel soloist.

The temper of PATRICK O'TOOLE

THIS is the story of Patrick O'Toole, an Irishman born in County Cork.

Mr. O'Toole was proud of being an Irishman and he was proud of being a good worker, a good husband, and a good man with his fists.

One day, while driving in traffic, Mr. O'Toole had a slight argument with a truck driver about right-of-way. The next thing he knew he was blinking a black eye at the Judge.

"I'll let you off with a fine this time," said the Judge, "but the next time your temper is worse than the traffic, I advise you to ride a street car!"

"Sure, and I will," said Mr. O'Toole.

If it's temper or anything else which might impair your driving ability, we suggest you take a street car or coach. You'll get there safely!

USC Student of Politics Is Woman's Club Speaker

"The eye of the political world is watching the Negro vote, which, if organizde, can control any election," Wilbur Mason, U. S. C. student of Politics, told the Executive Board of the Women's Political Study Club in their quarterly board meet, last Thursday morning at the YWCA.

Speaking on "Organization", he proudly exhibited his sample ballot with the name of Betty Hill thereon, as concrete proof of what organization can accomplish. His closing advice: "Don't double-cross your leader, and however, you vote. VOTE TOGETHER."

Presiding Officer, Beatrice Mason, led a 10 minute panel discussion on such topics as: Jewish Women say No Pure Races, Gov. Lehman and the Jew, Club Women Fight Crime, 20th Century Club urge Adequate Appropriation to Fight Social Diseases, Our Club's Health Program Stressing Prenatal Care for Negro Mothers, Danger Zone in T. B. and P.-T. A. and Undernurished Children. (A morning teeming with interest!)

Luncheon was served to 40, including delegates from San Bernardino, Santa Barbara, San Diego, Riverside, Santa Ana and nearby towns of Pasadena Long Beach, Venice and Santa Monica.

At the afternoon regular monthly council meeting, the Executive Secretary, Betty Hill, gave final instructions for the Council's Mock Senate at Wesley Chapel, May 26, featuring four young "senators" debating: "Shall America Adopt a Law on Birth Control". Mrs. Hill read civil service examniation schedules, a part of the Councils program encouraging our Youth, tomorrow's citizens, to prepare for its place in the economic community life.

The G. W. Wickliffe president has attracted favorable attention of the 13th Congressional District Women to the end that their body sent a letter to Washington, urging passage of the famous Anti-Lynch Bill.

Increased preparation of our young women for induction into citizenship is evidenced by regular additions of Youth Auxiliaries.

In closing the Executive Secretary insisted that each unit make definite plans to interest every Negro voter in registering and voting, since only 29 per cent of voters participate in primaries and 53 per cent in general elections.

Watch this paper for further details of our Mock Senate.

L. A. Railway Operating Costs Up $1,110,000 Year

The Los Angeles Railway has filed application with the California State Railroad Commission asking permission to charge an 8c fare. The application urges the Commission to establish the fare at 8c.

The application, which is supplemental to the original filed on June 7, 1939 points out that operating costs will be increased by $880.000 a year due to the two-man car operation and that a further increase of $230.000 a year resulted from a new labor contract to satisfy a demand of operators for an increase in pay. According to the petition the Los Angeles Railway was $1,149,371.55 in the red on February 29 and "is now facing a greater financial emergency than at the time of filing its original petition."

The application, signed by P. B. Harris, President and general manager of the Los Angeles Railway, specifically asks for an 8c cash and token fare with universal transfers, the discontinuance of the $1.50 Joint Pass.

The petition sets forth further that this request is for temporary relief unil such time as the commission may finish its survey and investigation of street transportation conditions in Los Angeles.

FIRE DESTROYS LOUISIANA SCHOOL

PLAQUEMINE, (La.), May 2.—Fire, of unknown origin, completely destroyed Iberville school here, housing 400 elementary and high school students. Damage was estimated at $30.000, but insurance will cover it and permit the erection of a better building, school authorities said. Classes were not in session at the time of the blaze.

Negro 2nd Youngest GOP Nat'l Convention Keynoter

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 2.—Announcement by the Committee of Arrangements of the Republican National Committee that Governor Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota has been selected to sound the Keynote Address in Philadelphia beginning June 24, also calls attention to the fact that Governor Stassen is the youngest keynoter ever selected.

It is held as a good omen for the Republican party that the able, liberal, aggressive Governor of Minnesota is to sound the tocsin at Philadelphia and to get the convention off to a good start.

LYNCH SECOND YOUNGEST

It is also of note that in 1884, John R. Lynch, a colored delegate to the Convention from Mississippi, was elected Temporary Chairman in the heated contest between the forces of Senator George F. Edmunds of Vermont and James G. Blains of Maine, candidates for the Republican nominations.

Lynch was the youngest selection of the Republican party as a keynoter up to that time and until this year's selecion of Governor Stassen. The fact that Lynch was a Colored Republican being at that time only 36 years of age, was a wide departure.

The Republican Convention of 1884 was a historic one. It was at this convention that Theodore Roosevelt, afterward Governor of New York and president of the United States, made his first appearance at a Republican National Convention. He seconded the nomination of Lynch in a stirring speech. Lynch was elected over General Powell Clayton of Arkansas by a majority of 40 votes.

Lynch was appointed Captain and Paymaster in the regular United States Army by President William McKinley during the Spanish American War, then promoted to Major and Paymaster in 1906, and retired in 1911.

Governor Olson, Jerry Geisler Speak at Women's Breakfast Club Meeting

Gov. Culbert L. Olson and Jerry Geisler, chairman of the State Athletic commission, were guest speakers at the last meeting of the Women's Breakfast club.

Gov. Olson spoke on 'appalling economic conditions", existing throughout the state. Geisler expressed his pleasure in the recently accomplished elimination of color prejudice in local boxing. The two were introduced by Deputy City Attorney Bert MacDonald. Other speakers included Atty. Hugh McBeth, Percy Buck and Mrs. Georgia Robinson, honorary mother of the club.

Many distinguished and fashionably gowned ladies were in attendance at the breakfast. They included: Mrs. Gladys Hampton, wife of the famed drummer, Lionel Hampton; Mrs. Bessie Bruington Burke and mother, Mrs. Bruington; Mmes. Melvina Allen, Emily Troy, Florence Ward, Aurilla Williams, Gladys Hardy, Clara Lassiter, Ella Clark, Josephine Brown, Seth Lee.

The May meeting of the Breakfast club will be on Mother's Day, Sunday May 12 at the Y. M. C. A. A Mother's Day program will be rendered. All women are

Avalon Center Schedules Varied Program Tomorrow

Exciting and interesting examples of sports, art and craft activities conducted by the recreation department at Avalon Community Center, E. 43rd St. and Avalon blvd., will be featured on a program there, this Friday, at 8 p. m.

Two basketball games will be played—one between the Avalon Knights and Avalon Falcons, boys teams and another by the Second Baptist Girls' basketball team. The fast exciting game, badminton, will be played between Miss Juanita Blocker, girls' coach, and Miss Kathryn Hopgood.

Girls and boys who will compete in ping pong games include: Sam Mack, David Carlisle, "Y" tournament champions; Ethelyne Gray and Ermajean Orme. Roller skating, one of the center's most popular activities, will be represented in a roller skating drill.

EXHIBITS

Examples of needlework, clay modeling, water color painting, model aeroplane construction, papercraft, woodcraft, and linoleum block printing will be displayed in the arts and crafts exhibition.

The program will begin promptly at 8 p. m. with the showing of the film "They Can't Get Away With It," a production of the Federal Bureau of Investigation (G-Men) warning youth against crime.

Lillian Jones, recently appointed as recreation director at Avalon, and her able staff, Virgil Gordon, Juanita Blocker, June Loupe, William Clay and Barry Slater have planned this stimulating program. They cordially invite all parents, young people and children in the community to attend.

Chain Broken

The Friendly Neighbors Club Chain has been broken. On last Monday, April 22, 1940, we laid away all that was mortal of Mrs. Addie Goldsmith-Draugh, a faithful member. Her going came as a shock to her many friends. One link out of our chain is missing. The Friendly Neighbors Club will miss this one strong link of friendship. She was a personality that any one might pattern their lives after. We are sorry to loose her, but bow our heads in submission to Him that doeth all things well.

We wish to thank our many friends for their support in helping to make our Spring Luncheon a success. A crowd of good neighbors were in constant attendance from 12 to 5 p. m. at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Ralph W. E. Bledsoe. Mrs. Louise Spiller ,the chairman was confined to bed and could not be present. We are wishing for her a speedy recovery. She is at this writing still very sick. The next meeting will be Wednesday, May 8th at the home of Mrs. I. Wilkes, 1102½ Compton Ave.

Card of Appreciation

To my many friends who made personal and telephone calls and who sent me so many lovely flowers during my recent illness, I take this means of extending to you my heartfelt thanks for same. Words fail me to tell you just how much I do appreciate your kind remembrance . . . May God bless each one of you.

Again thanking you,
Yours Sincerely,
Mrs. Dicy Holmes

From now, guard your thoughts; for if it is true that yesterday's wrong thought gives birth to the trials of today, it is equally certain that today's right thinking will generate joy for the morrow.—Hope La Gallienne.

Golden West Bridge Ass'n Notes

By ELLIS L. VEIL

Due to the fact that your columnist is on a motor trip thru the Southewest, Ray Marshall, the president, will be the mouthpiece of the GWBA for the next few weeks, with bridge news from me, gathered as I travel. We are now in Phoenix and the next stop is El Paso, Texas.

Please do not forget tomorrow night (Friday), the monthly master point certificate tournament. Only 7 players have won master point certificates on the West Coast. We have too many master players to let the above statement remain true for long. The Association belongs to you, so come out and say how it should be run. The Executive Board appreciates constructive criticism.

The Contract Bridge club revives the honorary membership list, two names appear on that list: the originators of sophisticated swing, Duke Ellington and C. A. Moore, (deceased).

Remember it is less than four months until the 8th Annual National Championships, beginning Aug. 19 at Atlanta, Ga.

Rebids seem to find most of our players lacking the knowledge as to the proper procedure to take partners have responded to their opening bid, we should play the hand, but all hands should be played where the best fit is found, regardless of the fact that you hold 100 honors. See if you don't get what we mean from the hand we have for you this week:

North dealer both sides vulnerable. East and West do not bid. North bids one spade. South bids two hearts. North bids four spades, a very bad bid. If he only wanted to pray for game, he should have bid four hearts. I think he should have made a slam try since he has a solid suit and such good support for partner. He got a bad break in the trump suit and it set two tricks when five hearts can be made.

SOCIAL FEW CLUB HAS 9TH ANNIVERSARY, INSTALLATION PARTY

Out of respect and keen sympathy for the bereaved families of Mr. Earnest Reese and Mrs. Katie Lewis, the Social Few postponed their ninth anniversary and installation party from April 20 to April 27.

It was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Marcellus Lemos, 719 E. 33rd St., Saturday evening at 10:30 o'clock. Officers were briefly installed by Mrs. Eva Lee Buckner, president of the La Jovials.

Outdoor Life Unit No. 2 Holds Meeting

The Out Door Life and Health Association, Unit No. 2, met on Monday at the home of Mrs. Bennie Meadows, who was recently elected as Chairman of this district. Mrs. Freda Taft, the outgoing chairman presided. After a splendid luncheon Mrs. Mattie Nelson, formerly the Secretary of the YWCA installed the officers. Assisting the hostess was Mrs. Carrie Miller. Mrs. Freda Taft, Mrs. L. M. Curtis, Mrs. L. Foley, Mrs. F. Rembert and Mrs. H. Wallace. Among the visitors were Mrs. M. Nelson, Mrs. F. Williams, Mrs. Pearl R. Williams, Mrs. S. Hunt, Mrs. F. Carter, Mrs. L. Hanley, Mrs. E. Van Meter, Mrs. J. Smith, Mrs. A. Bailey, Miss B. Curtis, Mrs. Rooks and Mrs. L. M. Curtis. There were 12 members present and among them Mrs. Pinkie Wilson, who always brings new inspiration.

Space will not permit telling of the very good features explained by those whose names were first mentioned, telling of the inside work of the General Body. The Assistance League, of which Mrs. N. B. Hunigan is chairman is sponsoring a contest. All Units are entering a contestant. We have selected one of our most beautiful girls in the district, in the person of Miss Murial Foley, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Foley of 1961 East 113th St. We are asking all clubs to support us in this effort and we believe you will. With your support, we can not loose. The next meeting will be Wednesday, May 15th at 1:00 o'clock at 1809 East 112th St. We are asking that all members be present.

Students Wanted to Compete in Elks' Contest

In keeping with the Elks' educational program, high school students are invited to participate in the coming oratorical contest. Attractive prizes are to be awarded winners of the local contest. The winner in the finals will be sent to San Diego to vie for state honors where bigger prizes will be awarded.

Since 1925, the body of Elks has given away 211 scholarships. There is possibility of the state winner competing for regional honors and receiving a four year scholarship.

Detailed information can be had by calling at the Elks Office between the hours of 10 a. m. and 6 p. m., except Saturday and Sunday.

Those interested are urged to act promptly.

AMANDA E. WOODS

Opening this Sunday afternoon from 3 to 7 the "Fox Piano and Voice Studio", located at 2719 S. Central Avenue, Amanda E. Woods, choir director of the St. Paul Baptist Church, presents to her people and the community an Institute of learning so designed as to meet the requirements and conditions of anyone who wishes to sing or play.

Over the horizon of modern American musicians the name of Amanda E. Woods has soared like a meteor. In 1931 she was virtually unknown in Los Angeles, even to many of those who keep close watch of the musical skies. Yet within a few years she has become without being guilty of over-emphasis an important name in the musical field.

BLACK AND WHITE FACE POWDER

Reginald Harangue Guest Soloist at 8th and Towne

George Garner, minister of music at historic 8th and Towne AME church, invited Reginald Harangue, gifted lyric tenor, to be guest soloist at the special services last Sunday morning.

Harangue, whose unusual talent is giving pleasure to listeners, chose the classic tenor-recitative aria from the oratoria "Elijah" for the appreciative congregation of 500. Immediately preceding the solo, the choir sang an anthem from the same oratorio. Elizabeth Bruce was at the organ. Harangue's excellent interpretation of such music is enhanced by the superior quality of his voice, by the technique of his presentation, and by the extensive training he is receiving for the concert stage. He sings in five languages.

On the occasion of the recent annual meeting of the Women's Home Missionary Society of some 200 women (white), by special invitation from them, Harangue sang at the Hamilton Methodist church of which Rev. S. M. Beane is pastor. Harangue's choice selections were well received and although encore after encore was requested, he graciously yielded the time of the program for the impromptu soloist who appeared. Harangue was presented in concert on February 4 at a salon affair.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

This verse from Proverbs, "The way of the Lord is strength to the upright: but destruction shall be to the workers of iniquity," constitutes the Golden Text in the Lesson-Sermon on "Everlasting Punishment" on Sunday in all Churches of Christ, Scientist.

The Lesson-Sermon presents also these words about Jesus from Matthew: "And seeing the multitudes, he went up into a mountain: and when he was set, his disciples came unto him: And he opened his mouth, and taught them, saying, .. Ye have heard that it was said by them of old time, Thou shalt not kill: . . . But I say unto you, That whosoever is angry with his brother without a cause shall be in danger of the judgment: . . . Therefore if thou bring thy gift to the altar, and there rememberest that thy brother hath ought against thee; Leave there thy gift before the altar, and go thy way; first be reconciled to thy brother, and then come and offer thy gift."

Among the selections from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, are these statements: "The destruction of sin is the divine method of pardon. Divine Life destroys death, Truth destroys error, and Love destroys hate. Being destroyed, sin needs no other form of forgiveness. Does not God's pardon, destroying any one sin, prophesy and involve the final destruction of all sin?"

REV. THOMAS L. GRIFFITH

Spiritualization of the Business Motive

By REV. T. L. GRIFFITH, condensed from a sermon delivered at Second Baptist church during the annual observance of Bigger and Better Business Week by Phi Beta Sigma fraternity.

Proverbs 22:29—"Seest thou a man diligent in his business? He shall stand before kings; he shall not stand before mean men."

Romans 12:11—"Not slothful in business."

The Book of Proverbs approaches the subject of diligence in business from the positive angle, while Paul approaches it from the negative. But as I see it, both have a spiritual outlook in their approach. If they did not have this spiritual angle, neither verse would be found in the Holy Bible as words of admonition.

On last Sunday, the nation was reminded of the great work of Booker T. Washington. Graduates of his institution tell us that this verse in Proverbs was one of his favorite selections, and that he constantly had his students to quote it.

BUSINESS

The conducting of various lines of business is not new in the earth. We read about merchants in the Book of Genesis. In the Book of Ezekiel we have reference to the merchants of Sheba, the great African country from which came the Queen of Sheba. We read also of those black merchants from Midian who brought and sold Joseph. When Jonah was trying to escape from the presence of the Lord, he went down to Joppa and boarded a merchant ship bound for Tarshish in distant Spain, doubtless expecting to make a long voyage from Joppa to Tarshish along the entire length of the Mediterranean Sea. That ship was a trading ship and was filled with merchandise.

The Negro has a background opposite to that of the Jew. While the Negro in the earliest times was a good trader, it seems that he lost his economic advantages when he buried so much of his treasures in the pyramids and other tombs. Those who venture into these ancient graves today, find fabulous sums of wealth buried away in these magnificent tombs. When the Negro lost control of the output of the African gold mines centuries ago, and of the diamond and precious stone mines, he lost his power of self-control, of self-determination and became a subject and slave to others; and lost practically all the advantages the wealth of Africa gaveto him.

But the African was human. Just as he lost his great advantages centuries ago through burying his wealth, so the white man through costly and brutal wars is losing horribly today. The Negro has never regained his advantages and has not been a man of business, but has been forced to take the lowest condition in the industrial life of the world during more than two milleniums .The Negro can come back to power in business, but he will need to adopt spiritual methods; and if you please, become spiritual in his approach to the problem of advancing all the interests of his race.

Let us try now to make an approach to a meditation on the text—"Seest thou a man diligent in his business? He shall stand before kings; he shall not stand before mean men."

The man who is diligent in his business will find in that diligence a rich reward. He will find advancement, honor, standing, reputation, success. He shall not stand before mean men—that is as we understand, not mean in the sense of vile and low, but in the sense of just being ordinary. He will not stand and be admired by men who are of ordinary calibre, but he will be advanced to station among the great men of his time.

But diligence in business will bring any man to stand before the great men of his time. He will stand before kings. Of course, there are various classes or types of kings. You know that not all kings are of the same rank. The king of Norway, for example, may not have the prestige of the king of England, but nevertheless he is a king; and we ought to cultivate the aspiration to stand before the best men of our time ..

A word concerning Opportunities for Negro Business in Los Angeles.

Suppose we say there are 50,000 Negroes in Los Angeles. There are doubtless more than that. Suppose that each person paid an average of ten dollars a year for shoes. That would represent $500,000 spent for shoes by the Negroes of Los Angeles. If some Negro could capture one-fifth of this business, he would provide wages and a living for a score or more of our men and women, and make himself a spiritual helper in the town.

Inter-Racial Cooperation In Negro Enterprise.

So far as I am concerned, I will not preach race hatred to encourage the Negro to enter the do it, and besides it is wrong. Racial life is so intertwined in this country that the Negro cannot live without the white man; and the white man cannot live without the Negro. If all white people shut completely down on the Negro, the race would starve in less than a month. The white man owns the land, and you and I might as well recognize the fact whether we like it or not, that whoever owns the land will rule it. He owns the banks, the transportation facilities, the cities, the commerce, the schools, and holds mortgages on most of the property owned by Negroes. We must get along with this white man. He is far from being a perfect creature; but this can be said of him: Some white man will always be found to help any Negro who wants to achieve any kind of success. Roland Hayes and Marian Anderson have succeeded in the field of music not without the help of white people. The same can be said of Joe Louis and Henry Armstrong. It was true of Frederick Douglass and Booker T. Washington.

If we would spiritualize the business motive, we must not attempt to build race business on the basis of hatred or retaliation. We must learn how to open our shops and compete with any others in the same fields; and build your business on the basis of your own worth and not on prejudice against any other race. The world is not going to patronize you on the ground that you are a Negro and need the business; but the world will make a beaten path to your door if you can offer them the same for your money that anyone else can offer. Do not talk against either the Jew or other races; build your business on your own abilities and on the merits of the things you may have to sell.

Despite the criticism which many of our leaders of Negro professional and business life make agaainst the Negro church and the Negro minister, they represent the most outstanding and successful business enterprises and business men we have, and their success has been built on the principles outlined in the preceding paragraph—not of talking against churches of other races and groups, but of trying to give the people what they want and making the most of the means they have at hand. More churches have survived the crisis of these depression days than any other institution, and whether you want to agree with us or not, the preachers are the main business managers of the churches.

Calvary Baptist Sets Dedication

Calvary Baptist church of Santa Monica will dedicate its recently constructed outdoor Baptistry Sunday morning, the pastor, Rev. W. P. Carter, announced today. Following the dedicatory services, 26 candidates will be baptized. The 26 are a portion of 56 additions to the church welcomed in a recent revival conducted at the church, which is located at 1907 20th street.

The public is invited to attend this special Sunday service. Dinner will be served free of charge on the grounds. An old-fashioned time will be enjoyed by all.

REV. J. D. PROVO

Church-goers are enjoying a great treat at Calvary Baptist church, 1031 E. 52nd place, between Central and Wadsworth, where Rev. J. D. Provo of Oklahoma, is conducting a great revival meeting. Soul-stirring sermons are preached by him each night and souls are being won for Christ. You are urged to be present and hear this great gospel preacher. Come and be with us and we will do thee good!

Edward Price Is Second Baptist Octet Speaker

Last Monday night, the Second Baptist Octette held the first of a series of informative meetings in the social hall of the church. Guest speaker was Edward Price, specialist in landscaping and flower arrangement. Price has spent 7 years in this field of study, is a graduate of Tuskegee Institute and at present, is studying at Frank Wiggins trade schools which holds class meetings on the beautiful Griffith Park grounds.

Of this inexhaustible subject he spoke on four points: simplicity, balance, color harmony and arrangement. During the talk, various questions were asked which added to the interest and helped with the several flower problems. In keeping with the discussion, the Octette sang "By the Bend of the Rivers" and "God Touched the Rose." Margarete Pett sang "The Birthday". The pastor, Dr. T. L. Griffith, gave the closing remarks. Sara Johnson very gracefully presided over the program. At the close, Florence Crawley, efficient hostess, directed the guests to the table that was artistically arranged in red and white as the color scheme, and a three course lunch was served. The guests numbered about 25.

Says Church Is Main Agency for Progress

WASHINGTON, May 2. (ANP) —Speaking here Saturday in the panel on cultural freedom in one of the sessions of the National Negro congress, Dr. George E. Haynes, executive secretary, department of race relations, Federal Council of Churches, said that the Negro's church is the principal agency for advancement of the race.

"The Negro's church has tradition built up over more than 150 years; it has actual and potential membership larger than most other Negro organizations combined; it has property resources and money assets; it has leadership among the mature men and women of training, experience, character and vision and a large youth following," he said.

TO CELEBRATE 55TH ANNIVERSARY

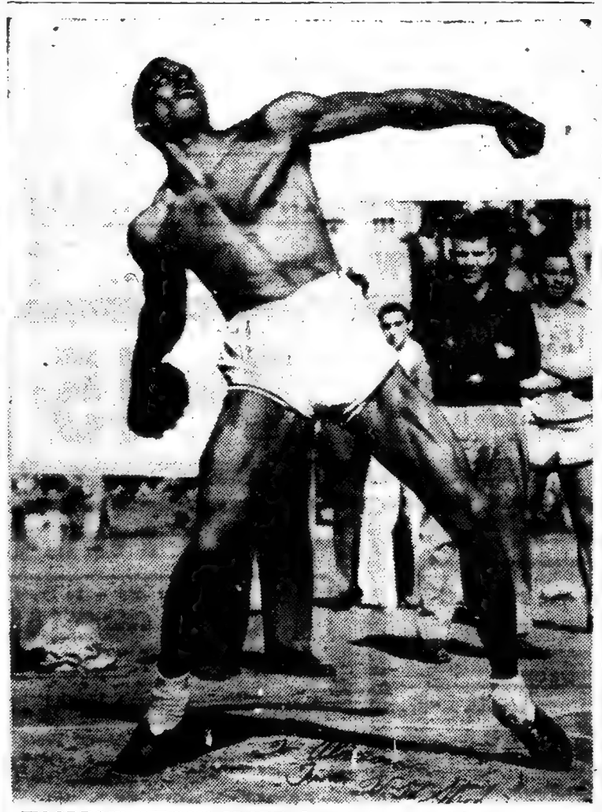
Supreme Liberty Rated Among Leading Companies



CHICAGO, May 2. (ANP)—With a gain of $8,404,939 insurance in force for 1939, the Supreme Liberty Life Insurance company of Chicago moved up to 32nd place among the 76 leading industrial life insurance companies of America, according to a report appearing in the April issue of the Industrial Salesman, national white insurance publication.

Supreme Liberty's record of progress during the last five years has won it the distinction of being one of the fastest growing companies in America. Ranking 43rd among leading industrial insurance companies in 1935, Supreme Liberty moved up to 40th place in 1936, 37th in 1937, 36th in 1938, 34th in 1939 and 32nd in 1940.

The magazine also listed Supreme Liberty as one of the 12 industrial insurance companies having the largest increase in insurance in force for 1939. The company has almost 200,000 persons insured for nearly $50,000,000. It employs 750 colored people and operates 35 branch offices in 9 states.

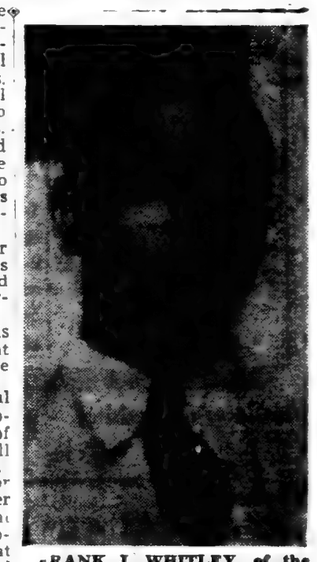
Kunin Furniture Co. Offers Bargains in Cedar Chests

As a particular highlight of the current week, the Kunin Furniture Company of 4700 South Central avenue is offering a real bargain on beautiful cedar chests.

Pledged to principles of real community service one is able to buy fine furniture at low prices.



Because of the new enlarged home of Kunin's Furniture store this reliable concern is able to carry a large selection in all lines of furniture, radios, ranges, refrigerators, and water heaters.

Since the opening of this bigger and better store a few weeks ago home makers have been loud in their praise of the superior furniture obtainable at this store.

However, one finds in this store the same courteous efficient service that has always made buying at Kuinin's a pleasure.

We wish to call to the special attention of all June brides-to-be this wonderful opportunity of buying a cedar chest that will last yet is so reasonably priced.

This store is open evenings for your convenience, and remember at Kuinin's Furniture Store at 4700 South Central you can obtain everything for the home at a modern store where quality and economy go hand in hand.

Gold's New Streamlined Clothing Store Nears Completion; Plan Gala Premiere

With extra construction crews working day and night at top-speed, every effort is being made to complete the handsome, streamlined building that is to house the new Gold's Clothing Store, adjoining the Gold Furniture Company on Washington Boulevard near Central avenue.

And in just a few weeks, following a Gala Premiere showing for friends in this community, the general public will be invited to the Grand Opening of what is destined to be the smartest Family Clothing Store in this city.

As a mark of gratitude to the hundreds of families in this community, whose confidence and patronage at the Gold Furniture Company store have made possible the construction of this beautiful new clothing store, Mr. Morris Gold plans a gala 3-day premiere, during which his countless friends and neighbors will be invited to preview the new clothing store before it is opened to the general public.

"We will never forget the many old friends who have been responsible for the rapid growth of our furniture business . . . and because we have constructed this modern new building to provide them with a clothing store in which their families may be able to select their apparel needs in an atmosphere of comfort and convenience, we plan 3 gala premiere days during which our old friends will be first to preview the new store and the wonderful stocks for the season's newest and smartest apparel at prices that will speak louder than words," explained Mr. Gold.

FREE GIFTS

"Every family who attends our gala premiere," continued Mr. Gold, "will be presented with a lovely gift as a memento of the occasion. And the present charge accounts of those who have patronized our furniture store, whether their account is now active or not, will recommend them for a budget or charge account at the new clothing store.

"It will be our policy to price merchandise to meet or beat the prices of the leading cash and charge account stores in this city. We will NEVER be undersold, and our patrons will pay the same low prices whether they buy for cash, or use the modern 90-day budget plan or longer term charge account service. There will be NO extra charge for these conveniences!"

FAMOUS BRANDS FEATURED

Mr. Arthur Sachs, who for many years has been importantly identified with the clothing industry in this community, and who will be the general manager of this beautiful, streamlined clothing store, said: "Folks today want only the best quality of apparel, and we have fortunately secured franchises that enable us to feature nationally advertised lines. In the ladies section, for instance, we will be the exclusive dealers in the famous Betty Linden Frocks, the well known "Monterey" sportswear; Catalina beachwear; Kayser Hose and countless other equally well known brands.

"Our men's store will feature the nationally famous lines of ultra-smart Hollywood styled suits, Mallory hats, Cooper men's hose, Arrow shirts, Hollyvogue cravats and a complete showing of the quality-famed Florsheim shoes," continued Mr. Sachs.

DEPT. FOR CHILDREN

"Believing that the youngsters of today are the men and women customers of tomorrow, we have given especial thought and attention to the designing of a complete department for junior apparel, where children of every age can be outfitted from the tops of their bright, curly heads to the tips of their twinkling toes!"

Clothing for growing boys and girls must be selected with an eye toward economy and the other eye focused on wearing qualities. We have painstakingly selected junior apparal that will take the strain and strife that it is put to by active, healthy youngsers. And during our gala premiere, there will be free gifts for every boy and girl who attends whether purchases are made or not.

COMPLETE JEWELRY DEPT.

One of the most attractive departments in this smartly modern new store will be the Jewelry Department, in which only the most known nationally advertised brands of fine watches, diamonds, clocks, silverware and modern costume jewelry will be featured, in an atmosphere that will assure every comfort and convenience to patrons.

INTERIOR STREAMLINED

Every new development of the science of interior design will be found in this beautiful modern family clothing store. Wide traffic aisles; full- vision merchandise cases and counters; personal fitting room; airflow ventilation; scores of other modern innovations will assure patrons of every comfort and convenience while they shop leisurely between 9 in the morning and 9 at night in the soon-to-be-opened Gold's Family Clothing store.

'Activity Week' at YMCA May 12 to 18

There will be a full week's program given at the 28th Street YMCA, from May 12 to 18th, in which the public will be invited to come in and see what the "Y" is doing for the community with boys, young men and men.

The activities will be mostly from the Physical Department, showing the various ways in which one can enjoy the facilities in the association for a better and finer recreational program.

Opening activity will be a Mothers' Day program, under the supervision of W. E. Easter; Wednesday, a boxing show, N. O. Houston in charge; Thursday, the "Y" players in their first public appearance, directed by Clarence Muse; Friday, a swimming program and Splash Party, U. S. Griggs in charge and supervised by Leslie Bisco; Saturday night and final activity the "Y" circus, Melvin Nickerson, H. A. Howard, Clarence Smith and John Brewer, assisted by Eddie Lynn.

Field Day for Fly Fishermen

Trout fishermen who disdain the use of any lure but a fly should have a field day along the streams and lakes of the High Sierra in Inyo and Mono counties with the opening of the season yesterday.

This is the report received from Automobile Club of Southern California outing scouts who have just inspected the water between Lone Pine and Bridegport.

With few exceptions, the trout are surfacing in the lakes and rising in the streams. Clear streams in most sections mean that for the first time in many seasons, flies can be used with a chance for success early in May. All of the snow is gone below 8000 feet and weather conditions have been ideal from the angler's point of view.

Creditors Receive 3rd, Last Checks

CHICAGO, May 2—Creditors of the Douglas National bank, at one time the only Negro national bank in the country, received their third and final checks last Thursday, making a total of 46.26 per cent paid them in dividends since the bank was forced to close its doors during the depression in 1933.

Douglas has lead all other banks in the community in the total amount of dividends paid to creditors. Binga State bank has paid 27.5 per cent; Lincoln State, 4 per cent; Citizens Trust and Savings bank, 31.7 per cent.

Metropolitan Loses Verdict

ST. LOUIS (Mo.) May 2—A verdict for $1222 against the Metropolitan Life Insurance company was rendered in favor of Mrs. Jessie Love here last week. Mrs. Love is administratrix of the estate of her son-in-law, who died from stab wounds inflicted by his wife, Mrs. Hopkins' daughter.

The insurance company contended that the wife would profit by her act and if the mother should recover on the estate, the wife could claim a widow's allowance.

Attorneys for Mrs. Hopkins pointed out that the policy contained no clause voiding it in case of death by murder.

Pay Boost Irks Mississippi Solon

WASHINGTON, May 2—Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi was moved to ire here last week when the Senate voted passage of an amendment, increasing the salary of Judge Herman Moore Federal Judge in the Virgin Islands, from $7500 to $10,000 per year. Senator Harrison voted against the measure, which passed, stating that he could not see why a Negro should receive the

Roxborough Alleged Policy King

8 Cops Included Among 28 Negroes Arraigned in Detroit

DETROIT, May 2—In the most recent grand jury indictment which charged former Mayor Richard W. Reading, Prosecutor Duncan C. McCrea and 133 others of accepting or paying money to permit policy games to operate, were 28 colored, including 8 policemen.

Heading the list of alleged policy operators who were arraigned Apr. 24, are John W. Roxborough, co-manager of Joe Louis, heavyweight champion; Thomas "Rooster" Hammond, Irving Roane, and Everett I. Watson, manager of Roscoe Toles.

One colored woman was named in the warrant, Miss Louise Thrower, 32, alleged cashier for Watson.

The 8 colored policemen named in the indictment are: Detectives Joe L. Harris, David Marshall, Casper Peek, William Simmons, Detective Sergeants Rex Smith, George Rutherford, Patrolmen Alfred Perry and Earl Moore.

All were released under $1000 bond.

Fined $25 for Offering Rides

ST. LOUIS (Mo.) May 2—For disturbing the peace by offering young Negro girls money to go riding with him, William Schalbert, white produce merchant, was fined $25.00 in city court here. Schalbert was hailed into court after a 12-year old boy whom he had asked to send girls to him, reported the white man's license number to the school principal, who notified police.

Cornetist, Fire Victim, Buried

INDIANAPOLIS, May 2—Funeral services will be held here Saturday for Paul L. Stott, 22-year old cornetist in Walter Barnes' band, who died in the Natchez, Miss. fire last week.

Stott's cornet was the last note of music heard during the fire as the band tried desperately to quiet the frenzied crowd. Stott was the only cornet player in the band and bystanders said it was the music of a cornet which they heard as the roof of the dance hall fell in.

NEWSPAPER BACKS THIRD PARTY MOVE

CHICAGO, May 2, (CNA)—The Chicago Defender this week endorsed the proposal of John L. Lewis, CIO head, for a Third Party movement of Labor, progressives and the Negro people. "John L. Lewis has taken the lead in a direction with which Negro America can certainly find no fault," the paper stated editorially.

NEWARK (N. J.) May 2—Only if the ingredients being tested by the scientist in the above picture meet his exacting requirements will they be accepted and used in making Feen-A-Mint, the famous chewing gum laxative. This is but one of 66 searching tests which Feen-A-Mint must meet before the product is finally compounded and shipped to all parts of the world. Thus, with its staff of highly trained scientists working in modern laboratories, the makers of Feen-A-Mint protect the high quality standards which have helped make Feen-A-Mint such a reliable and widely known laxative. Users can rely on Feen-A-Mint for welcome, pleasant relief of constipation and be assured that every pure white tablet of this delicious chewing gum laxative has been made and tested by modern methods in great modern laboratories.

Oakland Group Victors in Job Campaign

OAKLAND, May 2. (CNA)—The Citizens Committee for jobs for Negroes won its second victory since its recent organization when it got an agreement from Leco's Market, on 7th street, West Oakland, to hire a colored girl. The Committee is headed by Rev. H. T. S. Johnson, pastor of Taylor Memorial Methodist Church. A mass picket line at Romley's market had previously persuaded them to hire a Negro at union wages for six hours daily and 8 hours on Saturday. This served as a great encouragement to the entire community, so that within two days Leco's marke immediaely followed suit.

The committee has now thrown a mass picket line before another store which has refused to hire Negro help. It is also picketing the DeLuxe Chili Parlor. This restaurant at first tried to hide behind a technicality, stating that the place was unionized, herefore the entire matter was up to the union. The committee immediately blocked this attempt by going directly to the union, whereupon the joint board of the Culinary Workers Unions, A. F. of L., agreed to cooperate with the committee.

Market Signs CIO Contract; Hires Negro Help

Announcement that Burns' Market at 4150 S. Central avenue, has signed a CIO contract, giving a 50-cent an hour minimum wage, and will hire Negroes only, was made today by the Southside organizing committee. The committee issued a report on its drive for more jobs for Negroes.

A survey made of jobs in the Eastside area, the committee stated, shows that stores, which are supported by from 70 to 95 percent Negro trade refuse to hire 50 percent Negro help.

The committee applauded the Burns Market for its gains, which it termed "progressive." Securing of another job for a Negro in the meat department of Morgan Brothers' Market at 53rd and Central avenue, was reported by the committee.

The committee said it is negotiating with other stores in the area and anticipate success.

Real Estate Quiz Course Planned at Jefferson

An intensive 10-week quiz course, preparatory to the June examinations for real estate brokers' license, was announced yesterday by Edwin L. Martin, principal of Jefferson Evening High school.

The course will include:

Questions similar to those used in previous state board examinations, together with answers as found in the California Real Eestate Act; definitions of legal terms commonly occuring in real estate transactions, fully explained and exemplified; self examination questions each week to help the student keep track of his or her own progress; dramatic portrayal by the students in real estate procedure. Students will act out real-life situations as regards real estate procedure, thus receiving visual aid in learning; discussion of real estate problems to be met with in various circumstances; discussions of present economic trends and their possible effects on Los Angeles real estate, as reported by various business authorities; brief historical outline of the origin and development of land laws, and their value to civilized society exemplified; discussion of real estate ethics.

SHARP NAACP LETTER TO BARKLEY CHALLENGES PARTY ON MOB BILL

Senator, Smarting Under Criticism for Silence on Bill, Says Ass'n Is Unfair

NEW YORK, May 2.—The fight to pass the federal anti-lynching bill at this session of congress is receiving the mass support of large sections of the American people "white as well as colored," whose "resentment is steadily growing at the apparent complete failure of the Senate leadership to initiate or even contemplate the initiation of any determined effort to secure action" on this bill.

This was the sentiment expressed by Walter White, executive secretary of the NAACP in a sharp letter to Senate Majority Leader, Alben W. Barkley, (D.) of Kentucky, and made public by the NAACP today.

In makin gthe letter public White said: "We are putting the issue squarely up to the Democratic leadership of congress to affirm our charges of inaction and attempts to scuttle the bill, or demonstrate its sincerity by passing this legislation."

White challenged Senator Barkley to prove that he has lifted a finger to call up the anti-lynching bill or made any real effort to discuss ways and means of pushing the bill either with the Senate sponsors of the measure, or with the NAACP, which is leading the fight to get it passed.

CHARGES FLY

The statement was a reply to charges made by Senator Barkley in a letter dated April 22, and also made public by the N. A. A. C. P. today, that the N. A. A. C. P. secretary had "resorted to tactics utterly contemptible" and had made "untruthful" statements in describing in a previous letter, the senate leader's failure to support the bill.

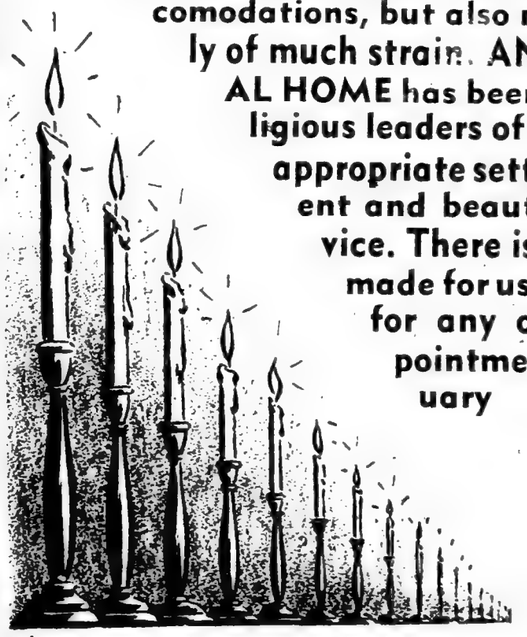
Barkley also accused the N. A. A. C. P. of arousing his constituents through the Louisville Defender, a Negro weekly paper in an effort to "build a fire under me by sort of local intimidation."

MARY M. BETHUNE GOES TO HOSPITAL

WASHINGTON, May 2—Mrs. Mary McLeod Bethune, director of Negro work for the NYA, and founder-head of Bethune-Cookman college, will be confined to John Hopkins hospital for at least 8 weeks, physicians said this week. She may undergo an operation during that time.

SUPREME COUNCIL OF MASONS WILL MEET

DETROIT, May 2—The 59th session of the United Supreme council of the Prince Hall Masons, will be held here May 11-14, Sumner A. Furniss, 33rd degree Mason and sovereign grand commander, announced.



A new and original type of popular magazine, the first of the digest family to be issued in the Negro field, will make its publication next month, with the publiaction of the Negro World Digest, the cover of which is shown above.

The new magazine will approximate the popular "Readers Digest" and will fill the same need in the Negro field, according to the publishers. It will sell at 25 cents a copy.

Negro World Digest will be an attractive, pocket-sized book of varied selection of upwards of 30 articles and stories condensed from the best Negro magazines and books, and other literature. The articles will be short, authentic and authoritative.

While we are equipped to provide funeral services either at the home or at the church, we usually suggest that services be held in our funeral home. Use of our facilities not only provides more convenient accomodations, but also relieves the family of much strain. BLACK AND WHIT

With the month of May doing a fadeout, and the June bugs in the shrubbery getting tuned up for the summer, everything in the stage and screen world here should accordingly be swinging into high. But it is not, I am sorry to relate, for there are only a small number of sepians working this week in the studios at film making, and vaudeville for them has slowed down to a creep.

Harry Levette

Why in the whole town there is only one colored floor show among all the nite spots, none at any theatre, except the added talent on Duke Ellington's show at the Orpheum, and not any too many individual entertainers at cocktail lounges and grills. Of about three score chorus girls ready, willing and able to twinkle their toes for the delectation of the "tired business man" and the rest of the public, there are actually only four working. These are all at the Bal Taboran where clever, business-like little Ernestine Porter is producer and who also entertains with a clever specialty.

COUNTRY AWAITS RELEASE OF WASHINGTON FILM

Million Dollar Productions' recently finished picture, starring Kenny Washington, is now passing rapidly through the cutting room, that cold-blooded realm, where so many future careers wind up on the floor, or in one of those big canvas-lined boxes where the unwanted celluloid clippings fall and remain until next stop which is the incinerator. But rest assured, the handsome face of the famous Bruin halfback will not be "the face on the cutting-room floor," because believe it or leave it," the earnest, hard-hitting smasher of opposing gridders can also really emote. He did a fine piece of work, and you needn't take my word for it; veteran directors and cameramen who know more about the movies than I, praised his work highly. Of course, the parts of three football games played abainst "Carleton" and "Union," during the process of the story were "right up his alley", no acting there, just hitting the line, as he did during his past three eventful years at UCLA. But in the less familiar business of make-believe, he was a big surprise to all. He was so good in the love scenes with his leading lady, Jeni Le Gon, that onlookers remarked that they had a faint suspicion he had found time for plenty of practice among feminine admirers of his prowess on the gridiron, during his college days.

x x x

Exhibitors all over the country began clamoring for the picture weeks before director Leo C. Popkin and producer Cliff Sanforth had put it in the can on record time, and a number of theatres have signed up contracts at early dates. The world premiere will be staged here according to present plans, and large crowds are sure to attend during its run. And now heads or tails, what brand of news, in short pants will you have next, the movie low-down or the stage and Nite Club info. Well the silver dollar landed straight up in a crack, so here you are with the stage and Nite Club stuff first.

x x x

The Bal Taboran, as previously mentioned is the only nite spot with a complete colored floor-show, and it's very much abbreviated. Produced by Ernestine Porter, the other girls in the fast dancing line are Nettie Mitchell, Lucy Battle and Vivian Webster. Lucille Hall, with a record of 4 years is still there as popular as ever, while other entertainers "Sleepy" Williams, Evelyn Meyers and Rose and Dean. Cleo Brown received a royal welcome by Hollywood nite lifers, and also by her radio audience, which grows larger every day. . .Strut Mitchell, perhaps the best known of the veteran nite club entertainers is "at liberty," at present, for the first time in years. . . Sunshine Sammy Morrison former star of Hal Roach's "Our Gang" comedies, is dividing his time between occasional movie work and nite club entertaining. . . Baby Mack who took a much needed rest most of the past winter, is as popular as ever both with the ofay vaudeville fans and the Sepians who have not had an opportunity to hear her "sell" her songs for too, too long.

Jean Douglass, whose pretty jet black eyes are smiling at you in a full length picture in another colume this issue, has been receiving many compliments and congratulations, from both colored and white, since she placed second to Jeni Le Gon in a nation wide contest for the part of leading lady to Kenny Washington. Several hundred girls including thirty-five from Los Angeles had entered the contest for the important role of Myra, faithful sweetheart to Kenny in the story. In a try-out at the downtown office of director Leo C. Popkin, when Joan, Ruth Phillips and Florence O'Brien made practice readings of the lines, Joan's diction, expression and tone impressed all with the fact that she is not only a born actress, but has had excellent training. While in the Oklahoma City High school she played leads in a number of "Little Theatre" plays, later continuing her dramatic studies at Langston university.

She also has an excellent family background, the Gambles and Stuarts being prominent in Tulsa and other Oklahoma cities. Her aunt, Mrs. Anna O. Stuart, is Dean of Girls' at Booker T. Washington school in Tulsa, and WHO'S WORKING THIS WEEK?

Central Casting Bureau held open house this week for the first time in the history of the institution. Howard Philbrick, new general manager, allowed any movie player, of any race the privilege of coming in person and contacting the officials. Complaints, interviews, information and other matters were given the personal attention of the dynamic new head, who has brought "the dawn of a new day for the movie extra."

Chas. Butler, who if justice is done, will again occupy a desk in the Hollywood boulevard and Western avenue office, had few calls from the studios for his colored players, but with a number of new pictures coming up, work will soon increase. With his usual excellent selection, he placed the following on Monday:

At Warner Bros.-First National: Henry Hasting started in a new untitled feature with director Keighley of "Green Pastures" fame.

At MGM in "Phantom Raiders," with director Jacque Tournier, Madam Mozelle Te Outley and Calvin Fuller.

At the Conway-Rosen's new studio, six athletic type tall men were cast by Butler as follows: Elias English, Roland Jones, Sam Jackson, Darby Jones, Richard Penson and Morgan Roberts.

In Ralph Cooper's new picture for the Supreme company, an independent all-colored cast organization, the largest number of extras and featured players have been working for the past week of any other studio in Hollywood.

Louise Beavers is in as great demand as ever, having been sought by Paramount and Warners the same week . . . Hattie McDaniels started her long awaited personal appearance tour at Glendale to rousing ovations . . . Mantan Moreland started in a new Frankie Darro feature last Tuesday. The two are beginning to pair up like Eddie "Rochester" Anderson and Jack Benny.

Ralph Cooper's new feature entitled "I am guilty," which is just being completed this week at Sunset lot by Supreme Pictures, has a large and excellent supporting cast, most of whom worked in other of Cooper's films for Million Dollar. The story is that of a physician, with Cooper, in the sympathetic role of "Dr. Dunbar." Sibyl Lewis is "Joan Freeman;" Pigmeat Markham is "Pigmeat;" Lawrence Criner is "Trigger Bennett;" Monte Hawley is "Tracy;" Cleo Desmond is "Granny;" Sam McDaniel is "John Jones;" Arthur Ray is "Dr. Freeman;" Alfred Grant is a young doctor, Clarence Brooks is "Police Lieut. Harris;" Lil Randolph is "Mrs. Jones;" Jesse Lee Brooks is "Dr. Fairchild;" Ida Belle is "Mrs. Smith;" little Marcella Moreland, 5-year old daughter of Mantan Moreland, is "Marcella;" Vernon McCalla, a judge; Reginald Fenderson is "Slick;" Millie Munro, a nurse; Edward Thompson, "Atty. Stafford;" and Guernsey Morrow is "Pete," a gangster. The director is Sam Neufield, assistant, Mel Delave, and head cameraman, Bob Cline.

MANTAN MORELAND, famous former stage comedian started in a new feature with Frankie Darro at Monogram yesterday. Fans predict that the pair wil become as inseparable a team as Jack Benny and Eddie "Rochester" Anderson.

Stage-Screen-Radio

KENNY WASHINGTON, famous UCLA All-American halfback, starring in "Gridiron Graft," his first of three features for Million Dollar Productions, is caught here by the cameraman in a romantic pose with Jeni Le Gon, his internationally famous leading lady. In the story, they are schoolmates at Gilmore College with Jeni in the role of "Myra." Leo C. Popkin was the director of the all-colored cast thriller, featuring sensational football games and battles against the crime element.

Maurice Evans Returns in Famous 'Richard II' Role

Maurice Evans, who so recently enthralled local playgoers with his "uncut" production of "Hamlet" is to return here in a short time with his earlier and even greater success, "King Richard II." Such is the good word that comes from the management of the Biltmore Theatre Los Angeles. The brilliant young star—unquestionably America's Shakespeare actor No. 1 is booked to appear there as King Richard on Thursday, May 9, for 10 days only. Matinees Wednesdays and Saturdays.

Mr. Evans really is re-producing "Richard" at this time for the especial benefit of the western cities where his "Hamlet" was given so royal a welcome earlier this season. He has received scores of letters from each of these cities requesting that he return immediately in his famous portrayal of the gay, debonair but unfortunate young king who was the first English sovereign to abdicate. He felt that he could not ignore these generous expressions of esteem, so, immediately upon the closing of the "Hamlet" tour, he reassembled his first "Richard" company as nearly as possible, and ordered the beautiful original production of fourteen scenes partially rebuilt and entirely redecorated.

Short preliminary engagements of "King Richard II" in Boston and New York are only dress rehearsals for the western tour. The latter is the sole reason for this revival. This is one time when there is a New York "tryout" for a production that is primarily intended for the road, reversing the usual procedure.

New York, of course, knows its "King Richard II" thoroughly. Its record there, is 203 performances, an all time American Shakespeare mark outnumbering the stars' own Metropolitan "Hamlet" run by 67, and John Barrymore's by 102.

A company of over forty is required for "King Richard II". The supporting cast is headed by Donald Randolph who will play the dominant role of the implacable usurper, Bolingbroke, who forces young Richard to step down from his throne; and Carmen Mathews who acts Richard's dolorous queen.

Playgoes will not have to eat their dinner hurriedly, or forego it entirely, to see all of "Richard," as they did in the case of the Evans "Hamlet." Richard begins at 8:30 and ends at 11.

JOAN DOUGLAS, of Oklahoma City, who won second place in a month-long nation-wide contest, held by Million-Dollar Productions to select a leading lady for Kenny Washington, in their recently completed film, "Gridiron Graft." Joan, who is athletic as well as talented, is caught here in tennis costume. She played a minor role in the Kenny Washington film but is slated for a larger one in the next one now under preparation.

Cash Prizes for Film Title Still Available

Apparently believing that the contest has ended, entries for the title of Kenny Washington's first picture recently completed by Million Dollar Productions, have stopped coming in. It will be open one week longer as the feature is near completion of editing in the cutting room. Only a half dozen local persons have tried out for the honor and cash of naming the famous picture. Why don't you try?

Select a name that refers both to football and the suppression of attempts by gamblers to corrupt it and you may win the $25 that will positively be paid by the Gold Seal-Million Dollar company. Second prize is $10, and the third or consolation prize is $5. So hurry and get in the game.

Band Leader's Remains Sent to Chicago

Girl Singer With Barnes' Band Also Loses Life in Fire

CHICAGO, May 2—The body of Walter Barnes, orchestra leader, who was burned to death in the disastrous dance hall fire in Natchez, Miss., last week, arrived here this week for burial.

It was received by Barnes' wife, Mrs. Dorothy Barnes, who acted as secretary of her husband's band. Mrs. Barnes had returned to Chicago three weeks ago. She was prostrated by news of her husband's death. The couple had been married 7 years.

Barnes was the only Chicagoan in his band. He made Chicago his headquarters, although he was out of the city on dance tours 9-10ths of the time. He came to Chicago in 1923 and became one of the country's foremost orchestra leaders. At the time of the tragedy, the band was booked for dances throughout the Southland.

The girl singer with the band, Juanita Avery of Dallas, Texas, lost her life in the holocaust. Lone survivors were Arthur Edwards and Oscar Brown, both of Denver, Colo. Two former members of the band, Ellis Whitlock of Louisville and Frank Greer of Nashville, had just left the band the night before the tragedy.

Other members of the orchestra who lost their lives are: Jesse Washington, Vicksburg, Miss.; John Reed and James Cole, Huntingdon, W. Va.; Calvin Roberts and Harry Walker of Cincinnati; Paul Stott, Indianapolis; Clarence Porter, Fort Myers, Fla.

ROSE JOHNSON, talented pianist and singer is a great favorite among the theatres and nite clubs of the Bay Cities, especially at the Club Dixie in San Francisco.

Benefit Jamboree Set for Saturday

There will be a Benefit Jamboree, given by the Negro Motion Picture Players' asso., Saturday at the Masonic Hall, 50th and Central avenue. Dancing will be continuous from 8 to 12. A floor show will highlight the evening. A cash door prize will be given and refreshments will be served.

LAURA BOWMAN, beloved famous Lafayette Player, is now making her home in Los Angeles. Her first picture here was the recent Hollywood Productions "Son of Ingagi."

Set Hearing on Showing of Film

CHICAGO, May 2—The fight to ban "The Birth of a Nation," now showing in a new sound-tracked version at a local theatre, received an unexpected setback Tuesday in Circuit Court. The Civil Liberties committee, asked to intervene in the case, charged that the city has no right to censor any film because such would be an infringement of free speech. The presiding judge granted the committee's plea, setting a hearing for May 9.

Ignore Vote Cast for Slain Solon

CHICAGO, May 2—A "dead man is not a person" within the meaning of the law, the election commissioners ruled on Saturday in a statement issued by them that they would ignore the vote cast for Andrew Torrance, slain member of the Illinois State legislature.

Torrance was murdered on election eve by a disgruntled ward worker who later committed suicide.

Joseph E. Snowden, Southside attorney, who was running against Torrance for the Republican nomination to the General Assembly, will replace Torrance as the Republican candidate.

MONTE HAWLEY, according to inside information, has attracted the attention of Geo. Raft because of his very close resemblance to him. He is said to be under consideration as a double for Raft.

She is seen here as she led her own band aboard the palatial gambling ship Rex, then a floating Monte Carlo.

NOTES ON A SCRATCHPAD

By Bill Smallwood

Jimmy Landrith is the name of the white drummer now working out at the Harlem Cafe. Wise move on somebody's part, and bears watching. Certainly gets our okay. And blessings. Surely hope will be exchanged like that. Landrith got his break into attention, etc. when Popsie Hampton began using him around town on all these guest appearances etc. he finds time to make. Amazing feat. Popsie, incidentally will pick two sepia girl vocalists and two whites via Al Jarvis' Face the Music program this coming Saturday over KFWB. Should be a riot. He and Al want all the girls who think they can sing to come out. And to remember, too, that La Fitzgerald, the Great Ella, and Helen Humes and Mildred Bailey, etc. all got their first break that same way. Pops is set for a film, too, dig I buzz ya?

Our folks boycotted Ellington's dance in Oakland. Slick booker charged us a dollar a head and the whites got in for sixty-five cents, on their night. Duke, of course, was merely a victim of circumstance, but couldn't help finding a bad taste in his mouth over it. That's really common as a racket, in 85% of the towns. . . Band really ran up a luscious box office all-time high at the Orpheum. Had 'em crying for more. They shove off Sunday night for Ogden. Sure was swell having you fellows here, no kidding! Sure hate to see you leave. And give our love to ole Bway. . . sigh. . .

I like: Eddie Beal's keyboard work and mike-technique at the Latin Quarter, when he takes over Lois Galloway, Art Tatum's vocal stylist find, is just that. She's got a style all her own and has you both ears and eyes when she's working. Her face is mask-like and makes a striking study. Later, she confided to us she's really next to scared when she's singing. But she's the best thing we've heard in months. Good luck, Lois.

THE WAX WORKS. Ellington's disc of "You, You Darlin'" best shows Jeffries as improved. He's now a natural and Stray-horn has made him discard all those grating alone-on-somebody's corral ballads and facial and body contortions. Straynor claims Herb's a willing worker and should hit the jackpot before long. . . Earl Hines is at his recent best on "Boogie On St. Louis Blues." And Calloway's wax of "Paradiddle" (correct sp.?) without a doubt is Cozy Cole at his individual best. Cozy is getting to be like old wine, gets finer as time goes. He gets in some arresting riffs and wire brush treatments on this wax that sounds like a train. But we can't define the title. Interesting listening: the arrangement now being used via air which gives a bolero twist to the old Volga Boatman tune.

Certainly VERY few fine things on wax than Elling on Rose of the Rio Grande. . . And what Lawrence Brown does with his trombone should be written about in glowing terms for a decade. . .

Tangent: Every third town in America seems to have either a Douglass or a Dunbar Hotel!

Add tangent: Confusing, at first glance, the identical names of Richard Wright, the author, and Richard Wright, the Bishop's son. . .

• ASHFORD RAMBLES AGAIN

Friends, Negroes and our numerous "bugle-head" buddies.

An increasing amount of oddity in headshapes prompts us to open "Ashford's Salon of Tonsorial Jive" where those with "saddle," "square," "slope" and "plateau" shaped noggins will be given special attention. Special clippers have been secured for this hazardous undertaking.

SHRINE BAN

Refusal of the Shrine Auditorium officials to rent to the brethren of color after the riot which occurred during the last Jimmie Lunceford struggle, was caused by residents of that district, who secured an injunction prohibiting Negro affairs there indefinitely.

No use in crying over spilt milk, but some people were just born to "mess-up".

LITERARY TALENT

"Banjo-eyed" Bob Van Meter, who clerks Uncle's mail at night and seniors at UCLA during the day is in the "embryonic literary genius stage," according to fellow students. His last short story was read at the monthly meeting of the short story classes and professors.

Descriptive of the lad's work was manifested earlier this semester, when Van Meter submitted a manuscript only to have his Prof. tell him bluntly that his work was copied, because he wasn't capaple of writing such stellar stuff. After conference with a few other of our hero's works, he was finally convinced.

THE "BREATH OF SCANDAL"

Folks would be more than surprised if they knew the names of the two big financial partners who are in court, quibbling over one another's alleged misuse of personal funds . . .

Death of Lillie Mae Davis thru childbirth at the Angelus hospital was due to nothing but neglest, according to reports. Two previous cases, of which we have knowledge, almost met a similar fate had it not been for alert parents. One of said cases is at this moment prepared to take legal action against the institution and the psuedo-physician connected with both outrages.

John Law is hot on that Vernon and Central after-hour spot; some local "importers" using the joint as a "weed" center.

STORK FLYING NORTH

Little Patsy Sims (nee Patsy Brewer)of San Francisco and Doris Mitchell Drisdale, Oakland, are both expected to enter northern hospitals this week-end and increase the census takers' worry.

DUKE'S SHOW TOPS IN PRESENTATION

The title, The Best Band Presentation of the Year fits adequately our impression of Duke Ellington's stage show, which had the best support of local talent yet. Jitterbugs Kenny Greenway and Esther Hynes walked off with first prize last Thursday nite as a result of actually dancing, while the rest of the contestants stuck to customary native African hip throwing tendencies. Forgot to add that Rex Stewart's trumpet solo in "Boy Meets Horn," along with Ben Webster's tromboning will be hard to forget.

However, we have yet to experience the thrill received when Count Basie first played his superb rendition of "Miss Thing" at the Paramount.

"Fats" Waller and his band are due in around the latter part of the month for a week's swing at the Paramount.

Dial KFWB at 10 p. m. nitely for Art Tatum's ivory playing, which is really something to get excited about.

CANDIDATES FOR UCLA GRADUATION

After racking their brains for lo these four years at one of the toughest universities in the country, scholastically speaking, the coveted goal of graduation will be reached this June by Emily Mason, Hortense Ellis, Marge Stokely, Fay Thomas, Martha Waugh, Bob Van Meter, Tillman Thomas and Bob Green. The latter three are postal clerks and "creepers" by night and schoolboys by day.

STOCK SITUATION REVISED

After due conference with the accused couple from San Francisco, Sybil and Lawrence Lewis, whom we reported selling bogus stocks three weeks ago, we are of the opinion that they were merely used as pawns by a purported stock promoter of ill repute who painted rosy pictures. Contracts were sold by Lawrence, but cash was returned upon his personal discovery of status of stock.

Until such time as "Negro Movie Stock" can boast of a few assets (not of the frozen variety either) and fewer wildcat stock promoters running around with one boot and one shoe on, trying to "trim friends and fleece people," we say "thumbs down."

WHILE WE THINK OF IT

Wilma Browne, she of the dimple cheeks, has departed for New York and points East for the Summer . . . In case you've forgotten, Lois Stockton walked off with the Kappas Declamation Contest; is one of the best of the Poly High Student Body . . . The Chapman College Men's Return, or in other words, a swank dinner dance found the entire colored portion of the institution frolicking at the Altadena Country club last Friday nite . . . One of the town's most beautiful young mothers, Dorothy Arnaud Lee . . . . Kappas have gone hook, line and sinker for softball; able Bob Green, who has successfully developed players and teams and is responsible for a degree of the enthusiasm the game has on the Eastside, will coach.

Brooks Loses Olympic Tiff

Polite Scores K.O.; Jackson - Pacho Top Tuesday Bill

Al Smith, white, proved too hard a nut for Jimmy Brooks of New Orleans to crack and the latter was technically kayoed in the fourth round of their top bout, scheduled for six rounds, on a card of five si-rounders at the Olympic Tuesday night.

For the first three rounds it was fairly even and then Smith found the range and Brooks was saved needless punishment when referee Benny Whitman halted hostilities.

Jesse James Jackson of San Diego appeared to rate the nod over Mexican Carlos Miranda, ambidexterous welter, but referee Frankie Van decided in favor of the latter.

In one of the shortest bouts ever seen at the Olympic, Richard Polite threw two punches and Zeke Castro went down and out. It was a 34-second knockout for the New Orleans boy.

Carlos Chavez outpointed Nat Corum in six; and Memo Llanes shaded Clyde Alexander in the opener.

Next Tuesday, on another card of six-rounders, Johnny Jackson meets Bobby Pacho in the top bout of the evening.

13 Sports Editors Join Fight on Jim Crow Ball

NEW YORK, May 2, (CNA)—Thirteen college sport editors of New York's college newspapers this week took up the fight to end the ban on Negro players in organized baseball as plans were made to drive the campaign for full democracy in the National Pastime over the top in 1940.

The sports editors joined the campaign at a luncheon attended by 25 collegiate press representatives. The meeting was the first of a series to be held during the remainder of the college year to organize student opinion in favor of lifting the jim-crow ban in the major leagues.

LILLIAN JONES, recently appointed Director of Recreation at Avalon Community Center,' who will preside as chairman of the "Community Night" program there this Friday at 8 p. m. Exhibitions of sports, art and craft activities will be features of the program.

Happiness Charity Club

The Happiness Girls were beautifully entertained by Mrs. Bessie Baily of 1003 East 51st St., April 24. It being the birthday of Happiness Girls, Mrs. Louise Maxie, special arrangements were made. Mrs. Burly served a turkey dinner with all that makes a birthday dinner complete. After the table was cleared a beautiful white and pink cake with happy birthday on it was served, and the present presented to Mrs. Maxie, at which time the song, "Happy Birthday to You" was sung by all.

Guest of the day was the charming Mrs. Christopher, an aunt of the hostess, who I must add is a beautiful character.

This being social meeting, president Alma Randall introduced the guest to the club, and Mrs. Christopher proceeded to tell the club of some very lovely things, among them, that she had organized a club in Texas called the Progressive Women's Charity club which is still functioning.

Far past dosing hour the ladies bid each other adieu to meet with Mrs. Katie Cecil of 2069 W. 31st St., Wednesday, May 1, 1940.

McDaniels to Defend Dixie Net Crown

Expect Arnold to Be Strongest Foe May 9 and 10

TUSKEGEE, May 2.—The 14th Annual Championships of the Southern Intercollegiate Tennis Association will be held at Tuskegee Institute, May 9 and 10. Championships will be decided in men's singles, men's doubles, women's singles and women's doubles. The winner of the men's singles will play the winner of the Colored Intercollegiate Athletic Association single's championships for the National Intercollegiate singles championships Wednesday, August 21 at Wilberforce University. This match is held annually at the time of the American Tennis Association championships.

The tournament to determine tht Southern Intercollegiate Tennis Championships in men's singles and doubles and women's singles and doubles will begin May 9 on the championship clay courts of the Institute.

The defending champion, James McDaniels of Xavier university, New Orleans, La., is scheduled to receive stern competition from Marshall Arnold of Morehouse College, former national boys' champion. McDaniels won the Southwestern Intercollegiate singles title April 13, but was carried to three sets by both Russell and Minnis. In men's doubles it appears that Russell and Minnis who won the men's doubles at the Southwestern Intercollegiate Championships by defeating McDaniels and Graves of Xavier, will be the victors.

In women's singles and doubles the fans seem to favor Margaret and Roumania Peters of Tuskegee Institute. They are the defending champions in the doubles and Margaret Peters is the defending champion in the singles. They are also Southwestern Intercollegiate doubles champions.

Eastside C. of C. to Elect Board

The Eastside Chamber of Commerce is infusing new and energetic blood into its board of directors. The nominating committee met last Monday in the Dunbar hotel in order to go over names presented for consideration.

May 13 has been tentatively set for election of the board. All members are urged to attend the meeting which will be held in the Elks' temple.

Annual Spring Tea Draws All Races

Hindu, Japanese, Chinese, Filipino, Mexican, Spanish, Korean, Italian, etc., a variety of races mingled at the first annual Spring Tea of the California Race Relations society held Sunday afternoon.

Approximately 300 persons attended and heard a program by racial representatives. Among out of town guests were Dennis V. Allen, president of the San Diego Race Relations society; Dr. Max Stern and Miss Mary Chino, among others.

Ewell and Harris Individual Winners at Drake Relays

DES MOINES, May 2. (ANP)—Barney Ewell of Penn State, making his outdoor debut, and Archie Harris of Indiana, won individual titles in the 31st Drake relay carnivals Friday and Saturday in which many colored athletes competed.

Ewell won the 100-yard dash easily in 9.9 seconds, beating Bill Brown of Louisiana State, defending champion, by three yards. Harris took the shotput title with a heave of 48 feet 9¼ inches and also took the discus at 154.32 feet. James Smith of Northwestern tied for second in the high jump at 6 feet 4 inches.

Penn Relays Individual Titles to Ellerbe, Williamson

PHILADELPHIA, May 2. (By ANP)—Two athletes from southern colleges, Mozell Ellerbe of Tuskegee and Joshua Williamson of Xavier, won the 100-yard dash and the high jump at the 46th annual Penn Relays before 32,000 spectators Saturday.

Ellerbe's triumph was in 9.8 seconds and Williamson leaped 6 feet 4 to win his event. Walter Arrington, Michigan State, was second in the broadjump at 23 feet 11⅝ inches. Gilder Farrow, Xavier, was third in the 400 meter hurdles.

In the relay races, Hampton won the Teachers' College Mile relays in 3:22.5 with Tuskegee third. Tuskegee also was second in the sixth college mile relay.

Chauffeurs Ass'n Holds Big Benefit Dance at Vogue

Just about the biggest public affair of the week will be held by the Chauffeurs Association of Caliornia in a worthwhile cause. That it will be a great success and attended by a large crowd will be only a repetition of their past successes.

To climax National Boys Week and for the cause of sweet charity, the Association will sponsor a Huge Benefit Dance for the Eastside Boys' Home. The Chauffeurs, doing their bit each year for some worthy charitable cause, picked this medium for expression.

The Vogue Ballroom, 920 S. Grand avenue, will be the scene of much revelry, for they have planned to have a grand show. Stars of radio, stage, screen, and other famous personages will be on hand to do their bit for this worthy cause and to give the dance lovers a good time.

Mosby's famous Dixieland Blue Blowers will furnish the music. If it is swing you crave, it will be sweet and hot. If it is symphonic sophistication, it will be mellow. If it is the stuff in the groove; Confucius say: "Let's (icky) and bug on down."

McDaniels, Flora Lomax Top ATA Ratings for 1939

RALEIGH, N. C., May 2.—The ratings of the American Tennis association for the year 1939 have been released through the office of the secretary of the Association, Arthur P. Chippey. Serving on the rating committee are: Miss Laura V. Junior, Philadelphia, chairman; Dr. Andrew L. Jackson, Providence, R. I.; E. Harold Hopper, East Orange, N. J.; A. E. MacDowell, New York city; and Dr. L. E. McCauley, Raleigh, N. C.

Jimmie McDaniels of Los Angeles, playing under the banner of Xavier university of New Orleans, was ranked No. 1. McDaniels won the Nat'l. Championship tournament at Hampton last year; the New York Open and the Middle Atlantic Open, among more than a dozen other tournaments.

Dr. Reginald Weir of New York City was ranked second. It was Dr. Weir whom McDaniels defeated for the ATA championship last year. Dr. Weir also met McDaniels in the New York Open finals.

John Chandler of Fanwell, N. J., semi-finalist in the Nationals, the New York Open and the New England Open, was third. Richard Cohen, McDaniel's doubles partner last season at Xavier, was fourth for his quarter final showing in the Nationals and his championship of the North Carolina Open. Earnest J. McCampbell of Tuskegee, Howard Brown of Boston, Warren Weaver of Baltimore, Clifford Russell of Tuskegee, Nathaniel Jackson of Lynchburg, and Christopher Hunt of Raleigh, N. C. were ranked in that order for the remaining positions in the first 10.

LOMAX FIRST

Mrs. Flora Lomax of Detroit, winner of the Nationals, of the New York Open and finalist in the Western New York Open, topped the nation's women. Miss Roumania Peters of Tuskegee, finalist in the National, was second.

Cohen and McDaniels headed the 10 teams picked for men's doubles. They defeated Nathanial and Franklyn Jackson of Lynchburg, Va., who were given second place.

Misses Margaret and Roumania Peters, twin sisters of Tuskegee Institute were placed ahead of Mrs. Lomax and Miss Lillian Van Buren, Detroiters whom they defeated in the Nationals last August.

Dr. John B. Garret of Tuskegee was ranked first Veteran. Robert Ryland of Chicago, Ill., headed the list of junior singles. Vivian Murphy of Buffalo, N. Y. led the girl singlists and Robert Isaacs, Nassau, Bahamas Islands; the boys'. Miss Ora Washington, former champion, and Sylvester Smith of Philadelphia headed the mixed doubles.

Wilson Nods Chavez at Stadium

Jackie Has Easy Time With Tough Mexican Veteran

Winning every round but one, Jackie Wilson, the stringbean lightweight, decisively whipped Tony Chavez in 10 rounds at Hollywood Legion stadium last Friday night.

Abe Roth was the referee.

It was the first time a Negro fighter had ever appeared in a stadium main event.

Finding his opponent not easily fazed by his vaunted artillery, Wilson kept the tough Mexican off balance with a lightning left jab. When he crossed with his right, Chavez would throw it off and move into close quarters where Wilson would tie him up, stymying efforts to work on his body.

Whether from a distance or in close, Wilson was able to land at will. Chavez' best round was the fourth which he took by a shade.

It was their second meeting, the first bout ending in Wilson's favor by decision.

Chavez came in at 140½; Wilson 137¾.

Big Boy Hogue scored a fifth round TKO over Nick Masiello in the schedulde six-round semi-windup. Masiello was down for a 9-count in the first.

Other results: Chico Romo nodded Henry Majcher; Genaro Rojo kayoed Johnny Pacheco in one; Dub Bowen shaded Eddie Rivera; and in the opener, Frankie Valdez got referee Frankie Van's decision over Babe Gabt.

Guy Serean boxes Floyd Hagen in the top spot at the stadium tomorrow night.

NEWS VIEWS

By HARRY MORGAN

I see the ice-cube twins, Greenland and Iceland, are raising a lot of international eyebrows. These twins are the frigid heirs of Denmark, a country that recently became only a color on last year's maps. Now the two island have become orphans of the storm, England is "mothering" Iceland and the United States is looking for a refrigerator clause in the Monroe Doctrine so that we can take Greenland in out of the cold, cold world. The only flyers landing on the islands now are pelicans and sea-gulls—England and the U. S. want to keep it that way.

A Texas man told a census taker very truthfully that he was a cow thief by profession. He probably believes that "honesty is the best policy".

If you can't think of a reason why you should have a party--then you surely can't think of a reason why you shouldn't have a party, so come in and see Harry Morgan--let me help you choose your liquor supply—give you suggestions on some good mixed drinks. The House of Morgan, 2729 Central.

Tuskegee Relays, 4th Oldest in U. S., to Be Biggest Ever

TUSKEGEE, May 2. — The Tuskegee Relays, the fourth oldest in the United States, promise to be a glorious carnival this year. This meet only ranked by the Pen, Drake and Kansas Relays was established in the Spring of 1927 and since that time contestants in the Relays have gone to win National and International fame.

Mozel Ellerbe of Tuskegee, NC2A 100 yd. champion, for the last two years as well as Kansas, Drake, Penn and Tuskegee champion at this distance, is a product of the Tuskegee Relays. John Marion of Prairie View, National AAU Junior champion at 800 meters and member of the U. S. team that toured Europe in 1938, is another product.

Fred Allinience of Prairie View State College, AAU, 400 meters Junior Championship is another. Lilborn Williams of Xaxier University, New Orleans, Louisiana, present National AAU champion in the shot put and Drake Relays Champion, got his start at the Tuskegee Relays.

Armstrong Stops Junior in 7th

BOSTON, May 2. (ANP)—By scoring a 7-round technical knockout over Paul Junior, white, of Lewiston, Maine, Henry Armstrong successfully defended his welterweight crown before 18,000 spectators at the Boston garden Friday night.

Junior was dropped five times by the titleholder, who demonstrated his mastery every moment, and was going down for the sixth time when Referee Johnny Martin waved Armstrong aside and stopped the bout.

Lula Hymes May Set New Marks

TUSKEGEE, May 2. — New world marks may be established during the 12th Annual Women's Junior and Senior Track and Field championships at Tuskegee Institute May 10. Lula Hymes who will compete in the senior 100 meters run and broadjump tied the accepted world's record of 11.5 seconds last year in winning this event held at Tuskegee Institute last year. She is also former National AAU champion in the running broadjump and the 100 meters. She holds the American citizenship in the broadjump with a mark of 18 feet 1½ inches.

A Times Editorial

In last Sunday's Times an editorial ppeared which made the statement: Europe might well learn a lesson in olerance."

Coming from the U. S. A. this is a eculiar admonition to the states broad. If memory does not fail, here still remain a few instances of ntolerance in our own national back ard.

Just because it has become an unritten law in Alabama and some ther southern sections of this coun- discredit any Negro's word when is contradicted by a white person, ov. Frank M. Dixon of Alabama ontinues to hold in prison five of he Scottsboro boys.

America and its news commentaors are remarkably gifted with long stance consciences. The activities f Adolph Hitler, Joseph Stalin, and enito Mussolini are subject to their riticism to a much larger degree han such U. S. malefactors as Gov. ixon, Cotton Ed Smith, and Senator ilbo, although the intolerant enets of both groups match rather osely.

But at bottom the explanation is mple. Misdeeds at a safe distance several thousand miles are far ore vulnerable to verbal blasts than hose extant directly under the urnalistic nose. Most of the highown denouncements of Nazi Gerany and kindred nations published the United States are literary red errings, a skillful form of cowardce.

Danger of such a policy is greater nd more significant than most Amricans realize. Peril lies in two directons: (1) vital home problems are eglected; (2) foreign affairs appear in distorted importance. For very grandiose U. S. newspaper editorial on the "foreign situation", you ay be sure some important local isue has been left untouched. Gnawg evils that threaten the very founations of the nation, given such sint treatment, develop into giant enaces, while the average citizen preoccupied with European wars nd politics. On the other hand, the ast amount of publicity given urope fosters a notion among Amricans that something breathtakngly new and vital is being decided battlefields across the Atlantic. he hard, cold fact that Europe's ar is a conflict based entirely upon e question of economic domination lost in a funk of wild newspaper mment. So-called "news analysts" interpret all sorts of involved bmeanings into the idlest European spatch. The U. S. press hangs eathlessly upon the words of Hitr, Goebbels, Churchill, and Chamerlain, while the problems cononting millions of fellow Amerins remain uninterpreted, unanazed; in fact, unmentioned.

American journalism had just as ell hoist its head out of the sand. he country is faced with biting doestic problems that must be given ll attention. In the first rank of ese national headaches is the Neo Problem—an item which hitherto has found expression only in the omic strips of most metropolitan eets.

Another Times Editorial

Another Times editorial in Sunay's paper which is worthy of atention is the one captioned "This iller Must Be Caught". It follows direct quotation:

"All the circumstances surrounding the death of little Dorothy Lee Gordon point to a crime of the most evolting type. The discovery of the Negro school girl's battered body, alf buried in the sand dunes of Playa del Rey, six weeks after she disappeared in company with a white stranger, is a challenge to the best brains of the State, county and city authorities, and to the Federal Bureau of Investigation as well, since there is no doubt that the victim was kidnaped.

"Let it not be said that there is any less vigor and determination back of the pursuit of the Gordon girl's fiendish slayer than there would have been had the little victim been white. Further, the record of sex crimes shows that those for which a single degenerate is responsible never stop till the man himself is captured. If this murderer is not apprehended, and quickly, there will be other victims.

"The State has offered a reward of $1000 for information leading to the capture of Dorothy Gordon's killer. It is a good idea, since one of the characteristics of sex slayers is to boast of their crimes to others of their kind, and few of them are proof against the temptation to turn up one of their number for a substantial reward. If it does not get results, it should be doubled."

Certainly this is an occasion when the journalistic noggin has been hoisted far above the sand and permitted to say something vital anent an important local affair.

Although the recommendation that state, city and county authorities bend themselves unstintingly in the search for a murderer can hardly be considered the last word in "social consciousness", there was a very strong indication in this editorial that there have been cases in which white offenders have not been pursued too ardently--when their crimes were perpetrated against colored citizens.

In essence, then, this comment in the Times was a strong plea for "equal protection of the law" to all citizens--a democratic guarantee of Constitution that has been badly handled in several parts of the nation. Carrying the implication further, it might be concluded that the resurrection of this democratic guarantee as a working policy of American civil authorities would solve one great current problem of the U. S. A.

Migrants Win Action

The migrant problem—at last!—is winning long overdue action. The House of Representatives, finally aware of the need of Federal intervention, has created a five-man committee to see what can be done for and with some 350,000 of the nation's footloose, homeless, agricultural workers.

This action echoes the demand of the State Chamber of Commerce for just such a committee to investigate interstate migration. From the exhaustive report issued a few days ago by the State Chamber after months of intensive study came a far-reaching program of action calling for rehabilitation work in distressed areas from which migrants come into California, a cessation of unsound labor practices in Arizona, and a housing campaign with government financing and construction assistance where needed.

Meanwhile, indirect but no less helpful aid to the migrant is forthcoming from another source. The launching of a great cooperative effort by America's retail enterprises during National Cotton Week, May 17 to 25, will bring relief to the vast cotton lands of California's San Joaquin valley. These acreages, producers of a prized cotton second to none, bring harvest time work, in a good year, to an army of 30,000 to 40,000 migrants. And America's merchants, independent and network, are determined it shall be a good year! Their shoulder-to-shoulder effort, extending from this community to the farthermost parts of the nation through the facilities of some 40,000 multi-unit outlets, gives everyone a chance to keep the crown on the head of King Cotton—dispenser of millions of jobs to 'croppers and migrants from Dixie to California.

POLITICAL POT-PIE

By THE PIE-MAKER

Cactus Jack Garner looks upon himself as a potential saviour of the Democratic party "from dissolution", according to the literature disseminated this week from local Garner-for-President headquarters.

The Vice President terms the Democratic ballot for the presidential primaries a "poem of hate;" what with Roosevelt not declared and four slates of candidates and a column for a write-in, "blank verse." Garner calls it, gracing the ticket.

The only way to rhyme and reason, he'd have it is to ELECT HIM!

At the last Republican County Central Committee dinner meeting, it was requested that women members arrange the May meeting. Accordingly, the ladies have arranged a 6:30 dinner meeting for May 8 at the Hayward hotel, 6th and Spring streets. Dr. E. Ballentine Henley will offer enlightenment on "The Task of Good Government," no doubt worth the price of the dinner alone.

During his recent speaking tour in Nebraska and Missouri, Republican Tom Dewey made at least two definite statements in support of a Federal anti-lynching measure. The Manhattan D. A. had already made his position clear in a letter to the NAACP last year, but the two recent statements were even more to the point.

In Omaha, in respone to the question, he said: "I believe it should become a law. I am 100 per cent for it."

Dittoes Dewey in Missouri: "I am in favor of it, heartily in favor of it!"

Probably no part of the recently released report of the Glenn Frank Republican Program committee is more challenging than the comparison of New Deal promises and pretensions when contrasted with its performance over the 7-year period, 1933-40.

The New Deal said we have been drifting! it would give us planned direction!

We were in the grip of depression; it would give us planned recovery!

We were unstable; it would give us planned stability!

We were haunted by widespread unemployment; it would give us planned re-employment!

The only thing about these nice promises is that they're still being PLANNED!

Because he believes every American citizen, regardless of professional affiliation or degree of personal success, owes his community and nation a civic duty, screen star Melvyn Douglas is a candidate for delegate to the Democratic National convention on the ticket pledged to support Roosevelt. This same sincere sense of duty has served to bring Douglas to the climax of a career in which his rise to film stardom has been steady.

Speaking before a large and appreciative audience at First AME church, Mrs. Bass noted new political interest on the part of Negroes throughout the nation. She urged close attention to national and local governmental affairs, pointing out the importance of vigilance in democracy.

BOOK NOTES

FOR BOYS AND GIRLS

"Life is the most beautiful fairy tale," says the Godfather in Andersen's "What the Whole Family Said," and like so many of Hans Christian Andersen's simple fairy tales this was really autobiography in disguise, for his whole life has a fairy tale quality.

Andersen was born in Odense, Denmark, on April 2, 1805, in a little one-room cottage. The year he was 14, he went to Copenhagen to seek his fortune in the theatre—a tall, ungainly lad, dreamy and sensitive, but confident that he had the makings of something within him. Years of discouragement followed when he felt greatly his lack of education. His plays and poems failed, and desperate for a little money he scribbled four fairy tales for children which, to his surprise, sold well. He, who had been looked upon as an ugly duckling was suddenly like a petted swan and with wonder, reverence and the greatest simplicity, he wrote "The Ugly Duckling."

Hans Andersen covers the whole of life in his stories of truth, beauty and fancy for, "Even the humblest things take somehow an element of greatness; he gave nobility to whatever he touched. And if there is one motif that stands out more than any other in his writing, that recurs again and again, it is that expressed most clearly in the words of the angel to the child: 'the good and the beautiful shall not be forgotten; it shall live on in legend and in song.'"

Children's Crusade For Children—April 22-30

The Children's Crusade for Children is a national movement calling upon all the school children in America to aid the child victims of the world war—hundreds of thousands of them, deprived of family, home and country by war, famine and persecution.

All the 30,000,000 school children in America who can afford to give, are asked to contribute a penny for each year of their age. This crusade is sponsored by Dorothy Canfield Fisher, distinguished author, who is chairman of the committee; Walter Damrosch, Eleanor Roosevelt, Theodore Roosevelt, and many other notable people.

The new world whatever it may become after these wars are over will belong to the children. The crusade will help our boys and girls to understand the values of democracy and freedom, for it is an expression of human sympathy and brotherly love to overcome hatred and intolerance.

ANIMAL COLUMN

By GENEVIEVE W. MASON

One man's loss really is apt to be another man's gain. We went to the big circus the other night, and saw animals and acts that never would have left Europe if it had not been for the war. The Ringling elephants number 50, now, and it is worth going to the circus just to see them. I miss some of the old ones but elephants do die.

There has been a wonderful advance in the science of training animals, and the new acts arouse more enthusiasm than the old ones did. Formerly animals were trained through fear, to do tricks that were entirely out of their line. Now they do what they do not find too hard, once they understand it, and they do not seem to be either doped or abused.

The prettiest acts are very simply staged. Fancy steps for horses; a ball game for dogs into which they enter with a zest that is only matched by the enthusiasm of the audience. Juggling for seals, and a kind of drill for wild animals which leaves them pyramided, with a bear at the top, drinking slow-flowing honey and milk out of a bottle.

However skilled the acrobats in a circus may be, it is the animals that fill the house. Human beings always feel that kinship that has been undamaged by the wear of centuries. The man who can abuse an animal is not only breaking the law. He is hurting himself.

At this circus the handling of valuable animals is only entrusted to patient and honest people. Their charges show it. Their coats are perfect. Their weight and strength just right. Their temper not irritable. The giant gorilla, mighty quarterton ape, is not to be tamed, but by some magic is kept and wellfed. The elephants have expert keepers, who understand feeding, rubbing them with oil, tending their feet, shaving their heals and necks with a blow torch, and many other things.

But bear in mind that, although we cannot all have the interest and excitement of caring for these royal beasts, we can do right by the animals that we do have the care of. Our reward will be their improved appearance and efficiency, and also their affection.

THE WORLD THIS WEEK

BELOW THE RIO GRANDE

South of the border, down Mexico way, a kettle of trouble is brewing. Chairman Dies, head of the Un-American Investigating committee, hinted at it a fortnight ago. Now confirmation comes from officials of the Mexican government itself who report that secret police have unearthed evidence that a small army of Nazi and Communist agents have joined hands to foment a civil war in that country. Its aims: to seize political control of Mexico, divert American attention from Europe, and exploit Merico as a base for spreading the revolutionary movement of Nazi-Communism in other Latin American countries. Thus, at any rate, runs the story and in it there may be elements of truth. History never repeats itself, but some of its patterns are strikingly familiar. No long memory is needed to recall that following the outbreak of the World War almost identical efforts were made to get the United States embroiled with Mexico, and to a certain extent they succeeded. These efforts may be even more successful this time than then, if the civil war plot proves to be more fact than fiction. It is unlikely the United States would ever permit its neighbor republic to fall into the control of the Nazi-Communists.

PEARLS OF THE INDIES

That jeweled chain of tropical islands, the Dutch East Indies, gleams brightly in the Pacific's great constellation of islands. Their lustre has never been lost on Japan and the prospect of a German invasion into the Netherlands, threatening that doughty nation's sovereignty, has made the Netherlands' East Indies beckon to Nippon more appealingly than ever before. Rich in rubber, tin, and other raw materials, they have been a fountainhead of Dutch prosperity for three centuries, and for America long a vital source of supplies. To Japan, their wealth is almost the perfect answer to her dream of Pan-Asiatic conquest. Foreign Ministers Arita hinted as much last week. But his hint was firmly, quietly, and almost immediately rebuked by Secretary of State Hull who said in words just as clear, but more diplomatic: "Please keep your hands off the Dutch East Indies." To which Japan has replied: "We are very much pained. We have no designs on the islands." The Secretary of State evidently made his point plain.

ROBOTS IN THE FIELDS

A new and growing army of "steel men" is moving today into California's agricultural fields where speciality crops are grown. They can outwork scores of laborers, and for efficiency and low cost they are unrivalled. An impressive array of these machines is now at work, or being developed for use in California's orchards, gardens, and fields. These robots, capable of reducing hand labor by 100 to 200 percent, are stern competitors of the migrant workers, the "stoop" laborers, but they are the farmer's best answer to the need of lower production costs. Not indefinitely will the fertile fields and orchard groves of California beckon to job-seeking farm workers of other states. The steady march of the robots into ever widening fields of agriculture, not only in California but throughout the nation, will leave increasing millions of workless workers with nowhere to turn, and what then?

CONGRESSMEN WANTED

It's not going to solve the unemployment problem, but it's worth noting that California will have four vacancies open in the not-too-distant future to anyone who is a citizen, thirty years of age, and a resident of the State. But wait, those aren't the only qualifications! Applicants must be champions of the upper and under dog, defenders of free enterprise and supporters of labor, glad-hand shakers to all comers, believers in economy but not averse to toying with the pork barrel when necessity demands it, and possessed of a sixth sense for detecting the prevailing currents of public sentiments. In a word, he must be a good politician, which is to say that California, in all likelihood, is going to receive four additional seats in the House of Representatives. But where they will be destributed throughout the State depends on what census-takers find out.

BIG TIDES. BAD TIDINGS

The tide that seemingly knows no ebb continues to rise. Treasury officials report that, with nine weeks yet remaining in this fiscal year, the Federal deficit has this week nearly reached $3 billion. Meanwhile, the mounting Federal debt finds Uncle Sam, $42,597,259,559 on the debit side. This ever swelling indebtedness apparently knows no real tides.

The LAUNDRY MAN

By Caldwell Jones

Supervisors Challenge County Hospital Methods

Last week the County Supervisors made a forthright move against the arbitrary methods hitherto practiced by the administration of the County Hospital. They instructed County Counsel to draft a bill giving FREE Hospital care to all County citizens possessing less than $1000.00 in assessed valuation of real and personal property.

This amendment if passed, will put an end to a vicious practice. Here-to-fore, impoverished patients who were in dire need of hospitalization--or their close relatives--were compelled to sign a lien IN BLANK, upon whatever real property they might own fully or partially, without the slightest idea of the amount of the hospital bill--which was inserted later.

This purchase of medical aid in a "POKE" has proven distinctly unsatisfactory, especially in cases where the patient dies in the interim. For the lien executor is never quite sure as to the justness of the charges. The bill should pass with flying colors.

Peaceful Nations Bear Brunt of War

The saddest, most incomprehensible thing about this latest of wars is the fact that the peace-loving, in-offensive neighbors of the bloodthirsty belligerents are bearing the brunt of it, Norway's peaceful, picturesque cities are being literally blotted out by incessant bombing attacks from both German and Allied air-squadrons. Theier homes are being blown to bits, their occupational, industrial life disrupted, their fair land gutted by fierce warfare, a sanguinary conflict in which they have no interest or stake. The fighting gladiators launch bombing attacks upon Norwegian cities with great zest, yet strangely enough, carefully refrain from bombing the populous cities of their respective homelands.

For six or 8 months, Germany and the Allies—especially England—have been looking for a place—away from home—where they might try out their armies and air armadas. Peaceful Norway was finally chosen as the most convenient amphietheater wherein to stage the show.

One great, abiding lesson however should be learned and retained by thoughtful observers. It is this, that nations—especially small ones—and likewise racial minorities, in order to survive must at all times present a solid front to their common enemy. "United we stand, divided we fall", is an immutable law that never changes, whether applied to nations, races, armies or atoms. Norwegians were divided in thought. Some of her citizens favored Germany, some the allies. One group played with Hitler; the other with the Allies. As a net result, their country is catching hell from both sides.

A hint to the wise should be sufficient. Negroes, whether rich, poor, of high or low station, should always remember that regardless of occasional special courtesies shown favored individuals by whites, in the final analysis whenever a showdown comes, all Negroes are in the same category from the standpoint of the white man. Therefore the ultimate success of our struggle for economic independence and just recognition depends directly upon the extent to which we can iron out our personal jealousies and disagreement, and blending our material and spiritual forces into a single searing flame, focuses it upon the coveted goal.

LETTERS

Dear Editor:

It is impossible for me to adequately thank you for your acting as sponsor of the testimonial luncheon given the members of this office and myself April 10.

When I saw the complete sponsor list, representing as it did all phases of religious and political faiths, and types of occupations, I was impressed to the very bottom of my being.

The task of administering the affairs of a District Attorney's office in a County like Los Angeles is extremely difficult. Of necessity the very nature of the work is bound to cause misunderstanding, and in many instances create hostility. Over and over again that misunderstanding and hostility is made known to us here in the office. Therefore, the presence of yourself at the speaker's table, and so many others like you, in the audience, certainly gave me, as well as the members of my office, the feeling that the doing of your job as well as you can, and certainly with complete honesty, pays after all.

I know that you believe me when I say that not only the men and women of the office, but myself as well, will continue to do the very best we can in the service of the people of this county.

With very kindest of personal regards, I am,

Most cordially yours,
BURON FITTS,
District Attorney
Los Angeles County

CONENTMENT

In this modern age, most every individual has had the desire and inclination to better their condition in life. Seldom do they realize that ability lies languishing within, lacking only the initiative to achieve the fulfillment of their dreams.

Drifting through a dissatisfied or disillusioned existence is detrimental to one's happiness and peace of mind. Life can be made much more pleasant by concentrating on some definite goal, and, striving for its attainment.

Spring is the most appropriate time of the year to take stock of your capabilities, and to develop them into something tangible. Let Prof. Herman, assist you in revealing your hidden characteristics thru your lucky stars and guiding planet. Write him today.

J. E. B.—Who broke my large window in the bedroom that I have rented?

Ans.—It seems to me that although the couple that occupy that room have denied that they were responsible for the broken glass, they did break it. I suggest that you drop the matter, as they will never admit it was their fault.

L. G.—What happened to my father's money?

Ans.—My Psycho-Mentalist Crystal reveals your father as having been very foolish the day he received it. Several times, he displayed this large sum in front of people, and among one group there was a thief, who took advantage of your father, and stole the money.

C. W. B.—Dear Prof Herman: This is just to tell you of the wonderful results I am obtaining thru the use of your Prayer and Meditation Combination. Things are working out just fine in my home and my life has taken on a new interest. I certainly thank you for all that you have done.

J. B.—Will I ever marry this man?

Ans.—According to your lucky star and guiding planets you are destined to marry within the next 6 months. The man you have in mind is not the one you will marry. You are acquainted with a young man that has just been a friend, but this friendship will develop into love and understanding, and you will marry this man.

G. T.—Will my husband and I be united together again?

Ans.—It comes to me that your separation was due to idle gossip and lack of faith and confidence in each other. You will never be happy together unless you learn to trust one another. I vision a reconciliation but only on the grounds that a thorough understanding is reached and you do not let others interfere in your business.

Dear Sir:—Just a few lines to let you know how I do thank you for all that you have done for me. He came just as you said he would and told me that he had treated me wrong and that he was sorry. He has been very nice since then. I do hope that others will take heed to your wonderful service and advice. I remain sincerely yours, M. G.

R. L. J.—Can you advise me regarding my son, as to whether his health is bad or his mind? He just sits around from one day to the next and never seems to have any energy or ambition to do anything like other boys.

Ans.—Probing into this matter I find that your son is suffering from a physical ailment, and suggest that you consult a specialist at your earliest opportunity. It is nothing for you to become alarmed over, careful treatment will result in his becoming a normal boy again.

S. B. A.—I am a widow and own a grocery store, will I be successful in my business? Will I have any true friends? Will my son come back to his business?

Ans.—It comes to me that your business will improve, if you will put more interest into it. You have to advertise, and have special offers occasionally so that people will begin to come to your store. Only one question is answered in the column, write in for a private reply.

LOCAL EX-RESIDENTS OF NATCHEZ GRIEVE

Numbering approximately 100 families, local former residents of Natchez, Miss., joined last week in sending a telegram of sympathy to their former townsmen, bereaved in the tragic dance hall fire, which took the lives of upwards of 200 persons.

SAN ANTONIO CIVIC FIGURE SUCCUMBS

SAN ANTONIO, May 2—A victim of acute indigestion, Benjamin Wilson, civic and political leader, died here last week.

Flush Kidneys of Acid and Poisons

GAIN IN HEALTH AND STOP GETTING UP NIGHTS

When kidneys are continually overburdened, they often become weak—the bladder is irritated—often passage is scanty and smarts and burns—sleep is restless and nightly visits to the bathroom are frequent.

A safe, harmless and inexpensive way to relieve this trouble and help restore more healthy action to kidneys and bladder is to get from any druggist a 35 cent box of GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules and take as directed.

Don't be an EASY MARK and accept a substitute—Get Gold Medal Haarlem Oil Capsules—the original—the genuine right from Haarlem in Holland. Look for the Gold Medal on the box—35 cents.

Remember—other symptoms of kidney and bladder trouble may be backache, puffy eyes, nervousness and leg cramps.

Conduct Rites for Father of Pianist Ruby Lyle

Funeral services were held Saturday morning from the Angelus Funeral Home for Eli Charles Lyle, 60, father of well known young pianist, Ruby Lyle. Resident here for over 30 years, Mr. Lyle died April 24 at the Alynmore hospital. He had been ill at his home, 1338 E. 45th street, for about three years.

A native of Natchez, Miss, Mr. Lyle had lived in New Mexico and Monrovia as well as Los Angeles. For a number of years he had been an employee of the Pullman Company and an employee of the City of Los Angeles for over 15 years.

Rev. B. W. Wade, pastor of Pilgrim Baptist church, of which the deceased had been a member, presided at the funeral services. Interment was in Evergreen cemetery. Survivors in addition to Miss Ruby Lyle, are Miss Bernice Lyle, daughter and Arthur Lyle, son.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Eli Charles Lyle wishes to extend grateful thanks to the staff of Angelus Funeral Home, the City Employees and members of the Refuse Can Dept., Rev. B. W. Wade of Pilgrim Baptist church, and many friends for kind services rendered, expressions of sympathy and condolences received during their recent bereavement.

They are especially appreciative to the staff of the Angelus Funeral Home for the lovely Memorial Holy Bible presented to them.

(Signed)
RUBY AND BERNICE LYLE
Daughters.

Death Overtakes Young Realtor

Funeral services will be held today from the Angelus Funeral Home over the remains of Virgil O. Smith, well known in local real estate circles, who succumbed Monday at the General hospital. Death followed a severe attack of nephritis suffered since December last.

Smith was employed by the Walter L. Gordon Realty company as bookkeeper and clerk. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Henrietta Smith of Fort Smith, Ark., a brother of Texarkana, Texas. Living on E. 23rd street, the deceased was 32 years of age.

SCHOOL BOARD O. K.'S NEGRO HISTORIES

PHILDELPHIA, May 2.—Two books on Negro history were approved by the board of education here last week for the schools of the city. The volumes are both by Dr. Carter G. Woodson, and are entitled "The Negro in Our History" and "African Myths". They will become a part of the reference library used in teaching history.

Angelus Has Insurance Experts

Among the many reasons that cause an increasingly large number of families to prefer the Angelus Funeral Home above all others is the expert handling of insurance for their patrons.

The average person is unacquainted with the many different angles of insurance. Realizing this, the Angelus has included on its trained staff insurance experts who are capable of assisting families to understand and get every advantage from their insurance policies. This is at no extra cost, and given in addition to all other services.

Among the unequalled facilities of the Angelus Funeral Home are a spacious church chapel, private drawing room chapel, large pipe organ, separate preparation rooms (morgue), special repose rooms, and the latest and best in modern equipment. Besides, the Cadillac rolling stock of the Angelus, with the purchase of a new limousine recently, makes this one of the finest services in the city.

All these modern conveniences, and unsurpassed services are at the disposal of the public at the same price that can be obtained anywhere else.

REV. S. A. CROUCH, pastor of the Church of God in Christ at 33rd and Compton avenue, returned from an extensive trip through the South and Ohio last week, and occupied his pulpit last Sunday. He will resume the weekly broadcast, sponsored by the People's Funeral Home, as soon as arrangements for time can be made. The time of the broadcast will be announced later.

INDICT 3 MEDICS IN CINCINNATI

CINCINNATI, May 2—Three colored doctors were indicted as narcotic violators here last week by the Federal Grand Jury. The three are: Dr. Benjamin L. Lockley, two indictments for the sale of morphine without the prescribed written form; Dr. Weah N. Sherrill and Dr. Edward J. Ross.

Choir Pays Tribute to Hayes

Paying tribute to Roland Hayes, great tenor, the tenor section of the senior choir of Independent church, which calls itself the Roland Hayes club presented an enjoyable program last Sunday afternoon in the church auditorium.

The program followed the pattern of a television broadcast with artists performing over a specially constructed microphone, Mistress of ceremonies was Eagle reporter Almena Davis, who is also news commentator for the Gold Hour.

Featured artists were Earl Pleasant, popular young tenor; Olive Ball, contralto and dramatic reader; Josephine Webster Cooper, Philadelphia soprano; William Gillespie, baritone; the L. A. County Four, male quartet, led by Elihu Sloan; the Gold Hour Instrumental trio, composed of Bernice Lawson, Emma Smock and Juanita Craddock.

Eddie Davis was chairman of arrangements for the program. Mrs. A. C. Bilbrew is director of the choir. Rev. Clayton D. Russell is pastor of the church. Other members of the club are: Freddie Davis, James Davis, Messrs. Sloan, Broomfield, Roberts and Wilson.

Urge Court Test on Library Bias

WASHINGTON, May 2 (C —Speaking before the fifth nual conference of the Ass tion of Social Science Teac in Negro colleges, held in city, Dr. L. D. Reddick, Cu of the Schomburg Collec New York Public library, a cated a concerted effort thr the courts to test the practic excluding Negroes from tax ported libraries in certain So ern states. Of the 565 publi braries in 13 Southern states ly 83 were reported as gi service to Negroes.

In West Virginia the state requires all libraries rece public funds to give servic Negroes as well as other zens. This should serve precedent, said Dr. Reddick, grants in aid from the Fe Government and the philant pic foundations of Southern iversity and public libr should carry the proviso that material be made availabl the Negro scholar. Dr. Red declared. He said there were ly 800,000 volumes in the lib ies of all the Negro college less than one third of the b ings of the New York Pu library alone.

SEEN THROUGH THE EYES OF THE EAGLE

NEGRO CONGRESS HAS PINKISH HUE

The refusal of A. Philip Randolph to accept re-election as president of the National Negro Congress because of undue Communistic activities in the organization brings to our attention this week some things which we have been suspecting for some time. The basis for these suspicions was our attendance at the first Congress which was held in Chicago a few years ago.

This great meeting in Chicago though it was not "red" had a decidedly pink pigmentation. Anyone who lived in Chicago during the "depression" days and heard the harangues of the "reds" in the parks on the Southside and observed their methods can sort of tell a thing when it is just beginning to turn pinkish.

Apparently this organization was getting too pinkish for Mr. Randolph.

Everyone has a right to support his political party, but it would seem that for the best interests of the Congress and its future good, those with Communistic leanings or any dogmatic political convictions would forego forcing them into the platform of this organization just as it begins to acquire national status.

The weight of argument seems to be on Mr. Randolph's side. It would be well for all officials and others connected with the Congress to see to it that it is not controlled by Communists, Democrats, Republicans, or even Prohibitionists.

And in this connection it will serve us in good stead to remember for all time to come Randolph's statement that "history shows that where you get your money you also get your ideas and control." Clear thinking, uncontrolled by political lucre is essential if economic and moral improvement is to be achieved.

LET US ALONE!

The foolish Israelites said that to Moses when he tried to lead them out of Egyptian bondage.

They were satisfied.

They had their little huts and tents in which to live. They had something to eat most of the time.

Moses preached freedom to them and told them that God wanted them to be free men.

But the little straw bosses and those that had political sufferance from the political bosses inflamed the masses against Moses and his ideas of freedom.

So they said, "Let us alone."

Poor deluded people, satisfied in slavery. Satisfied in letting their children grow up under the same restrictions, handicaps and degradation that they had lived under.

In the days of American slavery, some few with blinded eyes said, "Let us alone."

Some today, like the Israelites of old look back toward the old plantation days and long for the fleshpot of antebellum slavery days.

But there is a much larger group, equally blinded, that is satisfied with past attainments and present conditions. They are satisfied with their jobs or are approaching retirement on the Old Age pension. So satisfied are they that they fail to realize that they should be making some provision for their children or the children of their community.

What hasn't been done, can't be done, they argue. And they sit, and do nothing about conditions.

Dissatisfaction is often a disguised virtue. Dissatisfaction should make us do something constructive. We need to cry, "Stir us up!"

DR. J. B. BOWLIN
"Head of Grace Sanitarium"

500 Attend Sanitarium Anniversary

Grace Sanitarium and Nursing home celebrated its third anniversary with a large gathering at the home of Mrs. Marie Gillam, 1119 Lincoln avenue, Pasadena. The occasion was in form of an afternoon tea and fashion show, from 3 to 7 p. m.

Under the chairmanship of Mrs. Clara Brown an excellent program was rendered. Those who apepared on the program were Miss Irene Thompson, pianist: Mr. Gillam, soloist; Miss Eugenia Pullen, singing her own composition; Mrs. Shannette Floyd, Charlotte Johnson, Miss Berry, Miss Burch, Mrs. Alice Bugg and her kiddies.

Mrs. Ada Bronwlee, in giving the history of the institution, stressed the need of and the great foresight of Dr. Brandon A. T. Bowlin in founding the institution, and in conclusion, appealed to every serious thinking person to get busy and build enterprises that will offer future security for our youth. About 500 persons joined in the afternoon celebration.

Officers are: Mrs. Ruth Jones, president; Mrs. Clara Brown, vice president; Mrs. Frank Arnold, second vice president; Mrs. Bessie Railsback, secretary; Mrs. E. Martin, assistant secretary; Mrs. Madge Lawson, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Augusta Horn, treasurer; Mrs. Evelyn Bible, chaplain.

A drive is on for membership under the new Grace Hospital Association, incorporated by the State of California as a non-profit organization designed to give employment to its members and worthy young men and women. Funds are being raised rapidly for the purchasing of a new hospital site and the erection of a new building thereon.

Red Caps Win Partial Victory in New York

NEW YORK, May 2, (CNA)—Red Caps at the Pennsylvania R. R. station here came a step nearer to winning the status of full-fledged wage earners this week with announcement by the company that henceforth passengers will pay a dime a bag and receive a ticket as a receipt.

In the past, the porters reported the sum of their tips and if they did not amount to 30 cents an hour, the railroad made up the difference. Under the new system the men will be permitted to keep the sum received above the ten-cent fee.

The step by the company comes as a result of a fight waged by the Brotherhood of Red Caps almost since the Wages Act was passed. The Brotherhood has been pressing a suit demanding back pay on a claim that tips do not count as wages.

Metropolitan Has Dedicatory Services

Metropolitan Baptist church, with Rev. S. M. Malone, pastor, had inspirational services all day. Sunday school began at 9:30; morning sermon by pastor, with Mrs. Childs, president of the women's work of the State Convention, with many other visitors as well.

Dedicatory services were at 2:30 o'clock on grounds where the new building is to be erected. Dr. David J. Evans gave the dedicatory address. There were more than 700 to help make the service a success. Since Rev. Malone took the pastorate of this church the fast growing congregation has been very much in need of a new edifice. Dr. W. W. Carter, pastor of Friendship Baptist was master of ceremonies. Words of felicitation came from Dr. T. L. Griffith, pastor of Second Baptist, Los Angeles; Dr. Augustine Emanuel, Baptist church of Pasadena; Rev. S. A. Williams, pastor of St. Paul Baptist, Los Angele Rev. K. Downs, Scott Memorial Methodist church, Pasadena, Rev. J. A. Davis, Second Baptist church, Monrovia; Rev. Dickerson, associate minister of Friendship Baptist church, Pasadena, Dr. W. R. Carter of Los Angeles.

Contribution from dedicatory services amounted to $222.02; Contribution all day, $316.35. All churches and general public made this service more than a success.

Evening service began at 7:30

Oakland Police Under Fire in Job Drive

OAKLAND, May 2, Special to CNA)—The Citizens Committee to Obtain Jobs for Negroes this week launched a mass protest against police interference with pickets in West Oakland and the alleged beating of a woman.

The protest campaign was picket by a white policeman, dramatized by the appearance of a mass delegation at the city council meeting in City Hall to demand a stop to unwarranted police attacks on pickets seeking to force employment of Negroes in West Oakland stores benefitting chiefly from Negro patronage.

Members of the Citizens Committee charged the police with an open conspiracy not only to stop the picketing, but to annul the gains already made.

Ollie Ann Robinson Makes Progress in Field of Business

By NETTA PAULLYN GARNER

Mrs. Ollie Ann Robinson, prominent resident of Pasadena has adhered to a motto which she created some years ago: namely, service, and absolute honesty. Her motto has established a place of honor in the community in which she lives, and has served to establish for her a permanent niche in the business world as a licensed realty broker. Mrs. Robinson has headed her own realty business for eleven years. The fact that she has weathered the social and economic struggle in a city whose Negro population is comparatively small, gives evidence of her alertness to possible opportunities. Membership in the realty board of Pasa., is limited to members of the caucasian group, therefore many areas are verbally restricted until thorough investigation to the contrary. Our confidence has never been betrayed by her failure to unearth the truth about possible areas for our people. Pasadena is deeply indebted to Mrs. Robinson, who is alert, courteous and honest in behalf of our racial group. For several years opportunities for our group in the domestic field have grown steadily fewer. Realizing the necessity of special emphasis in behalf of our people, Mrs. Robinson enlarged her business by adding an employment office. Her eagerness to serve as a channel for employment is equalled only by her desire to stress the necessity of perfecting the old methods and adding new ones, as a means of coping with foreign servants that are seeking employment. Realizing her honesty in serving both the employer and employee, has secured for Mrs. Robinson a large circle of clients who depend on her good judgement to fill their house-hold needs. Her ability alone has served as her only advertising. Through Mrs. Robinson's efforts, many fine pieces of property have been secured.

The following are a few of those who have benefited by her efforts, Dr. and Mrs. J. B. Bowlin, Dr. and Mrs. Geo. Hall, Mr. and Mrs Edward James, Mr. and Mrs. Pearsall, Rev. and Mrs. Rains. As a manager of property she has commete supervision of the Garfield Lee, and George R. Garner property.

Pasadena Advertisers Get Results from Eagle Columns

The ads in the Pasadena section of the California Eagle are so good that a Los Angeles daily newspaper copies them word for word and uses them in soliciting advertising from our Pasadena advertisers.

Most Pasadena advertisers are not succulent enough to fall for the chatter that comes over the telephone from some rapid-fire sister who tries to high-pressure them into spending their money in her paper so that they can obtain "free" advertising over the radio.

The proposition sounds good at first, but the phonograph precision of the "canned" sales talk gives the scheme away.

The sales talk is very complimentary to the Pasedana section ads, for they quote the Eagle ads word for word; but the high-pressure sister must think that Pasadena Advertisers are a bunch of morons when she tries to sell you the ad which you have already paid for and which is producing satisfactory results in the Pasadena section of the Eagle.

Pasadena advertisers are finding that the California EAGLE reaches Negro population of Pasadena and that their advertising dollar goes farther and gets more results for them than any other medium available in this area Persistent advertising in the California EAGLE brings results.

What Do You Think?

By BERNICE HARRELL CHIPMAN

Some weeks ago, a young man and a young woman, members of the debating department of the State University, spoke before a civic organization, a group of men and women interested in education, on the subject "Do the Universities Prepare the Student for Life?"

These young people, prominent in University activities, were vehement and decided in their opinion that the education provided them by the taxpayers, who year by year have willingly increased their contribution for the welfare of youth, that this costly education, is of no value whatsoever: in fact, they emphatically declared that it is just no good.

Says Only Extras Beneficial

The young man held that the only benefit to be derived from the University is the opportunity afforded there for those extra-curricular activities, such as debating societies, student body management, and the University publications, those student activities with which the faculty has no connection and over which it holds but a minimum of authority. The professors, according to the judgment of this juvenile oracle, are all old men, back numbers, rooted in the outworn ideals of the past, with no contact with the world of today, and with nothing they could possibly contribute that would be of any assistance to Youth with a big "Y," Youth for whom the future must be planned, divorced, it seems from all the wisdom and experience of the ages.

It should be interesting to remember this opinion, when the University will plead for its budget at the next Legislature, and pertinent to the ever-increasing expenditures for education, to hold in mind the ideas of a student, highly considered by his fellows, as evidenced by his position in the Student Body, the expressed belief that that which the University offers him and his contemporaries is of no good to him or them.

Wants Social Revolt Taught

The young woman of this debating team went further. She heartily agreed that a University education does nothing to prepare the student for life, and that it has no advantages, but she was a little more helpful about how this distressing condition should be remedied. She made a few suggestions as to how it could all be improved. Only, she said with the experience of her some 20 years, only by teaching the students how they can overthrow society as it exists, can the University be of any real use to youth, only by showing its pupils how they might uproot the present political and economic system, and by instructing them how they could form a new and different regime, only in such wise can the University prepare its young for life, and so justify its existence.

Consider Teaching Futile

Should be enlightening when the University will present its next budget: interesting, that representative students should consider the whole thing futile: that they desire an overthrow of that system of government by which they have received free schooling for some 16 or 18 years, all at the expense of the taxpayer; and that now they should consider themselves the victims of that system which has provided them with the intellectual tools with which to cut—either themselves—or others—as the future will show.

The phrase "preparation for life" would seem in itself, an awkward expression, for after all, is not life a whole? Does not the child live, as well as the youth, as much as the adult? Is not morning as much a part of the day as noon or evening? Is living only that part of life in which the young begin to think the times are out of joint, and that they, in their adolescence, are ordained to set them right? Is life only that political and economic struggle which youth gleefully visions as approaching, in which he or she must do some deeds of daring, totally unrelated to the accumulated experiences of the past?

Wasting Tax Money

Be that as it may, it would seem from these witnesses that the tax money is being wasted, since the beneficiaries throw the benefits back in the faces of the donors, with the statement that it is all without form and void, that it all has no relation to life. Were these young people not considered outstanding in University circles, the incident would have no importance; their utterances might be taken as the vaporings of the half-baked, but they were, on this occasion, the chosen representatives of the University.

Might Try Good Manners

That both the young people, the boy and the girl, smoked on the platform, while answering questions from the audience, has nothing to do with the case, though it does bear out their contention of utter unpreparedness for living, since good manners, a civil and polite way of behavior is a most important and necessary implement in the business of social contact. After all, there is such a thing as good taste which has its place along with other qualities in the "preparation for life". Ice cream cones are not consumed at funerals, nor peanuts crunched in church, nor has it been the custom that cigarettes should be puffed from the lecture rostrum.

Examples of Neglect

But then, manners are not included in the university curriculum, though the students did not mention this one-more-point of negligence on the part of their alma mater. So much untaught, so much not done, and all this negation (as those representatives of the higher education see it) carried on with such costly futility at the expense of the poor always rallied nobly to the slogan "We must support the schools." Well—now youth, so long supported in the halls of learning, is unprepared for life. They say so themselves, and after seeing and hearing these two, one believes they are right. They aren't.

What shall the taxpayer do about it?

What do YOU think?

THE HOME TOWN BOYS

On Wednesday night Lloyd Hunter and his band gave Denver's dancing public a treat when they played at the beautiful Rainbow ballroom. With his variety of swing and novelty arrangements, mixed with the sweeter songs and waltzes of the day, he exhibited his showman ability like the great Ted Lewis by keeping the crowd happy and giving them what they wanted when they wanted it.

One of Denver's native sons who is doing well on foreign soil is Mr. Chan Caldwell. This great drummer and his five piece band is being featured nightly in one of the more swanky nite spots in Rochester, N. Y. along with his own floor show.

EUGENE GASH IS HONORED IN THE EAST

Word has reached Denver that young Eugene Gash, piano artist has begun a northwestern trip, appearing in recitals on the Pacific Coast. He will appear at the Conservatory of Music of the Pacific Stockholm College and has dates in Portland, Seattle and Tacoma. Appearances are scheduled at Town Hall, New York City, next Fall.

Denver citizens are proud of this youngster.

● TURNING BACK THE PAGES OF PASADENA'S PAST

By REV. WILLIAM PRINCE

Have you forgotten that in the late eighties and the early nineties that Capt. John Brown of Harper's Ferry, the great agitator against human slavery, had three children living in Pasadena? Their names were: Owen Brown, Jason Brown and Mrs. Ruth Brown-Thompson. These brothers built a cabin in the Las Cacitas Mountains—the first range of mountains northwest of Pasadena.

The colored people used to go up to their cabin on holidays and Sundays for picnics. We had a fine time visiting them.

In 1888 Bishop Abraham Grant came to Pasadena to visit us. We hired a talaho and went up to visit the Browns. The Bishop was so delighted with the trip that he got out of the talaho and walked some miles to the Brown's cabin. There was some hard climbing and lots of underbrush to go through. When we reached our destination our clothes were pretty well torn off. The Bishop was a little embarassed. He had to sit down to preach to use, and he preached a great sermon.

Since then Owen Brown has died and we buried him in the mountains. Jason died in the East. Mrs. Ruth Brown-Thompson lived with her husband and one daughter just west of Bush's sunken gardens. They were lovely old people. We used to meet there quite often for dinners and picnics. We entertained Bishop Garner of Atlanta, Ga., Bishop Grant of Texas and many others there. One of our biggest affairs was a picnic to raise money to send Grace Thompson, their daughter to college. It was a great success. Miss Grace taught school in Pasadena for a number of years. She died about four years ago. Several of our ministers attended the funeral.

After one of our Emancipation celebrations, which was held in the old William's Hall corner of Colorado and Fair Oaks, Mrs. Thompson stayed all night at the writer's house on South Vernon avenue. Our third child was just born. Mrs. Thompson said she wanted to name our baby. My wife told her that she might do so. She named her Ruth Brown Prince. My wife told her the baby would be brown enough anyway. We have been delighted with the name that was given a good many years ago, but don't mention this to Mrs. Ruth Brown Prince Gregor. It is our desire to live in pace with all mankind.

Mr and Mrs. Thompson have been dead a good many years, yet, we shall never forget them.

● POWER

A few years ago some men sat around a table in Constantinople. They were discussing the education and moral training of youth. One of those present, a Christian, was describing high moral teaching of the Gospels, when a Moslem interrupted him. "Excuse me, sir", he said; "what you say is good. But, we, too, have good moral teachings in our scriptures. What we need is power: power to give our young men strength to shake off what is bad, and to live lives of usefulness and goodness. Have you any secret of that sort of power?"

Power! How desperately we need it! Not political power, persuasive power, or any sort of mechanical power, but power to keep our tempers when we are under a strain—when everything goes wrong; power to control the cravings of our lower nature and to live a life of purity and self-restraint; power to shake off our bad habits of sloth, deceitfulness, and dishonesty; power to be unceasingly kind and unselfish; power to keep the good resolutions we make. This power is needed everywhere by men and women, in the church, in the community, and in nations. If only we were stronger, we should be so much more useful and loveable and happy. Is the power we so sorely need available? If so where shall we find it?

Rev. Karl Downs Tells Progress

Coming as an appropriate prelude to the morning sermon, and as a word of encouragement to the members and friends at the Scott Methodist church on Sunday, April 28, Rev. Karl E. Downs remarked, "We have paid on our building fund; we have paid our taxes; God is blessing us for a purpose."

At the 11:00 o'clock worship service, the pastor's subject, "A Prepared People," was supported by the text found in Luke 1:15-17. Forcefully opening the sermon of the morning, Rev. Downs said, "What the soul is to the body, the people are to the world." In presenting a historical background of the greatest accomplishment of Christianity (holding the world together), he stated, "Being held together inwardly they were able to hold an outward world together. We can't hold the world together with money; we can't hold the world together with education and we can't hold the world together with pleasure. Unless at the center of our quest is God, all these other things count for nothing."

Telling of an experience of darkness caused by dirty electrical contacts at a New York city electric power generating plant, the pastor added, "At the point where God would contact us, there is dirt there." With John the Baptist as an example, among the closing remarks were these, "John was sound toward God, sound toward himself and sound toward others. We need men great in the sight of God."

Wiley Shows Enrollment Gains

MARSHALL, Tex., May 2.—According to recent study made by the research bureau of Wiley college, the college enrollment has shown a very satisfactory trend over the past 30 years. The number of college students has increased 800 percent during that period. Since 1911, out-of-state enrollment has increased 240 percent. In 1911 the foreign enrollment amounted to 8 percent of the total; in 1939, it was 23.4 percent. 19 counties in Texas were represented in the 1911 student body. The number of counties had increased to 46 by 1939. At various times the total number of counties in Texas from which Wiley has drawn students amounted to 91. In 1911 only three states other than Texas were represented in the Wiley College enrollment. The patronizing territory now covers 26 states, the District of Columbia and 2 foreign countries.

Clear the Highway

Get your car safely clear of the main-traveled portion of the highway when stopping for sightseeing or because of mechanical trouble, reminds the Automobile Club of Southern California.

Such a precaution is necessary not only for the safety of the motorist or mechanic who has to work on the car, but also for the protection of other users of the highway. As an added precaution, the wheels of the car should be blocked with stone or some other object, even on a slight grade. Don't rely solely on the brakes.

The objects we pursue and the spirit we manifest reveal our standpoint, and show what we are winning.—Mary Baker Eddy.

Take Oaths in Missionary Society

The Sunset Avenue SDA church had its first Investiture Service last Sabbath afternoon when boys and girls took the oaths of the Missionary Volunteer Society and received the ranks of Friends and Companions in this international organization.

Rev. L. A. Skinner, secretary of the Missionary Volunteer Department of the Southern California Conference of the Seventh-day Adventists, gave the charge to the group and conducted the investment.

Mrs. Gertrude Nunn, teacher of the parochial school, prepared the young people and assisted them in meeting the requirements for entrance into the orders. Certificates and honors were also presented for prescribed reading requirements, and for various vocational achievements. The work of these groups is similiar in some respects to that of the Boy and Girl Scouts.

The following were invested as Friends: Ruth and Marjorie Banks, Robert and Daniel Chillious, Robert Morgan, Rose and Vurna Thompson and Owen Troy, Ollie Chillous and Amelia McAdoo were inducted into the advanced order of Companions.

Paper Will Honor City's Mothers

Arrangements are being made to give honor to the mothers of Pasadena in the May 9 issue of the California Eagle.

Pictures of Pasadena mothers, expressions of appreciation, memoirs, Mother's Day programs of the churches, and special events connected with the observance of the day will be featured.

Miss Gladys Harris, social editor, is giving special attention to the gathering of pictures and stories for this issue. Her telephone number is SYcamore 23293.

FASHIONAIDS... by Ed Nord

Shhh — don't tell — but what looks like sleeves is really solid lady! Any type of woman can have large upper arms, and while they may be a bit uncomfortable, they are not at all fatal to good looks. Be sure your sleeve is loose and well-fitted at the armhole, and have it attached to the dress at the top of the shoulder — not too high. The sleeve must be quite loose to conceal the true form of the oversized arm. Never use shiny materials or horizontal stripes on sleeves for this type arm, as any material that calls attention is undesirable. When it is necessary to use transparent chiffons, georgettes or net, use double thickness to give an opaque impression. Use blouses, boleros or jackets that are quite loose as they make the arms seem thinner, and use a full flared skirt to balance the softly full blouse and sleeves.

WORTHWHILE ORGANIZATIONS

A recent survey has shown some of the organizations the Junior College students consider worthwhile. Among them are the following: Religious clubs: where they discuss the Bible and scripture, and its interpretation for our every day living. An example is the WWG with Mrs. Irene Lampkin supervisor. The AME Junior Choir is considered helpful because it trains one in music, using this training to sing praises to God. This group is head by Mrs. Lillian Piersaul. Moulton Johnson, director and Merlene Ballard, organist.

The Gilbert Allen Chorus helps one to believe that the better things in life are free, for Mr. Allen is working hard trying to develop the chorus. Bobbie Jones is president of this group.

Scattergoods is headed by Mrs. Mae Reese Johnson. This club helps one to learn about the history and present advancements of our race. In this club one also studies the race problems and how to solve them.

The Little Sister Club is a side branch of the Business and Professional Women's Club. The supervisors each have a girl for their little sister, and do everytthing in their power, to help this little sister through advise and helpful criticism. They have given several dinners, picnics, and parties for this grooup.

Junior Church meetings are generally held every Wednesday night from seven to eight o'clock. This helps the individual to realize that being a Christian requires more of your time than Sunday. In this meeting, there are student leaders, and open discussions, thus helping one to lead, or express himself.

The Armulites is the only Negro club on either campus. Thsi clubs, seems to help unite the Negro students on the Jaysee Campuses. These are not the only clubs or meetings that are considered helpful, but only a few. The students of Jaysee would like to express their gratitude to the organizers of these clubs for your time spent in trying to help the Young People of Pasadena.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Good reading material, is food for the soul,
Have you an ambition, have you any goal,
When the sun is settin', at the close of the day,
Has your time been wasted, or will it repay,
Repay you for worry, sorry and strife,
Have you climbed a step higher, the ladder of life.

Has your day been valued, or has it been waste
Will you get any further going at that swift pace.
If your time has been wasted, of life's fast, hard race.
If your time's been wasted and you have no gain,
Someday you'll be caught in the storm and the rain.

So now is the time to set your own goal,
You can't waste your time, so that is the toll.
You must pay something, for anything good.
I think it's worth it, and I think you should.
Should not waste your time, at any old cost,
And your gain will be greater, than that little lost.

Mrs. Ida Snowden, 4001 W. Huntington blvd., Monrovia, was hostess to a group of friends at a birthday dinner April 27, honoring Miss G. Harris of Pasadena. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Lowe of Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. George Wilson of Pomona, Mrs. Mattie Mucker and Miss Jessie Harris of Pasadena.

Mrs. Clara W. Brown, 509 W. Claremont street is sponsoring a club of young people in Monrovia. The program of the club will encourage the young people in their school work and set a standard so they can become future leaders. They met in the Social Hall of the Second Baptist church and elected the following officers: L. McCoy, president; Beatrice Thompson, 1st vice president; Mary Jean Wallace, secretary; King Parrish, asst. secy.; Shirley Jean Woods, treas.

Mrs. Alberta Kemp and children of New Orleans are house guests of Mrs. Kemp's brother, Oliver Brown, 509 W. Claremont.

The Pasadena Literary Art club met at the home of Mrs. Louise Jones, 530 W. Claremont, Mrs. P. R. Kirkland, hostess. The meeting was opened by singing "Since Jesus Came Into My Heart;" prayer by Miss Ethel Fitchue after a brief business session. The meeting was turned over to Mrs. Clara Brown, chairman of program, introducing Miss Gladys Harris, who served as mistress of ceremonies. Mrs. Williams gave a talk on the life of Booker T. Washington which was very interesting. One motto which we hope to remember: "Cast down your buckets where you are." Solo by Mrs. Sharnette Floyd. Mrs. A. Bibbs introduced the speaker, Attorney David A. Williams of Los Angeles who spoke on public health and education and the importance of the need of making of wills. Everyone enjoyed the instructive message. The chairman thanked each for appearing on program.

Visitors were Miss Bolivia Bonty, Rev and Mrs. S. M. Malone and daughter and Mrs. David Williams of Los Angeles.

A vote of thanks was extended to the hostess on behalf of the club by Mrs. C. A. Copeland for the wonderful repast. The meeting was adjourned to meet with Mrs. Frances Johnson.

The Spring Fashion Parade and Tea of the Cosmopolitan club held Sunday, April 28 at 34 Glorietta street, was a huge success. Various costumes were displayed by the younger set, evening gowns, afternoon frocks and sports wear. The ladies of the club in their semi-formal attire added much charm to the affair. Delicious refreshments were served. Tea was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Frierson.

Quincy Jameses Entertain at Dinner

Mr. and Mrs. Quincy C. James entertained at their home on Glorietta Street Mr. and Mrs. Garner, Mr. and Mrs. Guy, Mr. and Mrs. Markin, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Greene, with a delightful dinner cooked in a vessel of Mr. James' invention.

• HUMOR

Don't feel afraid of anything;
Through life just freely roam—
The world belongs to all of us,
So make yourself at home!

Ever notice that the fellow who is always in a hurry is usually late.

Relief Inspector: "Is your wife dependent on you?"

George: "She sho nuf is. If I didn't find jobs for her, she'd starve to death."

A fool and his money are soon parted. But— the real puzzle is how did they ever get together.

Masonic Lodge in Pasadena Meets

A meeting of King Solomon Lodge No. 10 of Pasadena was held April 16, with Percy C. Carter, Jr. 32 degree R. W. M. officiating 3rd degree was conferred. Other officers present were: Ira Knox, S. New York Names Expo Commission

NEW YORK, May 2.—Mayor La Guardia has named four nationally prominent New Yorkers to serve on a commission representing this city officially in connection with the coming American Negro Exposition at the Chicago Coliseum from July 4 thru Sept. 2, it was announced this week.

Members are Judge Jane Bolin, only colored woman magistrate in the nation, chairman; Judge Myles Paige, Tax Commissioner Hubert C. Delaney and Walter White, secretary of the NAACP.

SAN BERNARDINO BAND BATTLE A SUCCESS

SAN BERNARDINO, (By the Rangerettes)—The Battle of the Bands dance Saturday, with the orchestras of Stony La Marr of San Bernardino and Jack Martin of Los Angeles, playing, was a success. The dance was held at the Municipal Auditorium and there were visitors from Los Angeles, Pasadena, Ontario, Riverside, Redlands and other surrounding cities attending. The singing of the new members to the La Marr orchestra, Pauline Allen and the "Three Queens" was a sensation. Among those seen at the dance were Mrs. Felice Irby and party from Los Angeles; Sammie Lee Strickland; Ange Strickland and Marie Carter from Riverside; Helen Collins and Nate Moreland from Redlands; Emanuel Newton and Marion Gordon; Louise Grayson, Marie Wallace, Felix Bowers, Delochie McClellan, Ursula Evans, Vera Harris, Dora and Julia Jones, Scram Harris, Madelyn Cook, Corrie Davis and Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Harris of San Bernardino.

Nate Moreland was honored at a taco party Apr. 22, given in honor of his birthday by a group of friends.

The Dixie Singers of Pasadena, who sang at New Hope Baptist church last Sunday, were very good.

Mrs. Marguerite Rivers, who has been confined to San Bernardino hospital for the last month, is reported feeling much better.

SPORTS

Girls of San Bernardino certainly did take the Riverside girls for a good cleaning at the San Bernardino Jaysee, while the boys cleaned up on the Bakersfield basketball team. After this glorious victory, Pasadena's male team made Berdoo sit up and take notice at the final game.

Leaving basketball until next year, the girls are coming along swell in softball, coached by Nate Moreland, recreation leader. This year the Westside has added a couple of Eastside players to their team, Mary Louise Grayson and Pauline Brightwell. This should cause some excitement and put some pep into their games.

Basketball fans of Berdoo are seen every Sunday on the eastside of town watching those Eagles "Shake down the Stars" with Johnny Ford pitching and that star player Francis Richardson on first base. They really get a show.

Redlands university beat Laverne college 9-4 with Nate Moreland pitching 9 innings for Redlands.

• THE COOK'S SCRAPBOOK

BY EVA WILLIAMS

OVEN BAKED SPAGHETTI WITH ITALIAN SAUCE

Cook 1 package of spaghetti, unbroken, for 15 minutes or until spaghetti is tender but not too soft. Pour into a strainer and let cold water run over and set aside to cool.

Sauce—
1 sweet pepper
1 carrot
2 medium-sized onions
2 pieces celery
2 or 3 fresh mushrooms
1-4 lb ground round steak
1 tablespoon paprika
1 slice flat slat pork or bacon
1 can tomatoes, solid pack
2 teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon sugar
½ teaspoon pepper
3 whole cloves, 1 clove garlic

Method:

Chop vegetables. Fry out salt pork. Add meat and vegetables, stirring until slightly browned, then add the tomatoes and seasoning and cook until soft, adding water if needed.

Pour over cooked spaghetti. Cover with buttered crumbs and grated cheese. Bake in oven for 25 or 30 minutes.

Here is a coffee cake that is easy to put together and very tasty too. Try it for breakfast soon.

2 cups flour
3 heaping teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
2-3 cup sugar
3 tablespoons butter
2 eggs, 1 cup milk

Mix as any cake. Bake 35 minutes.

For The Top
½ cup sugar
1-4 cup flour
3 teaspoons cinnamon

Mix together lightly with about ⅓ lb butter. Sprinkle over top of cake.

BREADED ARTICHOKE BOTTOMS

Dry canned artichoke bottoms with a soft cloth. Beat together 1 egg and 2 tablespoons of milk; dip bottoms one by one into egg mixture; then into sifted bread crumbs. Fry in deep fat until amber color. Drain and serve with tartar sauce.

Tartar Sauce
1 cup mayonnaise
1 tablespoon chopped cucumber pickles
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
1 teaspoon onion juice
1 tablespoon chopped capers.

Combine ingredients and mix well.

Auto Workers Choose CIO

DETROIT, May 2. (CNA)—Negro automobile workers of the General Motors plants joined their fellow white unionists this week in selecting the United Automobile Workers union of the CIO as their collective bargaining agency in dealing with the huge motor corporation.

In an election in all G-M plants the CIO won an overwhelming victory over the AFL and another craft union, polling over 90,000 votes. The election gave the industrial organization exclusive bargaining rights for 48 General Motors plants employing more than 120,000 workers.

SUNSHINE BAND OF SANTA ANA CHURCH GIVES PROGRAM

SANTA ANA, (By Mrs. E. L. Wyatt)—The Sunshine Band of Second Baptist church presented an inspiring program Sunday at three o'clock. Mrs. Bernice Young, Sunshine Mother, was in charge.

Mrs. LeRoy Burks was hostess at a surprise luncheon honoring Miss Rebecca Taylor.

Noah Dickerson and friends motored to Riverside and San Bernardino, visiting relatives and friends.

Mrs. Wyatt and Mrs. Dean attended the Executive Board and Council of the Women's Political Study club in Los Angeles Thursday.

The Men's progressive club served a dinner at First Baptist church Thursday to a large and appreciative group.

Rev. E. C. Thornton, pastor of Second Baptist church, preached both morning and evening. Rev. M. L. Brinson assisted at the evening service.

The Women's Political Study club sponsored a Spring Style Tea Sunday afternoon in the beautiful gardens of Mrs. Noah Dickerson on Second street. Modeling was directed by Mrs. Jerry Johnson.

Mrs. M. O. Anderson and her committee of gracious hostesses poured tea.

Miss Rebecca Taylor and Mrs. Ada H. Wyatt attended a handkerchief shower at the home of Mrs. Golden Weston, supervisor of Adult Education. Tea was served in the garden where readings were rendered by Mrs. M. Geetings and Mrs. Girstang.

Health Week was observed at Second Baptist church in a drama, "Then and Now," presented by the young people.

CIO Pact Boosts Workers' Pay

SUFFOLK (Va.) May 2. (CNA)—A contract was signed here between Local 232 of the United Cannery, Agricultural and Packing Union, CIO, with the Planters Nut and Chocolate Co., the largest peanut concern in the world. The contract covers approximately 1000 employes, about 650 Negro and 350 white.

Highlight of the new contract was the granting of wage increases of 10 to 11 per cent for about 90 per cent of the employes in the plant. The remaining employes for the most part will receive increases of about 5 per cent. It is estimated by the company and the union that these increases will total about $50,000. Under the contract, the minimum wage is 33 cents, with most employes getting an average of 35 cents minimum.

Other concessions included in the contract was the 40-hour week; full seniority protection, a "streamlined" grievance machinery, and various provisions pertaining to health and sanitation in a dust-ridden industry.

NELLIE CONNER KIN DEAD IN OAKLAND

OAKLAND, May 2—Benny Rogers, prominent resident of this city, died suddenly here last Thursday. A Southern Pacific employee, Rogers was well known all over the Coast. He is survived by two daughters and two sons, three sisters: Mrs. Nellie V. Conner of Los Angeles, Mrs. Gene Shorter of Sacramento; and Miss Violet Rogers of San Francisco; a brother, Michael C. Rogers of Sacramento.

Name Ford for Vice President

NEWARK (N. J.) May 2. (CNA)—Earl Browder and James W. Ford were unamimously nominated amid enthusiastic acclaim this week for President and Vice-President of the United States, respectively, by the State Convention of the Communist Party.

Ford, Negro leader of the party, was Communist candidate for Vice President in 1932 and 1936.

Mob Threats Anger Job Pickets

OAKLAND, May 2. (CNA)—Predictions of vibilantism and lynching against Negroes of West Oakland, voiced by the "New Free Press," believed linked with the Mike Kelly political machine, this week aroused forces cooperating in the Citizens Committee to Obtain Jobs for Negroes.

"It will take more than that to stop us, with the success we are achieving in our campaign", declared the Rev. H. T. S. Johnson, committee chairman.

The lynching predictions were made by the weekly in an article on the committee's campaign for jobs and referring to Negroes as "an impressionable race and easily led."

Depicting the jobs campaign as one of "muttered threats" and an incipient outburst of mass violence, the newspaper said:

"Merchants of West Oakland have their reasons for excluding Negroes from their employment (no reasons were cited in the article) . . . These merchants are organizing a committee of their own to combat the influences of the Negro organization and it may be no time at all before the 'committee' becomes nothing more than a vigilante group."

Perfect Plans for National Negro Insurance Week

RICHMOND, May 2.—C. L. Townes, secretary of the National Negro Insurance association, announced this week that plans have been perfected for the Sixth Annual National Negro Insurance Week, May 6 to 11.

More than 15,000 executives, officials, employes and salesmen representing 42 of the nation's outstanding Negro insurance companies and local underwriters' associations are busy making final plans for the forthcoming week.

This year's quota calls for the production of $25,000.00 in new insurance. Special emphasis is being made through a nationwide essay contest for junior and senior high school students to educate the public on the value of life insurance as family and individual protection, and pointing out the important position that the life insurance business holds in the economic and social life of the nation.

The association is headed by Dr. P. P. Creuzot of New Orleans, La., as president. Details of the big program are under the direction of the N. N. I Week committee with Frank A. Young of New Orleans, as chairman, and A. Douglass Doss of Louisville, Ky., as secretary.

PROMOTION PLAN

Part of the committee's promotional plan included contacting the home offices of all member companies and through their field forces, schools, newspapers, pulpit, radio and other organizations in an effort to get the message of love, thrift and economic security into the homes of Negroes throughout the entire nation.

"This message is an appeal to America's largest minority groups to see life insurance as a financial democracy. During National Negro Insurance Week, May 6-11, more than 15,000 ambassadors of this great financial democracy, including fieldmen, managers, supervisors, directors, home and branch office clerks, medical examiners and executives will carry the message of 'All for One—One for All' to every Negro home in an effort to improve the economic condition of the race, and lay the foundation for their permanent security," Townes said.

Says First Lady, FDR Not Alike

BALTIMORE (Md.) May 2—Mrs. Eunice Carter of New York, aide to Republican Presidential candidate Thomas E. Dewey, warned Negroes in a speech last Wednesday night here to avoid regarding the actions and speeches of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt as symbolic of the Democratic Partys' real attitude.

"Mrs. Roosevelt is a great lady, perhaps one of the greatest," Mrs. Carter said. "But she is not to be confused with the President himself nor with the present Administration . . . Do not be misled into believing that the actions and attitudes of a very great lady and great American are indicative of the attitude of the Democratic Party."

IT PAYS TO CACKLE!

Scientifically, chicken eggs are no better than duck eggs. But the average person won't buy them at any price. If chicken eggs were selling for a dollar a dozen, the average housewife wouldn't buy duck eggs at 10 cents per dozen.

Why?

The difference is due to advertising.

The duck, when she lays an egg, waddles off in silence and with her head hanging low.

The hen, with head lifted high, comes off the nest cackling. And the old rooster sticks out his chest and crows about it!

It pays to advertise. (See J. W. Porter, our Pasadena representative of The California Eagle, or telephone SYcamore 3-1665.)

Randolph at Odds With Policies of Negro Congress

ing in any way any sympathy for the Soviet Union.

"We disagree on the question of policy. I have come to the conclusion reluctantly, I can no longer serve in the capacity as president of the congress."

Silence filled the vast auditorium as the magnificent voice was hushed. Then, there was ohs and ahs, and a few scattering bits of applause from those who had admired the courageous statement from the man who had headed the organization through troublous formative years.

NOMINATES YERGAN

Quietly, Randolph then turned and asked for the report of the nominating committee. The name of Max Yergan, former Y. M. C. A. secretary for the work in South Africa, was presented, and the body elected him by acclamation.

Named as vice presidents were Messrs. Henry Johnson, Arthur Simmons, Rev. W. H. Jernagin, Rev. Owen Whitfield, Mrs. Fay Allen and Dr. C. H. Lewis. John P. Davis was continued as executive secretary and U. S. Tate as treasurer.

Earlier in the evening, William Patterson, chairman of the resolutions committee, had submitted his report in which it was stated that 95 resolutions had been heard by the committee and 73 accepted. Among them was the debated resolution on unity with Labor's Non-partisan league.

From the outset when the resolution was read to the body, it was evident that Randolph opposed it and he spoke so openly. But the tenor of the entire body was against him and after a brief flurry of debate it was unanimously adopted, thereby establishing what is believed to be a precedent in the organization, which had been previously non-committal to any political group.

Observers believed that this was the clincher which brought Randolph's statement.

Throughout the auditorium, there were mutterings by many who had followed the organization and felt that something worth while had been accomplished. However, they now turned and declared the Communistic party was "kidnaping" the National Negro congress.

Argument Ends in Suicide

Apparently fearful of the long arm of the law, Charles H. Youngblood, 60, of 4128 Naomi avenue, was found early last Friday morning in an alley at the rear of his address a suicide, police said this week.

C. R. Ransom, 1215 E. 41st St., discovered the body while walking thru the alley. Youngblood's right wrist was slashed, apparently by a straight razor which was found by his side. He was pronounced dead by Newton ambulance attendants.

Newton Detectives J. W. Clark and R. Dunn, who investigated, were told by Mrs. Corine Jones, living at 4128-A Naomi, that the night before about 9 o'clock, Youngblood had an argument with her over the rent.

She said she went into the house and began packing her clothes and when she came out a short time later, Youngblood attacked her with a club, beating her over the head and shoulders. When she called police, he left.

Police believe Youngblood took his life because he thought officers were looking for him as a result of his alleged assault.

Porter, Hero of Rail Crash, Tells Own Story of Tragedy

NEW YORK, May 2 (Lawrence Emery for CNA)—James A. Taylor, Pullman porter on the New York Central Lake Shore Limited which sped into a fatal crash at Little Falls, N. Y., two weeks ago, rescued 16 passengers in his car but regards it as no great deed and all a part of the day's work.

Taylor, who is 44-years old and has a wife and two children, shuns publicity and was reluctant to talk about the rescue work which earned him praise from those he helped, from company officials, and from the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters.

A porter since 1921, Taylor was on his regular run and quit work some time after 11 p. m. He was in the fourth Pullman car back of the coaches.

AWAKENED BY CRASH

He had just gone to bed and was dozing when he felt "a strong vibration through the car. I knew the train was coming to a quick stop and I jumped out of bed and started dressing as fast as I could.

"Then the crash came. It was like a tremendous crack of thunder coming after a stroke of sharp lightning. There were two or three sounds like that, and I feared the car was going to turn over and then everything settled down and was quiet."

Taylor's car had been lifted and sliced sideways between two others and came to rest at a crazy angle, but did not topple over.

There were 13 adults and 2 children in Taylor's Pullman. Most of them had been sleeping, and all of them had been badly shaken and jolted, but there were no injuries.

"After the first excitement," Taylor states, "they were very calm. I never saw such a calm bunch of people."

'WENT RIGHT TO WORK'

"I went right to work and I mean I worked. I was soaking wet with perspiration in no time, and I got all those passengers outside as quickly as possible. All of them went out through a window I smashed.

"I helped them all, and I got all the baggage out and then I took my blankets and bedding and put it outside for the children."

Taylor was fairly certain that he had all his passengers outside safely, but went back to make sure, and found that one had been trapped in a compartment when the door to it was jammed close. He summoned help and finally wrenched the door open.

As soon as he had done all that could be done in his own car, Taylor ran up ahead to the more badly damaged cars to offer his services there. But by then rescue crews and firemen had arrived and he was not needed.

But he climbed to the top of one of the Pullmans that was on its side, and there he found the body of porter, Casper G. White, a charter member of the Brotherhood, a member of its executive board for 14 consecutive years, and a close friend of Taylor's for 15 years.

"When I saw his body there," Taylor says, "I realized for the first time that how close we all had come to death. And as I looked at White, I knew that it had been just a stroke of luck, or whatever it can be called, that I had not been assigned to that car instead of to my own."

Old Murder Puts Man in Jail

Last Thursday night when his common-law wife, Bessie Kimbler, alias Bessie Dorsey, told Lieut. R. S. Lockard, radio patrolmen L. G. Lund and N. H. Bertram of Newton division, that Howard Dorsey, 38-year old laborer of 1335½ E. 49th street, had often threatened her life and bragged, when drinking, of a holdup-murder in Chicago, the officers locked him up as a murder suspect.

Police said the woman stated that Dorsey and an accomplice held up either a cleaning plant or a grocery store in Chciago five years ago or since 1930, and that the accomplice and their victim were killed.

Making his escape to California, Dorsey had been living with her as her husband, the woman told the officers. Stating that he had threatened her life on numerous occasions, the woman said that while they were living in Bakersfield, Dorsey had fired two shots at her.

Dorsey was booked on suspicion of murder on advices of the homicide detail.

G-Men Fail to Probe Bombing of D. C. Home

WASHINGTON (D. C.) May 2—FBI officials have made no move to investigate the outrage against Mrs. Edna Holland, local high school teacher, whose home was bombed by hoodlums on April 19.

Mrs. Holland herself escaped serious injuries only because she stopped to attend a recital before returning from school to her home which is located in a white neighborhood.

The explosion shattered all the front windows in the house, tearing window frames from their moorings, unhinged doors, and tore a large hole in the six-inch cement porch. Windows in nearby homes also were broken.

Robert Ming, member of the local legal staff of the NAACP, said that the bombing was undoubtedly designed to terrorize Mrs. Holland in an effort to make her quit her home, which is located in a section where whites have made use of a "restrictive covenant" arrangement among themselves to keep Negroes from buying homes in this area."

Ming and Dean William H. Hastie, of the Howard University law school, who is chairman of the NAACP's national legal committee, conferred Thursday with Major Ernest Brown, chief of the D. C. police in an effort to push a local police investigation.

Angelenos Mourn Death of Kansan

The death Tuesday of Jackson Roach in Newton, Kas., was mourned here by relatives and friends. Roach, who was 76-years of age, suffered a stroke 10 days before his death. He was a native of Kentucky and pioneer resident of Newton.

Roach was a recent visitor here. His several trips to the coast made for him scores of local friends. Four daughters survive the aged man here. They are Mrs. C. J. Gross, Mrs. W. T. Bell, Mrs. R. B. Edwards and Mrs. William Small.

can in congress.

A "Big Four" delegation composed of one Negro and three whites, was agreed on. The committee on rules provided that one of the four should be a Negro and balloted upon separately from the three whites. The adoption of this rule eliminated the possibility of any fight on William Billy Morant from the floor, as he had been agreed upon by colored leaders and was certain to have no opposition.

Robinson's Candy, Wood's Ice Cream Ideal for Mother

If there's ever a time when sentiment rules--it's on Mother's Day. And what if anything can express deep love, and affection more than a beautiful box of delicious ROBINSON'S candy or express the sentiment in a whimsical heart-warming way--a quart of WOOD'S velvet smooth Ice Cream.

When you give your Mother either of these lovely gifts her words "Perfectly Lovely" will express a world of thoughts. She'll be glad that you remembered her . . . she will know that you are trying to express in the best way possible your deep love, and pride in her.

So make your Mother happy by giving her a box of ROBINSON'S delicious candy. Each box is beautifully wrapped, and contains caramels, nougats, creams, fruit centers and nut clusters--all tasty, all tantalizing, and enjoyable, and all covered with delicious, luscious, creamy chocolate.

Yes, ROBINSON'S Candy is "Perfectly Lovely".

Rich in cream, tops for taste, favorite for flavor, and high in food values and vitamins.

WOOD'S ICE CREAM is Mother's choice. Pure cream and sugar make this tongue-teasing healthful ice cream so nourishing. Try some tonight and solve the dessert problem on Mother's Day by serving some. Remember it comes in many flavors.

Yes, WOOD'S ICE CREAM is "Perfectly Lovely".

Golden State Mutual Announces Purchase of Adjacent Property

Looking toward fulfilling its growing need for additional home office quarters, the Golden State Mutual Life Insurance company announced the purchase of property at 4267-67½ Central avenue, this week.

The newly-acquired property is adjacent to the site of the company's home office and, according to William Nickerson jr., president, was purchased from Mrs. Hilda Stieber. At present the two-story building houses a dress shop owned by Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Morris and an upstairs apartment.

The two-story Golden State Mutual building, erected in 1928, is entirely occupied by the home office and Los Angeles branch office of Golden State Mutual and the growing business demands even larger quarters. The management of the company did not disclose the details of their plans for use of the new property.

Architect Garrott Moves Office; Takes on Partner

Announcement of the removal of his office to 672 South Lafayette Park place near Wilshire boulevard and association with Gregory Ain, Guggenheim award winner for 1940, was made this week by James H. Garrott, prominent local architect.

A practicing architect for the past 12 years, Mr. Garrott has designed numerous fine residences, apartment houses and commercial buildings throughout the city and his environs. He has just completed plans for a $50,000 twenty four unit apartment building for Grace F. Marquis to be built on the corner of Fifth and New Hampshire streets and residences for prominent Angelenos, including George A. Beavers, Jr., vice president of the Golden State Mutual Life Insurance company, Attorney Loren Miller and Ruth Holloway. To his credit on the west side are the Bessie Bruce and William L. Hill residences.

Outstanding buildings in this community designed by Mr. Garrott include the Golden State office building, St. Philips Episcopal church, Mount Zion Baptist church, Pilgrim Baptist church and many others. Many of the large open front markets throughout the county were designed by him for Gertmenian and Fitzsimmon stores.

NAACP triumph that some experts have placed its potential monetary value to Negro school teachers of the South into the hundreds of millions! For all its shouting, its "liberalism", its progressivism, the NNC could not nearly duplicate such a record. In any fair comparison, it was plain that the young organization could not hope to match strides with the older body it wished to replace.

On the first score, even more significant, the NNC in successive sessions came increasingly under the direct sway of the Communist party and certain CIO organizations. Not only that, but the body ACCEPTED CASH "DONATIONS" FROM BOTH GROUPS. Such a policy was immediately suspected by some of those who had previously been ardent supporters. Indeed, the most broadminded began to doubt the independence of an organization bound to a political party by the golden chains of U. S. currency. Randolph himself neatly summed up the argument when he refused to run for reelection to the presidency. "Wherever you get your money," he said, "you get our ideas and control."

In the face of Randolph's opposition, however, the NNC accepted John L. Lewis' invitation to join forces with Labor's Non-Partisan League "to come to a working agreement with the mighty forces of labor and go forward to victory".

In short, it appears that the rebel has been tamed, that the independent National Negro Congress has finally evolved into an auxiliary of Mr. Lewis' Third Party.

Power, Lamour Score in "Johnny Apollo" at U. A.

"Johnny Apollo"—college hero, banker's son . . . mobster!

That's the powerful role that brings Tyrone Power to the United Artists theatre, 9th and Broadway, downtown Los Angeles, in the 20th Century-Fox drama of that title, which co-stars him with Dorothy Lamour.

Not since "Jesse James" has Power had a part like this, and never in his career has he given such a great performance. And lovely Lamour reveals her true allure for the first time as "Lucky" Dubary, who falls hard for "Johnny Apollo".

When the story opens Power is an idealistic college man, but he doesn't remain that long. For when the banker father he idolized (Edward Arnold) is sent to prison for embezzlement, the boy's whole world crashes about his ears.

Spurned by his wealthy friends, broke and unable to get a job because of the stigma against his name, the young man assumes an alias, "Johnny Apollo", and joins the mob of Mickey Dwyer, brilliantly played by Lloyd Nolan. It is here that Johnny meets "Lucky" Dubarry, Mickey's girl, who understands and loves johnny, regardless.

He also meets Judge Brennan, a tippling ex-judge turned underworld lawyer, who boasts a talent for "springing" his clients from jail. Charley Grapewin, who scored such a hit as Grampa in Darryl F. Zanuck's production of John Steinbeck's "The Grapes of Wrath", scores again in this role. And Lionel Atwill is excellent as the banker's helpless lawyer, McLaughlin.

The boy works tirelessly to help free the father who has turned against him because of his underworld connections, and the story works up to one of the most thrilling climaxes in screen history.

In connection with "Johnny Apollo" as a companion feature the United Artists is offering the drama of two bold sisters who loved the same man entitled, "And One was Beautiful".

Conduct Last Rites for Ella LaMar

Notables Attend Services for Pioneer Woman

"In simplicity, there is dignity and sublimity."

It was simplicity that marked funeral services held for Mrs. Ella LaMar last Friday in Angelus Funeral home. Rev. J. D. Gordon, pastor of Tabernacle Baptist church, preached the sermon. A lifelong friend of the deceased, Rev. Gordon paid tribute to the departed pioneer citizen.

Mrs. LaMar, mother of newsman Lawrence F. LaMar, was a native of Atlanta, Ga.

Scores of friends of long standing, passed in silent tribute before the beautiful casket specially designed by John L. Hill.

The city and county government and the U. S. postal department were represented. Assistant city attorney Bert McDonald and deputy district attorney Charles Matthews represented their respective departments. The office of county supervisor Gordon McDonough was represented by Mr. Kelley.

The superintendent of post office branch station "V" was present and brought wreaths of condolence from that department. Solos by Marguerite Chapman and Mabel Massengail added a soothing quality to the sorrowful occasion. Mrs. Mabel Gray, president of the Five and Over Charity club, paid a glowing tribute to the departed mother and the family she left to mourn her passing.

Others who read tributes were Revs. Loretta Sanders, B. June Cobb and Mrs. Luvenia Shannon. The deceased leaves to mourn her passing sons, Robert G. LaMar jr. and Lawrence F. LaMar, daughters, Rev. Maybelle Oliver, Mrs. Corabelle Duncan and Mrs. Dora McGee; husband, R. G. LaMar sr., and 15 grandchildren.

INDIANA CLUB MEETS

The Indiana club met at the home of Mrs. Leona Collier, 1303 W. 36th street, Sunday afternoon, and was very royally entertained by the hostess. R. C. Jackson was elected president; Mrs. Leona Collier, vice president; Morton Manson, sergeant-at-arms; Earl Toddy, chairman committee on Constitution and by-laws.

Next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Thomas, 1145 E. 25th street, May 12 at 3 p. m. All "Hoosiers" are invited to attend.

11 Delegates to Attend GOP Confab from Mississippi

JACKSON (Miss.) May 2. (ANP)—Mississippi "black and tan" Republicans last week elected 11 uninstructed delegates to attend the national GOP convention at Philadelphia in June. S. D. Redmond, Jackson, re-elected chairman of the state executive committee, also was named delegate-at-large to the convention.

Eighty-one of Mississippi's 82 counties were represented at the meeting, it was announced by Perry Howard, Republican national committeeman, who is strongly supporting Senator Robert Taft for the presidential nomination. "This is a Republican year", said Mr. Howard.

A rival slate of 11 delegates will be chosen May 13 by the "lily white" Republican group here. This group was not seated at the national convention four years ago.

Other delegates-at-large named were M. H. Daily and E. L. Patton. District delegates will be: First, W. J. Box, Corinth; second, L. E. Oldham, Oxford; third, Fred H. Miller, Mound Bayou; fourth, M. U. Rhodes, French Camp; fifth, C. T. Butler, Meridian; sixth, J. B. Woods, Hattiesburg; and 7th, A. M. Redmond, Jackson.

Alternates to the national convention are: Mary C. Booze, Mound Bayou; L. B. Phillips, Europa; I. B. Salmon, Senatobia; and S. W. Swalm, Brookhaven; H. Barton, West Point; S. W. Indianola; D. M. Halsey, Kosciusko; D. V. Johnson, Meridian; J. W. Waller, Moss Point; Dr. Leo M. Owens, Vicksburg.

Hospital Advisory Council Proposed By Supervisor

hospital advisory

A beneficial and progressive move to increase efficiency of the General hospital was recognized yesterday in the proposal of Supervisor Gordon L. McDonough, to establish a Los Angeles County hospital Advisory Council, consisting of 7 members.

McDonough presented his plans in a resolution to the Board of Supervisors this week, declaring:

"The major difficulties arising in the operation of the General hospital can be classified as following: medical, administration, nursing, business administration, osteopathic, administration, labor, legal problems and social service.

"If the service rendered to the 65,000 people admitted annually for hospitalization is not administered on the highest and most efficient basis, it results in much public criticism and tends to bring about discontent among patients and disorganization among employes ad increases the burden on taxpayers," commented McDonough.

Illinois & Chicago Invite You to the AMERICAN NEGRO EXPOSITION

TO COMMERCIAL EXHIBITORS:

This gigantic spectacle offers a golden opportunity to place your merchandise or services before the vast throngs who will attend this 60 day Negro World's Fair. A limited space is available for exhibits of this nature. Write immediately for complete information.

FOR THE FIRST TIME in history, the Negro will have a real Exposition detailing his past and his glorious achievements in the 75 years since emancipation. Murals, dioramas and exhibits will graphically tell the dramatic story of the race's great part in building America.

The State of Illinois has set aside $75,000 to aid the Exposition. Government departments, federal agencies, foundations, institutions and individuals of both races are cooperating wholeheartedly. Whole sections will be devoted to displays of the Negro's contributions to every phase of American life. Pageants, dramatics, motion pictures, special days, noted leaders and many other special attractions will be featured during the duration of this epoch marking event.

Plan now to be in Chicago between July 4 and September 2. It is a national celebration which no Negro can afford to miss. Never before has there been an event comparable to this mammoth observance of the 75th anniversary of Negro freedom. You owe it to yourself to visit the American Negro Exposition, the most amazing event ever conceived.

GLOBE NEWS & GOSSIP

By JAY GOULD

SAN FRANCISCO, May 2.—Tanforan stewards giving several of their jockeys the gong last week, said they were stand-in riders and doing business.

Colonel E. R. Bradley, now in a wheel chair, says it's harder to get him in trim for the Kentucky Derby than it is to get his horse, the favorite Bimelich, in trim.

Santa Anita's 100 gee handicap is the biggest race in the world. But with Mutual in New York and Alfred G. Vanderbilt, headman, he may stage a 125-grander at Belmont Park to top Santa Anita.

The Three Brown sisters have been offer from a theatrical manager for six weeks at $1500 a week to open May 15. Two weeks in Norway, two weeks in Sweden, and two weeks in Denmark. It was a good offer, but they refused.

Duke Ellington played to over 3000 two nights in a row at Sweet's ballroom in Oakland with Ivy Anderson occupying the vocal spot on the bandstand with the best looking and neatest bunch of musicians I have ever seen. Duke will probably open the 1940 coast fair.

A good show manager could take Octavia Sumler under his wing and sell her services for $100 a week.

Ann Miller, tap dancer in George White's Scandals, wearing thin tights, goes in for the Scotch dance and hip hurling while tapping in the center of the stage.

The Pythian hotel, Hot Springs, is the gay spot where out of towners play all games and string along with all visitors.

Lee Thompson and Marie Williams, after going to the cleaners for $700 at Tanforan, drove to Los Angeles from Oakland in six hours and a half.

Streamline, six dollar Fair train between San Francisco and Los Angeles, is the swellest thing on wheels. Big bay windows, red cushioned seats, coffee shop, diner, with a broadcaster in each coach explaining the scenes all the way.

Pansy Spates of L. A., Lucile Tinely of Stockton and Legather Gomez of San Diego are getting around and going places. This bunch had the time of their lives at Duke's dance t'other nite.

Horses finishing on the inside in photo finishes generally get the gong as the outside horse usually gets the decision.

A local masseuse is getting sued for 50 bucks for knocking 5 pounds off a client from the middlesection down.

Nathan Roberts with 500 nickle boxes strung about the city of Frisco, never seems to worry the guests while dining in the swell spots by playing too loud as Nathan keeps the soft peddle on them.

Now that Mrs. Louis's restaurant is a success in the Club Alabam, she has opened a rooming house at 1532 Webster street.

Wonder what caused the big blowup between pretty and clever Miss Hathaway Scott, formerly of Chicago and Spec Clark, former manager of Jack's Tavern in Frisco. Miss Scott packed her bags and took the cut out.

Ethel Carter, after loosing 50 bucks at Tanforan, returned to the city acting very hinkty and blasted several friends.

Margaret Dodson, Bernice and Peggie Geary were seen at the races daily last week driving a 1940 expensive car. Margaret bought a 50 cent tip that brought her five winners, and they all motored back smiling.

Vernon Brown, co-owner of the Club Alabam, will probably step up on the water wagon next week, as he is a bad actor at times.

Nettie Winslow, manicurist at the Dunbar Hotel Barber Shop, L. A., can't seem to decide between a Los Angeles lad and a Seattle business man with plenty of money.

Mae Diggs, the art dancer, with her pretty model farm, may be Hollywood bound this summer.

Tommy Jordan of streamline fame and owner of the dining room in Jack's Tavern, 1931 Sutter street, Frisco, will do the week-end home with his wife who is his cashier.

Lovie Joe Robinson, who was first paid gambler for years in New York, will have to go back to his trade, booking the fights, baseball and playing the girls, as the Mutuels are now in and its a Federal charge to book on the track.

Don't be foolish boys! There must have been some misunderstanding between Ira Grant of race track fame and Kyser at Tanforan as no one gets by in this life without escaping critiism.

A couple were dining in a swanky spot, the lady swearing a backless gown with two shoulder straps. Someone was heard to say that, "If married people would dress for dinner there would be less divorces and tailors would do more business."

Nina Mae McKinney says, "she would hate to make a love scene with her husband as it would require so much acting."

Martha Ritchie, Cliff Ritchie's wife, and Henry Starr, can be heard every Sunday afternoon over Station KLS in Oakland, at [illegible]. Why not turn your dials and listen to this super show?

L. W. Pigfood and Minnie Gooddin of Chico, were seen picking losers at Tanforan last week.

Louie Lee of 1716 Webster street is a good catch for a nice-looker.

Eugene Davis, one of Frisco's most highly prized business men, is manager of one of San Francisco's leading hotels.

Watch this column for the photo of Eugene and Florence Allen. Gene is a mixologist at Jack's Tavern.

Grace Lewis' bonnet is very chic. Possibly it is a Paris original?

Mrs. Fredonia Baquie and Almeta Fields of Fredonia's Beauty Salon, looked nifty in their lovely outfits last week.

The waitresses at Jack's Tavern, Denny Lovette, Ollie (small) Walker, and Ruth Whitfield are the most charming beauties in Frisco. Why not drop around sometime and see their features?

The new orchestra at the Club Alabam is under the management of Ben Watkins, local band leader. Percy Bost and Edna Ross, however, are still holding the vocal spot.

For any information, write or wire Jay Gould, 1951 Sutter street San Francisco, Calif.

San Diego Executives of WPSC Motor to Los Angeles

SAN DIEGO, (By Mrs. E. B. Wesley)—Miss Clara Collins, first vice president of the local Negro Women's Political Study club, and Mrs. Ada Cleveland, one of the club"s executives, motored to Los Angeles last Thursday to attend the council meeting of all the Political Study clubs in the state. Our representatives report a most successful session.

Mrs. Alex McPherson, religious and civic leader, returned from Elsinore where she went for a short vacation Saturday.

Mrs. Della Harper spent the week end in Los Angeles with her daughter, Mrs. Reginald Harangue.

In charge of Mrs. Florence Morgan, Rosebud Temple No. 25 will hold its 7th annual flower show May 5 at Community Center, 2936 Imperial avenue. There will be indoor floats and a display of flower.

On May 19, Mrs. Morgan will present a children's program for the benefit of the scholarship fund of the Women's Civic League at Elks' Hall, corner Commercial and Hensley streets.

SOCIETY

At her beautiful home on Bancroft streets, Mrs. Joe Robinson was the charming hostess Monday afternoon at an elaborate dinner. The following were guests: Dr. L. K. Williams, president National Baptist convention, Dr. J. H. Branham, chrm. of Transportation commission, N BC; Mrs. J. C. Mapps, vice-pres. National Baptist Women's Dept.; Mrs. Wm. L. Branham, executive; Dr. R. C. Barbour, Editor National Baptist Voice of National Baptist convention; Rev. Charles H. Thomas Shelby, Earl Hines, Robert Bradley, Benjamin Floyd; Rev. J. L. Branham, pastor Calvary Baptist church.

Miss Beatrice Burks was given a delightful surprise party Saturday night by her mother, Mrs. Edward Hatcher, at her Franklin avenue residence. A number of friends of the young honor guest were in high praise of the evening's entertainment.

Sunday afternoon Mrs. John Carr of Imperial avenue, was hostess at a well appointed dinner party for the following: Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Jolly, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Haynes, Mmes. Mary Glenn, E. Hatcher, Alex McPherson.

Honoring Mrs. Rachael Bell, who is leaving for an extended trip East and South within the next day or so, Mrs. Cleo Kyle was hostess last Thursday at a unique going-away party in the form of a smart bridge luncheon at her pretty home on Clay avenue. There were 20 guests, from whom Mrs. Bell received many valuable gifts.

The Goddess of Hope Temple No. 15 was hostess to the grand princess, Mrs. Gertrude Edwards of the Washington, Oregon and California jurisdiction of U. B. F. and S. M. T.

The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Willa Baily with Worthy Princess Mattie Haynes and her staff of officers presiding. The grand princess' address was enjoyed by all. She was presented with a beautiful bouquet of roses and many gifts.

CHURCHES

At Bethel AME church, Evangelist Marjorie Casson is acting pastor in the absence of the pastor, Rev. L. H. Owens, who is attending the General Conference in Detroit. The Union Missionary society of which Mrs. Janie Young is president, held an interesting meeting in the afternoon, at which Evangelist Casson preached.

A two week revival was started Monday evening by the evangelist, who is inviting all ministers and their congregations to join in this effort.

Services followed the usual order at Calvary Baptist church, Rev. J. L. Branham, pastor; the Church of God in Christ, Elder James Jackson, pastor; Mt. Zion Baptist church, Rev. C. Johnson, pastor.

THE SICK

The Sunshine club reports the sick for the week: at the General Hospital—Mrs. Dannie Buckley, Mrs. Ophelia Holmes, Lurdie Price, Henry Jones; at Vauclain Home—Mrs. Arnita Banks, Miss Marian Miller, Benny Luckey, Russell Miller, C. D. Carr. William Bolden is at the Naval hospital. Mrs. Mabel Williams is ill at her home in Franklin avenue.

YWCA NEWS

The Business and Professional Women's club is planning fun galore at their "Game Party" tonight (Thursday). Bridge, whist, Chinese checkers and po-ke-no will be played. Prizes for each game as well as a door prize was given.

This group is rehearsing for a minstral to be given soon. Mrs. Grace Goodwin is assisting them in the absence of their advisor, Mrs. Exie L. Hampton.

The Senior Girl Reserves are planning a Mother Banquet to be held at the building May 9. This is an annual affair and is usually unique in every detail. Mrs. Alice is the advisor.

The Membership Rally began in April. Teams are headed by Mrs. Elethia Kinzy and Mrs. Ruth Richardson. The Committee meets weekly at the building to report the success of the drive.

This was Open House week at the Building, many visitors were shown through the building and yards.

Mrs. Lottie Porterfield was guest speaker at the Membership Tea given by Mrs. Elizabeth Smith, Apr. 28 at her residence on National Avenue. This was the first tea given for new members.

El Centro's Women Hear Soprano

EL CENTRO, (By W.A. Payne) —The Women's Civic Improvement club presented Mrs. Ruth Prince McGregor, soprano in concert last Thursday evening. A capacity audience greeted the soloist and was enthusiastic in expressions of appreciation.

Mrs. McGregor was ably assisted by Mrs. Irene Salisbury Prince, pianist, and Miss Ruth Acty, dramatist. Mrs. Prince was accompanist for Mrs. McGregor and also played solo numbers. Miss Acty who took part in the San Francisco production of "Run Little Chillun" read a monologue from Act III and a number from Dunbar.

Mrs. McGregor was in excellent voice and displayed rare talent in her renditions. The writer felt Thursday evening as heretofore that she is best in her rendition of Italian numbers. Her interpretation of spirituals is rare and shows her skill as an artist but her rendition of Indian numbers places her in an enviable group.

Parents and friends of California's public schools took advantage of the opportunity offered by the program Public Schools Week, visited the several schools, observed the work of the children, and discussed with the teachers those things that teacher and parent should know. The celebration this year was a banner one. Sparked by the Washington School PTA, there was a genuine interest taken in the school program. Every day brought parents on tour of the school plant. Tuesday evening, Washington and Douglass schools entertained the parents with a public program. After a community sing which established a fine fellowship, Principal A. E. Prince introduced the program, stressing the real object of the school and its practical program. This was followed by musical selections rendered by a Miss Phillips' children; songs with the Rhythm Band by Miss Ruth Knox's group; a suite of songs by Miss Lewi' group; Gypsy Songs, pupils in costume, Mrs. Besana's group; Mr. Robinson's group gave a series of recitations with violin accompaniment; Miss Acty's group rendered a suite of songs. Mr. Payne cited some of the accomplishments of the schools and quoted figures representing the investment in the work of the school; this was followed by a girls' trio from the high school in a musical number, Mrs. McGregor directing. Dr. Globe Hurst of the Board of Trustees and Mrs. Sarah Maples, president of the PTA responded for the citizens. Parents and friends then visited the class rooms in Washington school where the teachers outlined the objectives and goals of their respective groups. Friday morning, the seniors of Douglass high presented a phantasy, "The Cycle of Life," an original production very cleverly portrayed. The afternoon was given over to the Washington School track meet, an annual event sponsored by the Washington School PTA.

DADS-DAUGHTERS

The Girl Reserves, Douglass High gave a Father-Daughter picnic last Wednesday evening in the East El Centro City Park. The Dads enjoyed the excellent dinner prepared by the daughters—many seem to have gone into training for the event. After the picnic supper, Dads and Daughters lined up for a volley ball game. Much to the surprise of not only the Daughters but the Dads themselves, the Dads took the first game. The ever resourceful Daughters called for a second game and cut the time limit. This they won quite handily. The tie game is to be played off at the next picnic dinner.

The Willing Workers club of the Second Baptist church gave a box social last Friday evening that was a so-different box social. Using the leap year tradition as a motif, the men prepared the boxes and the women bought them. The men showed the women what they expected in boxes —every box had a supply of fried chicken and apple pie. The women showed the men they were not pikers and readily purchased all the baskets. A short musical program preceded the dinner. The occasion was a very happy one, and largely attended although the weather was unpleasant.

Past Exalted Rulers' Council No. 41 of IBPOEW, of Southern California held its monthly meeting with Salton Sea Lodge No. 627. Many of the members arrived in the early afternoon, others in the evening. The local committee had carefully planned the entertainment of the group. Business sessions were held in the Douglass high school. The business was followed by dinner in the Elks' Club Room. Later the visitors joined the lodge members, Daughter Elks and citizens at a Cocktail Party given by the Educational committees of the Daughter Elks and the Past Daughter Rulers' Council. An enjoyable evening of cards and dancing was spent. Members of the Council want to come back for the May meeting.

Principal and Mrs. A. E. Prince left last Friday evening for Detroit. Prince is lay delegate to the General Conference of the AME Church and is the second member of the family to be so signally honored. His sister, Mrs. Margaret Prince Owens, represented this district at the General Conference which met in New York in 1936. With his splendid training, experience and fine family background, Prince ought to prove possible material for the many opportunities afforded by the church. During his absence, George Venable is acting principal.

Mrs. Octavia Davis Morris, daughter of the Rev. G. W. Davis of this city, left a few days ago for Caracuas, Venezuela where she will join her husband who has been there during the past winter. Morris is playing ball with a professional ball team in that section. CONVICT KIDNAPER

Eagle Writer Shoots Sara L. Butler, Self

"Unbalanced and Knew Not What He Did", Church Board States

A statement, alleging the insanity of Caldwell H. Jones, 50-year old slayer-suicide, was issued by the board of directors of Zion Temple early yesterday, following the shocking murder of Bishop Sara L. Butler, 37-year old pastor-founder of the church.

In a tragedy which struck the Eastside like an earthquake, Jones, church treasurer and popular EAGLE columnist, shot and killed the pretty woman preacher in the church study at 1315 E. Vernon avenue last Tuesday afternoon and turned his gun on himself.

Summoned by Mrs. Grace Scott, 1323 E. Vernon avenue, radio patrol officer Earl Bledsoe found the lifeless bodies sprawled on the study floor when he battered in the locked door. Mrs. Scott, a member of the church, was informed of the shooting by Horace Nesby, church caretaker, who said he heard four shots, coming from the pastor's study on the second floor, as he stood talking with a passerby in front of the building.

KILLED INSTANTLY

Bishop Butler was shot twice, once through the head, from right to left, and once in the upper right shoulder. Jones was shot once through the head, also from right to left. The weapon, a .32 calibre Colt automatic, which Jones, a realtor, had license to carry, was found at his feet, one bullet in the chamber and one in the magazine of the gun.

In paid-for space in the community press the Board of Directors of the church asserted, over 8 signatures, that Jones "had been pronounced a mental case" several months ago. The statement declared that the Board "had seen fit to ask for his resignation" because of his mental condition; that he was "unbalanced" and "knew not what he did."

Seen in that light, the case closely resembled an even more shocking murder, occurring Monday afternoon, less than 24-hours earlier in which a white school principal went insane, shot 6 people, killing four.

Authorities said Verlin Spencer, principal of So. Pasadena Junior High school, went mad after Board of Education officials told him he would not be re-employed because of unsound mental health. Spencer killed George C. Bush, superintendent of South Pasadena schools, and three other Crown City educators, wounded two more and shot himself.

Evidence of lengthy premeditation of his disastrous action was produced by officials yesterday after questioning Jones' friends and investigating his effects. Reliable sources reported the realtor's business at 1027 E. Jefferson blvd., in "ship-shape."

Jones had begun planning the

Geo. Farley Leaps to His Death

Man Who Killed L. A. Deputies Jumps 5 Stories

SAN QUENTIN, May 9.—George Farley, 55-year old convict who killed two Los Angeles deputies Feb. 17, 1938 when they attempted to evict him from his home at 1741 E. 23rd street, leaped to his death from a fifth story tier of a prison building here Thursday.

Hurtling to the ground, Farley's body struck another inmate, white, and inflicted severe injuries.

Eye-witnesses report that the man suddenly let out a scream, tore from an orderly line of convicts, and sprang over a parapet to his doom. The inmate whom he struck, was walking outside the building and was unaware of the human projectile heading toward him.

SERVED TWO YEARS

Two years ago, May 25, 1938, Farley was convicted on two charges of manslaughter by a

This was the only part of the trial of Roy Venoy McGaha, white attacker of Mrs. Katherine Berry, which spectators were permitted to see when the event was held in Pasadena last week and early this week.

Because of the nature of testimony in the case, the court room was cleared. Jurors and spectators are shown as they milled about the spot in the Pasadena hills where the crime occurred. The court was transported there by bus.

In the upper left picture, Mrs. Berry, the victim, and her aunt, Miss M. Dix are shown. McGaha is the man leaning against the telephone booth from which he forced Mrs. Berry to enter his car.

McGaha, Judge Frank Collier, Defense Attorney Larsen and the jury are shown at the scene of the attack in lonely Monterey Hills in the other pictures.

Will Allow Kidnaper to Appeal

McGaha Convicted on 3 of 5 Counts; Appeal Set May 20

Declared innocent of the one charge that could have sent him to the gas chamber, Roy Venoy McGaha, white attacker of Mrs. Katherine Berry will be permitted to appeal the jury verdict which convicted him on three of five counts, the court ruled yesterday. Appeal date was set for May 20.

Acquitting him of charges of "kidnaping with intent to rob," punishable by death, a Superior Court jury Monday found 26-year old McGaha guilty on three counts, based on his mistreatment of the 25-year old woman. He was declared guilty of kidnaping, assault with intent to commit rape and Section 288 of the penal code (unnatural crime).

In the rebuttal last Friday, Defense Attorney William W. Larsen made a valiant but vain attempt to sway the jury to acquit his client. He reportedly used every trick in his bag of legal tricks which ranged from attempts to besmirch Negro womanhood and questioning the integrity of the Pasadena police to telling fairy tales and getting down upon all fours before the

on the sidewalk

BY C. A. B.

RECENTLY I was called to task for not promptly paying a hospital bill. As a matter of fact, I thought it was an outrage to be forced to pay a bill I had already paid in taxes. But in order to avoid trouble I reported to the department of County government in charge of such matters to explain why I had not been in. After thinking about the injustice of the matter I was not in a very agreeable state of mind. My over-heated temper was heightened by an hour's wait in the lobby for the individual who was to handle my case. My name was finally called, and I rushed in.

I guess I would have bursted inside if I had not let off the exhaust, so while nervously fumbling around in my handbag for the money I had tucked away for this use, I grumbled "What am I paying for? I have already paid for hospitalization in taxes for this institution."

"You are paying for police protection", snapped the man.

"Well," I fired back, "I am not getting that."

"Then you are paying to live in this country," retorted my collector.

"My grandparents and my great-grandparents paid for that in blood, tears and labor--without remuneration", I advised my tormentor.

After this unscheduled battle, I laid down my five dollars, signed a promisory note to pay the balance in installments, brushed out of the office much cooler than when I entered.

I had forgotten this incident until this morning when almost immediately upon my arrival in the office I was approached by a tall fellow in stripes--I mean stripes in his suit. He stuck a long nose through the entrance window. Tax collector--Ye Gods, again! Just last week an unemployment tax was demanded. A few weeks before that I answered roll-call for a license of Equalization. The beginning of the year I paid for a license to do business. I have already paid the assessed tax value of the machinery, presses, linotypes,

55th Anniversary Fete at Second Baptist Set Sunday

Beginning with Mother's Day, Second Baptist church, 24th and Griffith avenue, will observe the 55th anniversary of its organization. Appropriate Mother's Day services will mark the opening. Dr. Ralph L. Mayberry, executive secretary of the Los Angeles Baptist City Mission Society, will deliver the sermon. In the evening, the Vesper choir will present its Fourth Annual Mother's Day musical.

Special services will be held every night except Saturday. Monday will be Baptist night, in charge of the Western Baptist State convention and the Los Angeles Baptist Ministers' union. Choirs of the following churches will participate: Progressive, Mt. Zion, Zion Hill and St. Paul. There will be an ordination service.

Tuesday night is Interdenominational night. Rev. S. M. Beane will deliver the sermon and choirs of the following churches are expected: Hamilton and Wesley Methodist, Phillips Temple CME, Lincoln Congregational and Tabernacle Baptist.

The California Federation of Colored Women's clubs will have charge and is making elaborate plans for Wednesday night's service; and on next Thursday, the Business and Professional men and women will have their night, with the program in charge of the Golden State Insurance company.

Various groups of ex-soldiers will have charge of next Friday

Make Gordon Reward Monday

The Eastside Citizens' Committee announced Monday night at the Cornerstone Baptist church that delivery of the Dorothy Gordon reward will be made Monday, May 13.

Frank Roman, employe of the Broadway Florist Shop, found Dorothy's body, but failed to present proper credentials Monday evening.

However, the meeting was largely attended and Phil Peterson, member of the Committee and pioneer worker for the reward fund, gave a rousing address.

Same place for the award is set this time: Cornerstone Baptist church, 1428 E. 14th street. The reward is $250.00.

BIRMINGHAM, ALA. WHITES HAVE JITTERS. Nothing so easily disturbs the complacency of the white Bourbon Southerners as the advent of their "diggings", of a Northern-bred Negro who is slated to make a public speech to their local coloredfolk. Instinctively they bristle up and growl like a dog over a prized bone, evidently fearful that he might say something to Wake Them Up.

Last week a speaking engagement by Congressman Arthur Mitchell in Birmingham was cancelled on account of the hysterical protests it aroused among a certain element of Birmingham's white population. Thousands of circulars and numerous news-editorials were put out denouncing it, breathing the same, hoary, high-sounding but vague, oratorical phrases upon which the South has depended for inflaming its citizenry against the Negro ever since Reconstruction days.

STILL TOPS

Duke Ellington is still our idea of tops in dance bands. You Benny Goodman, Count Basie, Jimmy Lunceford, et al fans can have your favorites. We'll take the Duke, who epitomizes dance orchestra perfection. It is our notion that Ellington stays away ahead of the times in arrangements, style of play, etc. There is no doubt but what his is the classiest and most polished aggregation we've ever seen . . . Ben Carter, agent for actors, who turned actor himself for 20th Century-Fox's "Maryland", is said to be agent for 60 percent of Negro talent in Hollywood . . . Something We Are Better Off Without: Constant reminders thru press and radio by our own of attitudes of prejudice as regards black and white races. The best way to get respect of others is to take full cognizance of the worth of our own, build them up and put our own stamp of approval on them. Forget about prejudice; it'll take care of itself!

GREATNESS

From the East came Hall Johnson and his choir. They apparently liked it here, settled, and the other night were heard in concert at Philharmonic. The reviews the next day gave them and their art great praise. One woman was heard to say: "The Negro should never give up that talent". Sticking out like a sore thumb, besides excellence of the choir, was the evident appreciation of the audience. The choir proved its greatness when it came forth with W. C. Handy's "St. Louis Blues", ending on such handclapping, and whistling as the famous structure ever knew . . . Virginia Wright, drama critic of The News, gave Negro motion pictures an intelligent analysis the other day. Credited with patering the industry in Hollywood is Ralph Cooper . . . E. Simms Campbell's famed cartoons became a daily feature of The Examiner Monday.

MOLAR THROBBINGS

A rebel molar had us in a bad way last week. We received a card from John R. Williams, postmarked from Natchez, Miss., scene of the tragic fire of recent date. The roving newspaperman said of it: "A terrible disaster". But back to the fractious molar. Shop foreman Sam Hamilton said: "If your other jaw would swell out now, you'd look so fat people would know prosperity has come from around the corner". To top it off, our dentist joked: "Well, for once you can say you've taken orders from a man!" He referred, of course, to our Better Half and our employer as givers of orders ordinarily . . . We heard numerous mentions of old-fashioned remedies. They provoked the thought that a list of remedies for various ailments might prove very interesting reading. Gabbers: If you know any send them to this column. Wrote our Bill Smallwood: "Richelieu—Hear tell you've lost one of your baby teeth. My god, is it mutiny? Fear not, we glamour boys go on, and on, and on."

The wags are saying of the pic, "Buck Benny Rides Again", this: It should be "Rochester and Buck Benny Ride Again", which would probably be okey doke with Benny who we understand respects Anderson for what he is—an artist . . . More excitement than you could shake a stick at on the Eastside Tuesday afternoon. Why? A prominent minister figures in a murder-suicide . . . An intersection hard on pedestrians: Naomi and Washington Blvd.

POST NEWS

Lt. Col. James M. Beck Post, No. 2651, V. F. W. meets every first and third Wednesday in each month; Moody Staten, commander; L. L. Vaughn, quartermaster; Robert J. Culpepper, adjutant. Our next regular meeting will be at Patriotic Hall May 15. At our recent installation, Comrade Von Kuykendall was installed as junior vice commander after having done excellent work as officer of the day in the past administration.

The post had the pleasure of initiating into membership last Saturday in a special ceremony, Capt. William Reynolds who served on the staff of Col. Beck in Cuba in 1898. During the week we obligated three other new comrades, including Lt. Hawkins.

At our meeting May 15 we will elect 7 delegates and 7 alternates to the Oakland Encampment in June. All members are requestd to be present. We are also expecting to obligate a large class of recruits. Comrade Leroy Busby is sick at Sawtelle.

We are hoping to raise our membership to 200 members before the National Encampment convenes here in August. Our office and club room are located at 3403 S. Central avenue.

Angelus Airing Sunday Will Feature Mother

A special Mother's Day program of delightful music has been arranged for the regular Sunday morning broadcast sponsored by the Angelus Funeral home, Mrs. A. C. Bilbrew, director of the senior choir of People's Independent church, announced this week.

Favorite old-time melodies will be sung for the inspiration of the sick and shut-in who listen in from all over Southern California. William Gillespie, golden-voiced baritone of the Hall Johnson choir, will be the soloist, and will be featured in singing the popular old spiritual, "Amen".

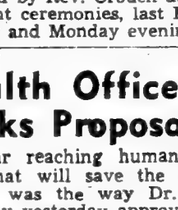
This broadcast is heard every Sunday morning over station KFOX from 10:15 to 10:45, and is one of the many community services of the Angelus Funeral Home, which has sponsored the program now in its third year.

Rev. Clayton D. Russell, minister, is heard as "The Visitor", and will bring a special message for Mother's Day.

Slate 2 Airings from Church of God in Christ

The hundreds of listeners who have enjoyed the broadcasts coming from the Church of God in Christ for the past several months will be glad to learn that they will be on the air again next week with two programs, Monday and Wednesday evenings from 9:30 to 10:00, station KGER. Previously the broadcast was on Saturday evening.

Sponsored by the People's Funeral Home, this highly spiritual program, conducted by the pastor, Rev. Samuel Crouch, within a short time, became one of the most popular of its kind on the air.



The Church of God in Christ closed one of the greatest revivals ever held in the city covering a period of seven weeks. There were 218 converts, and 180 were baptized by Rev. Crouch at three different ceremonies, last Friday, Sunday and Monday evenings.

Health Officer Backs Proposal

A far reaching humanitarian step that will save the county money was the way Dr. J. L. Pomeroy yesterday approved the proposal of Supervisor Gordon L. McDonough to remove the lien and billing charge requirements from patients in County institutions who have less than $1000 in assets.

In a letter to Supervisor McDonough, the health officer declared that he is most heartily in favor of the movement, "because the lien law has kept out of Olive View Sanitarium many of our cases of early tuberculosis who would have been cured in a short time, and in many instances they have gone on and developed an advanced type of lesions, and some have died."

The Official Statement of the Board of Zion Temple, Inc.

Zion Temple appreciates the loving kindness of all members and friends of our beloved pastor, Bishop Sara L. Butler, whose death was caused so untimely, by one who several months ago had been pronounced a mental case. The Board had seen fit to ask for his resignation, because of his being a mental case, but we are praying that he has found peace with "his maker," and our only regret is the pity of this tragedy from one who was unbalanced, and knew not what he did.

The love, kindness and womanly principle of Bishop Sara Butler will ever be remembered, as she was ever a bright star and a shining light to the community.

In Memoriam

In memory or our loving mother and grandmother, Mrs. Dorah Edwards, who passed away two years ago, May 9, 1938.

Two years have passed since that sad day
That called the one we loved away.
Forget, no, we never will for in our heart she liveth still.
The blow was great, the shock severe.
We little thought the end was near
And only we who knew her well, can of the parting tell.
She bade no one a last farewell
She said goodbye to none
The heavenly gates were open wide
A gentle voice said come
Whose loving face is ever enshrined within our heart.
Her soul to God . . . her memory to us.

Temple Holds 7th Annual Flower Show in San Diego

SAN DIEGO, (By Mrs. E. B. Wesley)—The 7th Annual Flower show of Rosebud Temple No. 23, SMT, held at Community Center Sunday, was quite a success. The program included an address by Joseph Childress; reading by Jessie Crawford; piano solo, Miss June Dickens; reading, Miss Nadine Redmond.

The indoor floats the flower parade were a unique feature of the show. A U. S. flag, made of red, white and blue flowers, arranged by Mrs. E. Pedden, won first prize for floats. Second float award went to Miss Clara Collins. First prize for table of natural beauties was awarded Miss Gertrude Towles and her centerpiece a second place. The wedding table, designed by Mrs. M. Payne, was first in its class. The centerpiece, a bridal couple and altar, was also a prize winner. A tea table float, styled by Mrs. Cecelia Johnson, claimed a second prize. Wm. Stadarth took first prize for roses. Mrs. M. McClelland, was first prize winner for a variety of geraniums and first prize for rare green roses went to Mrs. Ada Cleveland. First prize for a cactus exhibit went to Mrs. Mitchell; for roses and pansies to Mrs. Kyle. In the corsage and rose parade were: Mrs. Iola Bollett, Mrs. E. Pedden, Mrs. Jessie Crawford, Miss June Dickens Miss Irma Mohand. These young women were hostesses and served dainty refreshments.

D. V. Allen president of the local and state Race Relations societies, made a short address. The judges of this fine display were: Assemblywoman Jeannette Daly, F. Warren of S. D. Union; Vincent Farrine, florist; and Mrs. H. L. Henderson. Mrs. Florence Morgan was in charge of this splendid exhibit and is to be highly commended for her work. Mrs. T. Williams is princess of Rosebud Temple.

Duke Ellington Attracts Crowd

On Wednesday night of last week Broadway Pier auditorium was host to San Diegans of both races and their pleasure when Duke Ellington ,noted "aristocrat of swing" and his famous orchestra furnished the music for one of the most pleasing events of the season. No affairs of recent months seemingly was enjoyed so much as this big dance, attended by those of no special age.

The Charles Hartzog orchestra played for a San Diego State college sorority at Cafe of the World, Balboa Park Friday night. Melvin White, student at the college, presented several tap-dance numbers. The orchestra composed of 14 pieces, is striving hard to make this a ranking musical organization.

Recent guests at the popular Simmons hotel were: Frank Livington, Galveston, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. Philip Thompson and son, Harold of Santa Fe; Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Jones, San Francisco; Alonzo Pierson, Lakeside; Prof. W. A. Eastre, Mrs. Bettie Robinson, J. W. Chandler, Mr. and Mrs. Jonas E. Carter, all of Los Angeles.

Mrs. Ida Robertson grand worthy matron of California OE S, accompanied by her husband, J. R. Robertson, and sister, Mrs. Hattie Willard were Friday night guests from Los Angeles of their relatives Mr. and Mrs. John Wilson.

Mrs. Ethel Chance ,formerly of this city, and her two young daughters, Wylene and Bettie Booker, were week-end guests in this city.

Mrs. Ella Murphy was called to St. Louis last week-end, owing to the illness and subsequent death of her mother, Mrs. Frances Carter. Mrs. Murphy, who, with her family has taken up residence here, has the sympathy of all.

Young's Print shop has moved from 30th street to 635 7th street. W. M. Young, publisher of the San Diego Light House, a neat little weekly sheet, which contains a church directory, together with interesting news items is recovering from a short illness.

CHURCHES

"Ahab Dies as a Fool Dieth" was the sermon subject of Evangelist Marjorie Casson, who is preaching at Bethel AME church in the absence of Rev. L. H. Owens, pastor, who is attending General Conference in Detroit.

The Women's Civic League, Mrs. J. E. Craft, president, and Mrs. Ida Jackson, chairman of scholarship fund, will sponsor a Mother's Day tea at Community Center Sunday for benefit of the scholarship department.

Among the sick are Mrs. Craft, League president; Mrs. Kate Barland, Mrs. Mabel Williams and E. Hodge.

The dinner last Thursday sponsored by the Religious Education Committee was a success. Each Wednesday at 2 p. m. Bible Study is conducted by the chairman ,Mrs. E. Kincaid. The public is invited.

Household Employees Club members are requested to be present at the regular meeting today (Thursday) at 4 p. m.

The bridge party given by the Business and Professional Club last Thursday by this group was a social as well as a financial success. The auditorium was filled, thanks to you, Mr. and Mrs. general public.

The three Jr. High Triangles of the Girl Reserves will soon announce the date of their "Fast Moving Minstrel". This is a camp effort.

Senior High's are busy with their adviser, Mrs. Alice Whaley completing plans for their Mother and Daughter banquet to be given Frid---.

Mrs. Lottie Porterfield who has been guest speaker at a number of Clay Street teas again rendered charm and grace at the residence of Mrs. Ada Cleveland last Friday afternoon during a membership tea.

Mrs. Emma Spade was guest speaker at the membership tea last Sunday at the residence of Mrs. Ruth Richardson.

Xavier May Cop 3 Crowns in Tuskegee Relays

TUSKEGEE, May 9.—Xavier University of New Orleans cannot be counted out of the running for at least three championships in the 14th Annual Relays Carnival which will be held in the Alumni Bowl at the Institute, May 11. The Gold Rush team may spring a few surprises.

Coach Ralph Metcalf has a two mile relay team capable of 7.54 by compiling the best performances of his quartet of individuals and that is 3 and 2-10 seconds under the present Tuskegee mark. Bolden, lead off man, is good for 1.59; Williams, second man, can do 2:00; Henderson, third man, has stepped the distance in 1:59, and Culp, the miler, if he is used at anchor, as at Prairie View a few weeks ago, can do 1:56.

The Xavier quarter mile team of Hicks, Campbell, Mitchell and Belizaire or Blockett, can do 41.2, which is 8-tenths of a second under the present Tuskegee record; and the 880 yard quartet of Hicks, Campbell, Mitchell, Belizaire can do 1:26 which is one and nine tenths under the Tuskegee record made by Xavier in 1938.

Gilder Pharrow, record holder in the high hurdles, leads the Xavier University list of individual entrants. Pharrow won this event at the Prairie View Relays. His best time in competition 14.1.

WOMAN, 80, PASSES IN KNOXVILLE; S. F. KIN

STUDENT WINS U. S. RECIPE CONTEST

TUSKEGEE, May 9.—Helen Remell Mattison, a junior in the school of Home Economics at Tuskegee Institute, was informed today that she won first place in a nation-wide contest having submitted the best original recipes for cookies and cold bread. The prize was offered by the 'American Weekly.

Philharmonic Prizes Go to Four Children

NEW YORK, May 9.—Among the 36 children to win prizes in the recent series of Philharmonic concerts at Carnegie Hall, were four colored girls. Philippa Schuyler, 8; Dolores Calvin, 12; Bernice Calvin, 15; and Janet Dixon, 6.

Prizes were given for the best notebooks on the series and little Philippa won a medal, the highest award in her group; Dolores earned an honorable mention ribbon for the second consecutive time; Bernice won a medal the highest award in her group; and little Janet was numbered as the youngest winner in this years concert.

Held at Carnegie Hall on Saturday, May 4, Mayor La Guardia pinned the awards on the contestants. Rudolph Ganz was conductor of the series of concerts.

Powered by Diesel motors, self-loading and self-spreading grading machines have been developed that can carry 60-ton loads at a speed of 20 miles an hour.

Rochester in 'Champions of 1940'

Benny Troupe Joins Tracksters in Finn Benefit May 17

One of the headline acts of the colorful and exciting "Champions of 1940" spectacle in the Los Angeles Coliseum Friday night for Scandinavian relief will star Jack Benny and his troupe—including laugh-provoking Rochester, topflight comedian.

Benny telegraphed directly to D. D. Durr, managing director of the event, that his entire troupe, including Rochester, Phil Harris, Mary and Don Wilson would participate in the event.

"It will be our pleasure to be on hand in the Coliseum the night of May 17 to try to provide a few laughs, some music, etc., for what I think will be Los Angeles' biggest audience of the year," Benny telegraphed. "Everyone is interested in relief of peoples of strife-torn countries. Please count on us."

In addition to the many acts now being selected from the cream of Hollywood's legions of screen and radio stars, there will be a track meet under the auspices of the AAU, that will feature such champions as Taisto Maki, great Finnish runner; Mozel Ellerbee of Tuskegee Institute; Louis Zamperini, Bob Peoples of the University of Southern California; Clyde Jeffrey of Stanford; Greg Rice of Notre Dame; Neil Warmerdam of the Olympic Club, and Don Lash, formerly of the University of Indiana.

"GREEN PASTURES" star, Reginald Fenderson plays the important and exciting role of "Phil", brother to Kenny Washington, in Million Dollar Production's recently finished football melodrama. Fenderson played the part of "Joshua" during the five years' run of the stage version of "The Green Pastures", also interpreting it in Warner Bros.-First National screen version.

Movie Program Begins at 'Y'

To an appreciative audience on last Saturday the Physical department of the 28th street YMCA presented the first showing of its movie program for boys between the ages of 9 and 15.

A 12-episode serial, "Clancy of the Mounted;" a sports picture, showing an exciting ball game between the Boston Braves and the St. Louis Cardinals, entitled, "Inside Baseball;" and a side-splitting comedy, "Softball Featuring Oswald, the Rabbit," were shown.

The second chapter of the serial, a water sports picture and comedy will be shown on Saturday.

Police automobiles of one New Jersey county have been equipped with radio sets that can receive pictures and fingerprints of persons whose arrest is desired.

• NOTES ON A SCRATCHPAD

By Bill Smallwood

In which Lionel Hampton does a guest column . . .

For a long time now, it's been on my mind that one of the outstanding things slightly off-beat in the band business, is its apparent disinterest in anything or anybody not pertaining directly to it. The one important thing to us, I am afraid, is making the dollar triple itself. Secondly, of course, comes the thing of staying in the groove.

I've been doing my column in the Afro for nearly 3 years now and the one thing that I like stressing is giving a helping hand to those who have yet to come up the tricky ladder. So many top-flight stars, and I know just about all of them, seem to lose interest in the less fortunate musician or performer. Every time I get a chance I'm going to root for them. Right in our organization I get lots of criticism for it, they tell me I'm wasting time, etc. But I've given away lots of music, instruments, etc. to worthy kids and believe you me that's NOT anything wasted.

In traveling about the country, I have discovered so many cases in which our kids are starved for some way to get to learn music. But there are no facilities for them. That's wrong, and you know it. I'm not a wealthy man, but if things work out as I hope, I'm going to see to it that some sort of fund is created to help at least a dozen of these kids a year. I gave a year's scholarship to a blind kid in Buffalo two years ago and if I don't ever give another thing, I'll always remember that kid's gratitude.

There's too much selfishness in the profession. People don't have time to help the lesser man. We have too many examples of that from a racial standpoint. Why can't something be done?

Thru my wife's sorority, Lambda Kappa Mu, they've about completely furnished Bethune-Cookman college a first rate music school. My wife get mad because I haven't hitherto taken a bow for originating the idea, but it isn't a case of just doing it for the publicity. I honestly and sincerely think the race should go about making these things possible. Other groups do, I know it, I work with them!

I hate to bring it out in print, but there's no dodging the issue that a lot of my fellow workers haven't even taken time to find out about the situation. Of course I realize many of them are justifiably busy in making a living for themsleves. I'm not talking about them. I'm talking about those who can, and who have, and who will continue to have. You don't always have to get up off any money. Many times all amateurs want is a little encouragement. A word of that goes a long way. I know that, too, because I was one. And Earl Hines meant a lot to me in developing my style. He encouraged me.

If the time comes when I ever do get a band, I'm going to see to it that a lot more unknowns get a break. They've got to carry on for us, don't forget. And if we don't help them to help themselves, we will be out in the cold, brother. For every year, the other group is taking over more and more of our stuff, and someday we'll come to and discover there'll really be no need for us or our stuff, because it will have have been so perfectly copied.

And don't think it can't happen.

I can quote you one case right now.

So, let's get together and stick. This once, anyway.

Picture: "Rebecca"
Place: Four Star
Players: Joan Fontaine, Laurence Olivier

By JOHN KINLOCH

A few weeks ago when "The Grapes of Wrath", "Of Mice and Men", "Gone With the Wind", "Dr. Ehrlich's Magic Bullet" and other pictures of similar calibre were revealed to the startled eyes of the nation's film critics, a new day of maturity and "higher development" was attributed to the screen.

Since that time movies have gently subsided into the artistic manhole from which they had so briefly emerged.

"Rebecca", from Daphne DuMaurier's best seller, is a staunch argument in favor of preserving that upward march recently exhibited by our producers. The film is cinema entertainment at its best. Alfred Hitchcock, British director of such master mysteries as "The Thirty-nine Steps", "The Woman Alone" and "Jamaica Inn", has turned his Hollywood debut into a triumph. "Rebecca" is the director's most important picture, the fullest realization of truly great powers.

Evidently psychological drama is the rotund Britisher's forte, since his crime flickers have always tended toward a treatment of subconscious forces.

NEW STAR

Joan Fontaine's performance in the picture becomes the finest feminine portrayal thus far recorded in 1940. From a graceful adornment of RKO's stalwart Richard Dix-Chester Morris B-films, Miss Fontaine has bloomed into an exceptionally gifted actress. Her wistful, elfin second Mrs. de Winter will live in any galaxy of great screen portraits. The simplicity and honesty of her work is never clouded by extreme mannerisms which a lesser actress might have assumed to convey the frightened "Cinderella" character.

Laurence Olivier, of course, is tailor-made for brooding Max de Winter. The actor's lengthy climactic revelation of "Rebecca's" murder was beautifully mounted. However, the role is almost a continuation in spirit of Olivier's previous Heathcliffe ("Wuthering Heights"). As a matter of fact, in mood and treatment, "Wuthering Heights" was a sort of spiritual god-parent of the new picture—although Hitchcock's direction elevates "Rebecca" above its distinguished predecessor.

Broadway's Judith Anderson has established herself solidly with a relentless interpretation of "Danny", the crazed housekeeper of the great De Winter manor. George Sanders, "The Saint", is perfectly cast in his blackmailer role. He has a natural gift for irony.

The film's emphasis upon psychological clashes is handled brilliantly. The fine Italian hand of Robert E. Sherwood, screen adaptor, we found plainly visible in many scenes. Hitchcock's insistence upon pictorial realism is reflected in the magnificent photography, for apparently no expense has been avoided in presenting desired special effects.

What with "Gone With the Wind" and "Rebecca", David O. Selznick has neatly appropriated Sam Goldwyn's once-upon-a-time title, "Hollywood's quality producer".

EDITH WILSON is one of the most popular, as well as one of the prettiest stage and night club singers that ever appeared before the footlights.

"Wings Over Jordan" Program on NNIA to Be Heard Here Sunday

Station KMPC, Beverly Hills, will release a transcription of the "Wings Over Jordan" featuring Dr. P. P. Cruezot president of the National Negro Insurance Association, for Pacific Coast listeners Sunday morning at eight o'clock.

Dr. Cruezot's talk launched National Negro Insurance Week eing currently observed by Negro insurance companies throughout the country. Golden State Mutual Life Insurance Company, Los Angeles is a member and representatives are competing in the campaign for national honors along with forty-one other companies.

The program is directed by Rve. Glenn T. Settles and originated in Cleveland but was broadcast directly from Memphis, Tennessee last Sunday where the "Wings Over Jordan" choir stopped for an engagement on its concert itinerary.

And—as an afterthought—good luck to you!
I know just how you feel—I loved her too!

Every now and then townsfolk love to gather on the illage green and exchange adjectives about something at has particularly caught their delight . . . just now ey're in the midst of recalling the highly successful and cially colorful noon and evening affair given last Sat-rday (at the YW) by graciously patrician Lottie de aughn . . . Definitely unique, the affair, in all, fetched venty-five for the afternoon (single folk, etc) and venty-five (couples, etc.) for the later-hour version. ridge was played, too, later . . . Buffet was elaborate, d fit for a gourmet . . . Smart folk by the dozens . . . uch gayety and hearty hullo-there I wager the village on't forget this smart de Vaughn idea for many a moon. hanks to her, too, for lifting a pretty dull month out've e doldrums . . .

Willa Stevens Evans was in town over the week-end om her social part of 'Frisco, so Lois Towns had folk for bridge and buffet for her. She was amongst the Vaughn crowd, too. She left Monday on the Daylight . Halt: someone leans over to query if I meant in a ent item that Jay Clifford, Binga Dismond, et al, were town. Nope, I did NOT mean that. Wrong reading, ong something, etc. I meant, me hearties, that those blades had been mentioned in conversational tidbits . The Jolets were Sunday breakfast hosts to the entire ington outfit . . . Tessie Harris was Saturday eve host-to about a dozen or so friends for La Ellington. In-entally, Fredi Washington, who came to town with latter, may go to Honolulu if she doesn't give in to a n offer.

Jennie Weaver was Sunday dinner hostess to a . . . Hall Johnson recital fetched good number of smart kers downtown. For example, Joe Cooper and Mildred unt (she's becoming quite a speaker around town) and ty Collins were but three who drew approved stares. dred, by the bye, is having La Hampton and La El-ton and others of the glamour clan in for late supper night this week. Ann Lawrie's fashion show was a r-point triumph, in case you haven't heard. Lots of fun. ura Bowman and Leroi Antoine (their joint recital uld be interesting) were highlights. Also Gladys ples and her original hats. Frances Johnson gets a d too, for her fine playing. Hard job, that . . . Later, e went onto Vi Aldridge's for sweets by candlelight. s brother comes to town late this month. And Ann vrie's new sister-in-law, a lovely girl, is here from to live . . . She's Mrs. Jimmy Whiteside.

Thelma Price (her home in Venice has a most dis-tive fireplace) boards an eastbound choo-choo Sunday nt, for two months She'll go directly to Dee Cee (in e for the annually outstanding What Good Are We? que ball), then NY and Boston and Chi and home Canada. Hear tell there are no less than five highly ible bachelors scattered along the eastern seaboard all ting on Thelma . . . what ho, Thelma? . . . ain'tcha na talk? . . . well, anyhow, have a good fling.

Archonians Give Pre-Mother's Day Coffee Hour

Sunday afternoon, the YMCA annex was arrayed in beauty as Zeta Phi Beta pledges, entertaining their mothers and the sorors and their mothers.

The Archonians carried out their club colors of pink and green in every respect, with the service table giving the appearance of a pink and green garden. Each of the guests was given a gardenia.

The girls presented a program in which the members of the club were the only participants. Francis Bailey sang, accompanied by Dorislea Howard. Ernestine Gilbert gave a piano solo. Dorislea Howard related a brief history of the club. Aline Glenn played and Ethel Boykin gave a reading.

The Dean of Pledges, Dr. Lois Evans, introduced the club, and the newly elected president of the sorority, Miss Vivian Boswell, who spoke to the guests. Clara Fentress, president of the Archonians, acted as mistress of ceremonies for the afternoon. Guests present were: Mmes. Audrey Bradshaw, Edna McPherson, J. Cullen Fentress, Bessie Brown, Clara Fentress, T. Tinsley, Rollins, Marie Boykin, Bailey and Banks; Misses Vivian Boswell, Myrtle Douglas Jessica Ryan, Octavia Mays, Ruby Payne and Dr. Lois Evans.

CALVARY BAPTIST HOLDS INSPIRING REVIVAL SERVICES

SANTA MONICA, (By Willie Louise Gilmore)—One of the most successful and inspiring revival services in the annals of Calvary Baptist church, conducted by Rev. Charles Hampton of San Diego, was climaxed Sunday with the dedication of the Baptismal pool and the immersion of 21 converts, all of whom were fellowshipped into the church with 31 new members at Holy Communion evening services.

On Sunday at the 11 o'clock worship, Mothers' Day will be the feature with the pastor, Rev. W. P. Carter, preaching. Evening services will be in charge of the junior choir with Mrs. Ruby Harris directing.

On next Thursday night, Dr. Charles S. Morris, eminent orator, will be heard at Calvary, speaking from the theme, "The Measure of the Man." An overflow crowd of Santa Monicans and citizens from other Bay cities is expected to hear him. A brilliant musical and literary program has been arranged.

INTERDENOMINATIONAL BREAKFAST

Among the week's most interesting functions was the 8th Annual International Interdenominational breakfast, given at First Christian church, (white). Mrs. M. Carter represented the Negroes as speaker on the subject, "Why Do Ye More Than Others?" Three sub-topics were discussed by another Negro, a Japanese, and a white American. Others present were Mmes. Mildred Reese, Washintgon, Mackey, Motley, Knowles, Woodrow and Bell.

J. Allen Reese, grand chancellor of the Knights of Pythias, paid an official week-end visit to El Centro, accompanied by Mrs. Reese. They were guests of Chancellor Commander W. A. Payne.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas L. Lewis of 1544 Euclid avenue, entertained their house-guest, Mr. Harry Sims of Colorado Springs, Colo., and Mrs. Louise Collins of Denver Sunday evening. Among honored guests were Mr. and Mrs. Hampton Worthy, Mmes. Ollye Chavis, Robert Porter, Odessa Howard, Anna Willson, Misses Josephine Porter, Irma Alexander, Christine Porter, Messrs. Thomas Maxwell and Roosevelt Wilson.

Mrs. Ida M. Robertson, grand matron of OES, paid her official visit to Orpah chapter No. 15 last Saturday afternoon. She was entertained by the past and present Matrons and Patrons council at luncheon at the home of Matron Beatrice McCarroll.

Mrs. James Boyd and son, Edward, of Riverside, spent Sunday on the S. M. Beach.

The Philomathean club's annual Mothers' day breakfast will be given at the home of Mrs. Vada King, 1718 16th street. Mrs. Anna Coleman is president.

Mrs. Inez Robinson is ill in a Los Angeles hospital.

Mrs. Annie Spears is recovering from injuries received in an automobile accident.

Calendar Tea of Temple Great Success

One of the largest of such gatherings in Elks history made Sunday's Calendar Tea of Hiawatha Temple, IBPOEW, a great success.

Under the leadership of Mrs. Ora Venerable, the occasion was heralded by leaders of the order. Christmas and Thanksgiving baskets will be filled with funds resulting from the social event.

Mrs. Edna V. Elgin was mistress of ceremonies. Mrs. Alma Hightower's sensational youngsters' swing band was the musical attraction of the afternoon.

Out-of-town members flocking to Elks auditorium contributed in a large measure to the success. Outstanding visitors were Mrs. Lottie Augustus, El Centro; Miss Lois Small, Bakersfield; and Mrs. Marguerite Knox, San Francisco.

Open Door Group Hears Eagle Editor

The Open Door, women's political discussion organization, met Sunday morning in a breakfast session at Camille's Den, 846 E. Adams Blvd., to score one of its most successful confabs.

Principal speaker was Mrs. Charlotta A. Bass, Eagle editor, who pleaded for greater interest in local community affairs.

Other remarks were heard from Robert Straugther, candidate for 62nd District Assembly post on the democratic slate; and Kenneth Payne, newspaperman.

Musical interludes were furnished by Catherine Daniells, piano solo; Viola Davis, vocal solo; and Gilbert Allen, famed musician who played his own "Reverie." Accompanist was Lillian Moore.

Mrs. Marie Stansel is the militant prexy of the new organization.

Butler - Jones Rites Not Set

Funeral arrangements for Bishop Sara L. Butler and her slayer, Caldwell H. Jones, had not been made at press time last night, families of the two tragedy victims announced.

Roberts' mortuary will have charge of the burial of Bishop Butler, it was announced. Her estranged husband, Charles Butler, is making arrangements.

Jones' body lay unclaimed at the county morgue yesterday. Reported to have a nephew, Richard Jones, living here, reliable sources said the arrangement of funeral services would await the action of his son, Herbert Jones of Washington, D. C., and Mrs. Hazel Jones of Chicago, his estranged wife.

Lovely Luncheon Honors AKA Mothers

Members of Alpha Gamma Omega chapter of Alpha Kappa Alpha sorority were luncheon hostesses to their mothers and sponsors, Las Madrinas, at Camille Party Den Saturday afternoon.

With Mother' Day so near, and May Day so recently passed, the spirit of both prevailed at this third annual gathering of more than 50 mothers, daughters and friends.

The rooms were banked with pink gladiolas, ferns and sweet peas, carrying out the sorority's colors of pink and green. A corsage of pink sweet peas was pinned on each guest and soror as she entered.

The program was arranged by Miss Dorothy Lawrence, luncheon chairman, reflected perfectly the mood of the day with a poem and Biblical tribute by Misses Katie Wilson and Eleanor Coleman, respectively, and introduction of the mothers which included their major interests and hobbies. Musical numbers were rendered by Mrs. Carol Johnson and Miss Helen Dundee, and a hearty welcome was received from Alpha Gamma Omega Baselius, Mrs. Myrtle Robinson. Mrs. Lois Rabb was mistress of ceremonies.

Visiting sorors were Mrs. Alice Whaley of San Diego and Miss Albertine Parker, who is studying on a scholarship at Stanford University. Miss Parker is the guest of her cousin, Miss Eleanor Coleman.

The Social Whirl...

by Lillian Johnson

Hall Johnson's Choir celebrated its 15th anniversary with a concert for a capacity crowd at the Philharmonic auditorium Friday. Their spiritual, uplifting renditions of folklore songs will long be remembered in the minds of the appreciative audience. The program consisted of songs from both stage and screen successes in which they have participated.

Too much cannot be said in behalf of Hall Johnson, whose work is truly that of a genius. His wonderful work will ever live on.

Among those seen at the concert were: Mrs. Della McDonald, Dr. and Mrs. Henry A. McPherson, Atty. and Mrs. Tyler, Atty. and Mrs. Jones, Edith Jones, Mrs. Etta Pearl, Bene Greene, Thelma Taylor, Leola Longress, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Muse, Mrs. Louise Kenner, Fredi Washington and many, many others.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Brown of 3707 Cimarron gave a surprise birthday dinner party for their daughter, Gloria Newman, U. C. L. A. coed and AKA pledge, in the Clark hotel Blue Room May 1.

Gloria looked lovely in brown taffeta with pink accessories and a beautiful gardenia corsage.

Co-hostess was Mrs. Josephine Lewis. Guests included: Heloise Burkhalter, Annie Lackey, Marjorie Tatum, Jane Edwards, Cecile Neil, Horace Clark, Jr., Ballinger Kemp, Jr., Jack Terry, Glenn Neilson, Arthur Trent and Weaver Turner.

A beautiful Elgin wrist watch was presented the honoree by her parents.

The Lionel Hamptons had as their guests at the Leopola Stokowski-Benny Goodman concert, Wednesday of last week at the Hollywood Bowl: the Bert McDonalds, Ruth Ellington, Mrs. Agnes Riddles and Mrs. Beatrice DeVaughn. The missing link was the facetious social scribbler, Bill Smallwood.

Mrs. Erma Garcia of Amey street, left Monday for Little Rock, Ark., where she will visit relatives and friends for three weeks.

Rev. and Mrs. Walter L. Monroe of this city are expected home sometime this week, after a four weeks stay in Chicago where she was called to the bedside of her daughter, Mrs. Rosa Cunningham, who is now convalescing from a serious operation. From her family in Los Angeles comes "Happy landing, mother dear".

Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Bradford returned home recently from a short but delightful stay at Palm Springs.

The Deltas began their annual May week activities with a spring tea at the home of Soror Portia Griffith. Many outstanding Deltas were present, representing the fields of social work, music and business. Soror Marjorie Stokely was hostess and extended a hearty welcome to all present. Speakers were Vassie Brown, regional director; Hebie McRobinson, probationary officer; Lorenzo Jordan Cole, noted in the field of music; Irene Freeman Morris, business woman, Mrs. Broyles of the Delta Mothers and Mrs. Hilda Allen, president of Pi chapter of the Delta Sigma Theta sorority. Other speakers were representatives from the various colleges, Sorors Ella Woods of Chapman; Desmonia Harris of UCLA, and Flossie Williams of USC. Miss Marie Felder introduced the pledges who were Lavenia Twyne and Maxine Sides. Gwendolyn Davis, president of the Delta Sprites, was the speaker from the interest group of the Delta Sigmas, sponsored by Viola Brazley.

The Colored Chauffeurs association entertained a number of friends with a charity dance at the Vogue Ballroom Thursday. A wonderful and enjoyable evening was had by all present.

The Jolly Twelve Social Club entertained a vast host of friends Sunday with a wonderful prepared picnic in a secluded cove at Elysian Park. The delicious refreshments will long be remembered by all fortunate enough to be present. Among the gay participants were James W. Hardy, O. L. Lyple, George L. Lockett, Fred Carter, Booker and Roosevelt Maynor, C. J. Mitchell, G. T. Slaughter, Brady Woodward, J. H. Easons, Mrs. Florence Wright, Vernon Nichols, Rhoda Mosely, the Williams, Mrs. H. 'Rustle of Spring' at Christian Church Pleases

The Second Annual Fashion Revue, presented by the Christian church, 14th and Birch st., under the direction of Mrs. Ann Lawrie, was indeed a success. The stage was a profusion of ferns, green foliage, and spring flowers. As Mrs. Mary Frances Johnston started the programme with the strains of "May Night," the noted screen and radio personaltiy Laura Bowman, as commentator, fittingly painted a word picture of Spring and Maytime.

The Kiddies then entered in various play, dress and school togs, to gleefully play around the May Pole, which was quite colorful. Master Ivan Taylor won applaus from the audience wearing what the well dressed two-year old should wear. Next, the teen age took the spotlight, displaying costumes of sport, street and party, while Miss Marion Hudgins sang very sweetly.

Miss Mary Louise Moore then took her place at the grand piano and very interestingly played two piano numbers, "Rustle of Spring," by C. Singing, quite in keeping with the theme of the show, and "Simple Avon," by Frances Theme. Morning frocks, just too beautiful for words, and satin hostess coats were modeled. The afternoon models came in for their round of applause. Mrs. Sterling Lee was quite striking in a chiffon and crepe redingote costume of dust rose polka dot with a battleship gray background. With her outfit, she wore a dust rose milan straw hat and gloves with black patent leather bag and shoes. The sports attire drew applause also for Mrs. Helen Whitman in her spectators' sport outfit, looked both charming and petite, while Miss Arlyine Hall was immaculately attired in riding habit. Miss Elose Brown wore a tennis outfit and carried a racquet.

Miss Pauline Wilkerson, whom Miss Marian Anderson is quoted as saying has a very promising future was very enthusiastically received, and sang "Carmena," by Wilson, and "Ouvre Tes Yeux Bleus," by Massenet. Miss Frances Redd, a featured screen player, modeled two stunning outfits, one a powder blue with white accessories. This outfit was modeled with Mr. Charles Brown, who wore a light blue gabardine suit with an imported panama, and white sport shoes.

The audience was then in store for a treat and that in the person of Earnest Whitman, celebrated artist of screen and stage, who very dramatically sang "The Road to Mandalay," and "Ole Man River" to a burst of applause.

The evening models paraded before the envious eyes of milady. Mrs. Robert Kirkpatrick looked grand in a pink chiffon flowing gown with lovely lines. Miss Violet Aldridge was too beautiful in a diagonal red and gray striped jersey with a jacket and hood to match. She charmingly removed her jacket and showed a lovely bodice of grey silk jersey. Mrs. Marion Black was charming in metallic cloth evening gown with a modified bustle. She wore a corsage of sweet peas. Mrs. Milligan, a recent newcomer to L. A., looked lovely in a black taffeta formal dinner gown with a burgundy blouse. Mr. Milligan was in tails, with white gloves and cane, looking as if he was on the way to a formal congressional dinner. Mr. Leroy Antoine also drew applause in his formal attire with his long white silk scarf, silver tipped cane and silk top hat, giving up a picture of a gentleman between acts at the Metropolitan Opera.

One unique feature of the show was the modeling of millinery creations by Miss Gladys Peoples, who designed and made her models. The most interesting one was a vari-colored striped turban of exotic lines with a pouch bag to match. The men's fashions were upheld by Mr. William Smallwood and Mr. Luther Thompson who modeled sport and business respectively.

To the strains of the wedding march, Miss Edith Smith was breathtaking in lovely white satin and lace of her own creation. Her bridesmaid, Miss Maudie Wekox, was too beautiful in blue moire silk with big picture hat and tiny muff to match.

In the grand finale, all the models were on stage with Mr. Clarence Tucker as the groom in his morning suit. All the artists assisting, Mrs. Ann Lawrie, who was in charge of production, wore a green striped, two piece formal with violet accessories and corsage of purple sweetpeas. Miss Laura Bowman, commentator, wore black lace. The assistants, in the persons of Charles Black, Leon Coleman, Bill Lawrie, were in tuxedoes. Mr. Earl Johnson and Mr. James Whiteside were ushers. The public left with great expectations for Ann Lawrie's 3rd Annual Fashion Revue of 1941.

ASHFORD RAMBLES AGAIN

Come all ye unfaithful, and tongue waggers of idle gossip, gather round, 'cause the meat is in the stew!'

THIS MUST CEASE!

At the conclusion of a beautiful wedding ceremony, a most charming and vivacious bride was led to customary "honeymoon hideaway" by a bespectacled spouse, who stepped into another room adjacent to the bedroom in order to don the custmary regalia" for the night. She, in the meantime, had scented the entire bedroom with rare perfume.

Imagine her consternation when the door flings open and in walks our hero attired in a pair of long drawers and carrying a jar of Vicks from which he stuffed both nostrils to the brim while mumbling about looking out for one's health in "times like these."

BARBECUE FEST

Hungry members of the Postoffice Giants and Dispatcher softball teams and their wives and female companions journeyed over to Ross Wiggins' habitat last Friday aft. and proceeded to devour numerous pounds of barbecued frankfurters along with many gallons of beer to the accompaniment of much gum-beating relative to each team's ability.

Wiggins, known to some as "Rotundity," was forced to replant lawn after P. O. jitterbugs held session on it.

Lorraine Neilson Selected Queen of Cotton Day

Lorraine Neilson was the winner of the posture contest, held at Jefferson High school to select the queen of the Cotton Day, to be held on May 16. She was chosen as having the best posture of any of the contestants.

Girls who gave Lorraine close competition were: Juliet Ball, Gertrude Williams, Frances Salas and Adelina Gallegos.

Cotton Day, which is an annual spring event at Jefferson, is a folk dance festival and fashion show. Every girl in school takes part in the program.

The clothing classes are sponsoring the fashion show. Each girl who has a completed garment may model it in the show.

The theme of this year's day is to be a cruise. The queen is to be the messenger of goodwill. She plans her trip and chooses her wardrobe from the clothes that the girls model.

Rosenwald Fellowship Goes to Still

Only California Applicant to Get Prized Fellowship

William Grant Still, composer-resident here, was the only applicant from California to be awarded a Rosenwald fellowship, it was learned following publication of awards.

Still was among 40 Negroes and 28 white southerners named to receive sums of $1000 up, which will enable them to work for one year, unhampered by the necessity to make a living.

With several meritorious compositions to his credit, Still will continue his creative work in music. He is best known for his Afro-American symphony and his tone poems, among which "Kaintuck" is a prime favorite.

There were more than 600 applicants for the awards, which were made in two categories: (1) to Negroes in any field and from any part of the nation; (2) to white southerners who desired to work on some problem distinctive to the South.

Missionary Body to Honor Mothers

On Mothers' Day, members of the Second Baptist Missionary Society will take shut-in mothers to the morning church service and will later entertain them with dinner At four p. m., the regular monthly meeting of the society will be held at which time the young people will render an interesting program.

The circle was much pleased with the services on April 28, when the pastor, Rev. T. L. Griffith, preached their annual sermon, portraying beautifully the subject "Wings of the Morning." Mrs. C. A. Bass, brilliant editor of the California Eagle, gave a challenging address on being a good missionary. She emphasized the necessity for leading a noble life and praying for peace among ourselves. She said: "We owe it to the young people to be missionaries of Good Behavior."

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Adam and Fallen Man" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon on Sunday in all Churches of Christ, Scientist. This verse from John, "That which is born of the flesh is flesh; and that which is born of the Spirit is spirit," constitutes the Golden Text.

One of the Bible citations includes these passages about Jesus from Mark: "And, behold, there cometh one of the rulers of the synagogue, Jairus by name; and when he saw him, he fell at his feet And besought him greatly, saying, My little daughter lieth at the point of death: . . . And when he was come in, he saith unto them, Why make ye this ado, and weep? the damsel is not dead, but sleepeth. And they laughed him to scorn. But when he had put them all out, . . . he took the damsel by the hand, and said unto her, . . . Damsel, I say unto thee, arise. And straightway the damsel arose, and walked."

Included in the Lesson-Sermon are these statements from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "A demonstration of the facts of Soul in Jesus' way resolves the dark visions of material sense into harmony and immortality. . . . To divest thought of false trusts and material evidences in order that the spiritual facts of being may appear,—this is the great attainment by means of which we shall sweep away the false and give place to the true."

MOTHER COLE . . . convalescing.

Thumbnail Sketch of Pioneer Figure:

Mrs. Sadie Chandler Cole, beloved pioneer figure, is convalescent after a recent illness. Born in Bay City, Mich., "Mother" Cole has an interesting background. Her mother was Sarah Hatfield of Cincinnati, daughter of John Hatfield, a member of the "Underground Railroad". He assisted hundreds of slaves to freedom by carrying them across the Ohio river in his boat. He was a descendant of Lord Hatfield of England, and his wife was decended from a royal family of Africa.

Our Mrs. Cole's father, Abraham Chandler, was the son of an Indian father and Negro mother. He ran away from the South before the war and met Sarah Hatfield, his future wife, in Canada. There were 7 children born of this union: the late Mildred E. Reid-Williams, pioneer of this city, who built up a large dressmaking business among the wealthy citizens of Los Angeles, dying a few years ago; Rev. Arthur D. Chandler, former pastor of Tabernacle Baptist church, this city, also of New York, Hartford and Columbus. He died several years ago, leaving "Mother" Cole, the youngest child, the sole survivor of an illustrious family.

The girl, Sadie Chandler, was married in 1889 to Thomas A. Cole of Detroit, son of James H. Cole. The elder Cole had been a fugitive slave as a boy. He became one of the founders of the Second Baptist church and at one time was one of the wealthiest Negroes in Michigan.

The Chandlers had been noted for their musical talent and the Coles were all talented as well.

Mrs. Cole traveled for a season with the Fisk Jubilee singers and taught school in Mississippi as a girl.

To the Coles were born four children, all of whom maintain their residences in this city: Florence Cole-Talbert McCleaves, wife of Dr. McCleaves of Memphis, and noted opera singer (first Negro to sing "Aida"); Madeline Foster, wife of Rev. Herbert Foster, assistant pastor of Second Baptist church; Officer Arthur C. Cole of the L. A. police department, and Angelita McMillan.

Mrs. Cole extends greetings and gratitude to the many friends, too numerous to name, who have cheered her with flowers and cards during her recent illness, from which she is recovering nicely under the care of her daughters.

A container for an anti-moth fumigant is included in the wooden top of a new garment hanger.

Alphas Climax 'Citizenship' Week Sunday

Alpha Delta Chapter of Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity is climaxing a very successful Education for Citizenship Campaign Sunday at Hamilton M. E. Church at 11 o'clock a. m. when Rev. S. M. Beane, pastor, will deliver a pertinent sermon, "A Mother's Task."

The program is conducted by the fraternity as a tribute to mothers who play a vital part in the "Education of the Youth for Citizenship," the theme of the observance.

Hamilton's pastor, choir and congregation will worship at Bethel Church of Christ Holiness at 7:30 on the occasion of that church's 25th anniversary celebration.

DR. R. W. GREENE, El Centro minister, who is acting as guest preacher at First AME Zion church, Pice and Pomona streets, in the absence of Rev. H. Philbert Lankford, pastor. Rev. Lankford is attending the General Conference of the A. M. E. Z. church in Washington, D. C.

Subject, Mother's Day, Rev. Greene will preach at the morning service from the subject, "Mother, the Living Reality of God Here on Earth." At 7:30, he will select as his pulpit theme, "Happy Landing." The newly organized Gospel choir, under direction of Mrs. Roberta Payne, will sing at both services and a special program dedicated to Mothers, has been arranged. Christian Endeavor is held at 6:30 p. m.

Resumption of the educational program at Bethel Temple Baptist church was announced today by REV. HARLEY DUVALL, (above) director of Adult Education, at the South Los Angeles church.

Because of popular demand and evident need, the program will feature a special course of academic training for aspiring musicians.

Rev. Duvall declared that the ministry of today must be equipped with preparation as well as consecration if we are to have an effective church leadership.

YWCA Honors Jessie Coles Grayson

Members and friends of the 12th Street Branch YWCA who attended the enjoyable Hall Johnson Choir concert last Friday, at the Philharmonic auditorium, noted with interest the list of patrons and sponsors, which included a good representation from the Negro Community, namely: The Golden State Life Insurance company; Alpha Kappa Alpha sorority graduate chapter; Alpha Kappa Alpha sorority undergraduate chapter; Clarence T. Tucker; Mrs. Walter L. Gordon, S. P. Johnson of Conner-Johnson Funeral Directors; Delta Sigma Theta sorority.

The concert sponsored by the Los Angeles YWCA, was well attended by an enthusiastic audience, which demonstrated the splendid cooperation of all branches and of friends of the organization and music lovers.

Mrs. Jessie Coles Grayson chairman of the Committee of Management and members of the Board of Directors of the Los Angeles YWCA, received after the concert, a beautiful tribute from the Board in appreciation of her work as a member of the Hall Johnson choir and for her leadership in the Y.

The Girl Reserve Committee is cooperating with Girl Reserves and their advisors in plans for the Asilomar Conference which this year takes place between July 3 to 13. Mrs. Cornelia Edwards, active member of the Girl Reserve Committee, is opening her beautiful home in South Los Angeles for an Asilomar Bridge Party, Saturday evening. The dream of every Girl Reserve is to attend at least once, the Summer Conference for girls of California and Arizona, at lovely Asilomar on the Monterey Peninsula, and the Girl Reserve Committee heartily support them in their efforts.

Dewey Aide Lashes Political Machines at AME Confab

DETROIT, May. 9.—Municipal political machines like that of Boss Pendergast, the Kelly-Nash machine in Chicago, and that of Frank Hague in Jersey City, were lashed by implication at a session of the African Methodist Episcopal Church General Conference here last week where Francis E. Rivers of New York, aide to Thomas E. Dewey, Republican Presidential candidate, was a main speaker.

"Where a corrupt city government steals public moneys—condones lawless killings—perpetrates perjuries and perversion of justice—denies civil liberties—intimidates voters and steals votes—consummates unblushing bribery and outrageous extortions—and thereby rots the moral fibre of its citizens," Rivers declared. "We know that such a government has abandoned all teaching of religion—we know that such leadership has no hope or chance of being other than a corrupt government.

"In such a case, however," Rivers continued, "the problem of the church fighting the encroachment of such a machine is not insuperable. The goal of such robber barons is frankly that of public plunder and they are without lofty arguments to justify the means used to get these spoils of public office.

"The church, however, faces a much more difficult problem where it is the national government which applies these corrupt local government techniques in national administration, and that problem is even harder where a national government, while not itself practicing all these vices, yet, nevertheless, wins and keeps its great power by alliance with and support of these powerful but corrupt city political machines; where its alliance with such crime elements is justified upon the ground that the end sought is a re-ordering of society accompanied by the further claim that until this New Era is accomplished, the Church must forget this condoning of criminals and the tolerance of immoral practices."

Kidnaper to Appeal Conviction jury.

Apparently the jury concluded that both the defendent and his lawyer were telling fairy tales. They rejected the concocted story of the defendent for the straightforward account of Katherine Berry in which she told in convincing manner the brutal attack ad kidnapping by her assailant, declaring that they found him guilty of three of the five counts which were charged against him by the complaining witness.

Charged with five of the most serious felonies with which an individual can be charged, McGaha was tried behind closed doors .The judge's order to clear the court resulted in a new crop of newspaper reporters. But pencils and paper were not sufficient credentials. One minister showed his card, but he and all his ministerial dignity had to leave along with others who could not show official press credentials. What promised to be the largest crowd in recent months at the local court was reduced to a handful.

Mrs. Katherine Berry, petite widow, and the complaining witness had been in Pasadena only five weeks when on the night of March 6 she was forced by McGaha to accompany him to a lonely spot in the Monterey hills by pretending he had a concealed gun on his person. In the wilds of those lonely hills she had to submit to various assaults and indecencies and was in constant fear of her life. Her assailant told her that he was from Texas and "hated old black niggers." He threatened to blow her head off and cursed her in vile language. She testified that one stop in the wild ride was at an abandoned car where McGaha set fire to the seat cushions and threatened to "roast her alive" if she told on him.

McGaha mercilessly beat the victim when she tried to escape from his bestial attacks while in the hills. He broke her nose, fractured her left arm and bruised her forehead, knees and body.

Prior to the wild ride into the hills while still in Pasadena, Mrs. Berry tried to escape by jumping out of the moving machine. But her kidnapper caught her before she could escape and forced her to accompany him to his haunt in the hills.

Returning to Pasadena, McGaha tried to keep the victim in his custody while he went into a cafe to eat by keeping her overcoat locked in his rumble seat. Escaping from the machine she staggered into a service station and had the attendant call the police.

Three police officers and a doctor at the emergency hospital substantiated the girl's allegations. Lieutenant Chas. E. Ewing and Officer D. D. Downey, arresting officers related McGaha's confession on the night of his arrest when he admitted committing the crimes. Officer A. C. Mansell of Los Angeles also testified. Dr. Paul Osiek of the Pasadena emergency hospital, told of the examination of the victim on the night of her attack and described her condition. Pictures of the girl's condition were submitted by the Deputy District Attorney.

Defense attorney Larsen was unable to materially affect the victim's testimony which was characterized by a court attache as "the straightest story I've heard for a long time."

McGaha, accused of kidnaping, kidnaping for the purpose of robbery, robbery, assault with intent to commit rape, and violation of Section 288A of the Penal Code (unnatural crime), under the astute questioning of his lawyer presented a fanciful tale to the effect that he was "propositioned" by Mrs. Berry and that on his way to Los Angeles he became afraid that he "was being taken over to Los Angeles to be robbed", so he went into the Monterey hills. He testified that she tried to rob him of his wallet.

When McGaha appeared in court for arraignment, he pleaded not guilty due to insanity. But court attaches say that three psychiatrists found him in sound mind.

On Friday Judge Frank C. Collier, the jurors, and those connected with the case went to the scene of the kidnaping at the Market Basket parking lot on California street, near Lake avenue. They went to the scene of the assault in the lonely Monterey hills where the terrain became so rough that the jurors had to disembark from the bus and climb to a point where they could see the location where the attack was made.

Deputy District Attorney Orville Emerson's marshalling of evidence against McGaha never left any doubt in the minds of observers as to the verdict the jurors would render. In the relentless verbal barrage of his rebuttal, the District Attorney concluded by urging the jury to accept the facts as presented by the witnesses and to disregard the fairy tales presented by the defense.

Kills Bishop Sara Butler, Then Self

murder and suicide as early as last Thursday, it was revealed. On Saturday, he went the rounds of his real estate clients, describing to them an employee, Howard Wilson, who would, he said, collect rentals from them in the future. He told Wilson that if "anything happened" to him, he was to collect the rentals and carry on the business.

A note, found on a table in the backroom of the modest office, instructed Wilson that rentals which were due, plus his life insurance, would pay for Jones' funeral and leave enough to pay one month's rent on the office.

Wilson said he had noticed his employer behaving strangely for several days in advance of the tragedy, but had attributed it to minor worries.

Druggists at Smith's Drug store at Jefferson and Central, six doors from Jones' office, said the slayer-suicide attempted to buy a quantity of strychnine about 15 minutes before the shooting Tuesday, giving as a reason that a friend wanted it to poison a dog.

Dr. J. Smith, proprietor of the store, said he happened to be out of the deadly poison at the time.

Bishop Butler was the wife of Charles Butler, former Central Casting Bureau head, prominent in Hollywood motion picture circles. The couple had been estranged little more than a year.

The bishop lived at 1144 E. 20th street.

Jones was separated from his wife, Mrs. Hazel Jones, now of Chicago. The couple had a son, Herbert, living in Washington, D. C.

Jones' column, "The Laundryman" had been a popular feature of the EAGLE for three years. It was only in recent months that he had consented to sign his name to his writing, preferring anonymity despite the column's widespread popularity.

Born in Alabama, Jones lived many years in Louisiana before coming to California. He was educated at Howard university.

Bishop Butler was born in Indiana and educated in music in which she had considerable talent.

Founding the church in 1935 with only five members, she had built rapidly. In February, the church, remodeled extensively, held a colorful cornerstone laying. In publicity released by Jones, who took care of all press relations for the church, the church property was valued at that time at $10,000.

It was "on something to put in the press" which Bishop Butler told Lula Staten, one of the members, that she wanted to confer with Jones, and had sent for him on the day she was killed.

and all equipment for use in the shop.

Now I know how Job felt when he had reached the breaking point and his wife advised that he curse God and die.

Within a few days the California legislature will reconvene, and coming under the head of unfinished business will be taxes and relief. I can't understand why the fact-finding committee has not suggested a remedy for the overtaxed people of California.

Little business is being driven to the wall by the heavy tax burden imposed upon it. Small home owners are taxed out of their homes, and men and women, heads of families, are losing faith in their ability to live under the present tax system.

But the saddest of all is the fact that the people are losing faith in their government.

HERS was the unfinished symphony.

Sara Butler strived and made a definite contribution to the happiness of her neighbors.

Her death at the hands of Caldwell Jones, who subsequently killed himself, has been a deep and dismaying shock to the community. The loss of two such people in this manner has left in its wake an incredulous multitude.

Mr. Jones, "The Laundryman", has been an EAGLE columnist for many years. Whimsical, informative, indignant, and gay by turns, his column was one of the finest published by a Negro newspaper in the nation. His last effort appears elsewhere on this page.

Before the compelling horror of such an event, somehow we are held speechless. We cannot moralize or mechanically reconstruct the crime. We can only remember little incidents, long forgotten. A mental picture of Sara Butler, young and courageous, boldly founding her new church with a smile and a high dream. The regular Monday morning visit of Caldwell Jones to bring his "copy". His laugh and his merry banter.

THE GROWING wave of knife-slayings that has engulfed the local community in recent weeks does not speak well for our much mentioned "police protection".

Last week a gang of ruffians invaded a young people's party in a Westside home. As a result, one man is lying at the point of death, his face and body severely lacerated. A boarder in the home, he had attempted to force the party-crashers to preserve order.

I am told that such invasions of young people's parties by this gang and others similar has become almost customary, that parents have found themselves impotent against the rudeness and lawlessness of these ruffians.

The community is not humbly pleading for more efficient police protection, but is DEMANDING it. If our young people cannot conduct a private social gathering without fear of invasion by thugs, their parents have failed them. As a taxpayer, it is not only the right but duty of every citizen to insure the sanctity of his home.

Even if it becomes necessary to station an officer on the porch when teen-age youngsters make merry ,their rights of privacy must be insured.

Farley Leaps to Death at Prison

blue-ribbon jury in Judge Ingall Bull's Superior Court, drawing a sentence of ten years imprisonment. He escaped murder convictions, although his peers refused to grant a "not guilty by reason of insanity" plea. The slayer was defended by Attorneys Loren Miller, Curtis Taylor and Grover Johnson.

Farley killed Deputy City Marshal Tom Crittenden, 60, and assistant Leon W. Roma, 54, in a fit of rage when they attempted to move furniture from his East 22nd street home. According to statements, he bought the house in 1923 for $2500. In April, 1935, because of inability to pay a street assessment of $27.47, the house was sold to the Troumpeter Mortgage Co., for $93.81. That concern later sold it to Louis Troutman, 1516 E. 59th street, who offered to resell Farley the home for $1100. It was for $67.80 back rent Troutman was evicting Farley.

SENTIMENT STIRRED

At the time, great public sentiment was stirred in behalf of the man, several metropolitan papers emphasizing the "economic injustice" of which he was assertedly victim. A Farley Defense Committee was formed, and funds for his legal representation were received through public subscription.

It was revealed that Farley suffered an incurable social disease, meningo vascular neuro syphilis. When he was convicted, physicians warned that the verdict was "equal to a death penalty," since he could not hope to survive the ten-year term.

BLANCHETTES

The Blanchette Beauty Operators' Charity club met at the home of Mrs. Leslie Hurd 1461 E. Vernon avenue, in regular monthly session. Report of the breakfast was made and prizes given the girls selling the largest number of tickets to the affair, namely, Miss Zula Mae Swift, first; E. Streety, second. All the girls were given tokens of appreciation. Helen Douglas is reporter.

Vermont Furniture Co. Offers 'Trade in' Sales

In one of the most unique and money-saving campaigns in furniture history, Bill Green's Vermont Furniture Co., 2826 So. Vermont Ave., is offering thrift-wise Angelenos sensational "trade in" sales right now!

Yes, gentle readers, you heard correctly: "TRADE IN YOUR OLD FURNITURE!" Trade it in on the new, breathtakingly beautiful stock at Bill Green's. Situated out of the high rent district, Bill Green offers the top rank quality of the greatest downtown establishments—at amazing price reductions. Only his strategic location, large-scale manufacturer contracts make it possible for Bill Green to boast the kind of bargains you will find at 2826 So. Vermont Ave.

One of the most convenient of the customs at this friendly store is its policy of "open 'til 9 EVERY NIGHT". Husbands who have been denied the pleasure of escorting the little lady on tours of the furniture marts may now come into their own. Incidentally, on Sundays Bill Green accommodates his customers until after 12. No similar institution can match Bill Green's in beauty, bargains and SERVICE.

MISSING

Missing from her parents' home since Sunday is 12-year old MARGARET INGRAM, pictured above. Margaret left home Sunday morning to attend Sunday school at the Independent church, 18th and Paloma streets, and has not returned, her mother, Mrs. Maggie Ingram, reported yesterday.

Anyone having information as to the child's whereabouts is requested to notify Mrs. Ingram at 705 E. 43rd place, telephone, CE. 21903.

McDonough Is Candidate to Succeed Self

Supervisor Gordon L. McDonough today announced his candidacy for re-election at the August primary on his record of economy and efficiency in county government. McDonough's leadership has won him the admiration of his constituents who believe him to be a capable and fearless public official, human enough to understand the peoples' problems and man enough to fight for what he thinks is right.

Because of his leadership in beneficial legislation and projects, he has secured the passage of many humanitarian measures and accomplished the construction of major public works in the Second district without assessments or increased taxation.

"I shall continue to administer the office of Supervisor in a progressive and democratic manner and on sound constructive business principles for the greatest good to the greatest number," declared McDonough.

"My record of economy is highlighted by reductions of $785,870 last year in departments under my direction, consolidation of townships saving $100,000, my vote against spending $160,000 for a warehouse on North Spring street, and many other actions for economy.

"I have fought for financial relief to direct lien special assessment districts and will continue my fight."

McDonough secured the Federal Food Stamp plan for Los Angeles, fought successfully to abolish "property lien agreements" for aged pensioners, and fostered legislation to benefit and protect labor.

His recent new policy for admission to county medical institutions will open them to many citizens and taxpayers who were previously denied and will save taxpayers thousands of dollars annually in collections.

Many thousands of constituents in the Second district have rallied to McDonough's support.

The LAUNDRY-MAN

it that our Southern ideas and traditions (lynchings among others) are respected, etc." Boiled down, this statement simply means the Negro must remain in servitude in Dixie. It is a strange thing indeed that the supposedly superior white man can be so emotionally aroused by such rhetorical poppycock spouted forth by demagogues, the formula of which has not changed one whit in the last seventy-five years.

DAY OF EMANCIPATION IS AT HAND. Yet, notwithstanding these sporadic outbursts of a few Southerners who are drunk on TRADITION--the national drink of such reactionaries--the dawn of Emancipation is already slowly but surely, breaking across the Southern horizon. Their position is becoming more untenable every day. Even their own children, those of the younger generation find it impossible to agree with their ideas. Militant John L. Lewis unloosed a series of bombs upon their heads the other day in Washington, D. C., while speaking at the National Negro Congress. He declared that the poll-tax which is used to disfranchise Negroes in the South is a damnable infringement of citizen's rights, and denounced President Roosevelt and the New Deal Administration for their apathy in allowing it to function in certain southern states. He pledged the full strength of his powerful CIO organization to fight discrimination against "Any Group", on account of Race, color or creed.

In South Carolina, prominent white civic leaders have promised Negroes that they will fight against the Race-bans in the Democratic primaries of the state. Even in backward Alabama, a group of broadminded, enlightened white Southerners have banded themselves together in an organization called the "Southern Conferenee for Human Welfare". Such moves indicate that notwithstanding the frantic opposition of Old-line, reactionaries, the Southland is in the throes of a slow but steady upheaval which no man's hand can successfully stay.

A potent yeast is being slowly but surely injected into the thought-stream of the American people, which in time, is bound to leaven the mass.

The boasted civilization of Europe is toppling like a flimsy house of cards, destroying itself, gnawing its own vitals, and no one can foresee just how it will end. The United States of America however has a rendezvous with DESTINY; and in order to be adequately prepared for that High Estate, she Must and Will grant Equality and Justice to her loyal Negro citizens.

Late Baptist Minister's Widow Dies

Mrs. Eleanor Prowd, widow of the late Rev. H. D. Prowd, pastor of the Second Baptist church for many years, died suddenly at 10:30 last Friday morning, May 3, on the way from a neighborhood store to her home.

Mrs. Prowd came to Los Angeles 24-years ago with her distinguished husband and family. The Prowds were nationally known for their unselfish service to the communities in which they lived. Five children survive the deceased, three daughters and two sons. They include Mmes. Lillian Adler, Los Angeles; Hilda Brawley, Washington, D. C.; Ellen MacDonald, Vancouver, B. C.; Luke and John Prowd. The latter is printer and supply department head of the Golden State Mutual Life Insurance co.

Funeral services will be held Saturday afternoon, May 11, at two o'clock in the Conner-Johnson Funeral Home. Dr. T. L. Griffith, pastor of Second Baptist church where Mrs. Prowd was an active member, will officiate.

Man Drops Dead on 'Avenue'

Seen Monday morning, apparently in good health, Buster Columbus, 29, 1054 E. 56th street, dropped dead in front of 5434 S. Central avenue, shortly after noon the same day, according to police reports.

Johnson Julius, 1150 E. 55th street, a witness, reportedly told Detective J. J. Steffens he saw Columbus that morning, and with F. C. Mounday, 5608 Naomi, saw him fall at the Avenue address where he died almost immediately, apparently from natural causes.

His body was removed to the county morgue.

● As a part of Boy's Week celebration, James Brown, only Negro employe of the Southern California Gas Company, conducted a tour of the city's largest downtown and Eastside business establishment for a group of outstanding students of Jefferson and Polytechnic High Schools.

● SEE GAS COMPANY—Particular emphasis was laid upon the detailed excursion through central offices of the Southern California Gas Company, where the lads were attracted by many interesting processes of modern business management. Many other downtown establishments were visited.

● Among sights of the Eastside business world was the office and plant of the California Eagle, 4075 Central Avenue. Machinery and Press Room techniques were of specila interst to the young men.

● The group was composed of Leonard Harper, Student Body President of Thomas Jefferson High School; Claude Zuby, of Student Self-Government at Jefferson; Ed. Thompson, president of the Jefferson Public Speaking Class, Vox Populi; Steon Nance, Polytechnic Self-Government; Lucky Ballard, Poly track star; and William Lincolnfelter, football player at Polytechnic. Pictures of the lads' pilgrimage appear above.

● Community leaders have praised young Brown for his initiative and interest in arranging and conducting the tour. A luxurious automobile was contributed by the People's Funeral Home.

Education Confab at Shrine

Prominent educational, religious and civic leaders will speak on the basic considerations affecting the American home at an all-day adult education conference at Shrine Auditorium the morning of May 10, and at various participating centers on the afternoon of the same day.

Starting at 9:15 in the morning and continuing until 3:00 o'clock in the afternoon, the program is designed to bring about a keener appreciation of the American home: its economics, itis children, its family harmony, its idealism; and to assist in fostering a keener appreciation of the home in its importance to its community.

In the morning there will be a fashion show, exhibits of the various products fabricated by members of the adult classes in millinery, dressmaking and the various craft arts. Orchestral music and choral groups will provide musical entertainment. The public is invited to attend, and arrangements have been completed to accomodate several thousand persons.

Wilberforce U. Professor Gets Fellowship

WILBERFORCE, May 9.—It was announced by Dr. Ormonde Walker, president of Wilberforce university, that Prof. Robert Coleman of the department of physics had been awarded a Rosenwald Fellowship of $1,000 to finish work on his doctorate and do further research work.

Prof. Coleman graduated from Central High school in Cleveland in 1930. A Cleveland Foundation Grant enabled him to attend Western Reserve university where he was elected Phi Beta Kappa and was graduated in 1935.

While in attendance at Columbia in 1936-37 he was awarded a fellowship of $1,200. His master degree was received in 1937 and during the summer of that year he completed his residence requirements for his doctorate.

In the fall of 1937 he became the head of the physics department of Wilberforce university and in the summer of 1938 he started research on his thesis. The recent award from the Rosenwald fund will enable him to finish this work.

Harlemite, Art Editor Do Best Poster Designs

CHICAGO, May 9.—A Harlem artist now painting murals in New York on a WPA project, and the paper in downstate Illinois, won both prizes awarded in the national contest conducted by the American Negro Exposition to obtain a poster design for use throughout the nation.

Robert S. Pious, 32, is winner of the $100 first award. He has lived in New York for the past 9 years. Originally the contest called for only one prize, but because of the general excellence of many of the poster designs received, it was decided to give a second prize of $25. This goes to Hiram Jackson, Jr., 29, who is currently employed on the Illinois State Journal.

30 in Class, 30 Pass Exams

W. Morris, instructor of the Custodial Engineering class of Jefferson Evening High school, announced today that 30 of his students took the examination for County Institutional Janitors on Mar. 24, and all 30 passed. Furthermore, the first five on the eligible list were members of his class. Fifteen of Morris' students have already received letters of temporary appointment. He said that some 1500 originally applied for the examination of which only 208 qualified and 150 passed.

It will be recalled that when the Board of Education custodian examination was held, 25 of Mr. Morris' students took the ex-

HALL JOHNSON CHOIR LEAVES REVIEWER AT A LOSS FOR SUPERLATIVES

Concert of Famous Choir at Philharmonic Great Exhibition of Vocal Gymnastics

By JOHN KINLOCH

There is a very neat tradition in Negro journalism with regards to the performances of race artists. Each appearance is "triumphant", every house is packed, and nobody has ever been so vulgar as to lay an egg (figuratively speaking) or belch in the middle of an aria. This is a nice arrangement, indeed, from the performer's point of view, but not strictly conducive to journalistic honesty.

For instance, if you cover a glorious festival of song in which the soloist is flatter than a German exile and the audience composed of six stage hands and a drunk, you write it up like this: "Mme. Sow R. Note appeared before a select audience last nite at the Watts Municipal Auditorium in a triumphant climax of her recent tour through South Los Angeles." Pretty soon this sort of thing gets almost automatic, and you find yourself writing the damdest bull without even batting a comma.

Anyway, here's the point. Friday night the Hall Johnson Choir appeared at Philharmonic Auditorium in one of the greatest exhibitions of vocal gymnastics it has ever been this reporter's privilege to hear. We are at a loss, as the press-agents say, for superlatives. And this is stated with pure, unadulterated debulled sincerity. And it's a relief.

Granting a twenty-note headstart, it is our solemn conviction that the Hall Johnson people can sing circles around the chorus of the Metropolitan Opera Co., Inc. —and play a thumping good game of pool at the same time.

Friday's program was spliced under the headings "Theatre", which included songs from "Green Pastures", "Fi-yer", and "Run Little Chillun"; "Motion Pictures", including 'Song of a Nation", "Way Down South", "Swanee River", and "Banjo On My Knee"; and "Old Favorites".

In the first group, the classic "Joshua Fit the Battle of Jericho" stood out, bringing down a storm of applause. Lesser known songs from "Fi-yer" were eloquently distinguished by William Gillespie's solo moments in "Elegy".

But, for us, the original music from "Run Little Chillun" was the outstanding group of melodies under "Theatre". Exotic pig latin of the "Processional and Credo of the New Day Pilgrims" wrought a flawless mood—like the better critics say. Particularly outstanding also was the magnificent choral interpretation of "I'll Never Turn Back No Mo'". However, it remained for Mr. Eugene Henderson's inspired shouting of "Run Little Chillun" to start us kicking the Philharmonic's pedigreed furniture in earnest. Briefly, he tore it down.

FROM MOTION PICTURES

In the "motion picture" group, a spectacular standout was "Couldn't Hear Nobody Pray" with solo credits chalked up to Lois Hodnut. The picée was favored with one of the few encores maestro Johnson permitted. "Sometimes I Feel Like a Motherless Child" was perhaps the most amazing technical performance of the evening. Weird, jungle cries were shot through it with superb restraint. A tremendously moving effect was achieved.

Bertha Powell, destined to play Hattie McDaniel's old screen role in the Philharmonic's new edition of "Show Boat," exploited "St. Louis Blues" to its fullest extent in her solo moments. The entire organization combined to produce a swing classic here, although some of the do-da-da business was overdone. Ruby Elzy's husband, Jack Carr, burst a hole in the basement when he took a bass flyer on "Ole Black Joe".

Featured among "old favorites" was the singing of "Crucifixion" by all male voices. The performance was tender with a quiet passion approaching vocal tears. The audience was deeply touched. Naomi Pharr followed with an earthy interpretation of "Deep River", while choral backgrounds were particularly well handled. "By and By" was notable for the solo work of Charles Holland, husband of Jeanette Collins, talented dancer who cavorted about the recent "Hot Mikado" in less than that. Holland possesses what is probably the finest male voice in the choir.

HOUSE PACKED

It was significant to note that the choir attracted a full house to the huge auditorium. In fact, you couldn't have got in a sar- you couldn't have gotten in a sar-

The performance of the group Friday night becomes even more impressive when you know that they spent all that day in frenzied rehearsal for the new "Show Boat". If people ever made beautiful music out of the sweat of their brows, it's the Hall Johnson choir. But then there's the "white gentleman" who occupied the seat to the left of us. As the singers completed one of their most difficult and highly skilled renditions, he turned to his companion and stoutly revealed, "It's as natural for those people to sing that way as it is for us to talk".

"Oh, well," as Charity said to Faith and Hope, "what the hell?"

Alabama Chief Justice Succumbs

MONTGOMERY (Ala.) May 9—Chief Justice J. C. Anderson of the Alabama Supreme court, one of the few southerners to try to help the Scottsboro boys, died here of a heart ailment. He was 76 years old.

When the State Supreme Court upheld the verdicts against 7 of the 9 Scottsboro youths, Judge Anderson dissented on the grounds that "they did not get a fair and impartial trial that is required and contemplated by our Constitution."

BEHIND the SCENES with Harry

Thank you friends and neighbors, (meaning readers,) for the very fine welcome with which you greeted the "Ol' Kolyum," on its return. And thank you, thank you still more for the letters a number of you wrote to the "Madam." conscientious, tireless, appreciative head of the Eagle nest.

Harry Levette

She told me about them and was as happy over them as Yours Truly." But stick around, for "You ain't seen nothin' yet. The Ol' Kolyum" has a lot of birds up its sleeve and is going to spring a lot of surprises on you in the near future. It has also a lot of golden opportunities for money making, fame and fun that it is going to let you in on, the first one in next issue, so don't miss a single copy. Last Monday "Behind the Scenes," was fourteen years old, by rights we ought to pitch a "Boogie Woogie" in the biggest hall in town. But we haven't time, so let's talk about the news.

STARS FOR THE PONTCHEZ VICTIMS

But first let's stop in the busy tempodrum of life, and figurativedrop a wreath on the graves of those 203 victims of the Demon Fire, that shuffled out their lives in one of the most horrible disasters that ever occurred in this country. Such tragedies make the whole world kin, and it is a test of real principle and man and womanhood if color prejudice and caste are forgotten in times of stress such as was visited upon this Mississippi community. Many of the opposite race followed the fine examples of the Red Cross nurses who are sworn to treat black and white alike, and did wherever possible. The comedy struck the theatrical world heavily, taking the life of Walter Barnes, one of the Race's best band leaders, and wiping his band except for four members. Taps, for Walter, and may he rest in peace.

WE WON'T CONDEMN THE DANCERS

I only wish I had more time to discuss the many aspects of this catastrophe, but I must get on with the news. However, religious persons should not use this as an excuse to preach against dancing and what they call worldly pleasures." Death was not sent as retribution on them because they were dancing, or because it so happened that the Rhythm Club was formerly a church. However, the blood of all these unfortunate human beings lies upon the heads of the city officials of Pontchez. They were either remissed in permitting a dance in a building with one exit, and decorated with that highly inflammable Spanish moss, or if they had such appearances, they must have not thought it worth while protecting the lives of Negroes. Don't condemn the dancers. There is very little innocent pleasure available for colored in thousands of such towns in the south, that young people or their elders should not be blamed for trying to seek a little enjoyment.

PLENTY HAPPENED THIS WEEK

Last week was jam-packed with lot of goings-on interesting to the film and stage profesh, but can't begin to go into detail on all of it. However, the employment situation has not opened up any, although there will be quite a lot of movie work coming up in the near future. Every thing in stage work right now and is for the dancers rehearsing for Paul Robeson's "Show Boat," at the Philharmonic, of which the Hall Johnson choir will be the chorus.

WHAT'S GOING ON AT THE STUDIOS

Chas. Butler, for over ten years casting director of colored talent for Central Casting Bureau, is now a regular artist's agent also. Working under a legitimate license, he is now empowered to place members of the Screen Actors Guild in the dialogue bits and parts that pay from $25 per day up. Of course, this will be over the regular agent's commission, but it is a break for the player holding "B-Special" cards, that who don't know what work is coming up, or how to get an audition when any does come

'Oscar Wilde', New Hit at El Capitan Theatre

"Oscar Wilde," the Leslie and Sewell Stokes drama which ran for a year on Broadway, is being presented for a limited engagement at the El Capitan theatre in Hollywood by Charles O'Neal and Arthur Hutchinson.

The play is an accurate depiction of the life of the brilliant 19th century playwright-poet, beginning at the height of his career when his comedy "The Importance of Being Earnest" was the toast of the London theatre and Wilde was the idol of England until he recklessly defied the conventions of the period and was sentenced to prison and later exiled in Paris where he died drunken and disillusioned.

The play neither condemns nor condones Oscar Wilde. Rather it seeks to present the true facts of the case, even to including actual testimony from the trials and liberal use of Wilde's own epigrams and witticisms. It is recommended unanimously by the Los Angeles critics as a production every lover of good theatre should see.

Laird Cregar plays the title role—a brilliant new star whose performance has excited the interest of the theatrical world.

Performances at the El Capitan are given nightly including Sunday with a matinee Saturday. Popular prices prevail.

Laura Bowman Elected Head of Television Unit Here

Miss Laura Bowman, internationally-famed Lafayette Player, was this week elected president of the Lafayette Players unit of the Television Artists and Writers Guild, Inc., here.

"This achievement definitely places race artists and writers o nthe ground floor in the field of television, scheduled to open up on a national commercial spokesman for the organibzation scale early in September," a spokesman for the organization said.

An outstanding actress and creative artist, Miss Bowman is a member of the Televiion Artists and Writers Guild, as well as incorporator of the National Negro Art School, Inc., of New York State.

Famed as a talented character actress, Miss Bowman appeared in the recent picture, "Son of Ingagi", a Hollywood Production with Zack Williams and Spence Williams, Jr.

A television unit for demonstration and broadcasting purposes has just been esttablished in the Dunbar Hotel building at 42nd and Central Avenue, through the efforts of War Perkins, popular KFOX race announcer, and the efforts of the new guild center. There are approximately 20 race members in the new guild unit.

Streamline Beauty

Pretty Patty Robinson will be one of the star performers in the spectacular pageant that will mark the opening of the 1940 season of the Golden Gate International Exposition May 25. Miss Robinson, who has won laurels as a swimmer and diver, will lead the lagoon parade, one of the opening day features.

'20 Mule Team' One of Year's Most Entertaining

Combining all of the action and thrills of the best Westerns with the uniquely picturesque background of Death Valley and three sterling performances by those veterans Wallace Berry, Marjorie Rambeau and Leo Carrillo, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "20 Mule Team" emerges as one of the most thoroughly entertaining pictures of the year. It opened yesterday (Wednesday) at the United Artists Theatre, 933 S. Broadway, downtown Los Angeles.

Saga of the pioneers who braved the Valley's treacherous heat to wrest a fortune from the borax mines, "20 Mule Team" presents Berry in his element as muleskinner Bill Bragg, his most colorful and thoroughgoing characterization since "Viva Villa". As his Indian "Swamper", Piute Pete, Carrillo scores as outstandingly as he did in that previous picture while Marjorie Rambeau proves such a sure-fire feminine tammate for Berry as saloon-owner Josie Johnson that she promises almost at once to step into a new niche of fame. The three are ideally cast together. Another highly successful teaming occurs in the "junior heart interest" developed through Noah Berry, Jr., as the Young paymaster, Mitch, and Ann Baxter, newcomer from the New York stage, who is seen as Jean, Josie's daughter. Young Berry follows with assurance in the footsteps of father and uncle, while Miss Baxter proves a definite find.

Also fitting the period and locale with conviction are Douglas Fowley, Clem Bevans, Barton Churchill, Arthur Hohl and Edward Waller, all in distinctive characterizations.

Richard Thorpe, directing, has blended history of the 90's typical Western action and gunplay, spectacular aspects of setting and distinguished group of performances with a fine sense of balance, while J. Walter Ruben has given "20 Mule Team" every production advantage to insure authentically and the pleasure of audiences.

As a companion picture, Lynn Bari, Joan Davis and Henry Wilcoxon in "Free, Blonde and 21". A story of girls who share stockings, lipstick, frocks, but the one thing they wouldn't share was their men.

Be sure to put this program on your "must see" list of the week. Last day of showing is Wednesday, May 14.

Paul Muni in 'Key Largo' at Biltmore

Strange as it may seem, Paul Muni, who has been one of filmland's leading stars for more than ten years, with an enviable record of great pictures to his credit, has never made a personal stage appearance in California. This precedent is soon to be shattered, however, since Muni will be starring in person in Maxwell Anderson's latest hit, "Key Largo," which will play one week at the Biltmore Theatre, Los Angeles, beginning May 20.

Maxwell Anderson's story concerns the return of a disillusioned idealist who fought as an American volunteer with the Spanish loyalist forces against Mussolini and Franco, the disastrous effect upon him of his experience in war, and his struggle for spiritual regeneration, aided and inspired by the girl Alegre.

Paul Muni's personal appearance in "Key Largo" is his first stage engagement since his tour in Elmer Rice's "Counsellor at Law" 7 years ago, and he is so pleased with the result that he and the producers, The Playwrights' Company, are reported to be planning another collaboration next year, following the completion of Muni's forthcoming pictures.

Since his previous activity in the theatre, Muni has become world renowned through his many masterpieces of characterization in the films, as the sinister gangster of "Scarface," the hunted quarry of "I am A Fugitive from a Chain Gang," the vigorous coal-miner of "Black Fury," the wisecracking newspaperman of "Hi, Nellie," the scientist of "Pasteur," the intellectual with his passion for truth in "Zola," the impassive Indian statesman of "Juarez." In considering a return to the stage, Muni read hundreds of plays, finding none that suited him until Maxwell Anderson sent him "Key Largo" last Fall. The famous screen star found this work so impressive that he at once consented to play its leading role.

Laura Bowman, Le Roy Antoine in Recital Sunday

The Los Angeles Musicians' Association is observing National Music Week by presenting Laura Bowman, famous character actress, and LeRoy Antoine, Haitian baritone, in recital, Sunday at the Allied Arts Auditorium, 808 S. Broadway.

Miss Bowman will be remembered for her artistic work with the Lafayette Players. Mr. Antoine is a concert baritone of note and has made successful appearances in the East. Miss Robert V. Edwards will be at the piano. Program starts at 4:00 p. m.

Tickets may be secured from the Gray Conservatory of Music or from the members.

Show Girls Click With Fashion Tea

With the class that has characterized all their former affairs, the Cerc La Charmante Club, composed of girls of the stage and screen, clicked again with a colorful Fashion tea last Sunday afternoon. It was staged at "God's Guest House", 1324 E. Vernon Avenue. There were over a hundred guests present including many leading citizens and prominent persons from all walks of life.

Besides presenting models displaying the very latest in summer aparel, an excellent program was also rendered, and a number of interesting and encouraging talks made. One of the most enthusiastically received numbers was a resonant baritone solo by Ernest Whitman, stage, screen and radio star.

Members of this live wire club are Nadine Trice, Pres.; Clotilde Woodson, Vice Pres.; Wilhelmina Jones, Sec'y; Arie Le Branche, Corresponding Sec't; Virginia Jackson, Treas.; Hazel Whizzer, Bus. Mgr. Other members include Ruth Spencer, Neva Moore, and Opal Williams, reporter.

Among the clubs represented were the "Bon Ton," the "De Mar Bridge," the "Lone Wolf," the "Phillips Temple Ushers," the "Booster Club" of Second Baptist Church, the "Happiness Charity Club," the "Jollyetes" and others.

'Scandals' on Paramount Stage

The biggest theatrical scoop in years comes with the announcement by the Paramount theatre that the George White "Scandals" will be presented at popular prices for one week only starting Tuesday.

George White's brand new extravaganza comes fresh from record breaking engagements at $3.30 prices, with a cast of 100 featuring Ben Blue, Ella Logan and Ann Miller with an array of America's most beautiful showgirls.

The reputation of the "Scandals" over the years has been founded mostly on bizarre settings and daring tableaus. The 1940 production of the "Scandals" which is the first to reach the footlights since 1935, is the most pretentious in point of costumes and scenery and in addition, is flooded with a wealth of hilarious comedy. It took George White almost a year to produce this show and the gorgeous redheads, blondes and brunettes who appear in a special feature, known as "Scandals of Old", were selected from among more than 3000 applicants from every state in America.

"Are You Having Any Fun", theme song of the show, has only one answer on the part of the public from Broadway first nighters to westcoast audiences, when Ella Logan, "Queen of Song" puts over the number. Ella Logan, Broadway star from Scotland, who made a name for herself both in musical comedy and motion pictures, has reached the peak of her career as headliner of the "Scandals".

Illinois & Chicago Invite You to the AMERICAN NEGRO EXPOSITION

TO COMMERCIAL EXHIBITORS:

This gigantic spectacle offers a golden opportunity to place your merchandise or services before the vast throngs who will attend this 60 day Negro World's Fair. A limited space is available for exhibits of this nature. Write immediately for complete information.

FOR THE FIRST TIME in history, the Negro will have a real Exposition detailing his past and his glorious achievements in the 75 years since emancipation. Murals, dioramas and exhibits will graphically tell the dramatic story of the race's great part in building America.

The State of Illinois has set aside $75,000 to aid the Exposition. Government departments, federal agencies, foundations, institutions and individuals of both races are cooperating wholeheartedly. Whole sections will be devoted to displays of the Negro's contributions to every phase of American life. Pageants, dramatics, motion pictures, special days, noted leaders and many other special attractions will be featured during the duration of this epoch marking event.

Plan now to be in Chicago between July 4 and September 2. It is a national celebration which no Negro can afford to miss. Never before has there been an event comparable to this mammoth observance of the 75th anniversary of Negro freedom. You owe it to yourself to visit the American Negro Exposition, the most amazing event ever conceived.

A Colorful Heavyweight Threat

At long last it appears that local fistic yokels have a heavyweight in their midst. If a guess as to who it is granted, only one is needed.

Called the British Brown Bomber, the big boy is handsome Tommy Martin, who, although crippled, went 10 blistering rounds with hard-punching Bob Nestell a couple of weeks ago at the Olympic auditorium here.

There are a number of good reasons why Martin is the "man of the hour", not the least of which is the fact that he is a game hombre.

Apparently on his way to a clean knockout over Nestell, Martin wrenched his left knee in the fourth round of the battle. Thus hampered he was not able to put any weight on the bad pin in order to throw his right, a right which opened a cut over Nestell's eye in the early going. On top of that he couldn't rush his opponent and was pushed to the canvas innumerable times as the leg would give way.

Known for his heavy duty right hand, Nestell could not put Martin away. The Briton proved himself a vertical gladiator rather than a horizontal one like others of his countrymen who have fought on this side of the water.

A puncher with either hand, monocle-wearing Tommy "Strike Me Pink" Martin appears to be the answer to a matchmaker's prayers. Jimmy Murray, major domo of the Olympic, has rematched Martin and Nestell for the near future, and if Martin is the answer he'll prove it then—with two good legs!

Meanwhile, there are rumors about that Mike Jacobs wants more dope on the British Bomber. Martin's handlers say, however, they are not interested in "Monopoly Mike's" offers. They are content to bring Martin along gradually rather than offering him as fodder at this moment for one Joe Louis.

BERTHA POWELL GETS ROLE OPPOSITE PAUL ROBESON IN SHOW BOAT

Light Opera Opens L. A. Civic Festival at Philharmonic Auditorium Monday

By HARRY LEVETTE

Coming as a pleasant surprise both to herself and to her many friends of both races, Bertha Powell, silver-toned soprano of the Hall Johnson choir, was allotted the coveted role of "Queenie", opposite Paul Robeson, in "Show Boat", which opens the Los Angeles Civic Light Opera Festival at the Philharmonic auditorium.

JIMMIE GREER and his original broadcasting orchestra, formerly of the Biltmore for two years, now playing at the Wilshire Bowl, will make their farewell Southern California appearance at the beautiful Elks' auditorium Friday, May 24. The band will leave immediately following their first and only Eastside engagement, on an extended tour, winding up in New York.

The Greer band has 11 pieces and two soloists and is considered the best on the Coast and one of the nation's outstanding.

The opening date is set for Monday. It is slated for a week's run, after which the Jerome Kern light opera, favorite with local music lovers, will open in San Francisco for a week. A week in Sacramento is also under consideration, but there is said to be no intention to take the big company of over a hundred colored and white singers and dancers on the road.

Part of the operetta is centered around John Boles and Guy Kibbee, both of movie fame. Two large dancing choruses, one colored, the other white, have been in rehearsal for the past two weeks for the big stage show.

The full Hall Johnson chorus will be featured. The celebrated organization, even more popular than when it came to Hollywood five years ago for the screen version of "Green Pastures", held a special recital last Friday, presenting a review of numbers it has used in many stage and screen appearances.

Miss Powell, who has been in great demand as a soloist ever since she arrived as a member of the Hall Johnson choir, was chosen over a number of other artists eager for the part. Director De Koven was so highly pleased with her first interview that he assigned the role to her.

With the big Naval Ball okayed, the govt. is looking for new painless ways to extract taxes from the citizens. No matter whether it's spelled "tax" or "tacks" it is always pointed enough to bring a yelp from anyone who comes in contact with it. "Tax" is from the Latin verb "Taxare", which means to touch. A lot of people thought it came from the verb meaning to slug. One way to avoid U .S. Taxes is to leave the country. However, about all that gets you is out of the country. This is just a hint to brace yourself for the Congressional "touch".

Women strikers in England sang in front of a factory until they got their pay raised. It was probably a one note song-"Dough! Dough! Dough!"

Lakewood Larks in Softball Loop

The Lakewood Larks, all-star softball team, has been added to the National League in Long Beach, it was announced today. The League has been in operation 15 years and this is the first time a Negro team has been permitted to become a member, it is claimed. The Lakewood Larks announced that they have room on their team for boys who can play grade-A softball.

Coach of the squad is Norman L. Washington. Some of the players are: Carl Green, Sam Green, Malcolm Keys, Porky Bell, J. W. Roberts, Whittaker, Scrowl and Stricklin.

Referee Ralph Cooper Injured

During a rough game of soccer at the 28th street YMCA last Friday night, Ralph Cooper, movie player, acting as referee, was slightly injured, sustaining an injured right eye when the ball was kicked into it.

Given first aid immediately, Cooper said the game was so exciting, he forgot to duck. Physicians said the optic will be suf-

Pacho Easy for Johnny Jackson in Olympic Bout

Bobby Pacho lost a second time to Johnny Jackson at the Olympic auditorium Tuesday night—lost by a wider margin than he did the first time several weeks ago.

The EAGLE round count gave Jackson, the classy 149-pounder from New Orleans, all six rounds of the top bout on a card of five six-rounders.

Neither fighter visited the canvas although several times the fans wondered what was holding up the veteran and paunchy Pacho. Jackson did most of the fighting, what little there was. Pacho seemed content to try to wear down his opponent, having a 9-pound pull in the weights at 158.

Bobby (Biff-Bang) Bonger, white Inglewood heavyweight ballyhooed as a comer, biffed Clash Clinton, a substitute around the ring for five rounds. Referee Charley Randolph called a halt in that heat and Bonger had himself a TKO. Easy to hit, Bonger might have been still banging away on the form of Clash had the affair not had to end somewhere. The former weighed 175; Clinton, 182.

Otto Blackwell, 147, surprised with a slashing decision over Lee Orey, 149, white film employe. Favored to win, Orey was completely outclassed.

Bobby Yannes, Mexican boy, 167 ,offered further proof he should hang 'em up for a while as he dropped a fourth round TKO decision to William Metcalf, 165, Eddie "Rochester" Anderson's importation from Chicago.

Jimmy Lydell, at 126, and Mexican Tony Navorro, 124½, went six bruising rounds to a draw.

Matchmaker Jimmy Murray has announced the following coming matches: Bob Nestell vs. Tommy Martin; Toby Virgil vs. Richard Polite; Sammy Angott vs. George Latka or Baby Arizmendi; Turkey Thompson vs. Gus Lesnevich.

Chicago World's Fair Group Meets

Los Angeles committee working in cooperation with the Chicago Negro World's Fair swung into action Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. Fay Allen, Board of Education member, 619 E. 37th street.,

Members include Mrs. Allen, John Hargroves, Rev. Baxter Duke, Mrs. C. A. Bass, Leon Washington, Mrs. Faustina Johnson, James Erwin, Gilbert Lindsey, Loren Miller, L. G. Robinson, C. L. Dellums, Mrs. Tarrea Pittman, George Johnson, Leland S. Hawkins, Alex Moore and Dennis V. Allen.

Ligaroti Will Race at Hollypark

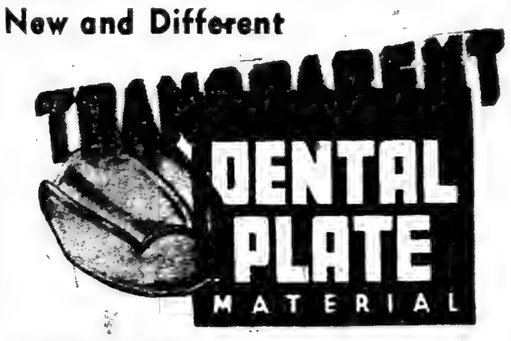
When Hollywood Park launches its 47 days of summer racing on May 30, the magnificent Inglewood oval will at once become the battleground of a gigantic turf war.

Invading America for the first time in nearly a decade, titans of the turf from Australia and other foreign lands are shipping their greatest stakesters to Hollywood Park to challenge the supremacy of American-owned thoroughbreds. To meet this challenge, wealthy American turfmen have gone into the Argentine, Chile, Uruguay Ireland, France and England to purchase the finest speedsters money could buy.

Bulwarking the Binglin stable of South American thunderbolts which will endeavor to help stem the foreign invasion will be Ligaroti, the horse which gave Seabiscuit the hardest fight of his great turf career. Neck and neck, head and head, nose and nose, Ligaroti fought off the 'Biscuit in the class, turf battle at Del Mar on Aug. 12, 1938, losing by a whisker in a hair-raising photo-to-finish.

Two years ago, Ligaroti swept to victory at Hollywood Park in three valuable features, creating two track records. Next to the 'Biscuit, he was the star of the campaign. Last year, after being fitted at Inglewood, he was shipped East to campaign in New England. There he suffered injuries which forced him into temporary retirement.

"But he will be back this season, faster and better than ever," declares Lin Howard, his wealthy young trainer. "Seabiscuit made a comeback and so will Ligaroti."



MAE WEST has been the means of many colored actors and artists getting in themovies, dating from her first arrival on the coast. The first move she made was to send back for Libby Taylor, a former fellow-trouper who for a while was employed by the glamorous blond. Libby soon entered pictures on her own right and has had much success.

Besides using large numbers of colored players in nearly all of her pictures, Mae has employed Harvey Brooks and other music composers to write songs for her films. Until ecently she always employed colored chauffeurs, both Chalky Wright, and his brother, Lee, having worked for her. She has also given generously to colored charities. She is a patron of Covan Dance School, and is coached by its instructors, whenever necessary for a dance sequence.

e Horror of Natchez Why?

Something's rotten in Natchez, ss., and the stench has shocked erica.

One of the most gruesome news ries in years was the report from little southern town a few weeks that two hundred or more Nees had been burned to death, with res injured, in a great dance-hall . Dispatches also revealed that hall had only one small exit, that er passages of egress were board- up, and that the building was de of flimsy, highly inflammable terial.

Where were the fire regulations of tchez? Where were the fire inspecs of Natchez? Where was the mmon decency of city officials of tchez?

That a double standard exists be- the Mason-Dixon Line in the encement of fire regulations has g been recognized, but such flagabuse of statutes as revealed in Natchez horror was not even blicly charged. The entire attitude Negro southern leaders has been egard this malicious form of disnination as a sort of unimportant product of more significant econic and social injustice. Natchez uld change their minds.

ndeed, it would not be a bad idea ll Afro-America checked its posi with regards the proper enforcent of fire and housing regulations he ghettoes assigned our people m coast to coast. The toleration of rsights in these vital health cons are a deadly menace and should treated as such.

The first move in such a campaign a national scale would be a dnd for state or congressional intigation of the Natchez disaster rder to fix blame and to establish recedent of vigorous law enforcent. Those negligent city or fire cials who were responsible for the stence of such an obvious fireo must be prosecuted to the full ent of the law. They are the rderers of more than two hundred man beings.

t is probable that the first argunt to be presented by officials un- investigation will be that "the ored people didn't mind", or that ne Negro leader told them to wink at the law. If such a story is heard, Negroes must be prepared to continue blasting,—even to a greater extent. This strategem has been used to advantage far too long by civic office holders thruout America.

And if a motto is needed to inspire a popular "fire regulations" campaign, there's one ready made: "REMEMBER NATCHEZ!"

We the People

There has been a great deal of talk from Washington during the last few months of "trying to keep America out of war". No doubt this is a lofty sentiment, but those harboring it are under a misconception concerning the American people.

In the past twenty years, they have come to some pretty definite conclusions. Among them--and chief among them--is this: WE ARE NOT GOING TO WAR. The statement is definite, not conditional. Not "if". Not "maybe". Just "No!"

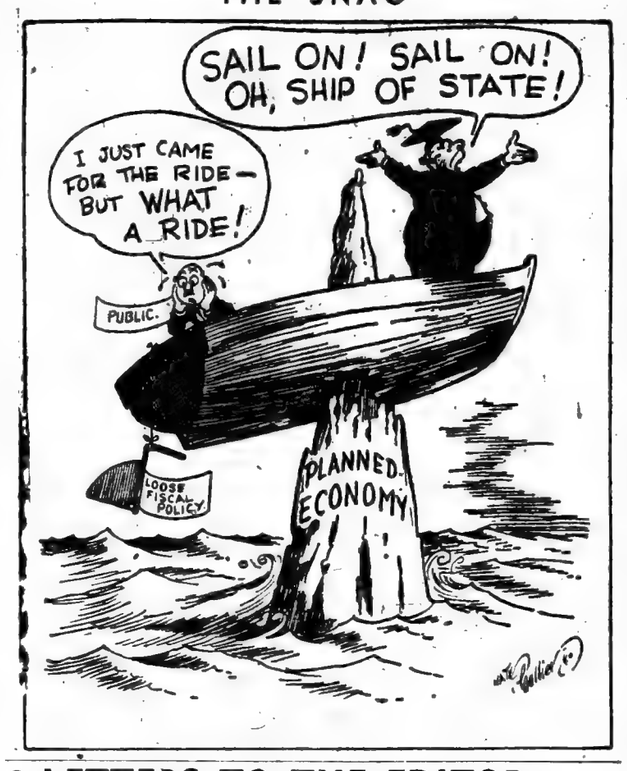
Those noble legislators who profess to be doing "everything in their power" to keep us out of war had best redouble their efforts--or make arrangements to retire into private life.

Chief among those who are "trying to keep us out of war" is Franklin Delano Roosevelt. Recently his remarks have become conspicuously peppered with ifs, and buts. His activities have approximated those of Woodrow Wilson to an astonishing degree. Private American firms are permitted to extend CREDITS to "private" foreign firms. Sumner Welles has been sent on a mission to Europe so delicate that his reports must be kept secret from the very people whom he represents and who, incidentally, footed the bill for his nice jaunt.

The situation today is an uncanny repetition of affairs twenty years ago. A victorious Germany is scaring the wits out of Allies. England's cash is running low, and she is petitioning America to lend her a few billion in the name of Liberty. The U. S. president is talking about "a new order of world peace", ostensibly to be established after a German defeat.

It won't be long before orators will be telling us that "the very heart of civilization" is threatened. They will be telling us that the "great democracies" cannot be allowed to fall. This is all very touching, but not quite true.

In the first place, there are no "great democracies", excepting perhaps Switzerland. Current British practices in India and South Africa parallel and surpass in sheer brutality the worst of Nazi Germany. The South completely disqualifies America to pose as a democracy. France, in her colonial administration, is equally autocratic though subtler than Britain,--and she is not burdened with notions of racial superiority.



The whole European mess is the the result of commercial injustice and economic swindling. England fought her way into domination over Europe and most of the world. Now Germany is attempting to do the same thing. An ultimate German victory will mean only a change in Empires.

At any rate, there is no ground whatsoever on which to suppose any moral conflict on the continent. England, now pretending to be the protector of small nations, probably double-crossed more little friends than any nation in the history of western civilization.

However, the tender emotions of the President and many of his advisers apparently have been stirred. They grandly announce that they will "try to keep America out of war".

As a matter of fact, America is not going to anybody's war--certainly not that bulk of the population known as "colored". The American Negro who will go to Europe to fight for a democracy he doesn't know at home is a fool. In fact,--Oh comforting thought!--he doesn't exist. It is herewith announced that this time the Black Boys in Khaki ARE NOT COMING.

• LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

AN HONEST CONFESSION

Dear Editor:

Not long ago I visited a church. The pastor spoke very eloquently and forcefully. He said—"We should obey the song, "I Ain't Goin' to Study War." I confess I do not agree with him. While it is true no mother wants to rear her son for war, it is also true that no sane people want war. No one wants his house to burn either, but if the house next to his is on fire, he will probably have to help extinguish the fire in this house, abondon his house or stay in it and let it burn down on him. The latter is unreasonable. Of course he would get busy trying to help extinguish the fire in the house next to his.

If we want to preserve for our children what our fathers have fought and died for, we had better pray that our boys be trained to use firearms and all implements of war intelligently and effectively, in time of peace, so if the unwelcome demon called WAR should come to our shores we can help to "Nip it in the bud". Every one should know that peace can be enjoyed only if we have adequate National Defense. All Americans will be called upon to their bit in time of war. The sensible thng to do is to see that all our boys are given adequate training for National Defense in time of peace, and the pigment of their skin and so called race to which they belong should be no bar to training. The most humble of the minority race, born under the stars and stripes, have as much right here as those whose ancestors came over on the "Mayflower". They should fight for equal opportunity to live in the U.S. and earn a living here. Anyone who is too cowardly to fight for his home and his inherent rights should request a passport to the country of his choice.

AN OLD TIMER

Dear Editor:

In collaboration with Mr. Clifton Jones, one of our promising young Negro graduate students, I am trying to get information concerning Negro motion picture producing companies and the activities of Negroes generally in the motion picture world. I thought that, because of your location, you might be able to give us information of this sort.

Dear Editor:

If you know of any Negro motion picture producing companies, now operating or not, or of any motion pictures specially produced for exhibition before Negro audiences or any other facts that bear upon the relation of Negroes to the whote motion picture industry, I shall appreciate it very much if you will provide me with the information concerning them.

I should also like information concerning the general types of motion pictures supplied to, or requested by, theatres in the colored areas of cities—i. e., whether there are discriminations in the serving of such theatres by the large distributors or whether there are differences in taste that affect choices.

Very truly yours
C. W. HART

I am sending you this poem as one of my contributions to your paper hoping that the readers of your paper will appreciate its message to them and the good that your paper and other members of the race have set out to do for the future of the coming generations of our people, assisting them to cast off the yoke of inferiority complex so that they too shall have a place in the Sun, which can only be accomplished through corrective and creative thinking.

Sincerely yours,

ALWAYS TO BE TRUE TO YOURSELF
By A. J. CRUISE

Remember that it is not the color of the skin,
That will help anyone in the world to win.
But the faith and courage you have in yourself,
And the determination that you have within.
You, too, have a chance in this great game of life,
Why make the color of your skin block your path.
If you have failed to make good why sit and complain.
When you know you were afraid from the start.

When a man makes his first try and his plans have failed,
And refuses to start over and is too willing to quit.
He is a born coward, and a victim conquered by fear,
How can he expect to be successful without doing his bit.
When the hand of fate stacks the cards to play against you,
And you lose the game, do your best and smile if you can,
When you know you have tried your best to do your part,
Keep your chin up and take it, it is a part o fGod's plan.

Don't think that you are inferior because your skin is black,
And were born somewhere in an old broken down shack.
Have courage dark skinned brothers and sister and you will see,
The time will come when courage will win your freedom back.
Tell me, can the Leopard change from his skins his spots,
Is it possible to take from the skies it natural color of blue,
Remember, it is not the color of your skin that will help you win,
But the good in life you do, and to yourself always be true.

IS YOUR CHILD SAFE?

Dear Editor:

Every American city today has a grave problem in protecting her children. Every American father and mother must take the responsibility upon themselves.

It is a known fact that several cities are in worse condition than others due to certain attractions within themselves: New York, Chicago and especially Los Angeles, where the seat of the movie industry attracts many moronic types to the city streets.

Let the recent kidnaping and murder of our little Negro girl be a blazing lesson to all of us. (other examples).

I want to be constructive and advise you what to tell your children. If I were in your place, if I were sending my child out on the street because of necessity: to go to school or Sunday school, to play in his or her own yard, even though there was a nurse to accompany them, I would tell them:

1. Never accept money from anyone.
2. Never accept candy from anyone.
3. Never play games with any strange boys or girls or strangers.
4. Never accept a ride from a stranger.

As parents, let us report any suspicious characters that we hear of, that we catch annoying children. It shouldn't be a thing to ignore, to be ashamed of, to think of in an ashamed manner, but a thing to bring out into the light. For as the sunshine and light will kill the evil germs that flourish in dark places, so exposure will stamp out perversion and the evil lurking in dark hallways.

Properly supervised playgrounds and matrons in the picture theatres must be had all over the city.

• GUEST EDITORIAL

(Following is a review or digest of "In A Minor Key," a study prepared for the American Youth Commission by Ira De A. Reid, Professor of Sociology, Atlanta university, and published by the American Council on Education.)

How serious is the American Negro youth problem?

To define the dimensions of the problem and its implications, the American Youth Commission selected a Negro, Ira De A. Reid, professor of sociology at Atlanta university. Hence, "In a Minor Key" is an "inside story." Yet, the author's lack of rancor, his preference for understatement, and his objective approach to the Negro problem almost lead one to forget he is writing about his own people.

"In A Minor Key" is the introductory volume of a series of research studies into the Negro youth problem now being conducted by the American Youth Commission. It defines the problem in general, and implies the question, "What are we going to do about it?"

"Being a Negro in the United States is sometimes an estate of which one can be justly proud; at other times it is a thing apart from all that is good and desirable in a democratic society," says Professor Reid at the outset.

Negro youth, the author feels, are not unlike other American youth who start out with ambitions and hopes and fate frustration and defeat, but race "throws its shadow across every phase of the Negro youth's life in the North and envelops every aspect of it in the South."

"From birth to death his is not only an outer environment of social and economic problems and adjustments, but also an inner environment of being Negro—which in the United States is interpreted to mean inferior, impoverished and inconvenience, Both of these environments . . . not only determine the status of Negroes, but they also create the Negro personality—a personality that has had to develop in whatever way . . . it could within the iron ring of race prejudice. Like the simplst plant, the Negro youth has developed protective devices for survival and has been shaped by the environments that have nurtured him.

"Yet today," declares the author, "the challenging fact is that Negro youth seem more 'alive' than ever before . . ." And this in spite of the almost unbelievable difficulty—to take one problem—of earning a living. His chance of getting a job has diminished progressively with the years. In 1890, there were "Negro jobs" which whites would not fill, such as cook, baker, valet, coachman and footman, butler and waiter. Personal service was a special province of the Negro. In the South, Negroes were also brick masons, plasterers, carpenters and painters, for slavery had given the Negro a heritage of skills. Then came change—the industrial revolution, with its machines and organized labor, followed by scarcity of work and the growing cry of "Give jobs to white men and women!"

"Today the only jobs in which Negroes have a virtual monopoly —the only ones in which the Negro is still free from competition with white workers—are those of Pullman porter and dining car waiter," writes Professor Reid. "Negro youth look at this scene with mixed emotions and a sense of confusion . . . The gradual disappearance of 'Negro jobs' has meant, temporarily at least, being pushed out at the bottom of the occupational market."

The November 1937 census of unemployment showed that 31 per cent of all colored youth 15 to 24 years of age who wanted jobs were totally without work. If the wholly unemployed, partly unemployed, and those employed only in emergency work were added together, 50 per cent of colored youth who wanted work lacked regular employment. The corresponding figure for white youth was 44 per cent.

Not only is it more difficult for a colored youth to find work, but it is also likely that he will receive little more than half as much as a white youth when he does get a job. Studies made by the American Youth Commission have placed the median weekly wage for Negro youth at $7.98 and that of white youth at $14.33. In short, Negro youth proportionately get fewer jobs and less money.

As an educator who has had first-hand experience with conditions surrounding Negro education in the South the author shows the "inordinate discrepancies" in the distribution of the educational dollar between whites and Negroes.

"A recent analysis of this subject shows that in southern states the Negro youth receives 37 per cent of the amount to which he is entitled on the basis of an equal distribution of public funds and his teachers on the average receive somewhat less than 47 per cent of the salary received by white teachers."

Illiteracy among Negroes in 1930 was more than six times as great as among whites. There were 250.000 Negro youth illiterates. But there is hope for the future. Professor Reid points out, because illiteracy among his people has declined from 571 in every thousand in 1890 to 114 in every thousand in 1936. Its complete elimination is an almost immediate possibility because, between 1933 and 1937, projects of the WPA in 36 states, staffed by 4,000 Negro teachers, taught 400,000 Negro men and women to read and write, thus reducing Negro illiteracy by an estimated 30 per cent.

"In some communities the question of recreation for Negroes is utterly ignored, while in others it receives only passing attention . . . In areas of racial segregation the public schools do not meet the need . . . 'Doing nothing,' 'hanging around,' 'loafing' form the recreational pattern of the moneyless urbanite, who finds the street corner, the 'barbecue joint,' the 'chicken shack,' the beer garden and the poolroom the places of least discomfiture and greatest relaxation. What else is there to do?"

In 1935, in 12 southern states with a Negro population of 7,138,455, 83 per cent of the Negroes had no access to a public library. Of the total of 509 public libraries in 13 southern states, only 94 served Negroes. In Mississippi, whose more than a million Negroes form over half of the population, only two of the state's 22 public libraries were open to them. Professor Reid piles melancholy fact on fact.

C. W. Godfrey, cosmetic manufacturer of St. Louis, Mo., has prepared for this paper the following editorial, which we reprint in full due to its significance to us. Mr. Godfrey writes:

What to do About It

"Two weeks ago you glanced at the headlines of this newspaper . . . and gasped at the story that 226 Negro men and women had met terrifying deaths in a flashing, gutting dance hall fire.

"Spellbound and entranced you read line after line of accounts by eye witnesses, of noble sacrifices, or death-defying rescues, and the anguish and terror of the burned and dying.

"A spark, a flash and a roaring blaze. . . and the merrymaking of hundreds turn into the terror of consuming fear.

"But, what have you done about it?

"Have you asked your city government to investigate all meeting places in your city? Asked that similar death-traps be cleaned up. . . and, of more importance, perhaps, opened so that there are several means for rapid exit, rather than a lone exit which can become blocked with trampled, mangled bodies?

"All doors on all public gathering places should open outwards. All dance floors, meeting halls, school houses, churches, etc., should have several means for entrance and exit.

"Eliminate chance for repetition of such disasters in your community by informing your city government that you expect it to take steps to "clean up" the places where Negroes gather to work or to play."

If you know of the existence of similar death-traps in this city, tell us about them. We'll see that they are reported to our city government.

• BOOK NOTES

Vernon Branch Public Library
4504 South Central

New books of interest received last week at the Vernon Branch library include the following:

"KODO: THE WAY OF THE EMPEROR" by Mary A. Nourse. This book does for Japan what the author's "Four Hundred Million" did for China several years ago. It combines under one cover, a short history of the Japanese nation with the story of Japanese art and culture, and as such is very good reference material as well as fascinating reading. The mythical beginnings and legendary figures of Japan are a matter for wonder and disbelief of Westerners, but they will be easier to understand with the aid of this interesting and informative work. Of special interest are the chapters on the opening of Japan to the West, on the entrance of Big Business as we understand it into Japanese commercial and public life, and on recent Japanese expansion to the West.

"STALIN: CZAR OF ALL THE RUSSIAS" by Eugene Lyones. The distinguished journalist who is the author of one of the most arresting figures of our time, knows his Russia as do Few foreigners. He was the first foreign correspondent to interview Stalin after his rise to power, and he had six years in which to view from a grand-stand seat (Moscow) the progress of the Soviet experiment. This not-too-long biography shows how Stalin's career is integrated with the Russian Revolution, and also how Stalin has finally betrayed the Revolution.

"UNEXPECTED NIGHT" by Elizabeth Daly. "An army family, the relatives and hangers-on of a rich young invalid, a summer theatre group of Irish players, an expert on documents, and the salt Marine air are the components of Miss Daly's novel of murder in a Maine sea-coast resort. The reasons why it is necessary for Amberley Cowden's body to be found on the beach at the bottom of the cliff near the hotel and for his sister Alma to repeatedly frightened are part of the solution of this original and unusual plot. Young Comadge didn't think it strange that Amberly Cowden had died, but he began to be worried when one of the Irish players told him he had the evil eye. It turned out that the actor was very nearly right." For some reason the Maine coast seems a fitting setting for stories of strange and horrific happenings, and this one is guaranteed to make your blood run cold.

$20.27B A MINUTE

Up--up--up spins the whirling spiral of costs to feed that hungry monster, War. Great Britain, pouring more than $50 billion yearly into her giant war machine now finds even that stupendous sum inadequate. Beginning the next fiscal year, every man, woman and child will have to pull belts in still tighter and make an effort to support a crushing $10,668,000,000 budget amounting to $230 per capita, or more than three times that of the United States. Spending at the rate of $29,200,000 a day—a rate comparable to that of France and Germany—to keep her forges of war thundering at full speed, Britain, as with all other belligerents, must pay the price in a steady grinding down of the living standards of her people. War is a destroyer, yes—not only on the fields and seas of battle but on the home front where its destruction, if less spectacular, is hardly less telling!

THE KEYNOTE IS DEFENSE

Let so-called isolationists and so-called interventionist cross swords how they will on foreign policy, but on the necessity of a powerfully thorough national defense they meet on common ground and clasp hands. The vital issue of America's military security is not a "party" matter, and rightly enough leaders, Republican and Democrat, are showing no disposition to treat it in that light. On his whirlwind tour through the West, Thomas E. Dewey, candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, pointedly urged the need for adequate defenses on both coasts. At the same time, in the first major address of his campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination, Postmaster General James Farley gave armed preparedness as the touchstone of this nation's foreign policy. Of America's necessity to defend her shores, there should be little doubt. It is her ability to shield herself from the sparks set a-flying by the present great conflagration abroad that will provide the severest test of her mettle!

SETTLING IT DEMOCRATICALLY

The United States Supreme Court, in a Spring cleaning mood cleared out a big drawerful of California business last week. The high court held illegal San Francisco's contract for selling Hetch Hetchy power to private utility, voted thumbs down, in an 8 to 1 decision, against California anti-picketing ordinances, and upheld a State Supreme Court ruling which had authorized California's building and loan commissioner to proceed with the liquidation of the Pacific States Savings & Loan Co. All of these decisions involved hotly controversial issues, some of them of many years' standing. But at the core of American democracy is the conviction that conflicts of interest can, and must be, peaceably arbitrated, and where the courts are sought as arbitrator, their dcisions faithfully abided by. Now that Chief Justice Hughes and his associates have passed judgment on these matters, they can be considered settled—and settled in the manner which befits democracy!

SAVER AND PRODUCER!

A star player in the system of free private enterprise is advertising. Even his severest critics admit that, but they assert advertising makes a very expensive actor. Let these critics listen to the words of Ralph Starr Butler, vice president of a large manufacturing concern, who pointed out in a significant address last week—and is able to support his claim!—that advertising directly contributes to keeping down costs to consumers. It is therefore a social aid, rather than a social charge. And as Mr. Butler helpfully points out to doubters, "It tells the story of inventions and improvements so that new aids to civilized living becomes almost immediately available to an entire nation. It promotes the divine discontent which makes people strive to improve their economic status to the end that they may be able to satisfy new wants." Skeptics please copy!

SO THAT'S GLAMOUR

Have you ever wondered what "glamour" really was, that most energetic of all workers in moviedom's glossary? You need wonder no longer. Forthwith comes the answer from Dr. Paul Popenoe, founder and director of the Los Angeles Institute of Family Relations, whose definition scales a new high in brevity. "Glamour", stated the human relations authority the other day "is when the value of a package exceeds that of its contents." Any more questions? We'll let Dr. Popenoe answer 'em!

CHASTITY VS. IMMODESTY

There came to me several days ago, two letters concerning a couple of young women who were facing problems detrimental to their future happiness. The first letter dealt with the turning point in a girl's life, where the question of chastity was prevalent. Miss "A" has met several young men, but it so happened that they had all wanted to go further than she thought wise or necessary. These things she felt, should come after marriage. She asked me, whether it was possible to find anyone that would appreciate her way of thinking.

Mrs. "B's" problem dealt with the fact that chastity was ignored in her youth. She had an illegitimate child in her early 'teens, and later on in life met a man that she really loved and married, but failed to tell him of her early mistake. When a son was born to them, it made her realize that she would love to have both children with her. However, this did not meet with her husband's approval. He became very angry, and refused to let her bring the other child into their home.

The above is the usual outcome of lax morals which result in heartaches and disappointments. The advice Prof. Herman gave these young women helped to bring peace, contentment, and happiness into their lives. If you are faced with similar problems, why not write in today.

M. A.—Prof. Herman, I read your column every week in the EAGLE and find it very interesting. Would you please tell me who stole my money?

Ans.: It comes to me that your closet was ransacked and $15.00 was taken on Tuesday evening. The theft was committed by a total stranger who has been stealing in the neighborhood for the last few months. The police, however, have a description of this man, and are on the watch for him.

B. R. P.—Can you give me any information concerning the whereabouts of my youngest brother?

Ans.: My Psycho-Mentalist Crystal reveals that your brother has been living in the State of Michigan. But recently got into some trouble, and has been hiding away. As soon as this blows over, he will write you.

F. R.—I am deeply in love with a young woman and want to know how she feels about me. Does she love me?

Ans.: Concentrating upon your question the answer I find is that this young lady cares a great deal for you, but that is as far as it goes. If you can convince her of your sincerity she may be willing to accept your hand in marriage.

J. D. J.—It is my desire to go away to school this fall. Will I get to do so? If so where will I go? What does the future hold for me?

Ans.: Your Zodiacal sign indicates that you will be able to complete your education, and go to college this fall. I suggest Little Rock, as it is near your home. Only one questions is answered in the column; if you will write in for a private reply, I would be glad to give you further advice.

A. R. P.—Will I get one of the jobs I have applied for this year?

Ans.: While studying your name the stars indicate that 1940 has more to offer you than any other year of your life. Some very important things will happen as the year goes on, one of which will be your securing a fine position.

L. D.—Dear Sir: I received my charm bag and have been wearing it for a month, and am obliged to say that I can see the change since I had it. I wish to thank you for recommending it to me and also for your advice in regards to my problems.

L. S.—Will my former boy friend come back to me? Since he has been gone, I find that life is unbearable and I want him back.

Ans.: Probing into the matter I find that the cause of your separation was due to something you did and if you write him or contact him and explain that you are sorry, I am sure he would be only too glad to consider a reconciliation.

Barkley Silent on NACCP Charges

EDITORIAL

THE RECENT VISIT of representatives from the tax assessor's office to our homes should remind us that we help pay the salaries of the officials of Pasadena and Los Angeles county.

Collectively enough money is paid into the coffers of the city by our group to be interested in knowing where and how our tax money is used; and to ascertain that those who are being paid by our money represent us aright.

Taxation without representation is tyrannical in principle in any type of government. The lack of representation in England caused the early patriots of this country to break with England. They established the American republic so that proper representation would be accorded all citizens in the commonwealth.

Race citizens in Pasadena have enjoyed a degree of paternal solicitude through the years. But as far as the Negro is concerned, conditoins for him have grown worse in recent years.

With few exceptions hardly any new opportunities for service have been made available to the young men and women who have grown up in this good city of Pasadena. The boys and girls who grow up in this city have to leave Pasadena in order to expand their latent abilities or to obtain the recognition that their capabilities merit. To Pasadena's questionable credit a number of Pasadenans are in the East and other parts holding down responsible public positions. If they had remained in Pasadena they would have been merely "good" boys and girls.

Some folks try to lay many conditions on Pasadena's form of government. They blame the city manager or the board of directors or this one or that one.

But the blame primarily rests upon us. Our self-satisfaction with our job or with the fact that we are on "easy street" makes us blind to the fact that we have a responsibility to help lift our brothers, especially those of the younger generation.

There is no great degree of dissatisfaction with the way our city government is being conducted. But if minorities don't express their needs for adequate representation, the majorities are likely to neglect them.

As long as five thousand of us pay taxes and vote, we have a right to have proper representation in ALL types of city and county jobs. "Five per cent of the population ought to have at least one per cent of the public jobs."

Digging a pipe line for one of the public utilities in the front of the Hall of Justice this week, there were men of various nationalities and of foreign birth. But black hands which helped make America a habitable place for all nationalities were left empty while the recent arrival in this country was given preferenc even in public utility jobs.

Has justice fallen in the streets? Justice is given the Negro in the courts of Pasadena. The judges are impartial. Captain Kelly and Morgan and other officials of the Police force are regarded highly by the Race. But the Negro of Pasadena wonders if a little justice couldn't be allowed to circulate through the pipe lines and electric wires of Pasadena and let the dusky hands of the Negro feel it in honest labor as well as hear it in the court room.

The Race needs to recognize its civic responsibilities. What is being done to make employment possible for the Race in the following lines?

The Fire Department
The Public Utilities
The Public School System
The Police Department
The Maintenance Department of the City Hall

Oakland is far ahead of Pasadena in the matter of employment in the above lines of service. Race clerks and office assistants are being employed in stores patronized by the Race.

Berkeley, Monrovia and San Diego also serve as worthy examples for Pasadena to follow in the matter of civic consciousness and in looking out for the future interests of their young people.

Taxation without proper representation is un-American. This is no time to take up the sword. But we should get our ballots in our hands and use them when the time comes.

In any close election in this city or county, the Negro controls the balance of power!

TURNING BACK THE PAGES OF PASADENA'S PAST

By REV. WILLIAM PRINCE

By REV. WM. PRINCE

I have been asked to write bout some of our pioneer moth-rs and their families. Quite an nteresting subject and especially t this particular time.

The greatest honor that God as given a woman is to be a nother, since his mother has erish the thought.

All mankind longs for the lov-ng hand of a mother.

Just this week came a Moth-'s Day card to my wife from noted minister in the East ask-ng to adopt her as his earthly nother. Since his mother has one to the great beyond. Also letter from a loving young oman asking her to a Mother's anquet because her real moth-r is now "a waiting angel". So ou see we all want a mother's ove.

Now just a few real pioneer nothers in Pasadena. I shall nention first since I have known er for so many years Mrs. Ly-lia Harris of N. Wilson avenue who had three daughters. They rew up to be lovely young wom-n. One daughter, Miss Gladys inished USC and held a posi-ion as a Social Worker. They ll finished school.

Mrs. Rubin Scott has a son who is now on the police force n Los Angeles.

Mrs. Mac Afee who has two ons, part owners with their dad n one of the finest transfer co.'s n Pasadena and with an office n Hollywood.

The late Mrs. C. B. Brownlee, a son in social work in Los An-geles A daughter trained in mu-sic.

Mrs. J. M. Riddle a son who is a very fine architect in Los An-geles.

Mrs. James Miller, a son and daughter who stand out with credit in the musical world.

Mrs. Frank Prince, a son who finished USC in Pharmacy. A daughter who finished high school and beauty culture. A son who is a musician.

Mrs. Mary Prince, a native daughter, has a daughter and 2 sons who are called the great singers of Pasadena.

Mrs. Hattie Johnson a daugh-ter attending UCLA also musical.

Mrs. Mollie Moore, a daughter who is a lawyer. One a trained ness. A son teaching and a son in the post-office.

Mrs. S. B. Danley a son who is caring for her at home and a son and daughter in the Y work in the East.

The late Mrs. Ruby Prince, a son teaching, 2 daughters teach-ing, a son in the YMCA work and two sons who are musicians.

Mrs. A. B. Bryant, a son in the mail service and a daughter who was once active in th Y. W. C. A.

Mrs. Fay Bartlett, the young-est of all and yet a Pioneer moth-er of a large family, has a son making good in UCLA.

The dear mothers have sacri-ficed and given their all to their large families. There are many other pioneer mothers but space will not permit me to say more.

Bishop's Daughter Dies

ATLANTA, May 9—The result of a stroke, Mrs. Josephine Flip-per Peak, only daughter of Bish-op J. S. Flipper, died at her resi-dence here last week.

Senator Barkley Silent on NAACP Answer

NEW YORK, May 9.—With Senate Majority Leader Alben Barkley maintaining a tight lipped silence in response to charges that he is making no moves to call up the anti-lynching bill for a vote, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People revealed today that copies of the correspondence between Barkley and Walter White, NAACP secretary, have been turned over to President Roosevelt and Democratic Committee chairman Jim Farley.

The President and Farley, it was said, have been asked point blank whether Senator Barkley's tactics and his attitude toward the federal Anti-lynching bill, represent the Administration's views and the view of the leadership in the Democratic party. No reply has been received either from the President or Mr. Farley.

With repercussions against Barkley's actions being realized throughout the country in written and verbal expressions from white and colored people, it was learned that considerable cloakroom discussion is going on in the Capitol, where it has long been known that Barkley's name is being mentioned for either a Presidential or Vice Presidential berth on the 1940 Democratic ticket.

Sunset Spiritual Singers in Bow

The Sunset Spiritual Singers of the Sunset Avenue SDA Church, under the diction of Ruby Bontmps Troy, made their initial concert appearance last Saturday night before an enthusiastic audience at the Lincoln Park School in Los Angeles.

The demands for encores on the part of the appreciative listeners exhausted the repertoire of choristers which is not yet three monts old. A return engagement has already been planned.

DURHAM, N. C.—Dr. P. P. Creuzot, president of the National Negro Insurance Association, who is playing an important part in the 6th annual National Negro Insurance Week. May 6 to 11th, spoke on the famous "Wings Over Jordan program Sunday.

N. Y. FAIR SPONSORS BEAUTY CONTEST

NEW YORK, May 9.—The New York World's Fair has started the ball rolling toward a gigantic nation wide Beauty Quest. The officials of the Special Events Department feel that this would be a fitting climax to the great Negro Day to be held at the Fair August 15.

Fraternal Figure Passes

ST. LOUIS, May 9—Mrs. Tillie Griffin, active fraternal figure, died here last week at the age of 74.

The world's first hospital for sick and injured frogs has been established by two men on their frog farm in California.

Hollywood Film Shop

By ALEXANDER KAHN

HOLLYWOOD, (U.P.) — The motion picture screen has been slow in recognizing the value the Negro may be to films, although the stage has long known the entertainment possibilities of the Negro actor.

Symbolic of the new-found movie recognition, of course, is the Academy Award won by Hattie McDaniel for her histrionic efforts in "Gone With the Wind." That apparently was the signal for greater use of Negro actors in pictures.

On the stage there never was a season in which the artistry of Negro players did not add to the atrical history. Such presentations as "Porgy and Bess", "The Green Pastures," "Porgy" and "Four Saint in Three Acts" have made the public aware of the talent of the Negro.

Yet, until 1940, the cinema was content to relegate the Negro player to minor jobs of comic relief. That is not true today.

An outstanding example of a Negro player who has risen to almost starring proportions in a short time is Eddie Anderson, the Rochester of radio and movies, whose latest cinematic offering is Paramount's "Buck Benny Rides Again".

In this film he is an integral part of the story, not merely an amusing personality allotted two or three minutes to strut his stuff before the camera. Anderson also has a cinema sweetheart in the person of Theresa Harris.

These, however, are not the only Negro personalities who have appeared or are available to appear on the screen. The movies can draw upon Paul Robeson, Bill Robinson, Willie Best, Louise Beavers, Ethel Waters, Louis Armstrong, Rex Ingram and others who rank as experienced actors and singers.

DUARTE ELECTION BOARD ONLY ALL-NEGRO ONE IN VALLEY

MONROVIA, May 9—The Election Board of Precinct No. 3, Duarte, is the only all-Negro board in the San Gabriel valley and the following election officers compose it: Rev. John A. Davis, inspector; Rev. A. A. Shaw, judge; Mrs. M. F. Hudson, judge; and clerks: Mrs. Ruby A. McDaniels, Mrs. Sophie Castle, and Mrs. Hazel Wright.

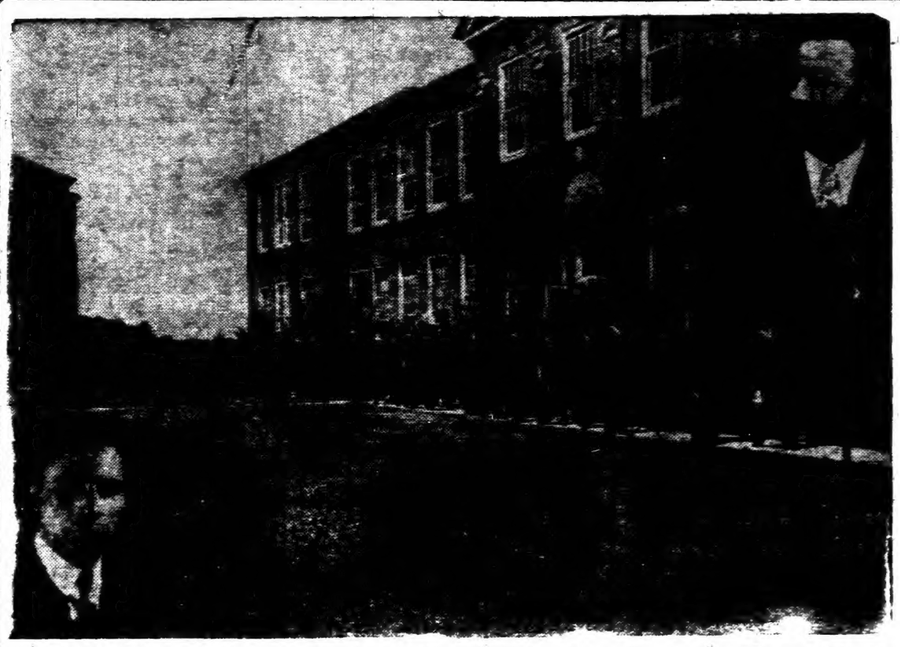
Mr. and Mrs. Columbus Enge are the proud grandparents of a lovely granddaughter. The romance of their son, Dr. William Enge and Mrs. Enge began in Atlanta, Ga., while he was attending Meharry Medical college. After graduation, the pair were married. The bride's parents live in New York where she has been spending the time, and from which she has recently returned.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bland are the parents of a boy. Mother and baby are doing well.

At Second Baptist church, Maple and Shamrock avenue, Rev. John A. Davis, pastor, services were conducted in the regular routine last Sunday and enjoyed a good attendance. Rev. C. N. Austin, a former pastor of Bethel AME church, preached there Sunday. Rev. A. A. Shaw is pastor. Rev. R. H. Camp, pastor of Shiloh AMEZ church, occupied the pulpit at both services Sunday.

Cool Nights This Summer in Southland

This month and next, when people are beginning to think about vacations, the All-Year Club is spreading the news thruout the country that it's going to be cool nights this summer in Southern California.



The Southland's official tourist organization has started a seven weeks' advertising campaign in 35 of America's biggest newspapers from Vancouver, B. C., to New York.

Key appeal of the ads is the fact that Southern California's average summer temperature is 69 degrees, and vacationists can sleep under a blanket nearly every night. Also, that there's no rain to spoil picnic plans.

Further, the ads point out that this is a year-round vacationland. Hence prices are 22.8 per cent lower than 20 others which have a short, expensive peak season.

And every ad carries the warning: "Advise anyone not to come seeking employment, lest he be disappointed."

At the 74th commencement exercises at Lincoln University, Jefferson City, Missouri, Monday, June 3, A Phillip Randolph (top right inset) president of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, and ex-president of the National Negro Congress, will deliver the address. Rev. Wm. L. Imes, (lower inset) pastor of the St. James Presbyterian Church, New York City, is the baccalaureate speaker, Sunday, June 2. A scene at the 1939 commencement is shown.

NINA MAE McKINNEY now leads her own band, and the famous movie star is reported to be slated for a long engagement at the New York World's Fair.

She is seen above in a scene from Million Dollar Production's "Straight to eHaven", filmed in New York. Her leading man was Jack Carter, seen here as a lawyer, and confidential friend. Nina skyrocketed to fame in MGM's "Hallelujah".

Good Start of Fishing Season, Reported By Club

Ask any one of the approximately 50,000 anglers who swarmed over lakes and streams in Southern California for the opening of trout season last week how fishing conditions were and you will get nearly that many different opinions—it all depends upon how the particular individual made out. Some came back with limits, others got "licked."

Generally speaking, the 1940 season got off to a fairly good start, according to widespread surveys conducted by the outing bureau of the Automobile Club of Southern California.

Los Angeles and San Bernardino counties experienced a good opening considering the multitude of fishermen who turned out. Lake Arrowhead was host to 400 anglers and by 9 a. m., 13 weight limits had been checked in on opening day.

Because the trout were still spawning Big Bear was slow, although many good catches of bass were reported.

Lake Gregory, with 400 fishermen out, reported numerous limits of fish averaging 10 inches. Crystal and Jackson lakes were poor, and Little Rock Reservoir ranged from fair to good.

STREAM FISHING GOOD

Stream fishing was better than average. Those who fished the Santa Ana River come in for a pleasant surprise for many limits were taken in the vicinity of Seven Oaks on worms and royal coachman flies. The San Gabriel and its tributaries such as West Fork and Prairie Creek were good. Mill Creek and Deep Creek were fair to good in the upper portions, especially between the highway near Running Springs and the junction of Hook Creek Trail on the latter stream. Although one nice 22-inch rainbow was taken from Bear Creek, fishing was spotty, but this was to be expected as more than 1000 men, women and children lined its banks!

Crisis Magazine Holds Beautiful Child Contest

NEW YORK, May 9.—A beautiful child contest is being held under the auspicies of The Crisis magazine, ending August 1. Each month the pictures of children submitted during that month will be judged and the winners reproduced in the magazine. A small cash prze will go to every child whose picture is printed each month.

A grand prize of $25 will go to the child judged to be the most beautiful at the end of the contest. The winner's picture will appear on the cover of the September issue of the Crisis. Other cash prizes will be given for second, third, and fourth prizes.

Judges in the contest will be E. Sims Campbell, noted illustrator; Madame Sara Spencer Washington, founder of the Apex Beauty System; and Dr. Myrl Logan, young Harlem physician. Entry blanks will be found in the April and May issues of the Crisis, which can be secured from news stands or from the headquarters at 69 Fifth avenue, New York, N. Y.

A new watch is small enough to be clipped on a shirt cuff, necktie or pocket rim.

Cow Pony Nips Jesse

SAN ANTONIO, May 9—A Texas cow pony refused to be awed by the presence of Jesse Owens, "world's fastest human" and proceeded to whip the Olympic champion in a novelty race here.

The pony, a 10-year old spirited piece of horseflesh named Siete, roared down the stretch to beat Owens by a yard.

Owens said after the race that a mental lapse was possibly the cause of the horse's nosing him out. Overtaking and passing his two human competitors in the race, both of whom had been given a four-yard handicap, Owens forgot about his four-legged foe which was bearing down on the outside, and slowed down. The pony galloped past the Olympic champ to the tape.

Two local speedsters were Henry Ross and Lester Maddox, fastest century runners in the state. The distance run was about 76 yards in :07.8.

Jam Auditorium to Hear Marian Anderson

CHARLESTON (W. Va.) May 9—For the first time since it was built, 3500 persons of all races overflowed the Municipal auditorium here April 28 to hear Marian Anderson, the internationally famous contralto.

Bayord F. Ennis, music critic writing in the Charleston Gazette, said: "It would be hard to imagine an interval of more perfect and enthralling singing than Miss Anderson provided.

The concert was sponsored by the local branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, and cleared $2500, according to T. Gillis Nutter, president of the Branch.

Anderson Sings in Chicago

CHICAGO, May 9—A tumult of applause rang out as Marian Anderson made her appearance on the great stage of the Auditorium theatre here, last Sunday afternoon. Each and everyone of the 3800 persons who comprised the great audience of a 'sold out' house, welcomed Miss Anderson with a tremendous ovation of thunderous applause, as never before given to one actor or actress. Marian Anderson is the only artist ever to appear on a stage, to a 'sell out' house, for each of her two concerts given annually here, for the past four years.

Such power, newly developed richness, emotion, and smoothness was displayed in her singing, on Sunday, that it helped to bring back to mind of Toscanini saying that Marian Anderson's voice is "one of the great voices of the generation."

Besides the 17 programmed songs, Miss Anderson granted the audience request of "More," and favored them with five additional songs.

Miss Anderson, who looked so very lovely in a light blue bengaline, empire styled dress, was favored with such notables in her audience as: Vivien Leigh, Laurence Olivier, Lillian Gish, O. Z. Whitehead, Clifton Webb and Alexander Steinert.

LIGHTNING BOLT INJURES MAN, 77

ST. LOUIS, May 9—Painfully burned and suffering from a fractured skull and lacerations of the scalp and left eye, Charles McDonald 77, was injured by a lightning bolt here last week. McDonald was struck by lightning as he sat at the window of his home. The bolt knocked him over backward, causing him to strike his head on a table.

PERCIVAL L. PRATTIS, editor of the city edition of the Pittsburgh Courier and author of "The Horizon," feature column of that paper, who received the commendation of instructors and students after his talk, "Racial Relations in the United States" last week at Mt. Holyoke College. Mr. Prattis was formerly news editor of the Associated Negro Press.

JANITOR SHOT BY SURPRISED BURGLAR

CHICAGO, May 9—George Hall, 28-year old janitor of the DuSable High school, was shot in the leg when he surprised a 16-year old boy on the third floor of the school building last Friday evening. The youth, Alphonso Hill, had been burgling the building. He escaped, to be captured by police later.

High Officials Visit Fair

First of a long list of high federal and state officials to visit the Fair in '40 on Treasure Island were Secretary of the Navy Charles Edison, left, and Governor Culbert L. Olson of California. They attended a pre-opening reception given by Marshall Dill, president of the Exposition. Visits by officials will culminate in a tour of the Exposition by President Roosevelt.

Business Suffers When The Negro Is Clipped

By WILLIAM L. GAMBLE

Before we begin this regrettable story, affecting all business on the Eastside, as well as up town business and Institutions, such as Water and Power; Light and Gas; Telephone and Transit, we should (though a week late) like to congratulate the Eagle's 61st birthday; its founder, posthumously, its successor, Editor Bass, deceased, and its present very capable Editor, Mrs. C. A. Bass, under whose very capable supervision this weekly publication has grown into a Psalter of News.

The California Eagle, which I have read for 21 years; also contributed to for two or three years, under its present editor, Mrs. C. A. Bass, is still fighting for a better Eastside community. For that matter, all citizens who believe in good Government, economically, financially and socially, as per letter of the State and Federal Constitutions, are fighting. Its fight for civil liberties of the so called Negro minority (this is a misnomer) needs your assistance.

Whether business and industry accept the fact or not, Negroes (one tenth of the entire population) are actually the basic foundation of all successful business. They balance the scale between profit and loss.

The 1930 census for Los Angeles white population was 891-736. For foreign born whites, 181,736. For Negroes, it was 38,-574 or 25.6 percent. Take this percent away from business and replace it with foreign born percentage purchasing power of 1.80 percent, business slumps. The total income taxes for Los Angeles was in 1939, $76,496,501. Of this amount individuals paid $46,386,-981, while corporations paid a smaller amount of $30,109,519. So we masses after all are the backbone of the government income. The only reason we seem not to feel it, is because it is leached out of us in hidden taxes. Of this money 90 percent of the Negroes' wages goes right back to business coffers. He sends not one cent abroad to so called Mother Country —

This is because, the very nature of the Negro is proudness of appearance. With but one dollar in the bank for the rainy day, the Negro will spend it for the purchase of clothes, shoes, food, and a place to lay his weary head. We don't mean to say that the Negro prefers hobo life, but if he does he should try and have a neat appearance.

The Negro prefers, as a whole, work. He has worked harder than any other race since slavery. However, when there is a political desire to 'put on the pressure', the Negro is the first to feel the prongs of recession.

Right here in Los Angeles, on the very first days of the president's proclamation of "Replacement Week" for men and women over 40, three Negro women were laid off from jobs which they had held for from four to six years. They were replaced with foreign born Filipinos. Because the management of this institution could not cut wages (though he could maneuver in the cost of room and board, thus cutting these men's salary in half, and still be within the law) of the Negro women lawfully, he, in order to keep from losing money, substituted Filipinos

But what of the landlord rent, the butcher's steaks, the telephone company's fee, the water, gas, light, bills; the fares railroads lose. The doctor's fee. The payment on the home. Think what 25 percent off means to these businesses, by clipping Negroes.

A HEARTY WELCOME TO EVERYBODY

IT PAYS TO CACKLE!

Scientifically, chicken eggs are no better than duck eggs. But the average person won't buy them at any price. If chicken eggs were selling for a dollar a dozen, the average housewife wouldn't buy duck eggs at 10 cents per dozen.

Why?

The difference is due to advertising.

The duck, when she lays an egg, waddles off in silence and with her head hanging low.

The hen, with head lifted high, comes off the nest cackling. And the old rooster sticks out his chest and crows about it!

It pays to advertise. (See J. W. Porter, our Pasadena representative of The California Eagle, or telephone SYcamore 3-166.

One Way to See the Fair

Blonde Dolores du Barry (left) and Vivian Turner, a pair of the chorines who grace the Golden Days of '40 cast at the Golden Gate International Exposition, take to the hood of an Elephant Train to see the Court of Pacifica. Posed in front of the giant, 80-foot statue of Pacifica and the Indian riders is the Key System train driven by Zeth Blevens, Key System superintendent of maintenance, who will have charge of the trains which conduct sight-seeing trips on Treasure Island during the fair to open May 25.

Many Unusual Features in May Issue of Opportunity

NEW YORK, May 9—Articles about Booker T. Washington and James Weldon Johnson, a short story based upon the "Bronx Slave Market," and an eye witness account of an unusual instance of race conflict that occurred on an interstate bus in Virginia are features of the May issue of Opportunity, Journal of Negro Life.

Entitled "Apostle of Industrial Education," the article on Washington is contributed by Henry R. Jenkins, formerly chairman of the English department at Tuskegee Institute and now a member of the faculty of A. & T. College, Greensboro, N. C. "A remarkable grasp of contemporary facts is revealed in Washington's insistent reminder that the prosperity of the Negro would come in proportion as he acquired skill in the performance of the common tasks of life," Jenkins writes. "The problem of economic adjustment is still acute. The Washington solution is still effective. It has brought economic independence to thousands who have tried it and found it workable. The Washington influence on present day educational practice is profound. And the Booker T. Washington spirit moves on, achieving its conquests for the race he loved so dearly."

Eunice Bloodworth Potts, of Prairie View college, Tex., writes on "James Weldon Johnson: His Legacy to Us:" "Through his original literary creation, through his collection and presentation of original artistic work of the race, through his encouragement of young artists, through his challenge to democracy, and through his suggested program for race improvement, James Weldon Johnson has been a tremendous force in breaking down and wearing away stereotyped ideas about the American Negro."

14 Debs Vie in Popularity Contest

With the entrant list closed, 14 dashing, young and determined Misses are all set to win that ticket to the New York World's Fair, or that ticket to the San Francisco World's Fair or one of the other awards being offered by the Assistance League of the Outdoor Life and Health Association to the lucky girl, winner in their Popularity Contest.

Among the many smart affairs planned to poll votes for these anxious aspirants are: A Spring Tea for Marcella Monroe at the beautiful home of Mrs. Connie Stewart, 2171 W. 30th Street on Sunday, May 12 from 4 to 7; A May Tea on Sunday, May 19 by the Pals Club at the home of Mrs. Nell McClanahan, 810 E. 33rd St. for Helen Mitchell and Gloria Roberts from 3 to 6; and a dancing part by the young friends of Jean Norman on May 10.

Other pretty voting parties are in the offing for Willeta McKinney, Mary Jane Mays, Lora Ford, Nancy Harris, Muriel Foley, Blanche Wiley, Leontine Taylor, Shirley Curry, Vera Henderson, and Rosalia Safford. Watch this column for your opportunity to help your girl win and take a trip.

You may call the league chairman, Mrs. Pearl Browning, CE. 23466; or the president, Mrs. Seth Lee, PA. 55848 or the sponsor, Mrs. Fanny Williams, RE. 5526 for further particulars.

Poetry, Songwriting Contest Announced By Exposition

CHICAGO, May 9.—Two contests, one for song writers and one for poets, are announced this week by the American Negro Exposition.

Purpose of the contests is to obtain an official song for the Exposition to be held at the Chicago Coliseum from July 4th through Sept. 2nd and to obtain poems celebrating Negro progress to be exhibited in the Literary Section. Closing date for entries is June 15th.

Two prizes will be awarded in each competition. First prize for each will be $50, with $25 awarded to each second place winner.

Negro writers throughout the nation, either individually or as teams, are invited to enter as many original songs as they wish embodying the Exposition theme, which is the glorification of the Negroe's progress and status today after 75 years of emancipation. Songs submitted must contain both words and music. All entries become the property of the Exposition unless accompanied by stamped and self addressed envelopes for their return. However, the prize winning songs will not be returned.

It is planned to use the winning song as the official Exposition song to be played frequently throughout the 60 day event.

The poetry contest is also open to Negro writers throughout the nation. The subject should be the status of the race today, progress since emancipation, or both. Poems of any length or representing any school of writing may be entered, with each author submitting as many manuscripts as he desires.

AME Leader Backs Dewey

JERSEY CITY, N. J., May 9.—Bishop Paris A. Wallace of Brooklyn, widely known leader in the African Methodist Episcopal Zion connection, came out definitely for Thomas E. Dewey for President during a brief interview here last Friday night when he and Mrs. Wallace were honored at a banquet. The banquet was a highlight of the 67th Annual Conference of New Jersey AME Zion Churches.

Asked if he would name his preference for President, Bishop Wallace answered:

"You ought to know who I'm for—Tom Dewey, of course."

PHILIPPA SCHUYLER WINS 4 LBS. OF COFFEE

NEW YORK, May 9.—Philippa Schuyler, 8 year old pianist and composer, competed with three others for the first prize of 20 pounds of coffee on a radio quiz. A Miss Behrens of Chatman Music School won when Philippa failed to recognize Paderewski's Minuet in G. As a result there was a tie between Philippa and the other two contestants who won 4 pounds of coffee each.

LINCOLN PROFESSOR GETS ROSENWALD AID

JEFFERSON CITY (Mo.) May 9—Lorenzo J. Green, assistant professor of history and government at Lincoln university was informed this week that the Rosenwald Fund has awarded him a $1600 fellowship for the school year 1940-41. Purpose of the grant is to aid Greene in making a study of the New England slave trade between 1620 and 1789, a period which is scantily documented and which has never been adequately explored.

Self-reflecting photoflood lamps having black necks to prevent light escaping backward or toward the sides have been invented for amateur photographers.

Retired Y Sec'y Dead at 76

NEW YORK, May 9—Dr. Jesse Edward Moorland, retired National YMCA secretary and trustee of Howard university, died last night at the Flower hospital, where he had been taken two weeks ago following a heart attack. He was 76 years old.

Dr. Moorland was one of the pioneer colored YMCA secretaries, starting in 1891 as general secretary of the "Y" for colored men and boys in Washington, D. C. Following brief pastorates at Nashville, Tenn. and Cleveland, Ohio, he was called to New York to become a member of the International Committee for work among colored young men and boys, in 1898. He continued this service until his retirement in 1924.

In his early days with the International Committee, Dr. Moorland was associated with William Alpheus Hunton, the first colored YMCA secretary. Upon Hunton's retirement, Dr. Moorland became Senior Secretary of the Colored Department of the International Committee.

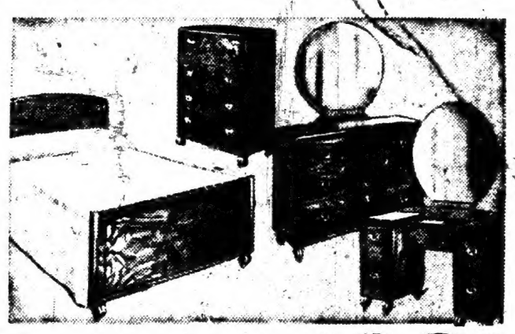
INFLUENCED ROSENWALD

Outstanding in Dr. Moorland's YMCA career was his great building program for Negro youth. It was his influence with Julius Rosenwald which resulted in the famous offer by Mr. Rosenwald to give $25,000 to any city in the country that would raise at least $75,000 for the erection of a "Y" for colored men and boys. Before Dr. Moorland's retirement, 14 buildings had been erected.

He was one of the founders of the Association for Study of Negro Life and History, serving as its treasurer for several years. Before giving his collection to Howard University several years ago, Dr. Moorland had gathered together one of the world's most complete collection of books, statues, pictures and pamphlets on the Negro in America and Africa. This collection now occupies a special room in the Howard Library.

Dr. Moorland was born in Coldwater, Ohio. He attended Northwestern Normal University of Ohio. Later he became a student of Howard University, graduating as valedictorian of his class from the Theological Department. Howard University granted him a degree of Doctor of Divinity in 1906 and elected him a Trustee in 1907. Oberlin conferred upon him an Honorary Degree of Doctor of Divinity in 1924.

Dr. Moorland's sole survivor is a cousin, Mrs. Louise Lane, a Public School teacher of this city. Mrs. Moorland died a year ago.



Funeral services were held Friday evening at the Nazarene Congregational Church of Brooklyn. His body was taken to Washington where on Saturday, services were conducted for him in the Memorial Chapel of Howard University. Interment was at the Lincoln Memorial cemetery in Washington.
